The Governor's action is a great disappoint-ment to the home rulers, and to many others interested in bills before There are over 190 acts of various kinds not acted upon, and the ses-sion, according to the Governor's count, will end next Tuesday. The count by the houses makes Friday the final day. The Governor includes three days of ad journments over in his count, while the Legislature holds such days not to count out of the 60 of the regular session. The county government act has passed through the Senate and is now in the Governor's hands, though it was passed so hurriedly and with such admitted imperfections that some of its friends say they do not expect the Governor to sign it. A law imposing a 2 per cent tax on income, with $1000 only exempt. has also gone to the executive. A bill to give the ex-Queen $250,000 from the Treasury and a bill to appropriate $1,500,000 for payment of claims growing out of the fire in Chinatown during the plague quarantine, have both passed finally in the House, and the latter has been approved by the Senate.

United States Judge Estee has rendered a decision that the Hawaiian law requiring special stamps to be affixed to deeds and other documents is constitu tional. The matter was brought before the Judge on the plea that a territory could not impose a stamp tax, the issue being made in a case where legal docu-

GREATEST EXPORTING NATION IN THE WORLD.

For Nine Months Ending With March 4 Had a Lend of Sixty Million Dollars.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The picture of the world's commerce, presented each month by the Treasury Bureau of Statistics in its monthly publication, the Monthly Summary of Commerce and Finance, presents in the current number some interesting facts about the commerce of the principal nations of the world. Perhaps the most interesting fact which it shows is that the United States stands in the fiscal year 190 clearly and unquestionably at the head of the world's list of exporting nations, its average monthly exportations for the nine months ending with March, 1901, being $1M.497.553, while those of the United Kingdom, its closest competitor, were $117.816,246 per month during petitor, were $117,816,246 per month during the same period; those of Germany, the next largest exporter, $87,551,000 per month during the 12 months ending with month during the H months ending with December, 1900; France, $56,667,000; Rus-sia, $29,550,000 per month; British India, $25,747,000 per month; Austria-Hungary, $25,753,255 per month; Belgium, $23,556,000 per month, and Italy, $20,518,000 per month. Of the 24 countries or political divisions named in the table, ten show an excess of exports over imports, while the remaining 14 show an excess of imports over exports. Argentina, Bulgaria, Canada Egypt, British India, Mexico, the Philip-Egypt. British India, Mexico, the Philip-pine Islands, Russia, Uruguay and the United States show an excess of exports over imports, while Austria-Hungary, Beigium, Cape of Good Hope, Cuba, France, Germany, Greece, Italy, Japan, Porto Rico, Portugal, Spain, Switzerland and the United Kingdom show an excess of imports over exports. Argentina shows in the 13 months ending with December. of imports over exports. Argentina shows in the 12 months ending with December last, $59,00,000 more of exports than of imports, Canada in the eight months ending with February, 1901, shows $12,000,000 more of exports than of imports. British India during the nine months ending with December shows $64,000,000 more of exports than of imports, and Russia during the 12 months ending with December shows $59,000,000 more of exports than of imports, while the United States in the nine months ending with March, 1901, shows $52,000,000 more of exports than of imports.

WOMEN'S LIST.

Another comparison of the latest figures with those of the corresponding period for the preceding year also develops some interesting facts. Argentina in the 12 months ending with December, 1898, showed $5,000,000 excess of exports over imports, and in the same months of 1900 an excess of only $39,000,000, Canada in the eight months ending with February, 1900, showed exports $5,000,000 below the imports, while the corresponding months ending with February, 1900, shower $12,000,000 excess of exports over imports. Russia in the 12 months ending with Deshowed cember, 1899, showed less than $4,000,000 excess of exports over imports, and in the 12 months ending with December, 1900, 388,000,000 more of exports than of im-ports, while the United States, which in the nine months ending with March, 1900, showed $384,000,000 excess of exports over imports, in the same months of the fiscal year 1901 showed $521,000,000 excess of exports over imports, a gain of $127,000,000 in the "favorable balance of trade" for the nine months' period of 1901 as compared with a like period of 1990.

The total domestic exports of the United States in the nine months ending with March are $1,120,680,673, while the exportation of British and Irish produce in the same period is $1,060,345,214, showing the exports of the United States to be $80,000,000 greater than those of the United Kingdom, the greatest rival, during the term under consideration.

HOW THEY FEEL ABOUT IT

EFFECT OF ABOLITION OF CAN-TEEN ON PRIVATE SOLDIERS.

Regular Army Man in the Philip pines Writes a Letter That Is an Excellent Temperance Lecture.

The following letter from a private in the regular Army now on duty in the Philippines clearly shows the sentiment of the soldiers toward the reformers who have abolished the canteen, and the effect its removal has had on their comfort and heaveness. and happiness:

and happiness:

At length they have succeeded? Who, you ask? Those who, when the Army canteen was mentioned, have conjured up visions of drunkenness, rioting, crime and hegiect of duty. And yet, not 1 per cent of all who were so loud and persistent in denouncing the canteen knew one whit shout how it was conducted. What ef-fected the downfall of the canteen? Pub-lic opinion; and our great, free-minded, liberty-loving American Republic formed an opinion about something of which they knew nothing. You, reader, stop before you go further, and ask yourself what you know about the canteen. Can you describe a canteen? What did they sell? Who received the benefit of the profits? Do you know?

Do you know?

I have received letters from friends admerely looked at the fact that the canteen cloud," and when I have asked those friends to tell me what they knew about the canteen, they had nothing to say. They had been telling me to "beware of the canteen" on general principles. They mere looked at the fact that the canteen was an institution where soldlers could procupe intoxicating liquors. That is all most people knew about it. They didn't look at our side of the question at all. I have not the liquor habit, but I would like the public to know what I think, and what nearly every other soldier thinks, of the law repressing the sale of liquor in the law repressing the Army canteen,

In the canteens of the regular Army, prior to the passing of the new Army bill beer and wine were sold. I have never, in any canteen, seen stronger liquors, and I have never heard of it, either. Here in the Philippines, and elsewhere, there are many commodities, and many necessities, that would have been unprocurable but for the Army canteen. For instance, tooth brushes and powder, tollet soap, towels, writing papers, pens, ink, envelopes, many varieties of canned fruit, condensed mits, canned butter, tobacco, and numberless similar articles; all of which were to be had at the canteen. And yet our friends write. "Whatever you do, stay away from white, whatever you do, stay away from the canteen,"

Must a person sleep in the street be-cause at the hotels are bars where liquora are sold? Should, then, a soldier keep aloof of the canteen because light liquors were offered for sale there? No doubt everyone has heard of blno, the national drink of the Filipinos. It is a native pro-duct, and the vilest whisky sold in the States does not compare with it. For those who will drink, after wine and beer, those who will drink, after whe and over, there is the one alternative—bino. As long as the former was easy of access, the latter was little used. Now you, who go to make up the Nation, whose opinions are parts of the opinion of the Nation, have struck away the far lesser evil-if it were an evil-and have brought upon greater.

"Of two evils, choose the lesser," Sol-"Of two evils, choose the lesser." Soldiers were choosing the lesser. We are not brutes devoid of reason and understanding. We know a little something about what is good for us. As long as we could choose, our choice would not be that which is as surely fatal as absinche. But you have left us no choice: have treated us like children, and, by abolishing the canteen, have given us a blow square in our faces. low square in our faces. When officers of the Army were asked their opinions on the canteen question, they said, almost invariably, that tem-perance people had better let well enough alone. But no, you knew more about the Army and Army institutions than even the officers, and now you have placed us in the clutches of bino. I say, and others will say the same, that bino has already killed more men over here than have died in battle. What can you expect as a result when the comparatively harmless liquors are no longer procurable? And where went the profits of the can-teens? They went to the mess funds of the companies. The majority of those who cead this very probably never lived on "Government straight." You wouldn't enjoy it, and neither do we, and hence, when dividends were declared and we remissaries, such as sugar, condensed cram, pickles, macaroni, cheese, corn, peas, and a hundred other articles, we cannot give the people at home a very warm thanks for having deprived us of the means of obtaining better food. Imagine living for two or three years on bacon, beans, hard-tack, canned salmon, black coffee, occasionally a tough piece of beef, and more seldom light bread. From the canteen indirectly, we received bread every day, sugar and cream for our coffee, and many other things, small in themselves, yet they improved a meal wonderfully. Improved a meal wonderfully.

An American soldier's life in the Philippines is not, never was, and never will be, a bed of roses. Yet you took from us one of the things nearest our hearts; for the shortest way to a soldier's heart to the shortest way. through his stomach. Every American seldier, whether he drinks or not, had a vital interest in the canteen, for did not all share ailke in the improved mess? In all probability the ones who prayed st against McKinley's re-election, most against McKinley's re-election, who worked hardest against the canteen, have husbands or sons who are on the way to ruin. They could not turn their attention to those at home, to whom their interference would bring naught but good; the must look clear across the Pacific to the soldiers in the Philippines. We were hoping and praying for a safe We were hoping and praying for a safe return to home and friends, while you were working with your might to take from us what few comforts and advan-tages we had. Very, very few soldiers have acquired the liquor habit in the canteen, These who drink learned to do so long before they ever entered the Army. "For whosoever hath, to him shall be given. . . but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath." The latter part of this sentence strikes me as being particularly applicable to our case. We had so little, yet so much to us—that it was clearly "whosoever hath not," and from us it was taken, "Charity begins at home." Domestic and Foreign Ports.

A full crew is employed and every effort is being made to take advantage of the present abundant supply of water. Later in the season the water will be drawn from reservoirs. Listen, Friends.

Dalles Chronicle. The persistent disparagement Columbia River and the port of Portland, by the Astoria papers, is as disgusting and ridiculous as it is incomprehensible. Will Astorians never learn that they cannot build themselves up by pulling other people down? Portland's interests as a seaport are Oregon's interests, and it is an ill-bird that fouls its own nest.
