Another Big German Ship Is Making a Long Passage.

LEFT HONG KONG MONTHS AGO

Crew Is Undoubtedly on Short Rations-The French Bark Nantes Wrecked in English Channel-Fleet Thinning Out.

It is five months ago tomorrow since the big German ship Peter Rickmers salled in baliast from Hong Kong for this The passage is ordinarily made in port. The passage is ordinarily made in about 50 days, so that the big ship might be considered over three months overdue. The fact that reinsurance is not being paid on her is because she departed from the usual route across the Pacific, and struck off down the China seas. Just why the master chose this route is uncertain, but it is represent to he on account of unfathe Bickmers was getting away from the Orient.

The big ship sailed from Hong Kong The big ship salied from Hong Kong September 15, and passed Anjer 59 days later, or just about the time she was due off the mouth of the Columbia. As Anjer is farther away from Portiand than Hong Kong, she was not expected for at least 60 days after passing there, but it has now been over three months since she was last spoken. The Peter Rickmers is n well-known vessel in this port, and gen-erally makes slow passages. For this rea-son it is not believed that she has been lost, but her long delay in reaching port is causing some concern less her crew is living on short rations. It is not the general practice to provision a ship for a five months' voyage in coming across the Pacific, and when the big ship does show up her crew are pretty certain to be hungry—they will at least be ready for some fresh food.

ANOTHER GRAIN SHIP GONE. French Bark Nantes Cut Down in the English Channel.

Hard luck stories continue to drift in from the an route grain fleet, and as there is little or no chartering being done, the proportions of the fleet are being steadily reduced. The last vessel to meet with disaster was the French bark Nanwith disaster was the French bark Nan-tes, which sailed from Penarth a few weeks ago. The Nantes was en route to Shanghai, from which port she was to come to Portland, and, while going down the English Channel, was struck by a steamer and cut down nearly to the keel. She sank immediately, and will probably become a total loss. The Poltalloch still remains high and dry on the Washington coast, and the Occident remains down in coast, and the Occident remains down in the Fijl Islands, where she burned. The Edmund has arrived at San Francisco, where several thousand dollars will be spent in making her as good as new. The Andrada, Otto Gildemister, Rathdown, Bertha and Cape Wrath are still missing, and but little hope is expressed for any

WAS THE LUCERNE.

Wreckage From the Missing Steamer Han Been Identified.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Feb. 12.—It is almost certain that the steamship Lucerne was the victim of the disaster near Bacilleu. A message from the agent to the owners this afternoon said;
"Unidentified wreckage the same as Lucerne's fittings found at Lead Cove."
The owners and mariners conversant

The owners and mariners conversant with the facts agree that the ship has gore. Her loss involves 30 lives, 23 of her own crew, and seven othere, ship-wrecked seamen and passengers. The supposition is that she either burst her bollers and went to pieces, or struck the cliffs and foundered. As all the Lucerne's crew resided here, the disaster has ap-palled the whole community.

Damages to the Big Flour Cargo Were of Small Consequence.

The steamship Eva, from this port for Hong Kong, with a cargo of flour, salled from San Francisco yesterday afternoon. The steamer sprung a leak 150 miles off the Columbia River, and was obliged to put into San Francisco to discharge and repair. She went up to McNear's dock at Fort Costa, and, after discharging E6 tons of flour the leak was discovered. It was on the port side in a scupper pipe leading from the poop deck. The pipe was of lead cased in wood, and rats had gnawed through the lead, probably in search of water, making a hole that caused all the trouble.

The French bark La Rochefoucauld left The French bark La Rochefoucaud left down the river posterday morning, and the Scottish Hills will follow today. This will leave but three ships loading in Portland harbor, and as it is getting so far along in the month it will be hardly possible to get any more vessels in soon enough to clear them before next month. The situation is somewhat unusual at this. The situation is somewhat unusual at this time from the fact that there are over 30 cargoes of wheat on spot. The de-pressed condition of the wheat market prevents exporters taking up any new tonnage, even if it were available, and most of them are resting on their laurels, waiting for a favoring breeze to blow in some of the ships which are due and

BROTHER PALMER AGAIN

REITERATES HIS DESIRE TO SEE MRS. NATION CROWNED.

THE MORNING OREGONIAN, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1901.

You say Mrs. Nation is a "fool" because she goes single-handed and alone into a "joint" and smashes mirrors and bottles, although a son may have been destroyed through those gateways to death. If she is a fool, then what shall we say of those who for the love of gold, will set their deadly traps in defiance of law, for the Mount Carmel.

deadly traps in defiance of law, for the cternal destruction of the home, and the bodies and souls of men? Mr. Editor, it seems to me that the right thing, the beroic thing for you to do, would be to say something like this: "While the methods of Mrs. Nation seem somewhat extreme, yet she is doubtless a high-minded, tender-hearted, conscientious woman, inspired to do those things because of the appalling failure on the part of the officials, and the ominous anarchistic attitude of the saloon element of Kansas."

You ought to show that such men as

During my remarks, I said, referring to Mrs. Nation: "You ask, Is this a normal condition? OREGON PIONEER OF 1838

THE LATE MRS. F, X. MATTHIEU, OF BUTTEVILLE.

You say: "Are you not somewhat extreme?" Yes, but Jesus Christ was extreme when he took the lash and drove the rascals out of the temple. And, again, I say, "Mrs. Nation deserves to be crowned!" notwithstanding the opinion of The Oregonian to the contrary.

Quoting from Emerson, you say that his position was this. "It had always taken all of his time and attention to achieve half-way reform within himself, and that he was not arrogant enough.

. to assume to reform others." In a sense, this is good philosophy: in another, it is not. Suppose the people of this country had followed that plan in regard to the question of slavery, would not that curse have still hung like a milistone around the neck of our nation?

Such men as Henry Ward Beecher felt that they were called on to "reform other". No. Mr. Editor, if you and all the edi-

You say: "Because the authorities of Knnsss have, in contempt of the state constitution, practically licensed the sale of liquor by allowing 'joints' to exist, on payment of periodical fines, that is no reason why Mrs. Nation is free to de-stroy the property of persons whom she deems violators of the law." Now. Mr. Editor, why should you equivocate by saving 'whom she deems violators of the law? Do we not know that these joint-keepers are violators of the law? Do we not know that the saloon element of this country is almost universally the most lawiess element with which we have to deal, as has been shown so often in your able editorials, in which you have shown that prohibition is often a failure? Do you say that bocause lawmakers and officials ignore the law, and "joint-keepers" despise the law, that this is the reason why Mrs. Nation should destroy the property of "joint-keepers"?

Will you kindly inform your readers by what law of Kansas or any other state a country is almost universally the most

Mr. Editor, you will pardon me, but I for one am getting tired of the flippant way in which you speak of the ruin of the young manhood of our country, and then take your stand so bravely heside the mere chattels and material fixtures of the liquor joints. Mrs. Nation was a neck of the boiling.

phasize the sovereignty of the individual above the crouching, cowardly official who refuses to do his duty.

In the meantime, a vast majority of the best people of Kanssa are standing by Mrs. Nation. A gold medal has been given her, and hundreds of the noblest women are forming into companies, battalions and regiments. Chief of Police Stahi, of Topeka, is quoted as saying: "It is practically impossible to close the saloons without destroying them, and in consultation with Mayor Drew, it had been decided to use the entire machinery. been decided to use the entire machinery of the police department to assist Mrs. Nation in breaking up the liquor business in the city, and protect her from as-

Know ye not that Mrs. Nation has come to the throne for such a time as this? To see an army of lawbreakers in Kansas, standing in awe of one little godly woman is as grand a sight as that of the false prophets trembling before Elljah on Carmell Again I say: "Let Mrs. Nation be crowned!" RAY PALMER.

Let us get down to common sense, and abjure epileptic eloquence. What is the situation in Kansas? A number of years ago the people voted for constitutional prohibition. The result was that every drug store in Kansas became a tippling shop. Then the Legislature in 1893 enacted legislation that virtually licenses liquor-selling, for it provided that liquorsellers should pay a fine when arrested for illegal traffic; that is, license fees be collected in form of fines for violation of the law. In other words the Legislature enacted a law that was in violation of their own fundamental prohibition of the liquor traffic. The same state of things prevalls in Maine in the large towns and cities. Maine, like Kansas, has planted prohibition in her constitution, but the liquor joints in the larger towns instead of being closed out, are periodically mulcted in fines. The Legislature of Maine did not pass any laws in conflict with constitutional prohibition, as did Kansas, but the same situation which prompted the eruption of Mrs. Carrie Nation at Wichita and Topeka exists in the leading towns of Maine. Nevertheless Maine has not had her peace broken by a band of riotous women armed with hatchets, because public opinion in Maine believes that if a state wishes to retain the respect of the country it must punish its mobs, whether they are organized to burn men at the stake or to wreck saloons with a hatchet.

She is not a Deborah in Israel, to decide when law has been violated and how it should be redressed. There is a peaceful way of making a test case before the courts, and obtaining an order declaring the legislative statutes in violation of the fundamental law, and if a prosecuting officer should refuse to do his duty on proper complaint he would be subject moval, or to replacement at the bailot box. In any event no private person who undertakes to enforce the law without public authority is other than a rioter and breaker of the peace.

The Oregonian has asked the Rev. Ray Palmer whether in event of a refusal of our city authorities to extinguish their recent system of Illegal license to gambling-houses, he would justify a Mrs. Carrie Nation in wrecking the furniture of the gambling-house with a hatchet. If a woman on her own personal responsibility may decide, "I am the State, I and my little hatchet," in the matter of a liquor joint, she may so decide in the matter of an open gambling-house or bagnio, and the whole peace and order of society is liable to be perennially broken by some male or female crank. The "motherhood" of Mrs. Nation is not to the point; her "eilver hair" is not to the purpose. She is old enough to know better if she is sane, and if she is not sane she should not be apotheosized as a saint by people who desire to have the respect of the friends of law and order. If laws are not enforced; if legal officers do not do their duty there is a peaceful, legal method of redress; a riotous hatchet is not a legitimate sword of public justice. If every citizen who is dissatisfied with the administration of the laws should be suffered to start out with a club and head s mob to enforce them the civilized order of society would be destroyed. The remedy of Mrs. Nation is provided in the power that citizens have under the Constitution of the state. A liquor saloon that is without legal existence can be proceed. ed against through organized machinery of justice in Kansas. In the main acts of mob violence against a liquor saloon on the plea that it is a "death trap" are utterly without justification. A liquor saloon is no more "a death trap" to a responsible human being than a stock range is "a death trap" to a cattle thief. A man who cannot pass a rum shop without falling into it is like a man who cannot be trusted except when there is nothing to steal in sight. The world never has and never will waste much time or tears over that stock figure of sentimental humbug and charlatan temperance reform, "the reformed drunkard" with the "death trap" attached. In our judgment Mrs. Nation is a vulgar fool, who enjoys being a pub. lic sensationalist, but even if she were a voman of worthy motives she is none the less a gross enemy of public law and or der, who is without defense or justification for her senseless conduct. Her methods are those of an anarchist who answers maladministration by assassination.

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY.

Educational Convention Will Probably Be Called to Ald It.

Rev. L. E. Rockwell and Rev. H. W. Kellogg returned yesterday from an in-spection of the Willamette University, at Salem, and a consultation with the faculty and regents over the future of that insti-tution. It was desired that Bishop Cranson should be one of the party, but he was prevented from going on account of illness. Dr. Rockwell, in speaking of the visit, remarked that they found the institution in better shape than it had been for the past 10 years, but much re-mains to be done to push it to the front as an institution of learning.

"We found the affairs of the university in good condition," said Dr. Rockwell; "but we hope from the plans that were then discussed to promote its growth by awakening an interest all over the state. To this send and for this purpose it was To this end and for this purpose it was proposed while Dr. Kellogg and I were at Salem that an educational convention be held at Salem for the purpose of bringing no evidence, however, that this is true.
From all I can find out, Mrs. Nation has suffered no such loss. But seeing the sorrows of others, she has gone forth with the Williamette and there is no more with the Williamette unit there is no more in the name of God and humanity to strike a death blow against the chief enemies of our government. Since Government Since Go and stand and tremble, like the moral cowards they are, before the low-browed support of all the churches, and one of "swill peddlers" of the state. God has raised up Carrie Nation, the silver-haired convention will be to bring this about the color from Medicine Lodge, to emphasize the sovereignty of the individual and General W. H. Odell, president of the board of regents, and they are favorable to holding the convention. It will probably be arranged for in the near future. The university has a larger attendance now than it has had for the past 10 years it is not embarrassed. The members of
