WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 .- The Senate to day passed the District appropriation bill and partially considered the bill making appropriations for the support of the West Point Military Academy. At I o'clock the ship subsidy bill was inid before the Senate as unfinished busi-ness. Allison asked that the bill be laid aside temporarily, Jones (Ark.) objerted to this request. Explaining his po-sition, he said the effect of granting the request would be to continue the subsidy bill as the unfinished business, and he did not believe this should be done in view of the condition of the Senate's business Practically all the appropriations were yet to be considered, and he for one was willing to give them all the time necessary. If the appropriation bills should fall their failure, he said, would be due to keeping the subsidy bill pending, and he thought the committee should understand the disposition to set aside every-

The debute was interrupted to permit the House to act on the Senate ameniment to the joint resolution for ap-pointment of a committee to arrange the programme for the inauguration of the President and Vice-President. The Senate struck out "and Vice-President," and the House agreed to the amendment. The Speaker announced the appointment of Cannon (Rep., Ill.), Dainell (Rep., Pa.)

and McRue (Dem., Ark.), as members of the committee on behalf of the House. Griggs, a member of the postoffice committee, took the floor with a set speech against the organization of vari-ous classes of Government employes with the object of increasing their sainties, and in some cases creating a civil pension list. He argued that Government employes are better paid than similar employes in pri-vate life, and there was no justice in their stant and persistent demands for higher salaries.

Moody (Rep., Mass.), who was a member of the joint postal commission, dis-cussed the suestion of railway mail pay in the light of facts developed by the commission. He said that if the Government could have an ideal Second Assistant-Postmaster-General who should serve for a long period, and who could be absolutely untrammeled in his negotiations with the rallways, the Government would be able to arrive at a standard of pay-ment which would be perfect, as near as human imperfections would permit. He did not mean, he said, to reflect in any way upon the present Second Assistant Postmaster-General. He was speaking simply of the difficulties which surround-ed existing conditions. Moody said the postal commission developed the fact that instead of paying to the railroads on an average 40 cents per ton per mile for car-rying the mails, as the Postoffice Department had lead the country to believe, the actual cost averaged about 17% cents per ton per mile. From the investigation he had made Moody said it was difficult to tell which was the most profitable to the railroads, mail or express business.

Bromwell opposed the proposition for special facilities, declaring that the Post-master-General repeatedly had declared that he did not desire the appropriations and had used them only because Conress had made them.

Catchins, who was a member of the postal commission, denied the latter statement. He insisted that the Postmaster-General desired Congress to take the responsibility of discontinuing the special service, because he did not want E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. The

The other amendment reported relates to the sale of products at exchanges, and is to be inserted as a provision at the end of the second paragraph of schedule A of the law. It is as follows:

PREPARATIONS FOR THE ROYAL WEDDING THURSDAY.

Brilliant Spectacle at the Theater-State Banquet to the Foreign Envoys.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 5.-Today was marked by further receptions in connection with the forthcoming marriage of Queen Wilhelmina and Duke Henry of Meckienburg-Schwerin, Additional guests arrived at the palace, and there were more choral serenades. Everybody is wearing a rosette or other favor. This evening a state banquet was given at the palace in honor of the foreign envoys. Earlier in the day there was a reception at the German legation.

The gala performance at the theater presented a brilliant spectacle. The House was draped in pale blue and beautifully illuminated by electric lights. Flowers were everywhere in profusion. At 9:30 two officials bearing candles ushered in Queen Wilhelmina, who was attired in white satin and lace, and wore a diadem of brilliants, a pearl necklace, the grand cross of the Legion of The Netherlands and the chain of the Mecklenburg order. Duke Henry followed, wearing the uniform of a Rear-Admiral and the grand form of a Rear-Admiral, and the grand cross of the Legion of the Netherlands Then came the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg, Duke Adolph Frederick, of Mecklenburg, Duchess Maria, Prince Albert of Prussia, the Queen's mother, Grand Duke Vladimir of Russia and other princely personages. Like Victo Victoria, Wilhelmina, after as cending the throne, has waited three years, and is marrying a German Prince. Unless all signs fail, this is also a genu ine love marriage, and the wedding comes within three days of the fist anni-versary of the marriage of Victoria in the Chapel Royal of St. James. There have been the same legislative controversies over the naturalization statutes and an-nuities to the Prince Consort here which arcse at Westminster in the time of Melbourne and Wellington, and doubtless there will be similar heartburnings and nnoyances over points of precedence and

SUPERIMPOSED TURRETS.

Naval Board Adopts the Plan of Admiral O'Neil.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.-The Naval Roard of Construction today adopted Admiral O'Nell's plan of superimposed turrets and 12 6-inch guns in broadside for the live battleships recently contracted for. The secondary batteries remain as previously arranged. The board livided, 16 members voting for the su-perimposed turret plan and Admiral Barker and Constructor Woodward favoring adherence to the original plan for the two battleships, or what is known as the "quadrilateral arrange-ment." The majority report declares that the five vessels should be similarly armed and soys that the main batteries of the ships should be made to conform to the plans of the Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Georgia, namely, four 12-inch guns in two turrets, four 8-inch guns in two turrets superimposed on the 12-inch turrets, and four 8-inch guns in two waist turrete on the sides of the ship. This plan ir attributed to Lieutenant-Commander Strauss, at present in com-mand at the Indian Head proving grounds. The minority report makes a strong point of the risk of injury to the entire four gons in the superimposed turrets by a single shot. It also declares that there has been absolutely no ade-quate test of the superimposed or double turret and favors adherence to the orig-inal plan, pending a thorough study of the value of various battery arrange-ments for battleships by a board of naval officers to be chosen especially for that purpose.

ESCORTED TO THE RAILWAY STA-TION BY KING EDWARD.

Affectionate Farewell Between the Two Sovereigns-Boarded the Hohensoliern at Pert Victoria.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Emperor William has returned on board the yacht Hoten-gollern at Port Victoria, on his way home, after receiving from London crowds de-monstrative expressions of their appre-ciation of his prolonged visit to England. The Emperor's passage through London, however, was somewhat marred by bad weather. Unmistakable evidence of the place he has won in the hearts of the English people was seen in the affection with which he was bidden farewell by King Edward, the Duke of Connaught and other members of the royal family. A naval parade greeted the Emperor's arrival at Port Victoria, when all the war vessels dressed ship, this being further evidence of the exceptional official cor-diality existing between the two coun-tries. Emperor William was accompanied by the Crown Prince Frederick William and the Duke of Sparta. Emperor William's speech at the lunch-

His Majesty added that he had been deeply moved by the marvelous spectacle which he had witnessed Saturday, remarking that he had never seen anything which had so deeply impressed him,

King Edward was equally cheerful. He appeared to be in better health than for weeks past. After an affectionate farewell between the two monarchs, the train starfed out, amid the playing of the National anthem by the band of the Coidstream Guards and the cheers of the peo ple. King Edward ran forward to take a final grip of Emperor William's hand, which was held out of a window. It was evident that no one was better pleased with the day's proceedings than the Em-peror himself. A number of German de-tectives ceaselessly followed in the Emperor's footsteps and boarded the imperial train before it started. Emperor William wore a British Field Marshal's uniform and King Edward and the Duke of Connaught wore the German uniforms.
