HEAVY FIRE AT GRESHAM

ENTIRE BUSINESS PORTION OF THE TOWN DESTROYED.

Total Loss Over $22,000-Blaze Started in D. W. Metsger's Store and Spread in Both Directions.

GRESHAM, Or. Oct. 1.-Nearly the entire business portion of Gresham, the most thriving town in the Eastern part of Multnomah County, was destroyed by fire this morning. Shortly after 5 o'clock the store of D. W. Metzgar was seen to be on fire by some men, who were pass-ing by, and who gave the alarm. Flames were coming out of the rear windows of the second story of the building, and be-fore Mr. Metagar could be found the en-tire structure was burning fiercely on the inside, with the blaze coming out of the roof. When Mr. Metzgar arrived he tried to go into the store by the front door, in order to save his books, but was driven back by the heat, and every-thing was totally consumed.

this time the whole town was up By this time the whole town was up and ready to help fight the fire, which was seen to be spreading in both directions. Shattuck Bros.' merchandise store, on the east, was the first to catch from Metzgar's building, and then another on the west, occupied by Paul Fisher as a bicycle shop. The three buildings were soon a mass of flames, and it was thought for awhile that they would be the only ones to go.

A strong east wind was blowing, however, and the great heat was soon driven across the street and along under the bridge which crosses a guich over Main street. It took hold of the new gristmill, which was put in operation only last week, and then spread to the butcher shop owned by Fred Metzgar. The two buildings were soon destroyed, as were the three across the street. Meanwhile the fire had run westward, and was soon blazing fiercely in the row across the bridge. Here were Wirtz' bar-ber shop, Regner's harness store, a barn belonging to the hotel property and a blacksmith shop owned by John Metz-gar, but occupied by Theodore Wirts. They were all burned out completely in

The build-ing owned and occupied by John Metzgar, Fred Metagar's saloon building, Mrs. Lindeman's store building, occupied by W. S. Gordon, and the residence of Post mistress McCall were badly scorched. The roofs of several other buildings were on fire at times, and for awhile it was feared the new schoolhouse would be in danger, but a row of green trees at Fred Metzgar's building aided by a small hose from a water tower checked the flames from getting into the next row of buildings westward.

All the goods in John Metzgar's store were moved into the street, as was the postoffice belongings in the same building. Furniture was taken out of several residences, and some of the goods in Shattuck Bros.' store as well as several of the other business places were moved to a place of safety before the flames grew too hot for the workers, who were their utmost, to save all they

The Pacific States Telephone Company maintains a central station in the Shattuck building. The instruments and switchboard, together with several blocks of lines, were destroyed and all comeation cut off in every direction. The Bull Run pipe line crossing the guich was in danger for a short time, as the jacket covering the pipe was on fire. A large section of the burning lumber was torn off, but the trestle under the pipe was not injured.

By 8 o'clock the flames were under control, al-though the smoldering embers threatened trouble nearly all day. A telephone mes-sage was sent to the County Commis-sioners from the Twelve-Mile House, no-tifying them of the destruction of the bridge, which belonged to the county, and asking for assistance. After consid-erable delay a steam fire engine was started off by special train to Fairview, but its services were not needed, as there was nothing for it to do after the bridge had been destroyed.

The burned-out people will rebuild as soon as possible, sithough much difficulty will be met with in securing carpenters and other help. The calamity came at a bad season of the year, as the stores had stocked up heavily in anticipation of Winter and were all doing a rushing business. Some of them will open in other places for a few weeks. Shattuck Bros. will fix up the cheese factory tem-porarily, while some of the others will occupy small spaces in other buildings intil they can rebuild.

D. W. Metzgar's new mill had just commenced operations, and contained about $500 worth of grain, belonging to farmers of the vicinity, who had brought If there to be ground.

A large business was done by the stores in feed products, the loss of which will be a hardship to the dairy interests of the

HELP SENT FROM PORTLAND.

Chief Campbell Sent an Engine and Crew to Gresham.

Early yesterday morning Chief Camp-bell, of the Portland fire department, was an communication with the citizens of Gresham, and agreed to send an engine to help subdue the flames, if arrange-ments were made for its transportation. The chief would not let the regular fire orses attempt to pull the heavy engine to Gresham, as was at first suggested because of the danger to the animals, which are accustomed to short runs at top speed. A 12-mile run, in his opinion, ald have injured them beyond possible

Shortly after II o'clock word was received that the fire was under control, unwould threaten the rest of the town Chief Campbell was informed that a cial train had been arranged for by citizens, and was asked to send help. He immediately ordered engine No. 7, in charge of District Engineer L. G. Holden of the East Side, and the crew of the engine, to proceed on the special to Fair-view, from which point the apparatus was to be taken to Gresham by horses to be furnished by the citizens. The members of the crew were: Warren Smith, foreman; George Stewart, engineer; Sam Penny, Dan Penny, Andy Powell, Fred Robinson and James McGrew.

The engine and tender were loaded on a flatoar, and the special, in charge of Conductor Wieden, left East Portland at 12:55, having been delayed by an incoming passenger train. A quick run was made to Fairview, where horses were waiting to take the engine and hose wagon to the burning town. When the engine arrived there was little work to do, the flames having been under control for several hours. However, the bridge adjoining the Shattuck store was on fire, and this was soon extinguished. The hose was then played on the ruins until they were thor-oughly wet down and all trace of the flames were gone. The return trip to the city was made leisurely by the road, the men leaving at 6:30 and arriving at the engine-house four hours later. The firemen were splendidly treated in Gresham, and Mrs. Edward Slaret provided a substantial lunch for them before they returned.

Sunday morning a drove of cattle passed over it and caused one side to settle between Union avenue and East Third street about one foot on the north side. Proper Way to Make a Nourishing

Food for the Sick. third demonstration given by Mrs. Miller at the Carnival cooking school took place yesterday afternoon, the subject be-ing "soups and soup stocks." After telling what and what not to put into the "catch-all," she explained the structure of meat, showing that its juices, the most precious constituent of soup stock, are very similar to the white of an egg, and are acted upon by heat in precisely the same way. If this albuminous juice is allowed to reach the boiling point, 212 degrees Fahrenhelt, it becomes tough, horny, and hard to digest. It is therefore of the utmost importance that it should not be permitted to boil, but should merely simmer at 160 degrees. This is the temperature at which both the juice of the meat and the white of an egg is most

The laws of diffusion and of osmosis were then explained in a few simple words, and it was shown that by the ac tion of these laws the juices were drawn through the membrane, out of the meat, when immersed in water, and when sub-jected to the proper degree of heat. If the heat was too great (i. e., at the boiling point), then the julces were cooked, be-coming solid instead of liquid, making it impossible for them to be drawn out through the membrane, as could have been done in their liquid form. The larger the surface exposed (i. e., the more the meat is cut into pieces), the more quickly the juices are drawn out into the water. Again, the greater the difference in dens ity between the two fluids (the water and the meat juices), the more easily osmosis results. Therefore, no salt should be put into the water, since this would increase its density, and make the two fluids mor nearly alike. Five hours-unless the meat has been put through a chopper-should be the limit of time for the meat to simmer. A longer time than this will perhaps extract more gelatine, but will impair the flavor. The stock should be liquid, not thick like gelatine. The more quickly it cools, the more nutritious it is, and the longer it will keep. Soup stock in warm weather should be scalded thoroughly (to the boiling point) every day. Only lean meat should be used for making soup stock. It is of the greatest importance in making a mixed soup to have only such in-gredients as will blend perfectly. A per-son cannot then detect the taste of any one of them, yet the result is delicious, are some beautiful specimens of orange quinces, raised by M. J. Leed and Mrs. H. L. Pittock, of Portland. If the soup is a heavy one, then a little acid, such as lemon juice, River is not largely represented as yet. Hood River apples are late, but the grow-ers may soon make a showing that will outshine their neighbors from Milton, who is a very desirable addition to it.

The stock had been made the day before in order that all the grease that rose to the top might be removed. Following are the Spring vegetable soup—Half pint green peas, two shredded lettuce heads, one onion, one or two sprigs of parsley, one pint of water, 1½ quarts of soup stock, two ounces butter, yolks three eggs, a pinch of sugar.

Both the onion and the sugar are pu in to develop the flavor; neither should be perceptible to the taste. As the eggs, when broken, proved not to be as fresh as desirable, they were omitted, and thick-ening (one teaspoon of flour and one of butter) was used instead.

Tomato soup—Soup stock; add to this an equal amount of tomato juice (cooked and strained); salt, and a pinch or two of sugar;

Mrs. Miller deprecated the use of black pepper, saying that it combined well with only a very few things, one of these being "picked-up codfish"; this really needed the black pepper. Green pepper is the best of all, but can be obtained only in Sum-mer. The tomatoes should not be cooked . Hall any longer than necessary, as this im-paired both the flavor and the color. If a brighter soup is desired, more tomatoes may be added, the proportion adjusted to suit the wishes of the cook. Triangular "American Patrol" Meachum

As the soup becomes heated to the bolling point, the egg hardens and catches in its meshes all stray particles that rise to the top, leaving it perfectly clear after straining. In this case the nutriment in the soup is sacrificed to appearances. A little lemon juice may be added, if desired.

The promoters of this movement met yesterday afternoon and decided to start the ball rolling at the earliest possible time. The mat-ter has been under consideration for several months, and a considerable number of influential property-owners and resi-dents have expressed their approval of such an organization. They have felt that it could do a great deal for the East Side in the way of promoting the filling of streets west of Union avenue and getof streets west of chion avenue and get-ting a suitable driveway and promoting improvements of every sort. No imprac-tical schemes will be undertaken, and everything will be reasonable and pro-gressive. The movement has received the indorsement of a number of prominent residents and they have signified their intention of supporting and encouraging it in every way possible.
