HOME FROM THE PHILIPPINES.-Quite & number of "boys in blue" and in kahki sults have been seen on the streets during the past week. They are United States soldiers on their way home from the Philippines. They were brought to San Francisco on a transport and dis-charged there, and came through this way rail on their way to their homes in the East. They are all young men, and, generally speaking, fine, intelligent-looking, upstanding fellows, Some of them expressed themselves as satisfied with their experiences and their trip to the Orient as something they will remember with pleas ure the remainder of their lives. Others have "had enough of it," and are glad to get back home, and do not want any more soldiering or life in the tropics in theirs. Some of them will doubtless find their experiences in the service and the knowledge gained of foreign ports of profit, but others have acquired habits and knowledge which will be a detriment to their future welfare or usefulness. As a citizen remarked: "It is too bad that so many young men should spend several years in the prime of their lives soldler-ing, perhaps killing people and acquiring ideas and habits which they will never Washington Idaho and Oregon will be in session in Portland this week, commenc-ing tomorrow. As explained by leading local clergymen of the church, it is a sort of vacation meetbe a serious injury." This recalls the old lama, one of the characters in Kipling's story of "Kim," who said to an old Sikh ing, where the clergymen get together to exchange ideas and discuss church matveteran: "What profit in killing men?" to which the old soldier replied: "Very little—as I know, but if evil men were not ters in general. Representatives will be present from the dioceses and jurisdic-tions of Columbia, New Westminster, Calnow and then slain, this would not be a good world for weaponless dreamers.'

MUSEUM FROG TURNS CANNIBAL-That

City Museum frog seems born to trouble, or to trouble others, "as the sparks fly up-ward." The pleas for an abatement of his condition resulted, as stated a week ago, in some one providing a companion for him. The new frog was about twice the size of the first, but the two appeared to get along in their separate ucers, placed side by side, if not ex-tly swimmingly, at least very contentedly and amicably. A morning or two ago it was discovered that the small frog had swallowed the large one. The curstor and janitor were much surprised, as for Cascade Locks, Hood River, White well they might be, for the swallowing of a frog by another half its size is a The Dalles 3 P. M. Leave 4 P. Nobody saw the little frog swallow the big one but the proof that he did so is convinc ing. Firstly, the big frog disappeared, and secondly, he could not be found in the building, and as he could not have escaped from the building, the small frog must have swallowed him. The frog is a drawing card at the museum. Every visitor spends more or less time admiring it, but it is not unlikely that Mr. Hawk-ins. will in the end be obliged to send it to the menagerie in the park.

AN OLD SALT ESCAPES DROWNING .- The fact that a man who has gone down to the sea in ships all his life, and has never felt uneasy for his safety, should, back to Idaho a very much disgusted man. He said from what he had seen in the Oregon papers in regard to the number immediately upon landing on solid ground -metaphorically-have a narrow escape that he could make a fortune in the Klamath region in one season. The num. ber of coyotes he saw running over the from drowning, is enough to make one feel like launching his frail bark on any kind of waters for "keeps." Such an untoward accident, which justifies the adage that "It is always the unexpected which happens" occurred to Captain Gregory, of the Mansanita, a few days ago. In first night he caught several coyotes, but oming ashore from his vessel he had ardly set foot on the wharf when a rotten plank gave way under him and he dropped into the river and went down like a "dipsy-lead." When he rose to the surface his hat had started to escape, and he had to swim after it and recover it before he could be rescued. An incident like this goes to show the reasonableness of the statement that sailors when at sea in a gale, when the wind is blowing the sails out of the bolt-ropes, and things are at their worst, express their pity for the poor beggars on shore, who are in danger of being killed by flying tiles and chimney pots. It might be well for own-ers of wharves on which there are rot-ten planks to have them replaced by in order that they might kill off the sheep sound ones. Good men are very scarce and not all of them can swim.

Joke in the Land of Sunshing.-A. Portland couple who tired of the cool, and lassoing coyotes and ripping their showery weather which prevailed at the beginning of the month determined to go to Southern California to enjoy sunshiny weather for a time. They left their um-brellas, rubbers and other rainy weather gear at home, not wishing to be jeered at as "Webfeet" for bringing such things to the land of perpetual sunshine. Just after they reached Los Angeles that city was visited by a terrific rain storm, a regular cloud burst, and the water ran down the streets even with the tops of the curbs. The Oregon man made the most of the occasion to "get even," and complained bitterly of the rain which was worse than any ever seen in Oregon. The man estentatiously provided himself with pieces of scantling, which he laid across various publies to enable his wife to cross the streets, and husband and wife expressed their disgust with the climate their longing to get back to Oregon, where there is fine weather and streets that can be crossed without having to build bridges. They cut their visit short, and left for home before the mud changed to dust, and are feeling happy to think that they got ahead of the everlasting ranshiners for once.

PRUNE TREES OVERLOADED WITH FRUIT. There have been complaints from some orchardists in Mulinomah County about prunes dropping from the trees, and fears have been expressed that the prune crop would be a failure this season. The contrary, however, appears to be more likely, as in many sections of the state the prune crop will be immense, and even in this section only a few orchards have suffered by the fruit dropping. Out on the H. E. Battin place on the aBse Line road the prune trees are so heavily overloaded that W. G. Kerns, who lives there, has been obliged to clip the ends of all the boughs of the trees to prevent them from being broken by the load of fruit. In fact, several of the trees were broken down and ruined before the clipping of the limbs was commenced. The ng orchard is in the same condition. Pear trees in these orchards have, however, dropped most of their fruit,

SHANNAH CUMMING TOMORROW .- Shannah Cumming's power over her audience is graphically revealed by the various press notices that follow in her wake, of which the following, from the New York Evening Journal, may be taken as a specimen: "Miss Shannah Cumming, a well-known Brooklynite, whose social standing is a high one because of her splendid pedigree, was heard at a concert given by the Brooklyn Institute last Wednesday evening and carried the house by Miss Cumming is to be heard at the Marquam tomorrow night, under the auspices of the Musical Club. cattle ranges without being molested, and to grow fat on mutton, they soon grasped the situation and began to come in and be scalped when hot weather set in. A new scalp grows on the bald heads in one season, and they all come in once a year to be scalped, and the cowboys are RESCUED BY A FISHWHEEL Lost Lamb Taken Out of the River the Same as a Chinook.

A remarkable story of the rescue of a lamb from drowning is told by William Shepard, a prominent sheep dealer of Washougal, Wash. The incident occurred the other day just as a river steamer left The Dalles. The boat was so crowded that in the hurry of casting off and getting into mid-stream a lamb was pushed overboard. The lamb immediately struck out for the bank, but the bleating of the sheep on the boat caused him to obey his instinct to follow the band. The men on board watched his futile efforts to on board watched his futile efforts to overtake the boat and saw him being left farther and farther to the rear. It was becoming apparent that the lamb was about done for and would soon go to the bottom, when the boat passed a slowly revolving fish-wheel. As the lamb drew near to the wheel the on-lookers noticed that the current was bearing birs toward the wheel. The next instant him toward the wheel. The next instant they were astonished to see the wheel catch the lamb, carry him high out of the water and land him safely in the receptacle intended only for royal chinook, steelheads and the like.

POPLAR TREES CAUSE DAMAGE

Choke Sewers and Drains and Make

Expense to the City.

Year by year the old poplar trees about the city are becoming more and more of a nuisance, and more and more a cause of damage to sewers and drains. William Braden, who has had charge of repairs to sewers for many years, added to the collection of curios in the City Engineer's department a few days ago a matted mass of poplar root fibers. He took the material from a nine-inch terracotta sewer, which it had completely choked, rendering the opening up and clearing out of the sewer necessary. He has been trying for 15 years to get the poplar trees cut down, but many of them are still left, and it keeps two men busy the greater part of the time repairing sewers broken and choked by poplar roots. When the fact that many poplar trees about town which have been girdled to kill them are still growing and flourishing was mentioned, Mr. Braden said that was nothing, as poplar wood will send out rootlets and make shift to great if the ground is anywhere near them. says a lot of poplar trees in the back part of town were made into cordwood and piled up, and that this pile of wood has taken root and is rapidly becoming a poplar grove. A few days ago a large polpar tree in the northern part of town, which looked vigorous and flourishing, but was quite rotten inside, fell across the street just as a boy driving an express wagon was passing. The tree felt across the horse, pinning him to the ground, breaking the shafts, and scaring the boy out of several years' growth. It took the united efforts of all the men in the vicinity to raise the tree so that the a foregone conclusion that the city au. thorities will have to take some steps before long to rid the streets of those

Of course, they are deep diggings and can only be worked through the Winter. I know sev-eral who will try their luck in that country as soon as the ice breaks. So far reports from there have been uncertain as to the extent and richness of the discoveries. The Canby campmeeting, under charge of the Methodist churches, will begin Friday and close July 15. Rev. G. W. Gue, president of the camp-meeting association, says: "This is not a Chautauqua, but a time-honored camp-ground, where the gospel is preached and sinners are converted to God. The grounds were never in better condition. Pure water, delightful shade and good board at reasonable rates are some of the advantages. Canby is 25 miles south on the Southern Pacific Railway. Two trains each way pass

W., which meets in Portland the middle of July, will be the reception of the grand officers by the subordinate lodges. For this event committees have been appointed. The reception will take place July 17, and the committee on location was instructed to secure Hawthorne Park, on the East Side. The park is be-tween two car lines and in easy reach of every portion of the city. The programme will be made up of public addresses by prominent men of the order.
