WILLING TO RETURN PART OF THE MONEY.

Omaha Packer Refuses to Withdray the Reward or Give Up the Search for the Criminals.

COMAIHA, April 30.-An agent of the kidnapers has made a proposition to Edward A. Cudahy to return $21,600 of the money paid for his son's ransom, demanding in return a withdrawal of the $25,000 reward and a cessation of the search that is being the men who stole his boy.

"I received a letter about 16 days ago," said Mr. Cudahy. "It was dated April 16, at Elgin, and bore the Elgin postmark. I cannot show it to you because I sent it to Mr. Pinkerton; nor can I give you its contents verbatim, as I did not make a copy of it. It was very brief, and recited that the chief kidnaper had communicated with the writer, and was getting uneasy. It set forth that the se by the detectives was getting un-nfortably close, and asked if I would withdraw the offer of reward now outstanding, and let up on the effort to find the criminals, and have $21,000 of the $25,-000 ransom returned to me.

"It seems that the writer got somewhat in a hurry, for as soon as he malled the letter he must have slipped right over to Chicago, where he called on my brother, Michael, the same day, which was two weeks ago today. He asked my brother whether I would consider a proposition of that kind. My brother told him that he did not know anything about it, but would ask me to come over to Chicago and talk the matter over, althugh he did not believe that I would consider it. That afternoon I received a telegram from my brother, asking if I could come over, and I replied that I would be over there in the morning. I left here on the afternoon train, and on reaching Chicago I learned what had transpired at that end of the I arrived home Thursday, and the from Elgin was here awaiting me.

"The letter was signed and gave directions how a reply should be addressed to reach the writer at Elgin. I do not wish to make that public, as assurances were given that I would not, and that the party could submit such proposition as he de-sired to make. So far as the offer is concerned, it has been rejected. I refused absolutely and unqualifiedly to consider it, and am determined to prosecute this search as vigorously as I know how. That is what we started out to do, and I feel as if I would follow those men to the end of the earth. I realize that this means $46,000 to me, and that is a sum that is certainly an object to any man, no matter what may be his means. As I feel about the matter, I would spend my last $1000 rather than compromise with the criminals. I am desirous of having them punished for what they have done, and to deter any other daring gang from elling other parents to undergo what

BAD FOR EASTMAN.

Some Evidence Introduced Favor-able to the Prosecution.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 26.—The pendulum of evidence in the Eastman murder trial today swung slightly over to the state's side of the case through a fa-vorable decision in the morning and some expert testimony late in the afternoon tending to show that the bullet taken from Grogan's body came from a centerfire revolver, although Eastman in his many statements said that the accident took pince while he had an old rim-fire revolver in his hands, Members of Gro-gan's family testified that Eastman had said that he was not on good terms with

The expert testimony offered on the composition of the rim-fire and centerfire cartridges was of interest, as Professor Wood, of Harvard, who had made an examination, testified that he had found the in the fragment of bullet taken from Grogan's body, which corresponds with the composition of the center-fire while the rim-fire bullet was of John Grogan, brother of the dead man, described a quarrel between Eastern when Richard Grogan in November, 1898, when Grogan told Eastman that he was tired of feeding Eastman and his family. Eastman was in the act of raising a chair when witness put his foot on it and stepped between the men. Eastman withdrew, saying to Richard Grogan: "I will when with the way to wait five very for ou if I have to wait five years for Eastman repeated this declaration twice.

Chinese Blocks.

One bright Spring afternoon a Chinese official and his little boy called at our hame, on Filial Plety Lane, in Peking. Father and son were dressed exactly allke -boots of black velvet, trousers of blue silk, over which hing a long garment also of blue silk, waistcoat of blue bro-cade, and skullcap of black satin. In every respect, even to the dignity of his bearing, the child was a vest-pocket edition of his father.

The boy carried a tao of books, which I recognized as "The Fifteen Magic Blocks." Now, a tao is two or more volumes of a book, wrapped in a single cover. The one that the boy had contained

KIDNAPERS SICK OF IT two volumes. On the inside of the cover was a depression three inches square, snugly fitted with the 15 blocks. These blocks are made variously of lead, wood

All the blocks are in pairs, except one, which is a rhomboid; and all are exactly proportional, the sides being either half an inch, an inch and a half or two inches

The blocks of Chinese children are not used, as in our kindergariers, simply to familiarize the child with geometric fig-ures. The more specific purpose of the 15 magical blocks is to picture scenes of history and myth that will have a moral and intellectual effect on the budding brain. Of course, Chinese children build ouses, bridges and wagons just as ours do, but primarily their blocks are intend-ed for education.

The first picture my child visitor built return a withdrawal of the so, we result and a cessation of the search that is being prosecuted, together with an abandonment of the determination to punish the criminals. The proposition came in a letter from Eigin, Ill., and Mr. Cudahy is convinced of its authenticity. He went to Chicago 10 days ago because of it, being summoned there by his brother in the depths of the Meng River. On the back of the dragon horse Fu Hsi descried a man containing 55 spots. These 55 spots criminals. The proposation of the search of the search of the search of the depths of the dept

PETTIGREW AT WORK.

He Will Try Hard to Be Returned to Senate in 1903.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—According to enator Kyle, of South Dakota, his late colleague, the vicious Petitgrew, has not retired from public life, but has begun a systematic fight for re-election to the Senate two years hence. Mr. Kyle says it is a grievous mistake to think that Pettigrew will remain in retirement. The term of Senator Kyle expires in 1903, and it is at this time that Pettigrew hopes to resume his place in the Senate. The former admits that he will have a hard race, as Pettigrew is a stubborn and persistent fighter, who unquestionably has a large following in the state. following in the state. The campaign of last Fall, which brought about the downfall of Pettigrew, it is admitted, was largely assisted by the presidential campaign, which of itself did much to carry the state for the Republicans. Two years from now them will be the presidential. the state for the Republicans. Two years from now there will be no national influence at work. At the same time if the present prosperity in South Dakota continues, Senator Kyle, who is to be a candidate to succeed himself, hopes to win out over Pettigrew. This announcement of Pettigrew's activity in his own behalf or Pettigrew's activity in his own behalf is somewhat of a surprise to many poli-ticlans in Washington, who had come to believe that he would remain inactive for a time at least. However, those who know him best, and recognize in him a man of boundless energy and persistence, are not surprised to learn of his present activity, and in fact would have been surprised had the defeated Senator lost a single oppor-tunity to strengthen his own cause.

Last Saturday the farmhouse of Thomas Seavey, on the north side of the McKenzie, a short distance below the mouth of the Mohawk, and about eight miles from Eugene, was totally destroyed by fire. The fire was caused by sparks from the chimney falling on the root, and no one was present at the time except Mrs. Seavey and her 3-year-old niece. Mrs. Seavey and her 3-year-old niece. Mrs. Seavey did all she could to save the furniture from the flames, but succeeded in getting out only a few articles. The house was built in 1868 by John Coggswell, at a cost of about $3500. It was insured for $1500. NOTED AS A STRONG MAN

THE LATE PHILLIP SAGAR STAMP,

LA CAMAS, April 30.-Phillip Sagar Stamp, who recently died at his home near here, in his 85th year, was born in Dryden, N. Y., in 1816. He was the son of John Stamp, who served in Captain Franklin's company of infantry under George Washington. Mr. Stamp in his youth stood six feet two inches in his stocking feet, and was noted for his strength and endurance. He had a record of shearing more sheep than any other shearer in his time. In his younger days he was chiefly engaged in logging and rafting on the Susquehanna River, and was renowned as the strongest man in that section. In 1854, with his family, he removed to Cass County, Michigan, where he engaged in farming and well-dig-ging. In 1856 his wife died, and left him with seven children. He again married, and his second wife survives him. In 1889 they came to Clark County, Washington, and took up a homestead, on which he lived till his death. Seven of 10 children, the fruits of his second marriage, also survive him. Mr. Stamp's funeral was largely attended, neighbors and acquamtances coming for miles to pay a last mark of respect to a good neighbor and upright man.

UNITED STATES MANUFACTURES NOT ENTITLED TO IT.

Representative Babcock's Western Trip Convinces Him of Wisdom of His Bill to This End.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Representative Babcock, of Wisconsin, after a trip of several weeks through the West, where he went to look into industrial conditions generally, has returned to Washing. ton more than ever convinced of the wis-dom of his bill introduced late in the last session of Congress, removing the tar-iff duties on steel and iron products that are manufactured cheaper in this country than anywhere else." Said he, in discussing the bill, "whether it is an individual or combination of individuals that have obtained control of any single product, so that they can fix any prices they see fit and make the consumers pay that price. Congress and the representatives of the people will fall short of their duty of the people will fall short of their day if they permit a tariff to remain on such articles when the tariff is not needed for protection on the lines advocated by the Republican party. This is by no means the Democratic theory. It is in accordance with the Republican theory of protection to American industries. When an active with the Republican Industries. When an article can be manufactured cheaper in this country than it can be made anywhere else, that industry needs protection no longer. If the Republican party falls to meet the new conditions, its whole the ory of protection falls to the ground.

"There is a difference, for example, between steel and sugar. Sugar demnnds protection to develop the beet-growing industries of the West, and for the cane-growers of the South. Furthermore, sugar furnishes more revenue than any other article on the tariff schedule, Sugar should continue to receive protection under the Republican policy. Steel and Iron manufactures not only produce no revenue to speak of, but it is a fact that they can be manufactured cheaper in the United States than in any other country. This is due to improved methods in the development of American machinery and in-ventions, and to the skill of American

"During my absence from Washington in the West I talked with the representatives of many of the largest interests of the country. I have not met a single manufacturer who did not indorse this movement. The only opposition I have encountered comes from a class of people who look upon the tariff with a reverence to be paid a Chinese joss—to be admired, ness only but as well to those in health who look upon the tariff with a reverence who look upon the tariff with a reverence to be paid a Chinese joss—to be admired, but not touched. The farmers and the laboring classes are deeply interested in this question. It is impossible for them this question. It is impossible for them this question. It is impossible for them the path of difficulties, rather than beset it with obstructions; help him to be the path of the pa this question. It is impossible for them to understand how these great aggregations of capital come about. This question will be brought squarely to the Republican party in the next campaign: Why do you permit a tariff to remain on wittless which can be produced here articles which can be produced here cheaper than elsewhere? What answer will be made to that proposition? "It has been suggested to me by one of the greatest railroad men in the United States, a man who has built up one of the largest systems, and upon a rock-ribbed and rock-bottom financial basis, the stock of whose road has never sold for less than par, and often for more than 200 per share, to incorporate a provision in the bill which will limit the floating of watered stock. It was been suggest-ed that the stockholders of corporations doing an interstate commerce business. coming thereby in a measure under the control of Congress, should be liable for, say, two years after they dispose of their stock. In other words, that something like the law which prevails in Germany, where the liability extends for five years, and similar to the law in several of the Western States, which as a rule provide that all property taken in by a corpora-tion shall be at its actual market value, and any stockholder who disposes of his stock to a purchaser must practically guarantee that the property held by the corporation is scheduled at its true mar-ket value, and for two years thereafter said stockholder shall be liable, not only for the debts of the company, but for any false inventory or misrepresentation which the capital stock has been

Commercial Value of Conversation,

Chicago Tribune. to express one's thoughts easily and convincingly is a valuable accompilshment. It is probable also that to an extent the ability to converse well may be acquired, but able talkers, like the great poets, are born and not made. The "gift of the gab" is with some men a birthright. They begin when they are children to argue with and convince their fellows, and when they grow up they become successful lawyers, book agents or confidence operators. With no amount of special teaching can the average man ever hope to meet them in a conversational contest, whether the subject be the sale of a book or a gold brick, or the winning of a lawauit. If in the overcrowded public schools the pupils are taught the fundamentals of correct, not to say elegant, use of the English language, the niceties of conversation as a fine art may perhaps be left for future acquirement.

PORTLAND, April 29.-(To the Editor.) This community and this state has lately lost by untimely death a most worthy citizen, and although The Oregonian, and. lastly, the members of the bar, have made fitting public acknowledgment of the event in the only way they can make it aside from individual action, it seems to my pleasure to know Mr. Cox but com-paratively a short time, scarcely a year, and yet in that short space I learned quickly to admire and love him, not only for his business integrity and enterprise, but also for his personal traits of character so far above the average as revealed

One of them, siender and prot-ty, with its ornamental crown (top), and soft, pale, very pale pink blossoms, but little follage and only two buds, transports me to Reddelin, holds itself rather sufbeset it with obstructions; help him to be a better man, and by so doing you will help yourselves to be better men. It cannot be that all the love you have shown one comes from a perishable life. I cannot believe that it will pass away with my consciousness and be lost. We shall meet again in a land where love will reign supreme, and where in eternal sunshine all clouds will have passed away."

O sublime fortitude! O universal love! O transcendant faith! Tell me not, ye Clouds will have passed away."

O sublime fortitude! O universal love! O transcendant faith! Tell me not, ye scoffers, that there is nothing beyond this vale of tears! That when a man des his eternal existence is at an end!

In thinking of Mr. Cox, the words of the poet, J. G. Holland, came to my mind, and are reproduced here:

God give us men! A time like this demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith, and ready hands. it, which is white, dark, red and black.
