Occasion Beartily Enjoyed by All-Incidents of the Day-Visitors Leave for Puget Sound.

The entertainment of the Ohio and Indisna Congressional party by the business men and representative citizens of Portland closed yesterday with an excursion to Astoria and the ocean. The trip was a delightful one, and the visitors expressed themselves as being highly pleased with it. They left on the II:30 train last night for Puget Sound, enthu-slastic over Oregon, Portland and the Co-sinstic over Oregon, Portland and the Co-lumbia River country.

The excursion left for Astoria yester-day morning at 8 o'clock, on the steamer Bailey Gatzert, which was donated for the occasion, A drizziling rain was fail-ing when the boat pulled out, but before iong the sun came out bright and warm, and shone most of the day. Showers oc-curred at more or less frequent intervals, but never for a very long period, and were not at all disagreeable.

The Gatzert made the fastest time ever

The Gatzert made the fastest time ever made to Astoria against a flood tide. It was just i hours and 50 minutes from the time it passed through the steel bridge until the gong sounded at the Astoria wharf. From this must be deducted 25 minutes for a run of 25 hours against the fined tide, making the actual time 4 hours and 25 minutes. It seemed that the boat fairly flew through the water, and this likelf was one of the pleasurable features of the day's outling.

Upon the arrival at Astoria luncheon was served in the dining-room of the Occident Hotel. The room was far too small to accommodate the large number of invited guests in addition to the Congressional party itself. Those who sat down with the visitors ever: Judge C. B. Bellinger and Mrs. Knapp; Hon. Thomas H. Tongue and daughters, and Mrs. McCraken; Judge George H. Williams, and Judges George Sears and Cieland, of the State Circuit Court; Hon. Solomon Hirsch, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Pfitock, Ellis G. Hughes, Mayor H. S. Rowe, Governor T. T. Gew and Mrs. Geer, Hon. John Barrett, H. W. Scott and Hon. Malcolm A. Moody.

Luncheon was over by 2 o'clock, and then the party took the Astoria & Co-lumbia River Rallway to Fort Stevens. Here flatcars were in waiting, and most Here flatcars were in waiting, and most of the party promptly boarded them and went out on the jetty. A stiff breeze was blowing, but many of the ladies were thoughtful enough to take blankets from the Pullman car with them. They wrapped themselves in these, and presented a picturesque appearance as the wind flapped the blankets around. This part of the excursion was especially enjoyable. Several of the guests enjoyed themselves by speculating upon what themselves by speculating upon what would happen if the flateurs should jump the track.

Returning to the main train, the party was backed down through the grounds of Fort Stevens, where a short stop was made. Then the return trip was made to which was reached shortly before 5 o'clock. Dinner was served, and the special cars donated by the Astoria & Columbia River Railway were attached to the evening train, which left Astoria for Ferriand at $:10. The party arrived here shortly before 10 o'clock last evening and left. ing, and left an hour and a half later.

The excursion was entirely informal.

Not a single speech was made during the day, the entire party giving themselves day, the entire party giving themselves up to the unrestrained enjoyment of the occasion. The reception committee proved itself equal to the occasion, the leading spirits being A. J. Capron, H. M. Cake and George Taylor, Jr. About 200 people, including leading state and Federal officials, and representative business men of Portland, accompanied the party.

The several members of Congress expressed themselves one and all as being ALTERATIONS COST $9000. Changing Fronts in Big Buildings Is Expensive Work.

The changing of the fronts of the Washington block, at Third and Washing-ton, the most extensive and expensive job of the kind ever undertaken in Portof the kind ever undertaken in Portland, has been completed to the entire satisfaction of all concerned. The work has occupied longer than was intended on account of unavoidable delays, and it is hard to tell who are the most pleased with its completion, the owners of the building or the occupants of the stores in it. The cost of the improvement amounts to about $9000, and William Fliedner and Edward Holman are perfectly satisfied with the results of lam Fliedner and Edward Holman are perfectly satisfied with the results of their expenditure. The building was erected in a minssive style, with heavy columns and buttresses, as if intended to stand forever, but the requirements of business soon rendered a glass front necessary. The removal of the entire fronts on Washington and Fourth streets was no small nor easy job. Thomas Walker, the contractor, states that not less than 30,000 bricks were taken out, mostly in pieces, and heavy cast-fron lintels removed, and their places supplied by Iron columns and steel girders. This extensive work and the stagings and timbers to support the heavy superand timbers to support the heavy super structure, which it was necessary to place on the sidewalk, called for patience and forbearance on the part of the public and the occupants of the stores, but every effort was made by Mr. Walker to in-commode the public as little as possible, much of the work being done at night, and the job has been completed without any trouble or friction.

Mr. Fliedner was seen gazing admiring-ly on the new plate glass fronts yesterday and expressed himself as thoroughly satisfied with everything except the bent glass in the corner, which he intends to replace with a wider one as soon as practicable. He says that although the building is so heavy, the whole front was removed and replaced without the slightest sign of settling in any part. A massive cast-iron lintel, which the change in the front made too short, had to be taken out, and one a little longer put in at a cost of $500, the old one, which cost about the same, selling for only a few dollars as old iron. A week's delay in the work was caused in a rather singular manner. John Bingham, who was superntending the work of putting in the new pillars and steel trusses, was suddenly called to the City of Wasco, Sherman County, where a bank and department store building in course of erection showed signs of collapse. He took his pulleys and other plant and hurried up there, and after putting the building to rights started back in a hurry. Unfor-tunately, a bridge was washed out on the Columbia Southern Railway just at that time, and his tools were delayed. After waiting a week for them, he had to my new tools to go on with his work in the Washington block. The longest deon the Washington block. The longest de-lay, however, was caused by the steel girders, ordered from Pittsburg, going astray on the road. It was impossible to find any trace of them for a long time. But now that the work is completed and the debris being cleared away, pro-prietors, shopkeepers, the contractors and the public are all happy, and have forgot-ten all the trouble and worry caused by these delays and the new glass front is these delays, and the new glass front is an ornament to the street.

CONDENSED MILK IN DEMAND Opening for Factory in Portland-

Who'll Start It?

There has been much talk first and last about starting a factory for the manufac-ture of condensed milk in this city, and His An article manufactured somewhere in Washington has about captured the market here to the exclusion of the Eastern article. It answers all purposes, and is much cheaper than the Eastern condensed milk, and the cans are larger. Heretofore there was hardly a sufficient supply of milk obtainable here to justify any one in putting up a factory for condensing it, but now there is a large supply of lk avaliable, and it is likely to larger every year. Portland procures supplies of milk by boat and rail from many sections, and this city is the proper place for locating a factory for making condensed milk, and such a concern is needed here at once. The market for condensed

NEW RULE IN

NO DECREE UNLESS ATTORNEYS SUBMIT FINDINGS.

Regulation Is Intended to Keep the Records in Good Shape and Stop a Bad Practice.

Judge Frazer yesterday ordered findings prepared in three divorce cases, with the understanding that the decree in each case will not be granted until the findings have been submitted and signed by the court. This is a new mode of procedure intended to compel attorneys to have decrees in divorce suits properly entered of record, which, in the past, has frequently not been done because attorneys quently not been done because attorneys have neglected to prepare and bring in the findings as required. If the decree is not entered in the journal, there is no divorce granted, notwithstanding the announcement of the judge from the bench that it has been allowed.

The cases heard and disposed of yesterday were as follows:

Minnie Darrow against Nelson J. Darrow, to whom she was married in Portow.

row, to whom she was married in Port-iand in 1892. She testified that he deserted her in November, 1894. Mrs. Darrow asked to be restored to her maiden name, Far-rell.

Annie Scott against Walter Scott, also on the ground of desertion. Mrs. Scott testified that her husband abandoned her in April, 1909. She stated, also, that he was addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors. They were married in this city in 1894 in 1894.

Birdie McKinstry accused her husband, Frank C. McKinstry, of cruel treatment and adultery. She named Hallie Lyons as co-defendant. She asked to be restored to her maiden name, Slocum. They were married at Oakland, Cal., in 1897. Mc-Kinstry filed a general denial, but did not appear in court to defend the suit. Late in the afternoon the findings in the Darrow and McKinstry cases were filed by the attorneys.

Case to Prevent Issuing of Warrants Ready for Argument.

Bernstein & Cohen and M. L. Pipes have appeared as attorneyes for the Board of County Commissioners in the suit of A. Tichner against County Clerk Hanley H. Holmes, to enjoin the issuance of wer-rants for the payment of claims for sup-plies purchased where there was no con-tract. The Driscoll bill, passed by the last Legislature, provides that warrants last Legislature, provides that warrants for supplies unless there was a contract, are void even if in the hands of innocent third parties. The suit brought by Mr. Tichner is to test the validity of the law. He is represented by District Attorney Chamberlain, who, in his official capacity, must uphold the law. The Commissioners passed the bills in controversy, and the president of the law. and their position is that the goods were purchased on requisitions, because of emergencies. Auditor Pope refused to audit the claims, and the brokers said they would not handle the warrants. The District Attorney cannot appear on both sides of the case, and as it is necessary that both sides shall be presented, the Commissioners engaged the other lawyers mentioned. The arguments will be

PRINTING PLANT ATTACHED.

C. L. Haynes Sued by His Wife, Lydia, for $2455.

Lydia Haynes has sued her husband, C. L. Haynes, in the State Circuit Court to recover $1055 money lent, and $700 each on two promissory notes. #### :==== HARD ON POSTMASTERS.

New Ruling of Department Will Cut Down Some Salaries.

WASHINGTON, May 18 .- An order of the Postoffice Department, issued by the First Assistant Postmaster-General, will undoubtedly cut down the salaries of a large number of Postmasters in small of fices. The order referred to prescribes a penalty for encouraging the purchase of stamps and postal cards by outside people. It has been the custom of Postmasters in small offices, especially those located near large cities, to solicit sales of stamps and other supplies among business men and other supplies among business men of the neighboring cities. Inasmuch as the compensation of fourth-class Postmasters depends upon the amount of cancellation on the value of stamps sold, energetic Postmasters by diligent soliciting were able to dispose of large quantities of stamps to persons not patrons of their offices. A fourth-class Postmaster who could arrange a sale of $2000 worth of stamps could have his office advanced to the third class.

This practice was generally resorted to in suburban offices, which gave many of them their present high rating. A third-class office, the annual receipts of which do not exceed $2000, commands a salary of $1000 for its Postmaster. When the receipts reach $2400 his salary is increased $100, and so on until an office which reports total receipts of $8000 pays the Postmaster $5500. The department is of the opinion that this should no longer be allowed. The recent, order will no doubt be regarded as a hardship by many Postmasters, but there is every indication that it will be enforced.

Vice-President Ernest Miller, of the union, presided, and called on the speakers, who were mostly city tradesmen. P. J. Crowley was the first. He expressed gratification at the large assembly gathered in the interest of the labor movement. Although a machinist by trade, he is a union man, and had always affiliated with the craft. He referred to the little trouble and vexation the machinists of the city are new undergoing in their struggle for better conditions. He thought no men worked harder and were poorer paid in the United States than machinists, and ascribed the reason to lack of organization. He hoped, however, to see all craftsmen united in one organization, when they, as one man, could dictate terms to J. P. Morgan, Rockefeller and the trust magnates. He related a dream in which he saw crowds of men, women and children begging work from trouble and vexation the machinists of women and children begging work from the favored few, and thought this condi-tion would prevail until workingmen all

OLD GLORY IN SOUTH AMERICA John F. Caples' Idea of a Greater American Republic.

The lecture by Hon. J. F. Caples, on "Chile," at Taylor-Street Church, on Tunsday evening, was a delightful entertainment, as well as an interesting and instructive lecture. The speaker nar-rated his experiences and observations during the four years which he has just completed as United States Consul at Val-paraiso, punctuating the lecture by fre-quent flashes of wit or humorous story. He said in closing that his observations led him to believe that the Spanish cus-toms and manners, which are so radically different from those of the United States, both in the social and political life of these Southern republics, must gradually be supplianted by the Anglo-American type of civilization, and that he expected to see their present forms of government so modified that eventually they will all become states of the great American Re-public, under the Stars and Stripes of the United States, which he hoped would some day wave over the entire Western continent, from the Arctic Ocean on the north to the Antarctic continent on the South.

REFORMS OPIUM FIENDS.

Charitable Work in Which County Is Engaged.

Among the steadlest boarders at the county jail are the confirmed opium flends, who are sent up on long sentence; to be weaned from the drug. They enter the jail wan and cadaverous, in the last stages of imbecility, and, after 80 or 90 days, come out plump and in perfect health, resolving to let opium alone in future. It takes about two months to bring them back to their former stages of weakness, as in the meantime they devote their liberty to rustling for the drug, Archie Ray, a confirmed flend, was sent up yesterday from the Municipal Court for 125 days. He will again be subjected to the heroic treatment that shuts off the drug at once, and will probably suffer the pangs of extreme torture for a few days, when he will again be broken of the habit and put on the road to recovery. There is always a goodly contingent of opium fiends in Jailer Mitchell's charge.

SPEECHES ON EXISTING CONDI-TIONS IN PORTLAND.

engue Declares That It Will Continue the Fight While There Is Gambling.

About 200 people gathered at A. O. U. W. Hall last evening fo attend the meeting of the Law Enforcement League, at which addresses were made by several of the men who have been most active in the work Dr. Morelean who acceptant which addresses were made by several of the men who have been most active in the work. Dr. Morrison, vice-president of the lengue, called the meeting to order and announced that in the absence of Mr. Scott, who was assisting in the welcome to the Ohio delegation, he would preside. A letter from George H. Williams was read, in which the latter stated that he was necessarily absent, yet was in full accord with the plans of the Law Enforcement League. Dr. Morrison then stated the objects of the meeting, saying that it had been called because the advisory board felt the public had the right to know some things of gambling in this city, and that it was proposed to initito know some things of gambling in this city, and that it was proposed to initiate other methods of suppressing gambling.

Rev. Dr. Lord was the first speaker. He said that a move must be made in this direction, in view of all the facts, which he named as follows: First, every one confesses that public gambling is going on unmolested by officers of the law; second, that a law calling this a crime is on the statute-books; third, this law is not unusual, as it is the law of crime is on the statute-books; third, this law is not unusual, as it is the law of civilized countries; fourth, the law can be enforced with reasonable efficiency; fifth, the great majority of the people of Portland are in favor of the enforcement of the law; sixth, this society (meaning the league) is the organized will of the people; seventh, Portland's moral, social, political and business welfare are involved; eighth, no man would barter his children's future for ever so much money. Thomas N. Strong followed, and divided children's future for ever so much money. Thomas N. Strong followed, and divided crime into two classes—glided and pauper crime. He placed gambling, social impurity and the liquor traffic in the latter class. He told squething of what he knew of gambling and other vices, and declared that the Chief, District Attorney and Commissioners want the fight abandoned. "Some of the things I will say are soing."

"Some of the things I will say are going to hurt some of the people," were the first words of Dr. Wise, who read a letter from R. Livingstone, who regretted that "We have heard much of infringement of personal liberty," continued Dr. Wise, "but is it an infringement because we are trying to save some young men from going down? We are not killing business, but we will not have Fortland disgraced by that cowardly band. George E. Chamberlain, the District Attorney, told us be could have made lots of money by saying nothing, and do you call it the act of a gentleman as a rampher is said to be to gentleman, as a gambler is said to be, to try to bribe? If one man had courage, I could show you where a juror was ap-proached before the trial of one of the proached before the trial of one of the gambling cases. I want to remind you of the promise of the Chief of Police and the Commissioners to close gambling. They are putting themselves, justly or unjustity under a terrible suspicion."

Dr. Morrison made the concluding address, with a review of the work of the committee, which first went to see the Commissioners and the Chief of Police in regard to having gambling repressed, and told of the trials, in which he declared one of the police captains displayed a most childish indifference. "What are the results?" he continued. "Here is a list of places where there was open gambling last night, and there may be tonight: Gus & Scott, Gem, Portland Club, Blazier's, South and North, De Maxtini, Frits, and Erickson. The authorities tell us they don't know about it, they can't get evidence or can't scouvict. If the former, they ought to be thrown out of office; if the latter, they are dishonest. We are going to stay as long as there is any gambling going on, in the interests of our homes.'

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

"The Shaughraun" at Cordray's Tonight.

Tonight, Friday night and at the Saturday matinee, "The Shaughraun" will be presented at Cordray's by Charles Erin Verner. The play is one of the best of Boucleault's dramas, and as there has been an unusual demand for seats it

There is something in the peculiar at-mosphere and characterization of a Hearns play that makes one of them—any one of them—a singularly grateful theatrical of-fering. Indeed, a Hearne play is a good deal like a Dickens story, anyway, and the story of "Sag Harbor" has strong resemblance in many ways to the famous novelist's incomparably tender romance of the sea which centers about Little Em'ly, in "David Copperfield." One of the most-read New York critics described the characterization in Hearne's latest play in the following words: "Dickens himself never drew finer character sketches than has James A, Hearne in "Sag Harbor." The analogy might be carried further; there is the same strong swash of the sea in the background, and the rugged types of seafaring character have the same touch of quaintness and the homely nobility of character.

The cast which will present "Sag Har-bor" at the Marquam Grand on Thursday, May 30, will be the same as that which has created the wide fame of this idyllic play of American life and character, and the production in its entirely will be identically the same as that which evoked such enthusiastic comment in New York City. "Sag Harbor" will be in Portland for three nights and a Saturday mati-

Harry Corson Clarke's New Play. Good houses have greeted Harry Corson Clarke during his entire season. This season he is appearing in a new farce of the proper-name variety, entitled "What Did Tompkins Do?" In it Mr. Clarke returns to the style of character in which he first gained prominence, viz., old men's parts. The farce is written around an aged financier who has sporting tendencies, but who curiously enough has a son of opposite characteristics. The son has been christened under his father's name, and consequently the two are being constantly confused in the minds of people. This gives rise to some ludi-crous situations, especially when the mod-est son gets charged with his father's hiest son gets charged with his father's hi-larious performances. The plece is farci-cal, but it is of the higher class, and, like the Broadhurst productions, is ex-tremely clean. Mr. Clarke has an aver-sion for the modern "Frenchy" tendency in comedy, and will not be seen in any-thing that smacks of it. His success in "Jones," a play that contains not one in-delicate line, has strengthened him in this resolve. Wr. Clarke has made a fortune resolve. Mr. Clarke has made a fortune during his three seasons with "Jones" and he says he retires it with regret, although he is certain that his new piece will be an even greater hit. Mr. Clarke will be seen at Cordray's the week begin ning Sunday night,
