Permanent Officers.

The committee on rules and regulations submitted their report, which was read by the secretary.

Morgan moved that the board take up for consideration the report relating to permanent organization. Carried.

The secretary read the programme for permanent organization and the other re-port was laid on the table for the time

Hirsch moved that the temporary chairman be declared the permanent chair-man of the board. The motion was car-ried by a unanimous vote, and Mr. Mills was declared permanent chairman, The board then proceeded to the election of a

Morgan moved that the election of clerk be postponed till the next regular meeting. He explained his reasons for this mo-tion at some length, saying that the members should have an opportunity to learn something about the candidates, of whom he knew nothing.

Malarkey said enough time had been wasted in preliminary work, and they should proceed to the election of a clerk

Teal said he hoped the motion would not carry, as any candidate for clerk who had not given every member of the board an opportunity to know all about his qualifications would not amount to much. Morgan's motion was lost and the board proceeded with the election of a clerk. Burrell nominated Sanderson Reed, Malarkey nominated Charles E. Lockwood. Messrs. Fries and Montague were appeinted tellers and the ballot was spread, with the result that Lockwood received seven votes and Reed 19. Reed was declared duly elected and took

Regular Sessions at Night.

The report on rules and regulations was then taken from the table and Malarkey moved that it be adopted, Robertson moved that rule 10 be amendso as to fix the time of meetings at P. M., instead of 2 P. M.

Strowbridge said that by adopting the report of sub-committees they would be accepting the ideas of a minority of 14, instead of the ideas of the whole com-mission of 33. He extended his remarks into quite a lengthy speech, displaying considerable oratorical talent, but proving nothing new. Morgan offered an amendment to Robertson's amendment that the board proopt the report, rule by rule; sught the amendment not ger-

Morgan's motion was not considered. Hirsch opposed Robertson's amendment, saying that no legislative body meets at their best attention to the business. Montag said he would have to attend at night or not at all, as his days were taken up with work. Members of legisatures had sought this honor; it had been forced on the members of this board. Robertson's amondment was then put and carried, so the meetings of the board hereafter will be held at 8 P. M.

Professor James F. Ewing. The audience was cultured and appreciative, and nearly saying that no legislative body meets at night. Men who accept positions on such bodies should let their own business give way to the public's interest and meet in the day time, when fresh, so as to give empire until it was shattered by Napo-leon's victorious legions in 1806. He also gave a scholarly, interesting account of the part played by Prussia, in making the modern German Empire possible, in 1871, and traced the rise of the Hohenzol lern family. The pictures shown of medi-eval and modern Germany were represent-ative, and excellently selected.

JAMES TURNER, OF BURNS.

BURNS, May 14.-James Turner, the oldest inhabitant of Harney County, was born in Illinois in 1825. He came to Oregon in 1855, locating at Looking Giass, Douglas County, where he took up a dopation claim. He lived there till 1872, when he moved to Coos County, and from there to Gilliam County in 1889. Eleven years later he came to Harney County, where he has since resided. Mr. Turner has been married twice. While in Cocs County his first wife died. He recently married Miss Mary E. Blankenship, of Illinois. They have a comfortable home near Crane, this county. NEW BICYCLE ORDINANCE.

Five Old City Laws Reframed, and

A proposed ordinance regulating the use of bicycles in this city, compiled by Deputy City Attorney Davis and R. G. Morrow, vice-president of Multnomah County Bicycle Taxpayers' Association, will be presented at the meeting of the Common Council this afternoon. The probabilities are that the new ordinance will speedily be passed and become a law.

For some time it has been conceded that the five bicycle ordinances of th city are cumbersome and ineffective, and need amendment. Mr. Davis and Mr. Morrow accordingly read over the whole of the bicycle ordinances and compiled a new general ordinance covering the whole question, eliminating useless sec-tions and creating new ones.

At present the minimum penalty for failing to equip a bicycle with a lighted lamp or bell is $5, and experience in the alty is considered so excessive that the offender was often discharged. The consequence was that boys who were before the court went away with the erroneous pointon that the ordinances could not b enforced. The new ordinance provides that the penalty for violation of its pro-

Miles, receives 30, 5-1, 8-6, Gifford, re-ceives 2-6, made his first appearance in the tournament and though somewhat out of practice, defeated Oliphant, receives 15.4, 8-2, 6-1. This places Gifford in the first round against Lewis. This would probably have been the best match of the tournament, but unfortunately Lewis is compelled to leave the city for two weeks, and has defaulted to Gifford. Lumgair and Graham, receives 4-5, handly defeated McAlpin and Thelesen, receives 1-6, 8-6, 6-2. This puts Lumgair and Graham in the semi-finals against Goss and Lewis.

STORIES PROVING THEY HAVE MENTAL TRAITS.

Ernest Seton-Thompson Closes His Series of Lectures-Illustrated by Many Beautiful Views.

Another big audience of children greeted Ernest Seton yesterday afternoon, and they found him fully as fuscinating a story-teller as on the previous day. Humor predominated in the pictures that were thrown upon the canvas, so that the little folks were kept in a state of exu-berant happiness and laughter for an hour and a half. The imitative animal cries made by him excited admiration to an uncommon degree, particularly among the boys, and for the next week or so more or less clever attempts at the hunting call of the gray wolf and the plercing challenge of the fighting elk will no doubt be heard in the streets from Portland's boy population.

Under the subject, "Wild Animals at Home," Mr. Seton transported his audience to the backwoods of America, open. ing with some explanatory remarks cerning the fine distinctions that existed between the tracks made by the gray wolf and the dog, and between savage man and civilized man. Entertaining stories of the dog Chink, his enemies, the cov-otes, and his teasing comrades, the picket-pin gophers, were related, illustrated by many amusing pictures. The fighting habits of the elk were then dweit upon, and two remarkably successful photographs shown of the bull elk aproaching his en-emy, an ugly and flerce look in his face,

Evening Lecture. "Mind in Animal Heroes," the subject of the evening lecture, gave Mr. Seton an opportunity to show that mentally animals have many traits in common with man. He defined a hero as "an individual of unusual gifts or achieve-ments," adding, "provided he is on our side of the fight." Otherwise we call him a "desperado," or some other hard term. There is only one exception to this, and that is when we have conquered him it is part of our self-exultation to mag-nify his strength in order to prove our-selves the greater victors. Before gunpowder was invented the struggle be-tween man and brute was rather an unequal one, with the odds in favor of the brute. It is the gun that has given man his supremacy over the anima world. Take this away from him, and what man would venture to engage in combat with a grizzly, or with a gray wolf? Yet this, and this only, is fair play.

And then Mr. Seton told several anecdotes to prove that animals have bot imagination and humor, that they remained that they learn be son logically, and that they learn by experience. A bevy of quali, for ex-ample, when alarmed, have learned to fly up in quite a different way now from their former way of rising. Instead of keeping together in a dense group, they scatter, so that a shot is much less likely to take effect. This change has become very noticeable in the Eastern states, proving that they possess something more than instinct, the power to reason, and learn by experience. The peculiar little-comprehended powers of the homous route, passing through Buffalo and Pittsburg, and then let loose, he would invariably return to New York, not by the shorter route which still remained to be passed over, but by the longer backward route. DUMB ANIMAL HEROFS as he was found dead in the guich. Several very beautiful pictures of elk grasing in their native pastures were exhibited, one photograph showing 4000 elk. The leader of the herd. Mr. Seton asserted, was almost invariably an elderly doe often small in size, never except when a fight was on hand—the big, strong built a fight was on hand—the big, strong noise of the herd. At such moments the leader-ship was transferred from the sagacious, but physically weak due, to the more powerful buck. In the pictures he called attention to this curious fact that the antiered deer, i. e., the males, were never among those near the front. Many photographs of great beauty and high artistic merit were thrown upon the danger of the work of a Pittsburg man, an vas, the work of a Pittsburg man, an amateur in photography, who had invented a camera with a shutter that would act automatically with flashlight attachment. By setting these cameras near the stream in which deer came to drink by night he succeeded in entehing some mar-vellous effects. Among these pictures was one that took the first prize at the Paris Exposition, a deer just leaving the rushes of the stream, her head turned toward the new moon visible in the West. After enumerating a number of anecdotes illustrative of wolf intelligence and dog traits, differences in the moral at-tributes of the greyhound, Danish man-tiff and buil dog, he concluded with a tragic story of an old worn out, sick South African ilon that committed suicide by hurling himself from a precipice. This was accompanied by a superb picture of a lion's head that for animal grandeur and splendld brute majesty will long be remembered by those who saw it.

Mr. Seton's lectures have been a source of unusual enjoyment to a large number of Portland people, who, in consequence, have a lively feeling of graiffude to the members of the Woman's Club, under whose auspices the lectures were given.

SPLIT, BRITTLE, DULL HAIR. All Come From Dandruff, Which Is Caused by a Germ.

Split hair, harsh hair, lusterless hair, brittle hair, failing hair, all owe their origin to dandruff, which is caused by a measly little microbe that burrows into the scalp, throwing up the cuticle into dandruff scales and sapping the vitality of the hair at the root, causing the sev-eral diseased conditions of the hair till it finally falls out. Modern science has discovered a remedy to destroy the dan-druff microbe, which is combined in New-bro's Herpicide, which may be had of any druggist.
