TROOPS DID NOT SURROUND MISS STONE'S CAPTORS.

Further Activity Would Have Resulted in Her Murder-She Is Still Alive.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 14.-It transpires that the Turkish commander had completed plans to surround Miss Stone's captors at noon last Saturday. Spencer Eddy secretary of the United States Legation, received further advice that further activity would result in the death of Miss Stone, and at 3 o'clock Saturday morning he preceded to the residence of the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Tewfik Pasha, and demanded the immediate re-tirement of the Turkish troops. This was carried out, and the Bulgarian forces fol lowed suit. NEW YORK, Oct. 14.-In explanation of the statements of some of the London deflies concerning the war in South Af-rica, the London correspondent of the Tribune cables as follows:

"The Standard thinks the British troops have a good chance of capturing Gen-eral Botha. Very little is known here in regard to the movements of the Boet Commander-General since the failure of his actempt on the Natal frontier. His wagons, with an escort, under Groebelaar, have been detached and sent eastward Botha, with his main body, marched in the same direction for some time, only to find that his retreat was being cut off by one of the British columns, which was apparently moving parallel with him. He then marched due north to within a few miles of Piet Retief, where he is believed to have halted in a difficult and perilous position. He cannot break backward toward Zululand or the Natal frontier with throwing himself right into the arms of his pursuers. If he goes north he will touch Swazliand, and will get into trouble with the warlike natives. He may pos-sibly drift away toward the west and find a temporary refuse in the passes of the Elandsberg. On the whole, the Standard considers that the Transvanl Army is in a tight corner. The Dail News, on the other hand, takes the view that General Botha has gotten clear away."

Case Affecting Russian Military.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 14.-An ineresting case affecting the military has just been reported here, and is causing considerable comment in the Russian pa pers. April 30, Lieutenant Klykoff, of the Thirty-seventh Dragoons, and a certain nobleman, Malinkoffsky, had an exchange of words in the local zoological garden. Lieutenant Klykoff placed his hand or Malinkoffsky to desist from addressing him. Malinkoffsky did not at once obey and the Lieutenant drew his weapon, and after a scuiffe fired three times. To this the Novoe Vremya replies that it would be better to permit officers to wear civil clothing when off military duty.

Will Be Great Distress in Russia. ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 14.-It can ow be foreseen that the widespread crop failures, the consequent famine and the relief work of the government and of philanthropists will be engrossing subjects in this empire during the approaching Winter. The word famine is not used in the official publications, which speak of famine-stricken districts as "places that are in an unfavorable condition as respects the harvest," but the facts that are freely admitted show that the struggle to keep the peasant population alive until a new harvest will be harder than has been known since 1891-2. The extent of the disaster can be vaguely surmised from an inspection of the government report, which names the Province of Viatka as among those where there was an "insuffi-cient harvest," and which gives the amount of governmental assistance required at 782,000 poods of rye.

Resolutions to that effect were adopted, and discussion was resumed of the resolution to call Dr. H. K. Schmidt, who for 30 years had been in charge of the India work. Dr. Shaffer opposed the resolution, holding it to be an injustice to Dr. Schmidt, who should be heard from before anything was done. The question had not reached a vote at the noon hour.
