CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Amusements Tonight.

MARQUAM GRAND THEATER—Matinee at 2:15 o'clock. "Titania; or, The Butterflies' Carnival," under the direction of Mrs. H. A. Foreman and Clarissa Nichols. No evening performance.

CORDRAY'S THEATER—Cummings Stock Co. in "Arabian Nights."

STORY OF A PORTLAND AJAX.—Ajax defied the lightning, and his name has gone thundering and "lightning" down the ages, though it was only heat lightning he defied, and there were no results from his defy. Employes of electric companies engaged in putting in electric light and telephone wires buck up against the real manufactured high-pressure electricity every day, and get shocks which would have scared Ajax out of his boots if he had owned any, and make no fuss about it. A number of people were much amused at the experience of a fellow who was stringing a wire across a street in the South End yesterday. It had to go above the car company's trolley wire, and in spite of all he could do, occasionally touched it. He took half a dozen jolts from the wire good naturedly, but finally was knocked over, and the wire dropped and struck a car track, and the report was "shocking" and a hole was burned in the rail. The boy picked himself up, but he had lost his temper in the fracas, and he aided the electrical current in making things sulphurous till he could get his wire to rights again. After a few years at such work one might be able to defy a whole power station and get away alive.

IT WAS PLEASANT EVERYWHERE.—A large number of persons went away from the city to spend the Fourth, some to various parts of the country, and some to the coast. All who have returned are bragging about what delightful weather they enjoyed where they were, and not appearing to realize that the day here was so perfectly perfect that no pleasanter one could be possible anywhere. Some spent the day and night on the Washington side of the Columbia, where they could see all the skyrockets explode, and could say "a-a-a-h!" just as well as if in town, and where they could hear just as much of the noise as they cared to. Those who went to the coast say that the trip was a regular Fourth of July procession all the way, as every town and hamlet along the railroad was celebrating, and decorations and noise were everywhere, and the train was crowded with pretty girls in their Summer gowns, going from one town to another to spend the day. More and more city people go out of town every Fourth to get away from the noise, and more and more the country people come into town to enjoy the noise and help to increase it.

NOTICED OREGON FRUIT.—Oregon's exhibit at the Buffalo Exposition continues to attract the attention of the Eastern press. The following is from correspondence to Fruit Trade Journal and Produce Record, of New York: "Far-away Oregon is not to be outdone in having strawberries on exhibition, and a card with the following description is noticed: 'All the way from Oregon; 5500 miles without ice.' So, even should our local berry crop be a failure in the future, our millionaires will have Oregon berries to fall back on. It is not to be wondered at that many visitors cannot overcome the desire to purloin a sample of the beautiful apples shown by Oregon, and the management of the booth has placed this placard upon it: 'Yield not to temptation.' The Oregon Commissioners should have been on hand in the Garden of Eden and handed this placard to Adam."

WILL BE PAINTED BLACK.—The steeple of the Taylor-Street M. E. Church is being painted a jet black, the same as the roof, while the figure at its top is to be done in pure white. The walls of the edifice are to be of terracotta. Guy Price has taken the job of painting the steeple, the men who first rigged up the swinging staging having declined to go on with the work. The figure on the top was given one coat yesterday, and the man at work looked about the size of a spider from points a few blocks away. The Oregon fir, of which the figure is made, has stood the storms and sunshine of 34 years and is in as good condition as when first placed on its elevated position. It is seven feet tall, but does not look it from the street.

ARE you going to the Coast? Then don't forget the Hotel Flavel. This resort is booking the most desirable patrons to be found. Many of the best rooms have already been engaged and quite a few are booked for the entire season. This hotel is the finest equipped north of Monterey—electric lighted, steam heated, electric call bells, private bathroom and toilet with each suite of rooms, Brussels carpeted, furniture and bedding elaborate and best money could buy. Dining-room light, airy and inviting; meals prepared by the best chef on the Pacific Coast; waiters all experienced colored waiters from Portland Hotel; careful and competent clerks, bellboys and servants, make Hotel Flavel, with its spreading lawns, cool forest groves and unexcelled bathing grounds, the most attractive place on the coast today. If you want to know more about Flavel, address the Hotel Flavel, Flavel, Or., or J. L. Mitchell, 615 Marquam building, Portland, Or. Phone Main 642. *

LIGHT INTO DARKNESS.—F. N. Selberg, superintendent of the Nome Electric Light & Power Company, is in the city, purchasing a plant for the company capable of furnishing 300 arc lamps. Mr. Selberg spent last Winter in Nome and saw how long the nights get there, and is in a hurry to get back to that "benighted" region in time to have the plant in operation when the sun goes down for the Winter. The company has poles up and wires are being strung, and when the dynamos are got running the Arctic night will not know where it is at. Nome ought to be a good place for the electric light business in the Winter, as the sun is out of sight for several months.

UPCHURCH VS. FIDELITY.—There is promise of a hot game of baseball tomorrow between members of Upchurch and Fidelity Lodges, at the professional field, Twenty-fourth and Vaughn streets. For years there has been strong rivalry between these lodges, and this season, probably due to renewed interest in the National game, it has taken the form of baseball. Rooters for both teams will be in evidence in large numbers.

LOCKSLEY HALL, Seaside, Or.—Usual good chicken dinner Sundays. *

ONE RUN OF SALMON.—Cannerymen along the Columbia are feeling more hopeful about making a respectable pack this season. A run of salmon has entered the river and the fishermen nearest the mouth have been making much better catches for the past day or two than at any time before this season. Everyone is waiting anxiously the school to reach his fishing grounds and praying that it may be the advance guard of a big run such as often arrived in July or even in August in years past. The salmon need not be afraid but what they will be taken good care of, for every necessary preparation has been made for their reception, and if they should all be caught not one of them would be wasted. The season so far has been very trying on the nerves of cannerymen and fishermen, who have been existing principally on hope, which is not a very nutritious diet.

POPULAR SUMMER SEASIDE SCHEDULE, re-established by the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad: Beginning Saturday, July 6, and every Saturday thereafter during the Summer season, the popular Portland-Seaside express will leave Union Depot, Portland, at 2:30 P. M., and run through direct, arriving at Astoria at 5:50 P. M.; Gearhart Park, 6:40 P. M., and Seaside, 6:50 P. M., making direct connection at Astoria with the steamer T. J. Potter for all North Beach points. Beginning same date the morning train, leaving Portland daily at 8 A. M., will run through to Gearhart and Seaside without change of cars, making direct connections at Astoria with steamer Potter for North Beach points, and the evening train, leaving Portland daily at 7 P. M., will enable passengers to make connection the following morning with train leaving Astoria at 8:15 A. M. for Clatsop Beach points, and with steamer Nahcotta, leaving Astoria early in the morning daily for North Beach Points. *

UNUSUAL DEMAND FOR FRUIT.—There was a lively demand for the fruits and vegetables which came on the San Francisco steamer arriving yesterday morning. Commission men say they would like to have a Fourth of July every two weeks, as it would enable them to clear out consignments completely and create a demand for more stuff. There is but little in the way of vegetables now coming from California, except green corn, peas and beans, artichokes, etc., as the local truck-raisers have plenty of most other kinds. There are, however, a number of varieties of fruit, prunes, peaches, pears, apples, plums, grapes, etc., still arriving, but it will not be long before the market will be supplied with Oregon fruits, and there will be more pleasure in eating fruit.

FILLING UP THE TWENTY-EIGHTH.—The United States recruiting office in this city has so far this month enlisted eight men for the Twenty-eighth Infantry, now being filled up at Vancouver Barracks. This is more than have been enlisted in the same length of time for some months. Several of the men were discharged soldiers just returned from Manila, who are probably anxious to get back. The Twenty-eighth Regiment is pretty well filled up now, there being about 1000 men at the barracks at Vancouver. It takes about 1200 men to make a full regiment. The recruiting officer is now anxious to secure a number of men for the artillery branch of the service.

ABSENCE OF FLAGS.—Several persons have called attention to the fact that from many of the public school buildings no flags were displayed Thursday, and want to know the reason for this neglect. The fact that the schools are closed and a number of janitors have been "laid off" during vacation is probably the reason for some of the flags not being displayed. One of the Directors remarked that all the schools were provided with flags, as the G. A. R. kept after the board and saw that flags were furnished to each of the buildings. "It is rather expensive, too," he added, "as the flags are soon whipped out when displayed often."

REMOVING REEF.—The work of removing the Sylvia de Grasse reef from the river channel near Astoria is now progressing favorably. Hale & Kern, who some time ago took the job in hand, have now three dredges and a drill scow employed in the work, and at last good progress is being made. The reef has been a nuisance and something of a menace to navigation since the time when Mount Hood was a hole in the ground, and pilots and captains, although the bones of the old Sylvia de Grasse have been a warning which has made them steer clear of it, will draw a breath of relief when it has been removed.

GERMAN METHODIST CAMP MEETING.—The German Methodists' camp meeting at Oak Grove, a mile and a quarter south of Milwaukie, is now in progress, and will continue until next Tuesday night. At the opening exercises in the evening of the Fourth patriotic addresses were made by Adam Klippel, of Portland, and Hans Hansen, of Cornelius. The first day nine churches of the Portland district were represented, and other churches sent in representatives yesterday. Professor J. C. Marting, an eminent educator of the Berea, O., German College, will preach daily during the continuance of the meeting.

INCORPORATIONS.—I. G. Rosenberg, George Kerr and T. R. Campbell yesterday filed articles of incorporation of the Coast Fork Lumber Company in the County Clerk's office; capital stock, $5400. Articles of incorporation of the Northwestern Construction Company were filed. The objects are to deal in real and personal property and do a general contracting business. The incorporators are Alexander Sweck, J. M. Long and Norris A. Brisco; capital stock, $20,000.

HOP OUTLOOK GOOD.—A hopdealer who has been up the Valley looking over the situation says the hopfields are looking fine and the vines are coming out very well. There are very few lice to be seen and he thinks that if bright, warm weather lasts a week or two there will not be many. Prospects are very favorable for a good crop of hops.

TODAY is to be the second great day at Chautauqua. Gladstone Park will be crowded with people again to hear Dr. Charles Bayard Mitchell, the great Western orator, of Minneapolis, who speaks at 2 P. M. on "The Prize Taker." Fare for the round trip, including admission to the park, over City & Suburban and Southern Pacific lines, 55 cents. *

OREGON CITY RIVER TRIPS.—If you enjoy a good rest and the fresh river breezes, take this ride; it's better than medicine. Boats leave Taylor-street dock, weekdays, 8:30, 11:30 A. M., 3 and 6:15 P. M.; Sundays, leave Portland and Oregon City 8, 9:30, 11 A. M., 1, 2:30, 4, 5:30, 7 P. M. Round trip, 25 cents. *

A SPLENDID ballad concert, given under the direction of Professor W. H. Boyer, assisted by Webber's Mandolin Club, of Portland, will close today's programme at Gladstone Park. Southern Pacific trains.*

FOR PARK IMPROVEMENT

DR. T. L. ELIOT MAKES A REPORT OF OBSERVATIONS.

Local Application Made of Points Gathered in the East—Keeper for Holladay Park.

At the monthly meeting of the Park Commissioners yesterday, Dr. T. L. Eliot, who has recently studied park situations in the East, read the following report:

In pursuance of a resolution passed in your meeting of March, 1901, asking for such information concerning parks as might be obtained during a brief visit in the Eastern states, the undersigned has to report that he inspected park systems in leading cities, notably Washington, Philadelphia, Boston and St. Louis. In the case of Boston there were exceptional opportunities of studying the history and methods of organization. The Boston system is what is known as the metropolitan parks, embracing some 37 towns and cities, and involving, during the past 20 years, a very large expenditure, chiefly for the purchase of new unoccupied lands, or the establishment of great reservations along the sea shores north and south of the metropolitan district.

An instructive fact is the vastly increased betterment of private property adjacent to all improvements by boulevards or reserves. The system as now constituted is one of the best in the world, and is characterized by (1) large bodies of hilly land, more or less wooded; (2) fen lands or low marshes, and (3) tracts contiguous to the sea or rivers and brooks emptying into Massachusetts Bay. These, with the older cultivated parks already existing, and extensive lines of approaches or boulevards, uniting the whole system, constitute the present metropolitan parks.

The most interesting feature of the system is the parking of the shores of the rivers and brooks. In this way a narrow strip is reserved on each side of the water run and the river or brook border is beautified and broad roadways, driving and cycle paths, for many miles, follow the windings of the stream. The expense of acquiring these properties in so old a community along the rivers and ponds has been very great, but the remaining properties fronting thereon have increased enormously in values, and have in many instances been taxed for the improvement.

The commission has been bending its efforts supremely for the past 10 years to acquisition of these sea shore and riparian tracts, and of the large mountain reserves, because ownership by the public at this time could be obtained at so much less cost than in the future; and delays would mean irreparable losses to the public, in forest destruction or private exploitations.

The extent of the system may be judged from the fact that it includes besides 24 principal reservations, some 200 smaller parks, individual squares, open spaces and fields, included in an inhabited district of perhaps 1,000,000 people. The cost of all this, including expenditures of the City of Boston proper, and other municipalities, has been some $20,000,000. One of the most conspicuous useful parks is that known as Revere Beach. The city provides an extensive bathing plant, which is self-supporting from the fees for the individual bath houses. The shore is open and improved for six miles, and as many as 125,000 people have sometimes visited the beach in a single day. When it is known that a mere handful of officials and police suffice to maintain the rules and order, it will be seen what an immense benefit is done the public, and how great an element of good will and harmony intelligent park systems promote.

It may be asked what bearing all this seems to have upon our own situation and the future of the park system of Portland. I may say that I had some earnest conferences with the founders of these systems, both in Boston and other communities, conferences in which were laid before them the facts of our population, topography, present parks and available means. I may refer especially to my meeting the firm of Olmsted Bros., the leading landscape architects of America, who have in charge at this time the most important works in the country, including the new parks of Washington City, and the great Vanderbilt arboretum of North Carolina.

These eminent men confirmed the advices I received from others almost unanimously, namely, that it is of prime importance, very early in the inception of the life of any park system, that a study be made of the whole surrounding district of a city, and that the "eye of genius" should overlook, and define in broad outlines, the policy and the directions of the movement, which can be then followed for an indefinite future by the commissioners as trustees of the public, and as their advisers for future purchases, or the intelligent landscaping of parks or open spaces already owned. I was especially advised of the importance of elevations or canyons or rocky districts or shores of rivers, which are often comparatively useless except as the expenditure of public funds can make them recreation grounds or highways for the people. I ascertained that under proper contract and at a moderate cost a visit of some expert can be obtained and a preliminary study may be made of all the conditions of our trust as a park commission, and the net result of my observations and conferences is to say that probably no money can be appropriated more judiciously at the outset than the expenditure necessary to such a visit from a competent landscape architect whose experience would benefit us and save us many costly errors in the organization and development of both the present and future parks of the city. I was told by one landscape architect who has seen Portland and its environs that no city in the country has more admirable natural features for a park system, having as we have mountains, woods, river and plain in practically measureless amount for the purpose.

Dr. Eliot was tendered a vote of thanks by his fellow Commissioners for the trouble he has taken in looking up details for their information. The ideas suggested in the report met with their approbation.

Against Misuse of Parks.

The board decided to be more particular in the care of the park blocks in future, so the use of these squares for picnic parties, stands, tents or booths will hereafter be prohibited in accordance with a resolution adopted. Carpet-beating and the dumping of rubbish must also be stopped. The resolution takes in every park in the city.

A keeper is to be employed at Holladay Park for the purpose of trimming up the shrubbery, and he will also act as watchman, with police powers, from 10 in the morning until 10 o'clock at night. Some worthy person living close by will be given the situation.

The Park Superintendent was authorized to put a man at work in Macleay Park, whose duty will be to burn the useless brush and clean up the debris, in order to make that hitherto neglected tract more presentable for visitors. A few paths through the woods are also in contemplation.

The question of new cement walks for the Plaza blocks was discussed, but no conclusion was reached. The board is unanimously in favor of the cement sidewalks, but the matter of expense is somewhat in the way and the City Council will be asked to pay part of it.

New Bears for the City Park.

Three pet bears are to be added to the pit in the City Park at a cost of $60. One of these is of the silver tip, and the other two are of the brown species. The bears now in the park are getting pretty old, the board thought, and as bears form the chief attraction for children, it was considered wise to provide against the possibility of the pits becoming vacant. The new purchases are young and very tame.

An application was received from a man proposing to buy the plant at the old City Park pumping station, for $175. The matter was referred to the committee on supplies.

The pay roll for June, amounting to $845, and other claims, footing up $178.30, were ordered paid. The estimate for July amounts to $1147.71.

WHERE TO DINE TODAY.

Visitors to the city were unanimous in praising the Portland restaurant for its excellent fare and attention. 306 Wash.

For home-like cooking go to E. House's Cafe, 128 Third street; he only buys the best; fresh eggs, milk and cream from his own ranch daily.

The 25-cent lunch at the Perkins, 108 Fifth, is a fine dinner. White cooks.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD WILL BREAK GROUND.

Extensive Preparations for the Great Log-Rolling in August at Mount Tabor.

The Woodmen of the World are making extensive preparations for their log-rolling August 3. Just what will be the outside attendance cannot at this time be stated, but certain it is that it will be very large. Every town on the line of the Southern Pacific Railway which has so far responded to the circular letter sent out by the general secretary writes that at least a coach load will come from their place. Salem intimates it will have three coach loads, will bring a uniform degree team to compete for the grand prize, and will bring a large class of candidates to add to the 1000 which the Woodmen of this vicinity have gathered together for the occasion. Brownsville is coming in force. The camp at that place is one of the liveliest in the order, and is one which never does anything by halves. Word from Forest Grove shows that at least two coaches will be necessary to accommodate the Woodmen from that point, and North Yamhill will also need two coaches to accommodate their delegation. The managers of threshing outfits at that place have decided to lay off on Woodmen day, in order to allow their men to come.

Eastern Oregon is rising to the occasion, and large delegations will come from every town in that part of the state.

Two uniformed degree teams are coming from Seattle, and prominent officials of the order from several Pacific Coast states.

Ground on Mount Tabor will be broken next Wednesday evening at 7:30. It is intended to make the occasion a gala affair. Mayor Rowe, with a brand new shovel, will break the ground.

Street-cars will be beautifully decorated, and will carry members of the general committee and prominent officials of the city to the grounds. These gentlemen with an orchestral accompaniment will give the event the dignity which it deserves. It is desired that as many committeemen from country camps as can possibly do so come to the city and participate in this ceremony on that occasion.

The public generally is invited to attend and enjoy this event, which will prove of great interest and pleasure to all.
