WASHINGTON, April 5,-That the re-port that Governor Allen of Porto Rico is to resign upon his arrival in Washington is credited in the island is manifest from the fact that the people of the island are already making representations to the President regarding his successor. Wencesho Borda, who is chairman of the Porto Rican commission which re-cently came to Washington to protest against the Hollenden tax law, has writ-ten of the President on behalf of the commission, suggesting Francis H. Wilson, the present postmaster of Brooklyn, N. Y., as a successor to Governor Allen. ### MAIL SERVICE IN CHINA.

Extent of our Postal Operations in the Empire.

WASHINGTON, April 5 .- Some idea of our postal operations in China is given in the first formal report which given in the first formal report which has just reached here from Superintend-ent Robinson, of the United States Mill-tary Postal Service in China. It covers the period between September 18 and De-cember 1, 1800. The report says that during the period covered there were $22, 1990. 219 worth of money orders issued, but only two puid, these aggregating $145. Stamp sales aggregated $2239, mostly at Pekin, All registered matter to and from the United States forces in Chins is re-ceived, recorded or dispatched by the Tien Tain station. Of the registered mulis so dispatched, 57, were first class and 24% fourth class. The large amount of fourth class matter indicates the lib-eral manner in which the American soldiers took advantage of the special rates for sending gifts and souvenirs to their families in the United States. The total amount of all mail received at Tien Tsin waw 102.048, and dispatched, 169,282. Only 130 letters had to be sent to the dead letter office undertate the fourney if his strength permits and if there is any hope of gaining advantage for the Boer cause. Pointing to Herr Fischer, the aged President declared that the two republics are indissolubly united. "Herr Fischer," he said, "is fighting for the same cause as my heroic friend Pres-ident Steyn. The two Presidents and the two Commanding Generals, Botha and Dewet, will share the same fate." On being questioned regarding the reliance he placed on the Boer official telegrams and statements in Parliament, Mr. Kruger, half rising from his arm chair, declared:

"The British Government, British tele-graph and the British press always try to make this much"-and he measured his little finger-"look like this much"-and he extended both arms.

"I am persuaded everything is going well there precisely because our enemies continue to dissimulate and travesty facts. As regards General Botha's nego-tiations, the public knows from the blue book and by reading General Botha's last dispatch that it was the British General who first made proposals. Never did the Boer General refuse to listen. We do not fight, except for peace. We are not con-querors, but, although General Botha listened to the British proposals, he never uttered a word of equivocation on the subject of independence. Independence is the only treasure we cherish, even if we have to sacrifice all others. It is for this reason our citizens forsook their farms and sacrificed their lives, and our women and children now suffer tempo-rary servitude in the enemy's camp. 'And," added the President with still more emphasis, "if the English were not blind, if they considered their own inter, ests well, if they were not hopelessly en-slaved by error and injustice, they would recognize the independence we demand because in the hope of safeguarding it we shall be ready to make many concessions and sacrifices, and moreover it would assure peace forever in South Africa. The subject of arbitration being next broached, Mr. Kruger expressed his entire readiness to submit all questions to the arbitrament of an impartial tribunal, not even excepting the question of independence "We would sacrifice our liberty," he said, "if the verdict of arbitration de-cided that one or the other of the repub-lics had done anything to forfeit it. The total loss is estimated at $75,000, and the burned district includes almost the entire business portion of the town. The fire broke out in the general store of J. C. Adams & Co., and in a few minutes had gained such headway that it was impossible to check it, the town having no fire apparatus. A LAWYER'S FIRST CASE.

He Lost It and Felt Bad, but Later Was Happier.

The Philadelphia Record. This is a true tale of the Budding Law-yer and his First Client: Their meeting was quite by chance. The Budding Law yer had not yet hung out his shingle. The First Client had been accused of stealing and pawning a watch, and his employer, who was a neighbor of the Budding Lawyer, sent for him and explained the situation. "He has been my coachman for 10 years," said the neighbor. "He is perfectly honest." The Budding Lawyer took the case, and had a long talk with the First Client, who was a colored man. The Judge was much pleased with the Budding Lawyer's earnestness, but he be-lieved the prisoner guilty, and did not hesitate to tell the jury so. The First Client went to jail for three months, and the Budding Lawyer felt that his career was blasted.

Day and night the terrible miscarriage of justice haunted him. He did not hang out his shingle. Three months passed out his shingle. slowly, and he was walking dejectedly through a public square the other day, when he came face to face with the First Client, looking prosperous and well fed. A terrible suspicion revolved itself into a ray of hope. The First Client tried to dodge him, but it was too sate. The gentie Ashmole himself incident The King may does not altogether reject the popular origin, for he writes: "The King may have picked up a garter at some solemn ball or festivity, the Queen's garter, as some have said, while she, and not he, made use of the memorable words, 'Honi solt qui mai y pense.'" But the nobler legend, which is not derogatory to the founder of the order or "too trifling a foundation for so great a building," as one historian puts it, is that contained in the preface to the register of the knights, compiled in the reign of Henry VIII. It recounts that Richard I, while his forces were employed against Cyprus and Acre, as a means of animat-ing with renewed courage, his fatigued soldiers, tied about the legs of a number of his chosen knights a leathern throng or garter to make them marked men, whom his forces might follow to victory;

British atrocities was the next topic of conversation. Mr. Kruger expatiated on the terms of the manifesto issued by Steyn and Dewet. "I have myself witnessed the brutality with which the British have waged war against us," he said, "they have acted like savages, and on their own confession have been assisted by savages whom they had armed.

I declare-and history will bear me out when it ceases to be falsified-that people will shudder when they learn the detalls of all the atrocities that we have suffered. The South African War has been on the part of the English a perpetual defiance of the Geneva convention. To a much greater extent than their refusal to accept any intervention is their de-fance of The Hague convention." Referring to General Dewet's raid into Cape Colony, Mr. Kruger denied that it was ever hoped to provoke a general rising.

"We know perfectly well that this will be impossible, because of the lack of munitions and arms, as well as the difficulty of combined action over such enormous distances. But the invasion demonstrated that the Afrikanders were everywhere favorable to our cause and ready to afford any heip within their

They compelled the English to spread their forces over the enormous distances and to recognize the fact that the Boers were masters in the field. These results are surely not to be despised. The English cannot be masters of the two republics; they are not even undisturbed at the Cape and in Natal." Mr. Kruger next dealt with the question of the mines, where work is now said to have been resumed. He declared that so long as he was master in Pretoria the mines were safeguarded and work was continued. "It is only since the British occupation that the property has deteriorated and all work has ceased. Everybody should know that as long as we could we remained faithful guardians of this international inust, carrying our scruples so far even as to respect the mines which are the cause of all our misfortunes." In conclusion, Mr. Kruger declared that far from being exhausted the Boer com-mandos were able to go on fighting in-definitely.
