WAS LETTER A THREAT?

NEW DEVELOPMENT IN MEREDITH-CONSIDINE TRAGEDY.

Mayor Humes Is Suspected by His Friends of Forming a Combination With John L. Wilson.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 5.—It is 10 days since W. L. Meredith met his death at the hands of John W. Considine. Usually the excitement following an event of this kind dies out in a few days...

Another story being told is that Police-Merford, who was, according to his own story, talking to Considine about the shooting...

The Political Side. In view of the denial by Senator Wilson's organ that politics had anything to do with Meredith's death...

Law and Order League. Curious things have been going on in Seattle for several weeks. A law and order league attempting to close gambling...

Has Humes Changed Front? There is no denying the fact that many of Humes' supporters fear that he is about to make an alliance with Wilson...

After this had been going on for some time Considine is said to have gone to some of the gamblers and offered them the most positive terms that if he were permitted to open his house and do business as he had in the past...

The head of the law and order league is a man who has served a term in the penitentiary for smuggling, and whose reputation in Seattle is that of being a professional briber for large corporations...

The Post-Intelligencer is also at work in Considine's behalf. The Post-Intelligencer, estimating some $100 each to a fund to prosecute him. In order to head this off a reporter on the Post-Intelligencer visited a gambler in Seattle...

This conversation took place after a consultation between the representative of the Post-Intelligencer and question and answer in the language of the gambler who told the story...

There is a very serious feature to this gambling side of the question. Before the trouble between Considine and Meredith reached the courts, the Standard confiscated the books of the Standard gambling house...

Now that Considine has these books, it is alleged they will be used to make people who fear disclosure "go to the front" for him in his murder case...

If the evidence be admissible in court during the murder trial, it will be introduced to show that John L. Wilson, the editor of the Post-Intelligencer...

gether upon several occasions upon the streets, and yet the charges against Meredith was that he was friendly with blackies, bunco men and gamblers!

On the subject of Considine it might be well to remark that many people are afraid that Justice George, before whom he is to be given his preliminary examination...

An Investigator Protected. Meredith was a two-fingered man. While the special investigating committee of the City Council was in session he was summoned before it as a witness...

When Mayor Humes sent for Meredith and told him that he must resign, the latter protested. The two had a long talk, and, among other things, Meredith said: "Judge, you say that you cannot stand against the newspapers..."

"Colonel Blithen is a Democrat," was Mayor Humes' reply, as reported by Meredith. "And I don't want any support from that side of a political house..."

For many years the foremost friend and public spokesman of Tom Humes was Attorney Samuel H. Piles, general counsel for the Pacific Coast Company...

There is no denying the fact that many of Humes' supporters fear that he is about to make an alliance with Wilson. His pliant subservience in forcing Meredith out first aroused suspicion...

In disrupting the Republican party in King County, Mr. Wilson has unwittingly played into the hand of Levi Ankeny, his great rival...

There is no danger of the Democrats carrying the state, regardless of what King County may do. Consequently party disruption in King County will benefit them.
