KEEP PUSHING IT ALONG

OVER $500 MORE ADDED TO FUND FOR SWIMMING BATHS.

Movement Has Struck a Popular Chord and Voluntary Subscriptions Are Now Expected.

Over $500 more was pledged to the proposed free swimming bath yesterday, through the canvass of Edward Holman and L. Samuel. They will now rest for a time and wait for pledges to come in. The movement has struck a popular chord and it may reasonably be expected that many pools of small sums will be made up among wage earners. Their aggregate can not help but be large. George McMillan, the well-known athlete, is arranging a baseball game between employees in the Courthouse and those in the Federal service, every cent to be a clear benefit for the free swimming baths. It will take place as soon as there is an open Sunday at League Park, which is engaged for the two coming Sundays. The baseball club has generously tendered the free use of the grounds for the first open Sunday.

One of the pleasing pledges yesterday was the following, which came by mail unsolicited:

- Portland, July 25.—Messrs. Holman and Samuel, Free-Bath Solicitors, Portland, Or.—Gentlemen: On presentation of this letter, with assurance that a sufficient amount of money has been subscribed to properly equip a free bathroom for the boys, it will be honored for $50. With best wishes for your success, very truly yours,
- MORRIS & WHITEHEAD, Bankers.
By W. H. HULLBURT, Manager.

QUEER LAND DEAL

Different Deeds of Sale as to Pacific County Property.

The queer real estate deal in which Simon Benson, a logger who lives at Sixteenth and East Morrison streets, loaning $500 to James Campbell on 177 acres of land in Pacific County, was investigated yesterday before Municipal Judge Cameron. Benson testified that Campbell then knew he had no title to the land in question, and that Campbell obtained the $500 by false pretenses when he took the money. Evidence was produced showing that James Campbell, the defendant, was the owner of the land up to June, 1893, but that on June 19, 1893, he transferred the property to Patrick and Edward Campbell, his brothers, for a consideration of $1000. It was also shown that Patrick Campbell, who is now dead, transferred his interest for $5 to five members of his family, but not including the defendant. Benson produced a mortgage dated November 15, 1900, by which the defendant transferred the title to the land to witness for $500. The witness stated that he afterward discovered that the defendant had no title to the property, and that the defendant then admitted having sold the land to his brother, on the understanding that they would not place the deed on record. The defendant alleged that his brothers agreed to recognize him as the owner of the land, at any convenient time. There will be a further hearing in the case this afternoon.

REVENUE TAX ON BONDS

Executors, Administrators, Etc., Must Still Affix 50-Cent Stamp.

The following rulings of Commissioner Yerkes, of the Internal Revenue Department, which have just been received by D. M. Dunne, Collector of Internal Revenue, will be of interest to many: Bonds of executors and administrators require stamps under the amended revenue act. The act of March 2, 1901, in amending the act of June 15, 1898, omits the exemption from tax of bonds required in legal proceedings, and re-enacts the provision requiring stamps on bonds for the due execution or performance of the duties of any office or position, and to

FOR FREE SWIMMING BATH.

To Our Fellow-Citizens—In two days we have received pledges for nearly $100 toward the building of the Free Swimming Bath. This is exclusive of our personal subscriptions or the amount received by The Oregonian. As the very generous offer of Mr. Isenore of a house and lot can only be used as a maintenance fund, it leaves the total sum now available in cash from all sources $1500 for the building of the baths. It will require $2500 additional, and this can and ought to be subscribed in one day if every citizen who has not already subscribed will promptly fill out the coupon attached to this and mail to The Oregonian or to either of the undersigned. Please send no checks or money with the coupon, as the baths can probably not be built unless $5000 can be had. The generous sum already subscribed demonstrates that a Free Swimming Bath is wanted in Portland, but it will take very much less of our time if every citizen will act as his own soliciting committee and persuade himself to send in a generous subscription today.

All persons or firms who have asked us to call again are respectfully invited to send us their subscriptions.

account for money received by virtue of the opinion of Commissioner Yerkes, in this legislation indicates the intention of Congress to impose a tax on the bonds of executors and administrators and it is therefore ruled that the bonds of executors and administrators each require a 50-cent stamp if delivered on or after July 1, 1901.

Other bonds used in legal proceedings, such as prosecution bonds, injunction bonds, bonds upon appeal or writ of error, bonds for costs and bonds given in claim and delivery actions for property are not taxable.

EARLY OREGON PRESSES.

Old Wells Machine Still in Use in Junction City.

PORTLAND, July 25.—(To the Editor.)—From data collected by the writer, but overlooked by him in the preparation of an article on early printing in Portland, published recently, the following information is offered: The press referred to in that article as "Wells' press," and which is now in the office of the Junction City Times, was sent with a complete newspaper dress by a number of Episcopal Sunday school in Massachusetts and Rhode Island to Bishop Scott, the first missionary bishop of Oregon, as the result of a suggestion by Rev. George M. Randall, D. D., of Boston. The outfit arrived in Oregon early in 1859. Soon after the press was secured by S. A. English & Co., and used to print the Portland Daily News, the first daily in this city. The first issue of which was on April 20, 1859. When the paper collapsed, about a year later, it is believed, the press was stored with Couch & Flanders. In September, 1861, Bishop Scott arranged with D. W. Craig, then at Oregon City printing the Argus, to print the Oregon Churchman, and caused the newspaper dress above referred to to be placed in his custody. Mr. Craig, having a press of his own, the plant of The Oregon Spectator, had no use for the other press, consequently it remained in storage for a number of years. Finally, late in the '60s, or perhaps early in the '70s, at the suggestion of Mr. Craig, it was bought by J. H. Upton and used in printing the La Fayette Courier, in Yamhill County. It lacked a little of being large enough to serve Mr. Upton's purpose, hence he had the platen shipped to Salem, where B. F. Drake added five-eighths of an inch to each end of the platen, which addition to the original size made it sufficiently large to fill all requirements. The data is not at hand at present to trace the changes in ownership up to the present date. The Spectator, for press, which was brought to Oregon in 1846, before referred to, and upon which Oregon City Argus was printed during its life, was removed to Salem, and later on, through an exchange, was sent to Eugene, and for about 25 years has been used by Harrison E. Kincaid in printing the State Journal.

SOLDIERS ARRIVE.

One Company of 62 Go to Fort Canby—Others to Puget Sound.

About 300 soldiers arrived from San Francisco last evening, en route to various points on the Northwest Coast. A company of 71 men and two officers of the Thirty-second Artillery were bound for Fort Lawton, on Puget Sound. A company of the Thirty-third, consisting of 62 men and two officers, were on their way to Fort Canby, at the mouth of the Columbia, where they will remain until Fort Columbia, on the Washington side, is ready for their reception.

It's Coming.

Consult the weather prophets; they will tell you, and they ought to know, that the hot wave now hanging over Missouri and Kansas is likely to move west at any time, and it is now expected will reach this part of the country next week. Take warning in time and get away to the coast, where oppressive heat has never been known. The expense is trifling, and the transportation facilities for reaching the seashore are the very best. The O. R. & N. Co.'s city ticket office is located at corner of Third and Washington streets, where tickets and full particulars may be obtained.

Change in Leaving Time.

The O. R. & N. Co.'s steamer T. J. Potter will leave Ash-street dock Saturday, July 27, at 1:15 P. M., instead of 1:45 P. M., as previously announced.

Horticultural Society Meeting. NEWBERG, July 25.—The Oregon State Horticultural Society will hold its mid-summer meeting at Newberg, August 8 and 10, beginning with the evening of the 8th. This promises to be the most important meeting held by the society in recent years. Newberg is one of the leading horticultural centers of the State, and a good local attendance is assured. The programme will consist of papers and discussion by leading Oregon orchardists, together with a talk by Professor L. H. Bailey, of Cornell University. His part of the programme is expected to be the feature of the meeting. Professor Bailey is the leading American authority on horticultural matters and a most entertaining speaker.

Among the Oregon men who will participate in the work of the meeting will be "Hood River" Smith, of apple fame; Editor H. M. Williamson; Hon. E. Hofer, the strawberry enthusiast of Salem; J. D. Otwell, the Southern Oregon apple king; C. H. Welch, the Mount Tabor small fruit specialist; Professors Cordley and Knisely, of the Oregon Agricultural College.

A Day on the Columbia. Take the Chicago Special from Grand Central depot at 9 A. M. to Cascade Locks, and return by steamer, arriving in Portland at 4:30 P. M.
