WASHINGTON, Dec. 13,-In accordance with a previous agreement, the Senate in executive session, took a vote at 3 clock today on the amendment to the o'clock today on the amendment to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty authorizing the United States to defend its interests in the canai. The Senate did not close its doors until 2 o'clock, and there was then left only one hour's time for discussion of the provisions of the amendment. The wote was taken by ayes and noes, 65 wotes being cast in favor of the amend-ment and 17 against it. The negative votes are as follows:

Morgan, Money,

After the smendme ommittee was passed upon, various other amendments received the attention of the Senate for a brief time, but none of them was acted upon. The committee amendment, which was adopted, is a provisoin to be inserted after section 5, article 2, of the treaty, and is as follows: "It is agreed, however, that none of the immediately foregoing conditions and stipulations in sections Nos. L. 2, 8, 4 and

5 of this article shall apply to measures which the United States may find it nec-essary to take for securing by its own forces the defense of the United States forces the defense of the United States and the maintenance of public order." The committee amendment no sooner had been adopted than various Senators took the floor to suggest further amend-ments. The amendment which probably attracted most attention was offered by Elkins (Rep. W. Va.), and is as follows: "Nothing fn this treaty shall be con-strued to prevent the United States from acousting sufficient security and sover. acquiring sufficient security and sover-eignty, or to prevent il from building, operating, maintaining, controlling and defending said canal (referring to the proposed Nicaragua Canal), or for any other purpose that the United States may deem for its best interest,"

Other Amendments.

Other amendments were suggested by Tillman (Dem, S. C.), Allen (Pop. Neb.), Money (Dem, Mis.), and Thurston (Rep. Neb.). Thurston's suggestion provides Neb.). Thurston's suggestion provides that the United States may defend the canal, and Tillman's makes the committee amendment adopted today apply to all the provisions of article 2. This would have the effect. It is believed, of nullifying the provision of section 7 of the article providing against the fortification of the canal. Other amendments were offered striking out sections 3 and 7 of article 2. the anti-ments, Eikins occupied the greater por-tion of the Senate's time with a speech advocating radical alteration of the treaty. He announced himself as favoratreaty. He announced himself as favora-ble to the committee amendment, but said that, to als mind, the amendment did not go far enough to meet the wishes of the American people. He believed, he said, that it the canal were to be con-structed by the Government, the United States would demand complete and abso-lute control over the canal itself and also lute control over the canal itself, and also the right to exercise its own judgment, as a Nation, not only in acquiring prop-erty in connection with the canal, but, if need be, in securing sovereignty over it, He contended that to pursue this course involved no violation of international rights, and, in defense of this position, said the United States had made an offensive and defensive treaty with France in 178, and soon afterwards had repudi-ated that obligation. He also cited other precedents and authorities, some of them being from English sources, in support of this position. He argued, in short, that changed conditions warrant a change in conduct and in position. The speech was listened to with much interest, and at its instened to with much interest, and at its conclusion a motion was made to have it made public. Objection, however, was raised, and the order was not made. After the Senate adjourned for the day the Republican committee on order of business held a session to decide upon the future line of action with reference to the treaty as amonded. After this com-

Fairbanks (Rep., Ind.), in the open session, offered a joint resolution from the committee on public buildings and grounds, directing the appointment by the President of the Senate of three members of that committee and by the Speaker of the House of five members of the same committee of the House, to constitute a joint commission to ascertain a feasible location for and the probable cost of a hall of records to be located in the Dis-trict of Columbia. The resolution was sciented.

adopted. At the conclusion of the routine busi-ness Hanna (Rep., O.) was recognized. His speech was in a sense a reply to that delivered a few days ago by Clay (Dem., Ga.). Like Clay, Hanna is a member of the committee on commerce. from which the measure now mediae from which the measure now pending was reported to the Senate. In opening his address, Hanna said that the re-marks of Clay had brought into question the motives of those who had assisted in the preparation of the pending meas-ure. As a member of the maritime com-mittee on commerce. Hanna said he felt it his right and duty to explain the work salutary and wise navigation laws. To the advantage of these laws were added the liberal appropriations made by Con-gress for the improvement of the harbors of the Great Lakes.

Hanna maintained that in order to build up the American merchant marine it was necessary to have not only capital wise "to afford our foreign carrying trade protection-some kind of inducement-by wise "to allord our foreign carrying trade protection-some kind of inducement-by law. If this protection should be afford-ed, the growth of the American merchant marine would be on a par with the growth of the shipping industry on the Great Lake". Lakes."

The American merchant marine, Han-na declared that the beginning of the decline in the industry was coincident with the outbrack of the Civil War. Vest (Dem., Mo.) Interrupted the Ohlo Senator to challenge his statement that the Civil War caused the decline had begun as far back as 1855. In response to Vest's challenge, Hanna reviewed the history of the American merchant marine from the establishment of the Nation to the pres-ent time. He maintained that the de-cadence in American shipping begun in 1850, and not in 1855, as the Missouri Sen-ator had asserted. Gravith of Sen Power.

Growth of Sea Power.

He declared in the circumstances there was not today a question so important to the maritime nations of the old world as the prevention of American compe-tition on the high seas. The foreign com-merce of the United States is four times larger today than it was in 1890, and yet the proportion of the foreign carrying trade is less than one-third what it was in 1990. This said he is a most humiliat-ing decline of the great National indus-

Ty. He added: "There is no popular question which appeals so strongly to the American peo-ple as does this one of building up the sea power of the Nation. It is a simple question of business as affecting the investment of capital, although there is a phase of it that appeals to the patriotism of the American people." Adverting to the amount of the subsidy Adverting to the amount of the subsidy which would be drawn by the vessels of the American International Navigation Company, Hanna said he did not propose to evade any of the slanders or calumnles of anybody in connection with this mat-ter. He declared that the four ships of the American line which are carriers of mail had not made a net dollar since that emen under the American flag. He they came under the American flag. He challenged the assertion of Clay that each of the fast vessels of the American line would draw $294,060 annually from the proposed subsidy.

Clay directed the Ohio Senator's attention to the testimony of Mr. Ciyde, a steamship owner, before the commerce ommission

"I am not using Mr. Clyde's figures,"

"I am not using Mr. Clyde's ngures," replied Hanna, "but my own." Thereupon, Vest called attention to the fact that Mr. Chamberlain, the Commis-moner of Navigation, and one of the strongest advocates of the pending meas-use, also had said the American line ves-sels would receive $38,690 annually from the subsidy.

Bartholdt of Missouri Will Introduce an Amendment That the Tax on Beer Be Reduced to $1 50 Per Barrel.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 .- The debate upon the war revenue reduction bill was continued in the House today. It was dull and featureless. Those who spoke were Grosvenor (Rep. O.), Barthold (Rep. Mo.), Hill (Rep. Conn.), Boutell (Rep. III.), McClellan (Dem. N. Y.), Newlands productive wealth was absolutely un-(Sil. Nev.), Levy (Dem. N. T.), and Un-derwood (Dem. Ala.). system, heimaid, was the outgrowth of the Civil War. He argued that there should be a balance in the budget. There was no necessity for a surplus. With a scientific system of taxation the rates could be either lowered or raised very nearly to meet the appropriations. A correct scheme of taxation would include a progressive legacy tax and a progres sive tax on certain occupations, and an indirect tax on distilled spirits, beer and tobacco, at a rate somewhat below the maximum revenue-raising point.

Grosvenor recalled the statement of Cleveland that unnecessary taxation was unjust taxation. He planted himself, he said, upon that doctrine, and proceeded to argue that the pending bill was framed on it. The Republican party, he said, while in power had never shown a deficit of the treasury. When-questioned about the old story that ex-Secretary of the Never and presaring to issue Treasury Foster was preparing to issue bonds just before the Cleveland adminis-

ing telegraphers hitherto employed on our lines in Colorado did not strike be-cause of any grievance against the com-pany.
