actly that amount which is an internal tax, is returned. But in order not to encourage exportation, the Russian Gov. ernment does not give cash for these certificates. They are only valid for the payment of taxes on sugar subse-

ently produced. Having thus to wait for their money and needing cash, the producers constantly have their certificates discounted by the banks. If the Russian Government wanted to encourage the exportation of sugar it would pay cash down instead of keeping people salting and losing interest on their money for probably a year. M. de Witte, when asked whether the high tax on sugar was imposed in order to give a profit to the producer, replied:

That would be difficult. In fact, my mind cannot grasp any logical reason, ing which could so interpret it. The tax sugar is high to prevent the market om being flooded. If we were to lower then thousands of sugar factories could spring up, and sugar would become drug on the market. We, therefore, limit production for internal and economic

Russian Minister Declares Modern Military Service Absurd.

LONDON, June 24-An interesting pr per, written by Jean de Bloch, the Russian Councillor of State, and member of the Russian Ministry of Finance, on "The Lessons of the Transvaal War," was read at the United Service Institution today. M. de Bloch declared the South African War had proved that military service, as practiced today, was absurd. He also said the sacrifice made on the Continent He also support conscription was unnecessary. The war showed that the theatrical spec tacles, called maneuvers, were in no way related to real warfare. One of the most markable features was the constant possibility of determining the enemy's This was not attributable to defective reconnoissance on the part of the British, but to the new condition war. It was not mistakes made by the British, nor the qualities of the Boers, who had shown an entire lack of rational strategy and tactics, which produced the results of the war, but smokeless powder and long-range, quick-firing rifles, which involved dispersion and invisibility to a degree unheard of formerly, and to the possibility of providing riflemen with a larger number of cartridges. The action of the artillery in South Africa generally

Tribute to the Dead Man.

NEW YORK, June 24 .- People in London, says the Tribune's London corre-spondent, are not unmindful of the fact that during the early days of the Boer War, Adelbert S. Hay discharged his honorary duties on behalf of the British prisoners in Pretoria with the utmost tact and discretion. It is felt in London that his tragic death closes one of the most promising careers in the American diplomatic service.
