TO END RESERVATIONS

EDUCATION OF INDIANS WILL ACCOMPLISH IT.

Commissioner Jones Is Working Hard to This End—Reservation System Is a Drawback.

WASHINGTON, July 4.—If the ideas of Indian Commissioner Jones could be followed out explicitly, and under practically the same corps of officials as are now on his staff, it is said that within 10 years the Indian reservation would be a thing of the past, and Indian civilization would become a fixed certainty. Commissioner Jones, like most of the officials of the Indian Bureau, believes that the reservation system is one of the greatest drawbacks to the advancement of the younger generation of Indians, and consequently is making every effort to break up the agencies in every part of the United States.

The idea along which he is working is to educate the young Indians so they will become self-supporting. When they have acquired this knowledge, they should be forced to make practical application of it. The best way to do this is to allot to each Indian a certain tract of land, which shall be his own, and which, under no circumstances, he shall be allowed to sell or lease. At the same time, the Government will, of course, suspend payments or annuities to the Indians, and they will be forced to live by their own labor and by their own skill.

In many instances this very thing has been done, and is now being done on the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache lands, in Oklahoma. But in the past an error has been made in allowing Indians to take contiguous allotments. It is thought the best results along the lines of civilization would be obtained by giving the Indians every alternate quarter section, so that white men will take up the intervening tracts. In this way the Indians will be surrounded on every side by white neighbors, will absorb the ideas of the whites, learn their language, and in every way be deprived of continuous association with other Indians.

One fact seems to be generally understood in regard to the education of the Indians, and that is that as long as they are given a school education, but are allowed to go back on the reservation and associate with uneducated members of their tribe, they will gradually, but surely, go back to their old ideas, and their education will have been wasted.

From the white man's point of view, there is an incentive for making allotments of land to the Indians, and opening the residue to settlers. It is said no Indian has need of more than 160 acres of land. Under the allotment system, the white men will be allowed to go in and make some practical use of this vast area of Indian land. It is true much of the reservation land is arid, but the ingress of white settlers will be followed by the construction of irrigating ditches, and in this way, as well, the Indians will be benefited by co-operation.

Wherever it is possible the Indian Bureau is abolishing Indian agencies and placing school superintendents in charge, thus making education paramount. This is the first step towards the final allotment of the lands and the breaking up of reservations. Several such changes were made this past year, and others will follow this season. In each instance the surplus lands will eventually be opened to entry, although the complete change must be wrought gradually. Under the present plan, however, there is no reason why the complete renovation shall not have been effected in the next decade.

Talked on Socialism.

Charles H. Vail, of New Jersey, delivered an address last evening in the tent on East Seventh and East Couch streets, on "The Socialist Party: Its Aims and Purposes." Mr. Vail thinks that socialism, as he interprets it, is the acme of all human reform. He will speak this evening on "The Abolition of Poverty." After leaving Oregon he will deliver addresses in California, Utah and Colorado.
