NIGHTINGALES ON THE WAY.—Some months ago a number of citizens of Portland subscribed a purse to send to Germany to purchase nightingales. Word has been received here that the birds, 45 pairs of them, of the blackheaded and plain varieties, will arrive in a few days. With them will arrive a supply of ants' eggs and meal worms, which are said to be the natural food of the nightingales, though no one knows how on earth such tiny birds dig up ant hills for the eggs or break into meal bins to catch meal worms. The venture was the idea of a conservatory in Riverview cemetery for the winter, and when the ants begin to lay and the meal worms to hatch broods in the spring, they will be turned loose. It is intended to import a lot of mocking birds and cardinal birds from the East and South next spring. They will be only a few days on the way, and will be turned out by some one who arrives, and so should be in good condition. Oregon has been known as the land of big apples and red-checked girls, and of late has been a land flowing with milk and butter, and now it is to be the land of the nightingale. The birds will be sold by the dozen, and the air will be filled with their song.

NO LONGER RIDES WITH HARMS AND HOUSES.—Roscoe F. Oakes, a well-known society young man, is easily misled from the meetings of the Portland Hunt Club. It will be remembered that while living up to the form he had learned in the club by riding a bucking cayuse with pad saddle, he sustained a broken leg several months ago. He had so far recovered a few weeks ago as to be able to go out on the road and attend to business, but he was not able to take part in the delights of the paper chasing season. For some time, his injured limb being far from sound yet. Hereafter when he rides with the club he will use a pad saddle, but when he is on business a peck saddle will suit him best.

BRIDGE CLOSED AT MIDNIGHT.—The Morrison-street bridge will be closed tonight at 12 o'clock, to allow workmen to place a new pivot on the bridge. The City and Suburban Railway Company will arrange to accommodate passengers by transferring them over other bridges. As business is light on Sunday morning, there will be no serious inconvenience.

CEMENT WALKS FINISHED.—Contractor D. Canuto has finished the laying of cement sidewalks around the plaza blocks. Experts say that the job is a first-class one, and that the new sidewalks will last for 100 years. If this be true, cement walks which cost 10 to 12 cents per foot are cheaper than wood. The cement walks laid inside of the plaza blocks eight years ago show no signs of wear, and others in the city 15 to 20 years old, which were properly put down, are almost as good as new.

CONTRACT FOR HAY AND OATS.—The Government contracted yesterday for 100 tons of oats and 1000 tons of hay for shipment to the Philippines. Awards were made at 2:30 o'clock at the Quartermaster's office. They were as follows: Five hundred tons oats, Balfour, Guthrie & Co., $1.03 1/2 per cent; 500 tons oats, G. W. Simpson, $1.04 per cent; 500 tons oats, Albers & Schneider, $1.04 per cent; 1000 tons hay, 55, 75 and 65 cubic feet to the ton, $11.00 to 90 per cent.

ALL FIXED LIGHTLY.—A larger array of drunks than of any other before, Judge Cameron yesterday, some of them having been sent in by the police the evening before. They all pleaded guilty, but as some were aggravated cases they were mostly let off with a $2 fine. Two soldiers from Vancouver were in the crowd, and these were let off lightly, the Judge saying: "You'll be punished enough when you reach Vancouver for being absent beyond your time."

COLUMBIA RIVER SCENERY.—The Regulator line is making special daily trips for the benefit of our Carnival visitors, leaving Oak street at 7 A. M. for the Dalles, round trip $2; Cascade and return, $1; or you can take the O. R. & N. train at 9 A. M. for Cascade Locks and return by steamer Dalles City or Regulator; round trip $2. Special trip Sunday to Cascade Locks and return, by Dalles City and Regulator, leaving Oak street at 7 A. M.

RUMMAGE SALE.—The rummage sale given by the ladies' auxiliary of the Congregation Ahluwah, for the benefit of the Sabbath school, will open on Monday, October 22, at 2 P. M., at the corner street, Sixth and Alder streets. Any donations should be brought to the committee in charge at the store, Phone West 133.

SUGGESTS BLOODHOUNDS.—A fly detector has devised a scheme for catching the ubiquitous house fly by means of a pair of trained bloodhounds, which look like ordinary hounds, and whenever the hold-up man is seen in any part of the city these hounds will be put on his trail. The result can be imagined.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.—Members are requested to be present tonight to hear Mr. Herdman's first lecture on "The Development of the English Drama," and to receive directions as to plan of study. A short business session will be held after close of lecture. The treasurer will be present to receive payment of dues.

ATTENTION, SCHOOL CHILDREN.—Professor Krohn directs that all the children who participated in the drills at the Exposition last night shall report today at 2:30 P. M. at the Multnomah Athletic clubhouse, to take part in drills on Multnomah field, and pose for the moving picture photographer.

OREGON CRYSTAL TRIPS.—A short ride full of delightful interest. Running through the Clackamas Rapids is like shooting the chutes. Boat leaves Taylor street daily and Sunday at 9 A. M., 1 and 2 P. M. Round-trip tickets $2.50.

A VERY SWELL LUNCH will be served at the Hotel Cass today from 11 A. M. to 1:30 P. M. and 5:30 P. M. to 1 A. M. Three lunches will be continued from now on. Call and see us. At Sears and Scott Morris.

FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, pastor, Huber Ferguson. Sermon topics, 11 A. M., "Saving Power of Sabbath Schools"; 2:30 P. M., "Peter, Weeping"; 7:30 P. M., "The Power of the Cross." The Rev. E. P. M. Peterson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, received word from the contractors that the Vancouver bridge will be open this afternoon.

BASEBALL.—PORTLAND VS. TACOMA. GAMES COMMENCE AT 2:30.

300-YARD SPRINT BETWEEN PLAYERS. BASE-RUNNING PRIOR TO GAME.

MISTOOK PEPPERS FOR CHERRIES.—There are many varieties of red peppers, or chili peppers, in the market, of many shades and sizes. They are all "hot" if the tongue, but some are hotter than others. One variety, resembling a cherry in appearance, and are called cherry peppers, and are hotter than all the others; in fact, no thermometer can go high enough to show their hotness. A box of these peppers was displayed in front of a commission store on Front street yesterday, the top layer packed with the stems down, so that even an Oregonian might have taken, or rather mistaken, them for Royal Anne cherries. A passer-by stopped to ask the price of the "cherries." He was told $1.50 per box. He asked how much expressage would be to his home in Kansas, and was told 50 cents. He plunked down $2.40 and the box was marked with his address and handed to an express messenger. When the Kansas man had gone a person who witnessed the transaction asked the dealer what he meant by swindling him. The dealer asked how. "By selling him peppers for cherries," was the answer. It then dawned on the dealer that the Kansas man had really supposed he was buying Oregon cherries and he began to wonder what would happen in suffering, bleeding Kansas when the peppers reached there and were tasted. And he is still wondering.

FORMER MAYOR HERE.—Van B. DeLaashmutt, old-time citizen and former Mayor of Portland, was looking around town yesterday and renewing his acquaintance with old friends. He has not been here for a year, and says he is astonished to see how the city has improved in that time. It looks as if there were as many people here as in Denver, Omaha or St. Paul, and more business than in either. The busy, prosperous appearance of the city almost makes him want to come back here to live. Mr. DeLaashmutt arrived here several days ago, and has been out to North Yamhill and purchased a carload of apples for the month of October. He has a farm for a friend near Spokane. He is looking well and is prospering. When told that a new charter was being prepared, he said he would like to make Portland a "truly" city. Mr. DeLaashmutt remarked that it was not wise to attempt too much, or failure would result, and he recalled how a number of our best citizens labored for months to prepare a good charter, and when it went to Salem and the politicians got hold of it they fixed it so its own father did not know it was his.

BAD CASE OF BAD SIDEWALK.—What is probably the very worst bit of plank sidewalk in the city is to be found on the west side of Front street, between Pine and Ash streets. The property is owned by an old-time citizen and occupied by another. The part of the sidewalk not occupied by merchandise is badly dilapidated, and the part that is not dilapidated is not available for public use. Several things have combined to prevent a cement walk from being laid there. In the first place, the owner has been notified only once to lay a new walk, and no one does such a job on "first intentions." Secondly, the man who lays cement walks is very busy and likely to be busier, and people have become accustomed to the old broken sidewalk that they do not expect a new one there.

STOLE POWDER TO BURN.—Honeyman Bros., having checked up their powder account, found that about a wagon load of powder, mostly black powder in kegs, was stolen from their magazine near Milwaukie the other night. Corbett, Failing and Johnson found that only a few small kegs of their best smokeless powder had been taken by the bold, bad burglars. Mr. Robertson says the Honeyman brothers are all enthusiastic sportsmen, and he has reason to believe they use the stolen smokeless powder. He would not intimate that there is any connection between this and the fact that the firm lost only a few kegs of powder, and he cannot imagine what any burglar is going to do with a wagon load of black powder. Neither can Honeyman Bros., but they will endeavor to find out.

BOYS ASSOCIATING WITH TRAMPS.—Three boys, each about 14 years of age, were remanded to the care of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society yesterday by the Municipal Judge. Their names are George Seely, George Miller and Russell Hams, and they seem to have gotten beyond the control of their lawful guardians. Although they all have good homes on the East Side, they prefer to loiter with hobos, ride broke beams and sleep in box cars. Two of them were recently arrested in Roseburg for idling about the depot and attending the socials around the campfires of the tramp fraternity. They all seemed contrite yesterday and heartily promised to behave themselves on condition that they be not sent to the Reform School.

MISSING BOY FOUND.—Louis Her, the 15-year-old boy who was reported missing day before yesterday, was seen last night at Aurora. Young Her's home is at Butteville. He was sent to Portland to be operated upon by a surgeon for spinal trouble, with which he is afflicted. He became frightened as the time for the operation drew near, and finally ran away, starting on foot for his home. When seen at Aurora he stated that he was on his way home.

LAST DAY TO PAY TAXES.—This is the last day to pay taxes for the year 1900 without the costs of levy added, as the Sheriff will begin sending out levy notices on Monday. Where property has been levied upon, the owner must pay the costs. The delinquent property will be advertised for sale in about one week. Collections have been good since the roll was opened.

FRANK BRAY'S PRISON TO JAIL.—Fred Kuhn, an ex-convict, was sentenced to one year in the county jail yesterday for stealing a bicycle. He had just been liberated from the Oregon penitentiary after serving a year.

J. H. CRADLEBAUGH, a mining operator of Sumpter, and his son, R. B. Cradlebaugh, are at the Portland.

LUNCH WITHOUT A MAID

CLOSING DEMONSTRATION AT THE COOKING SCHOOL.

Mrs. Miller Gives a Short Essay on Unnecessarily Heavy Dinners, and Then Cooks Luncheon.

The closing demonstration at the Exposition cooking school, under the auspices of the Women's Club, was given yesterday afternoon, to the usual crowded audience of women, the subject being "A Course Luncheon Without a Maid."

"What is the secret in so many courses? Is a question often asked by sensible people. Is there any reason except social custom for the course dinner or luncheon?" began Mrs. Miller.

"There is usually a reason for all well-established customs, and if we investigate the subject we may find a reason for the success of soup, fish, meat, vegetables and salad, sweet dessert, fruit, cheese, nuts and coffee."

"The stomach, after hours of fasting and fatigue, is not capable of immediately digesting substances as are known to be the most difficult of digestion, such as meat and vegetables to follow. One stimulated by some food that can be immediately absorbed, like the juices of meats found in soup, the slightly cooked egg and milk in white soups, this will cause the gastric fluid to digest their substance, and are quickly absorbed. Fish, white, delicate and flaky, should be served next, as the fibers of fish are short and easily separated, having little of the connective tissue which binds the fibers of meat so closely together and renders it difficult of digestion."

"Fish serves as an additional stimulus to the stomach, and prepares the way for the meat and vegetables to follow. One kind of meat and two kinds of vegetables are sufficient. The vegetables are needed to supply the inorganic salts in which the meat is deficient."

"The nerves of taste and the circulation need to be stimulated during the meal that an abundant supply of blood may be furnished to the stomach for the secretion of the gastric juice. The nerves of taste are stimulated by the cooling juices and stimulating condiments of the salad, by the sub-acid fruits, by the sweet dessert, the bit of cheese, and, lastly, the coffee. The mechanical motion of masticating the salad almonds or other nut increases the circulation. Thus every part of a course dinner has its own distinctive office."

"Course dinners of the past were absurdly long. Now they are shorter, and more expeditiously served, people can eat all of the courses with relish and enjoy a dinner from beginning to end. The entire course, the one between the fish and roast, where the patient has been accustomed to things appeared, has been eliminated, to the advantage of all concerned. Less grease is now used in cooking. This is one sign of improvement in modern culinary art. Methods of frying and broiling have been changed for the better."

Lobster bisque was then made from one pint of scalded milk, with one tablespoon of butter and four creamed, and a cup of real stock. The lobster, or other large one, weighing about half a pound, were sliced—that is, cut into cubes and added. The "corral" of the lobster, after being cooked, dried and grated, was put in to give color to the soup. The bisque, when finished, was served with very thin baking powder biscuits.

Sweetbreads were then boiled in salted water, with a little lemon juice. When cold they were sliced, and served with Bechamel sauce, a pint of peas encircling them by way of garnish.

Banana salad was made from chopped peaches, celery and banana, in equal quantities, with boiled mayonnaise turned over it. Served in the banana skins and dressed with parsley, it made a very attractive dish.

Angel food, with filling and top covering of rich yellow charlotte russe was then made before the eyes of the audience, and, when finished, passed around for each to taste. Concerning angel food, Mrs. Miller said that it should be prepared, be served without frosting, the natural golden crust of the cake being in better taste. She deprecated the excessive use of frosting, and hoped the time would come when it would be less used than it is at present.

French coffee was made in a pitcher, which proved to be quite an innovation in coffee-making. Care was taken that the coffee should not be too hot, and that it should be served in a pitcher, to bring it just to the boiling point if white of egg was used to clarify it. Mrs. Miller made it by pouring boiling water over the coffee, one cup of water to each tablespoon of coffee. The result was highly satisfactory to all who tested it, the coffee being very strong, as after-dinner coffee should be, perfectly clear and delicious in flavor.

STEINWAY, EMERSON, ESTEY, GRAMER AND OTHER PIANOS.

Baby Grands and Uprights—The Entire Stock of a Former Agency of a San Francisco Firm to Be Closed Out at Once by Ellers Piano House—Organs Also Included—Easy Payments—Come Early Today.

Please bear in mind that if you intend to secure one of these many bargains while this sale of the Soule Bros. & Johnston stock is in progress you cannot afford to put off coming. Run in this forenoon at 241 Washington street, see for yourself, and you will find that you can save enough money in the purchase of a good piano to fairly educate the whole family in music, or take a trip to Buffalo, for that matter.

There are several styles of Steinways in stock, and it doesn't take much more than $400 to get one now. We have quite an assortment of Estey pianos. No need of paying much more than half the former prices asked for a fine Estey now. They are new instruments, accompanied by the respective factory guarantees.

Then come the Emerson pianos. Emerson pianos are good pianos. Soule Bros. & Johnston's prices on Emersons ranged from $400 to $500—an average of, say, $450. It is said that they sold two or three for that figure. This morning we offer the best Emerson in this stock for $350; others for $215—and some that are said to be Emersons, and probably are—we'll sell these so-called Emersons for what they are worth for we have nearly a carload of them; $155 and $185 will secure choice of several different cases.

Whoever heard of the Nugent piano? It is what is known as a stencil piano—although it has been said to be "worth $250." We offer one of Soule Bros. & Johnston's big oak Nugent pianos tomorrow for $145. Several Richmond pianos in fancy walnut and oak cases for about half the former prices asked for them.

Remember, we have the factory warranties for every instrument in stock. We will deliver pianos at sale prices to any part of the city, and give our regular one year's tuning agreement with every instrument sold.

During this closing-out sale of the Soule Bros. & Johnston stock we will offer also a number of Weber, Chickering, Kimball, Decker, York, Whetlock and others at "cut prices."

Pay $25 down and $10 a month and take choice.

Remember the street number. Ellers Piano House, corner Park and Washington streets. Entrance 321 Washington street.
