TO INSPECT SEWER WORK

J. C. MILLER GIVEN CHARGE OF BEECH-STREET CONTRACT.

North Front Street in Bad Shape and May Have to be Closed to Team Travel.

J. C. Miller, of Albina district, was appointed inspector of construction on the Beech street sewer by the Board of Public Works yesterday. The appointment was made at the suggestion of property owners along the line of the sewer. Mr. Miller's business will be to report to City Engineer Chase any discrepancy in material or specifications.

North Front Street in Bad Shape.

City Engineer Chase reported North Front street, between Fourteenth and Seventeenth, in impassable condition. The planking of the elevated roadway is nearly worn out, and the heavy traffic of the big lumber mills is constantly wearing holes in the decking, making travel dangerous. The board authorized Mr. Chase to make $50 worth of repairs and the property owners agreed to put the thoroughfare in good condition. If this is not done within a reasonable time Front street between Fourteenth and Seventeenth will be closed to team travel.

Contracts Awarded.

The Jacobson-Bade Company was awarded the contract for constructing a sewer on East Morrison street, for $8000. The same firm was awarded the contract for the East Alder-street sewer, at $8750.

The bid of the Northwest Gun & Bicycle Company for furnishing dog tags for 1901-2 was accepted. Tags, to the number of 3000, are to be delivered for $65, which the board considers more reasonable than any previous proposal. The committee on streets, sidewalks and elevated roads asked for more time to consider the Stark-street wharf proposal. A contracting firm has offered to build a wharf at the foot of Stark street, free of charge to the city, on condition that the firm is permitted to use it.

WILL MEET IN DENVER.

American Bar Association to Come West This Year.

The annual meeting of the American Bar Association will be held at Denver, Colo., on the 21st, 22d and 23d of August. This is the first time one of these meetings has been held west of the Mississippi, and the event is considered an important one by the bench and bar of the Western States. The lawyers of Oregon have been slow to avail themselves of the advantages of the association, there being fewer members from this state than from any other state in the Union. This is probably due not so much to the lack of professional spirit as to the fact that the opportunity to join the association has never been presented. Judge Deady was for a long time the only member from this state, and L. B. Cox was during the later years of his life an active member. Charles H. Carey, who is vice-president at this time, is perhaps the sole member from this state. The secretary of the joint committee of the Denver Bar Association and the Colorado Bar Association has written a cordial invitation to the Oregon lawyers to increase their membership and to attend the Denver meeting. Among other attractions offered is an excursion to be given by the Colorado lawyers to the members of the association and the women accompanying them, which will include Cripple Creek, Glenwood Springs, Leadville, Marshall Pass and Colorado Springs. No doubt every effort will be made to make this meeting as memorable one. The annual dinner will be given at the Brown Palace Hotel on the evening of August 23. The association has requested the local government to hold its meetings at Saratoga, N. Y. The Denver meeting will draw many of the most eminent lawyers of the United States, and it is likely that representative lawyers of Oregon will attend.

POLITICS IN KENTUCKY.

Visiting Minister Gives His Views on the Negro and Other Subjects.

Rev. W. T. Harvey, of Louisville, Kentucky, who with his family, is at the Portland, thinks the Federal Government has been guilty of neglect of its citizens in his state, by permitting one class to obtain control of the local government by fraud. "At the last state election," Mr. Harvey said yesterday, "the Democrats threw out 30,000 Republican votes, and thus counted the returns for themselves. Under the Goebel law two Democratic judges were appointed in each precinct, against one Republican, and the throwing out of a few votes at each of the various polling places made the fraud quite easy. The Republicans were powerless in the matter, and President McKinley should have stepped in and prevented the fraud."

"The negro question is a serious one in Kentucky, and I don't know how it can be settled. The negroes are, as a rule, ignorant when left to themselves, but their ignorance is therefore renders them an easy prey to designing white men, and they are to a considerable extent purchasable and liable to intimidation. The negro vote amounts to about one-fifth of the whole, but it has been virtually nullified for several years past. We do not object to negro disfranchisement, but think the negro vote should be taken from Kentucky in the electoral college should be cut down to the proper proportion."

"The negro is by no means so well off as he is in slavery, as he now has to work at low wages, and when he falls sick, has to shift for himself. Negroes do not take well to education, and very few of them are given to accumulating property. The negro is therefore renders them an easy prey to designing white men, and they are to a considerable extent purchasable and liable to intimidation. The negro vote amounts to about one-fifth of the whole, but it has been virtually nullified for several years past. We do not object to negro disfranchisement, but think the negro vote should be taken from Kentucky in the electoral college should be cut down to the proper proportion."

TO ADD MANUAL TRAINING

Y. M. C. A. TAKES IN MR. STANDLEY'S EDUCATIONAL WORK.

Room Will be Provided for 200 to 300 Students, and It Will be Ample Equipped.

Arrangements were practically completed yesterday by which the Portland Manual Training School, located at 602 Washington street, will form part of the new educational system of the Young Men's Christian Association, made possible by the new association building under construction, which is expected to be ready about the first week of October. The deal will be formally ratified, it is expected, at a meeting of the directors of the Portland Manual Training School to be held this week. Principal William J. Standley, who has been the instructor of the Manual Training School for some time, has been on the outlook for larger quarters for carrying on the general purpose of the school on a larger scale, to perfect the work of the 50 students getting instruction there. Roomy apartments and better and more modern machinery were considered indispensable before better results could be obtained. The school has been a successful one, backed as it is by representative workers and educators like Mrs. H. E. Jones, the president, Mrs. R. Livingston, H. C. Campbell, H. W. Hogue, Samuel Mears and others. The students this past season have included men and women, boys and girls. The directors of the Young Men's Christian Association were approached to increase their membership and to attend the Denver meeting. Among other attractions offered is an excursion to be given by the Colorado lawyers to the members of the association and the women accompanying them, which will include Cripple Creek, Glenwood Springs, Leadville, Marshall Pass and Colorado Springs. No doubt every effort will be made to make this meeting as memorable one. The annual dinner will be given at the Brown Palace Hotel on the evening of August 23. The association has requested the local government to hold its meetings at Saratoga, N. Y. The Denver meeting will draw many of the most eminent lawyers of the United States, and it is likely that representative lawyers of Oregon will attend.

available, we do not hesitate, when protest is no longer possible, to adjust our best endeavors, so far as men will use the amelioration of their condition when they begin. Today is "Farmers' day" and a large attendance is expected. Dr. James Whitney, vice-director of the Corvallis College, and Professor Cordley, of the same college, will speak on agricultural topics. Hon. J. D. Lee, of Salem, is expected to deliver an address. A letter of regret was received from Department Commander J. A. Sladen, who wished the reunion success. Mr. Sladen, who promised to deliver an address Thursday morning, has been compelled to cancel the engagement on account of pressing business.

PEACH PLUMS NOT IN FAVOR

Orchards Likely to Disappear—Cherries Very Profitable.

The peach plum was thought to be a fine fruit a few years ago, and many orchards of these trees were planted. They have not proved so profitable, but they are remunerative, and today there are but few of these plums seen in the markets, and there is less demand for them than for any other fruit. As an orchardist says, "they don't amount to much." When picked green they can be shipped, but seldom command a good price. When dead ripe they are very good for eating from the tree, but they are not so good for cooking, for the longer they are cooked the sourer they get. They appear, either by being grafted or cut down.

The cherry crop has been the most profitable to fruit-raisers this season. One small farmer sold from a 1 1/2-acre plot of Royal Anne trees five tons for which he received 4 cents per pound, $80 per ton, or $400 for the whole, the cannery furnishing boxes and taking the cherries from the orchard. This is a fair sample of what large growers made from their orchards. Those who sold their Royal Annes to be made into Maraschino cherries received five cents per pound, but they say the extra profit had to be taken in picking and shipping. As there is every probability that Royal Anne cherries will command a good price this season, growers are advised to get them out next year.

NOT A BABY WHALE.

Porpoise Attracts the Attention of Crowds on Third Street.

The fact that nearly everybody takes an interest in natural history was demonstrated yesterday by numbers of people who stopped to examine a fish exposed in front of a Third-street gun store, and labeled "baby whale." Comparatively few persons have ever seen a whale—at least near enough to see what it looked like. It is a small porpoise, which is not larger than a large chinook salmon, being a young whale. Much discussion in regard to its identity was indulged in by the spectators, but few really knew what it is. ### WOMAN'S INTEREST IN WAR

Mrs. Dunlavy's Address to G. A. R. at Pleasant Home.

The 16th annual encampment and reunion at Pleasant Home, under the auspices of M. A. Ross Post, G. A. R., and the Woman's Relief Corps, opened yesterday. Brief exercises were held in the morning. Henry Kane, Commander of the post, acted as president. Rev. J. A. Hollerott delivered a short address of welcome in the name of the post. Rev. M. L. Hardingham, responding, complimented the post and relief corps for the success of the previous reunions, and expressed the hope for another success. The morning exercises closed with music. Mrs. Abigail Scott Dunsen, of Portland, arrived at 12 o'clock, and was received by the women of the Relief Corps. After dinner an audience of about 600 gathered around the speakers' stand, to which Mrs. Dunlavy was escorted. Rev. J. A. Hardingham had charge of the programme. After instrumental music by "Grace Palmer and a recitation by Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Dunlavy was introduced and held the attention of the audience closely for nearly two hours on "What War Means to Women." She said in part: "When we read the pages of history, reeking as they do with details of carnage and devastation, we are so deeply impressed with the horror of it all that we have no need to be reminded that man is a fighting animal. Yet, when seen at his best, as you always see him, when the women he most respects and reveres are present, we are glad to note not only the total subjection of the antagonistic spirit within him that engenders war, but the active presence of that protecting chivalry and innate patriotism which so arouse our admiration in times of peace that, much as we shrink from the idea of carnage so long as it does not seem in-

RUHLIN-ACTON MATCH OFF

BIG PUGILIST AND EX-CHAMPION WILL NOT WRESTLE.

When Billy Madden Found the Contest Could Not Be Held at Multnomah Club He Said, "No."

The Ruhlín-Acton wrestling match is Billy Madden gave out this information last evening. The agreement had been made to have the match at the Multnomah Club, but when this arrangement fell through, on consultation with Ruhlín it was decided to call the match off, as neither he nor Madden saw any likelihood of the match turning out a money-maker for the wrestlers, unless it was held under the auspices of the Multnomah Club. The announcement that the former champion wrestler of the world, Joe Acton, the "Little Demon," was going on the mat to pit his experience and wrestling skill against the weight and strength of Gus Ruhlín, who threw Fitzsimmons, had received with great interest by local sportsmen, and a good attendance had been assured from the start. Joe Acton will probably be disappointed. He is down at Newport trudging over sand-hills and plunging in the surf to get in shape for the bout. His wrestling pugilist at the Multnomah Club say that he is always in good condition, with his muscles as hard as iron. Ruhlín is also disappointed that the match has fallen through, as he has remained in Portland a week with the hope of completing the arrangements and opening up training quarters. Sharkey's latest outburst that he is going to Jeffries and will incidentally squelch Ruhlín's aspirations for the championship, amused Billy Madden. "We are in the business to take on Ruhlín," he said, "and we shall see our match with Jeffries." And the fighters continue to talk back and fight at long range.

WILL HELP 1905 FAIR

RIVERS AND HARBORS BILL AT LONG SESSION OF CONGRESS.

Hoped to Finish Columbia River Improvements in Time for the Coming Exposition.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The reports of the engineers on the progress of river and harbor improvements have all been received, and the estimates made given to the public. Of course, it is not likely that all the recommendations of the engineers will be adopted by Congress, and it is true that small and unimportant matters ought to be wiped out and the big projects, which are of benefit to commerce all over the United States, carried out in accordance with the recommendations of the engineers. If these big projects were put into a separate river and harbor committee, there is no doubt that the fellows would fight it, but at the same time, a meritorious river and harbor bill would not be killed to death. There will be a river and harbor bill in the coming session of Congress, and it has been developed further that if such a bill is to be passed every two years, it must be passed in the long session, when it can receive due consideration. For two years it has been delayed to the short session, in order to defeat the Nicaragua Canal project, as it was believed that this was the only way legislation for the Nicaragua Canal, engrafted on the river and harbor bill, could be defeated. To the people of Oregon, and of Portland in particular, the prospect of the passage of the river and harbor bill should be very welcome news. It means that the project for a sufficient channel at the mouth of the Columbia and a 2-foot channel to Portland will be included. While these improvements are sure to come, it is important that they should become a law in 1902, for this means that the improvements on the Columbia and other rivers, and merchant ships can appear in the harbor of Portland during the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition of 1905. Heretofore, when efforts have been made to have ships participate in some of these exercises, the Navy has made the excuse that there was not sufficient water, but before 1905, with the improvements so strenuously urged by Captain Langhitt and heartily approved by the Engineers' Department in Washington, and for that matter by every member of the river and harbor committee, there is no doubt that a sufficient depth of water to float big battleships will be maintained in the Columbia when the exposition is held.

DIED ON A SCAFFOLDING.

Plasterer McLeod Attacked by Heart Disease While at Work.

James McLeod, a plasterer, 35 years old, recently from San Francisco, dropped dead yesterday morning while working on the building being erected for C. A. Droph on Seventh street near Alder. The autopsy showed that the cause of death was heart disease and Bright's disease. The evidence of the coroner's inquest was that McLeod worked in this city as a plasterer about 16 years ago and that he returned from San Francisco last week. When he began plastering a room yesterday morning he was carried by the floor, a distance of about six feet, it was seen that he was dead. There were electric light wires where McLeod had worked, but the current was not on. David Henderson testified that he had known McLeod work in 40 years, and that the dead man had been a member of the Portland Caledonian Club, the Ancient Order of United Workmen and a Mason. McLeod was a widower and had a family of five children. He was in California. He boarded at the Columbia Hotel.

Logan Berry Named for Judge Logan

PORTLAND, July 30.—(To the Editor.)—Your issue of today contained an illustration of the Logan Berry, and in the description thereof it was stated that Mr. Magoon was the originator of the berry. I wish to take issue as to that, for Judge Logan berry has its origin with the person of Judge Logan, of Santa Cruz, Cal. During a recent sojourn in Santa Cruz my attention was particularly called to this berry as being of such fine flavor and so large. Judge Logan, the proprietor of the Riverside Hotel and grounds (at which place I stopped), had large patches of this berry and supplies the market with it. He has been informed me that Judge Logan was the originator of the berry, and hence its name. Judge Logan could have made a large sum of money by it had he so wished, but he was liberal spirited and gave the secret to the world without any recompense.

Injured in Runaway.

ROSEBURG, July 29.—R. B. Matthews' horse ran away down a steep hill this morning, throwing out Matthews and his aged mother, the latter striking against a building, suffering severe bruises on the head and face, breaking her collar bone and three ribs, and injuring her left shoulder. Matthews escaped harm but the buggy was wrecked.
