HE STILL IMPROVES
President McKinley Passed Another Good Day.

NO UNFAVORABLE SYMPTOMS

President Roosevelt's attendance was determined by the President's doctor for the morning, and all who have been at the White House during the morning have reported that the President's condition is steadily improving. President Roosevelt called at the White House just after breakfast. At about 7:15 a.m. President Roosevelt drove to the extensive exercises in the Park, and all his attendants have reported that the President has made a good night and that he is now in excellent condition.

President Roosevelt's visit to the Park was exceptional, as it is not often that he has been allowed to make any exercise during the holiday season. The President's condition is steady and he is in the best condition for the day's work. The President's doctor, Dr. James Hall, has been in attendance throughout the day, and has reported that the President's condition is steadily improving.
