

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

The Oregonian's Telephone. OREGON. Counting Room. Managing Editor. City Editor. Composing Room. East Side Office. COLUMBIA. Counting Room. Editorial Rooms. Composing Room. Engine Room. Amusements Tonight. MARQUAM GRAND THEATER. The Oregonian's Telephone. COLUMBIA. Amusements Tonight. THE OREGONIAN'S HANDBOOK. No special publication on Portland and the Columbia River watershed has ever received the amount of attention from the leading metropolitan papers of the East as The Oregonian's Handbook. No publication has ever given greater satisfaction to the people at home. The book is handsomely printed, from the cover in colors to the last page, and the 150 illustrations which it contains portray correctly every feature of Oregon's industrial development. The price of the Handbook by mail to any address in the United States or Canada is seven cents a copy only.

COULIN'S STAY AWAY.—Dan Holton, an old-time citizen of Portland, well known to all old-timers, and formerly proprietor of the Holton House, who went back to his old home in Binghamton, N. Y., four and a half years ago, to spend the remainder of his life among old friends and the scenes of his boyhood, returned to Portland Thursday and is located at the Edmond. He got awfully lonesome "way off there." He did not find many of his old friends there, and the climate did not suit him any longer. After the heat of last summer he could not bear to think of enduring the cold of the approaching winter, and so packed up and came back to enjoy the mild climate of Oregon. He will find that a number of gaps have been made in the list of his old friends here since he went away and that there are "only a few of us left." He has been receiving numerous calls since his arrival, and the news of the day among old-timers yesterday was, "Dan Holton's come back."

EASTERN EGGS NOW.—This is one of the times when Oregon fails to supply itself with eggs. The trade is subsisting largely on Eastern product, imported in considerable quantity. Consumers now buy cold-storage eggs, put away last Spring when prices were low. The supply of fresh Oregon eggs is very small, and were it not for imported and stored product prices would go far above the means of most people to pay. Several years ago people had a prejudice against Eastern eggs. They reasoned partly from home pride and partly from the syllogism that if Oregon eggs became stale during transportation from Yamhill 50 miles away, the chances of getting fresh eggs shipped 500 miles would be remote in a corresponding ratio. Hard times have cured most people of such ideas, however. And if they have any compunctions of conscience these are dissolved by the difference of 5 cents per dozen in favor of the Eastern product.

NEW UNITARIAN PASTOR

DR. GEORGE C. CRESSEY ARRIVES IN PORTLAND. He Will Preach His First Sermon Tomorrow Morning—Graduate of Bowdoin College in 1876. Rev. George Cressy, who has taken the pastorate at the First Unitarian Church, arrived in Portland yesterday morning. Mr. Cressy was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1876, studied one year in the department of Yale University, and a year at Leipzig. He was professor of modern languages at Washburn College, Topeka, Kan., for two years, after which he entered the Andover Theological Seminary, from which institution he was graduated with high honors in 1884. He was pastor of the Unitarian Church at Bangor, Me., from 1884 to 1890, and occupied a like position at Salem, Mass., from 1890 to 1898. Since 1898 he has been pastor of the First Unitarian Church at Northampton, Mass. In 1884 he received the degree of doctor of philosophy from Wooster University, Ohio, and five years later Bowdoin College honored him with the degree of doctor of divinity. Among Dr. Cressy's publications may be mentioned "The Essential Man," a monograph on "Personal Immortality in the Light of Reason," "Soul Power" and "The Philosophy of Religion." Dr. Cressy is tall, distinguished in bearing, and has the unmistakable appearance of a scholar. His first sermon will be preached at 11 A. M. tomorrow. Dr. Cressy is accompanied by his wife. They are staying at the Hobart-Curtis temporarily.

THERE ARE CASES

Where eyes require gradual strengthening, first with weak lenses, followed by stronger, until normal vision is restored. Such cases are extremely rare, however, and the conscientious optician fits his patient's eyes at once, if practicable. Other practitioners nurse the eyes to accumulate fees for consultations and visits. The Portland Optical Institute, during 19 years' successful existence, has often supplied correct vision at one sitting to those whose eyes have been thus profitably nursed, at their own expense, for several months. We make no charge for consultations, and our schedule of prices for spectacles and eyeglasses speaks for itself. Nickel frames, $1.00, $1.50, $2.50. Gold filled, $3.00 and up. Solid gold, $5.00 and up.

Winter Overcoats ...and Ulsters

A visit here will convince you that our clothing is all we claim it to be. What goes to make our clothing perfect? Brains, skill of hand, specialization. The styles are designed by men who make that one thing their special study. The garments are made by men who accept nothing but custom work as their standard. The wools are selected from the products of the best domestic and foreign looms. In all, our garments are the result of an almost perfect organization, and yet we are able to offer you this sort of clothing at the most moderate prices. Men's Winter Overcoats, $10.00 to $50.00. Men's Top-Coats, $12.50 to $30.00. Men's Ulsters, $10.00 to $25.00.

TAUGHT SCHOOL NEAR PORTLAND 39 YEARS AGO.

R. P. RANDALL, Pharmacist, STRONGHURST, Ill., Oct. 28, 1901. The Oregonian, Portland, Oregon. Gentlemen:—Please send me price of the compendium of facts concerning your city and tributary territory, notified in late Chicago Tribune. I feel an interest in that country, as in my youth, 39 years ago, I taught school nine miles northeast of Portland, in the Polen, Hamilton, Barker and Zimmerman neighborhood; when Portland had but 6000 population and there was no East Portland but stumps and trees. Yours truly, R. P. RANDALL.

THE WORST ACTS WERE THE BREAKING OF DOORS BY THROWING SCANTLING THROUGH THEM, BUT NO ARRESTS WERE MADE.

A few gates were removed from their hinges, some woodpile upset and beams thrown into the air at various residences. Small boys knocked at the front doors and then ran away, but these infractions caused no calls for police protection. The large force of patrolmen on duty Halloween night had a good effect on unruly boys, and many malicious schemes were nipped in the bud. The boys, as they retreated, could be heard saying, "Never saw so many police before in the neighborhood." Both day and night patrolmen were detailed for the fore part of the night, and the showers following did not rest.

DESTRUCTIVE GAME.—The question of farmers having a legal right to kill any beast or bird found destroying or injuring their crops is one that many farmers are agitating.

George W. Ledyard, of Mount Tabor, Express From Heart Disease. Died suddenly from heart failure Thursday morning at his home. With a friend he had been out hunting the day before when he felt sick and started to return home. He told his friend that he was feeling much better and reached his home in safety. At his usual bedtime he was feeling fairly well, but toward midnight he grew worse and in a few minutes pain in his heart, and his wife undertook to give relief by hot applications, but without success. He died at about 1 o'clock. Mr. Ledyard had lived at Mount Tabor for the past seven years and was much respected. He had been foreman for the Elevator Company in Lower Albina and had a berry ranch at Mount Tabor. A wife and five children, two boys and two girls, survive him. The funeral will be held in the Mount Tabor Methodist Church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

NEARLY COMPLETED.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION.

The Portland Ministerial Association will meet in the Y. M. C. A. building Monday, November 4, at 8:30 A. M. The topic, "The Influence of the Secular Press Among Our People," by J. P. Ghormley. At 7:30 P. M. of the same day the ministers of the association will give a farewell reception to the Rev. W. C. Forbes, with whom they part with great regret. The reception will be at Watson's Restaurant.

PLEADED GUILTY.

O. P. Johnson, a young colored man, was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail yesterday by Judge Cameron for stealing a pistol from a commercial traveler. The complaining witness could not stay in the city long enough to prosecute, but Johnson pleaded guilty and threw himself on the mercy of the court.

MEMORIAL MEETING.

This morning at 5:30 o'clock the committee appointed to prepare resolutions to the memory of the late Judge Raleigh Stott will report in Department No. 1 of the State Circuit Court. John M. Gearin is chairman of the committee. A large attendance of the members of the bar is expected.

MAY MAKE OREGON CEMENT.

It has long been known that there are extensive and valuable deposits of cement in this state, but so far nothing has been done toward utilizing them, and the importation of English, Belgian and other cements goes on, and a vast amount of money is annually sent out of the state for material which is lying under foot, as it were. Cement is not found in many places, and at last there seems a probability of the deposits here being utilized.
