NO CONCORD IN THEM

Oregon Delegation Still Split As to Appointments.

A GO-AS-YOU-PLEASE SCRAMBLE

President Roosevelt May Take a Hand Himself--A List of Aspirants for Federal Positions.

The Oregon Congressional delegation has failed to get together for a conference on Federal appointments, and all the plums are still hanging high. Since Senator Mitchell leaves Saturday night for New York, and Senator Simon November 25, for Washington, there is no prospect of any conference of the delegation being held before the session of Congress convenes. Candidates for the Federal positions for which the terms of office will commence to expire within another month are looming up on the political horizon. The appointment for the Alaskan collectorship of customs and the registership of the Burns' Land Office, are matters whose unsettled state is bothering the local and state politicians, while the Bibee appointment is still hung up in Washington on account of Senator Simon's protest to President Roosevelt that he was not consulted in its making. Meanwhile, the politicians and place hunters have been in a fever of anxiety over this state of affairs, and they have been going back and forth between the two Senators, hoping that the scattered darts of lightning would concentrate upon them.

"There has been no conference," said Senator Simon yesterday, "and there is no prospect of there being one before the session of Congress convenes, if then. I have taken part in no conference of the delegation, nor have I been invited or received any overtures to be present at one. The policy of the delegation upon this point has not been settled. It is true that applicants for the Federal positions, whose terms soon expire, have already approached me in numbers. Many of them are friends who are willing to serve the Government. It is too early to take up that question. It will be time enough when the terms expire. As to the Burns registership I have also been approached by a number of applicants. I have not yet made any recommendations for the office.

"I shall leave for Washington about November 25, as I aim to get there a day or so before the session opens."

No Conference Likely.

Senator Mitchell was also confident that there would be no conference of the Congressional delegation on Federal appointments. In an interview, he said:

"There has been no conference, and there will be none before the session of Congress. I am getting the odds and ends of my business straightened up to go East as soon as I can, probably starting by the first of next week. I have manifested my willingness to confer at any time and place as to appointments with the rest of the delegation, and will continue this disposition in the future. As to the Federal appointments for the offices whose terms will soon begin to expire, I have as yet devoted no attention, and I will not until they are forced upon my notice. For the Burns registership there are seven applicants. Personally I have nothing against any one of the candidates. There is one, however, who has had no recommendation from any of my friends, or from the friends of anybody else. I am willing, if this man is eliminated, to recommend any one of the six others, although, of course, as to which one I would have some personal preference."

Will They Hold-Over?

The fact that the Federal office-holders will come to the end of their terms beginning with the next month, has aroused interesting speculation among politicians as to the outcome. They were appointed after the memorable conference of August, 1897, in which the offices were divided, and all the incumbents are supposed to be satisfactory to Senator Mitchell. There is no fixed rule as to Federal office-holders being reappointed at the expirations of their terms, even though they have performed meritorious services in their offices. They hold office according to their commissions until their successors are appointed and qualify for office. This rule will favor the incumbents. Since Senator Mitchell is not desirous of their removal, the initiative must come from Senator Simon, if new appointments are to be made.

A new element has been introduced into the speculations by the accession of President Roosevelt to the executive chair. There is no doubt as to the policy of the President in continuing officials in office who have given faithful and meritorious service. His civil service record is an indication that he holds to this theory of administrative government, while his action in keeping United States Marshal C. W. Ide in his position in Washington against the desires of Senator Foster is an illustration of the President's policy in this regard. Marshal Ide has the active support of Attorney-General Knox, who maintains that Ide is an efficient officer and should not be removed for the sake of politics, even though his term has expired. Neither is the President's record one of dividing patronage between Senators, and making appointments at their dictation without being consulted himself as to the character and ability of the men appointed. He insists and has insisted upon being a party to the appointments. "Name the best men and I will appoint them," has been reported as his announcement to Senators consulting him as to patronage, and his course in regard to the Southern appointments has borne out this statement. With President Roosevelt maintaining this policy, with Senator Mitchell favorable to the majority of Federal office-holders keeping their positions, the probability seems strong that there will be no changes made in these offices until after the June election.

Mitchell Is Not for Him.

The candidate for the Burns registership whom Senator Mitchell says he will under no circumstances support is considered to be L. S. Geer, ex-Representative from Malheur and Harney Counties, who was one of the active opponents of Senator Mitchell in his fight before the State Legislature for election. The six other candidates for the office are as follows:

James J. Dopegan, of Burns, who has been active in Republican politics, and who has the strongest indorsements of the Republican leaders in that section of the state.

Wynne Gowan, son of ex-State Senator A. W. Gowan, of Burns, whose claim is based on the fact that Senator Gowan was an active supporter of Mr. Mitchell in 1897, at which time it is reported that this reward was pledged to him.

William Farre, of Canyon City, a Moody man who is relying upon that fact to strengthen his canvass for the position.

Harrison Kelly, who has served one term in the Land Office.

Sam Stott, of Baker County, a brother of the late Judge Raleigh Stott.

J. B. Huntington, of Multnomah County, formerly of Eastern Oregon, who once served a term in the Land Office.

Between the two Senators the candidates have been cast back and forth in a political game of battledoor and shuttlecock. To several of the candidates Senator Mitchell is reported to have said: "Go and get Senator Simon's indorsement, and I will appoint you." This proposal is inclusive, except as to I. S. Geer.

Senator Simon's hand has not been shown in the matter.

Mr. Moody's Position.

The position of Representative Moody is this: Unless the delegation holds a conference he can have no voice in the appointment, and therefore he favors the custom of holding delegation meetings as was done during the term of Senator McBride. If the Senators hold to the Eastern custom that all appointments requiring Senatorial confirmation should be made by the Senators, this would cut down Mr. Moody's initiative to postoffices and pension boards. Mr. Moody would, under the circumstances, naturally favor delegation meetings.

Senator Simon's protest in the Bibee appointment was doubtless a surprise to President Roosevelt, and the fact that three or more appointments have already been dictated by Senator Mitchell is advanced by the friends of Senator Simon as an argument that he has an appointment or two coming to even up the Senatorial balance of power. The appointments made since Senator Mitchell's election and dictated by him are as follows:

G. W. Colvig, Consul to Baranquilla, Colombia.

Henry Meldrum, of Oregon City, Surveyor-General of Oregon.

George W. Bibee, of Sheridan, receiver of the Oregon City Land Office.

A. V. R. Snyder, Deputy Collector of Customs at Fort Wrangel, Alaska.

Henry E. Smith, brother of Dr. Andrew C. Smith, Deputy Collector of Customs at Cape Nome.

A Mecca for Politicians.

Seeking Federal appointments or nomination before the state conventions or working for re-nominations to the State Legislature, politicians have thronged the city during the last week so that the hotels had the busy and button-holing appearance of convention times. Among the men who have been in the city looking after their political interests was State Senator J. N. Williamson, of Prineville. His candidacy has been announced for several offices, including the Governorship, but in an authoritative statement over his own signature he is quoted as saying that the only office he is a candidate for is that of Secretary of State. In this announcement, Senator Williamson said:

"Inasmuch as a controversy has arisen over the reported ambition of State Senator Williamson to succeed Congressman Moody, I desire to say the report is absolutely untrue. I have never expressed a desire to receive the nomination for Congressman Moody's place, and I would be pleased to have it announced that I have never authorized the statement that I am a candidate for any office except that of Secretary of State. My friends have urged me to consent to be a candidate for the latter nomination, and I have practically given them permission to use my name in that connection only."

The presence of C. W. Fulton in Portland last week and the conferences between him and Senator Williamson gave rise to a rumor that Mr. Williamson was to be switched over as a candidate for the Governorship, leaving the way clear for Mr. Fulton's friend, Secretary of State Dunbar. This plan has been denied by Mr. Williamson's friends, who say he is in the fight to stay.

A List of "Also Rans."

All these have been here during the past week:

M. T. Nolan, of The Dalles, has been looking over the situation with a view to his canvass for the position of United States Marshal.

W. J. Furnish, of Pendleton, ex-Presidential Elector, and candidate for Governor, was among the politicians in the hotel corridors.

Ex-Judge Frank J. Taylor, of Astoria, was in Portland in the interests of Secretary of State Dunbar's candidacy.

State Senators W. W. Stelwer, of Fossil; Kuykendal, of Eugene, and John D. Daly, of Corvallis, were in the midst of several political consultations.

State Senator L. L. Porter, of Oregon City, is making an active fight for the nomination of state printer.

Matt Mosgrove, of Milton, was here in the interests of W. J. Furnish.

Senator Proebstel, of Umatilla, is said to be working for a re-nomination.

J. M. Church, of La Grande, defeated for State Senator in Union and Wallowa, is said to be out for the Governorship.

Colonel J. H. Raley, of Pendleton, the Democratic leader, with connections outside his party, was in the city on political and legal business.

John S. Gurdane, of Umatilla, ex-member of the Legislature and member of the Republican state central committee, mixed with the politicians.

Ex-Governor Moody and Congressman Moody were familiar figures in the crowds. Ex-Governor Moody is naturally interested in the re-nomination of his son.

CAN'T WAIT FOR SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS

Substantial Pledges for the Lewis and Clark Celebration Are Already Coming to the Front.

A. H. Devers.

Though subscription papers are not yet ready to receive signatures, many people are declaring their purpose to contribute liberally to the stock of the Lewis and Clark Exposition. Three of these were put in concrete form yesterday—Closset & Devers, $1500; Woodard, Clarke & Co., $1000, and John Vince & Son, $500.

"We do not make our subscription as an investment or speculation," said A. H. Devers. "Of course we are not starting in in with the idea that the enterprise must lose money. We are willing it should make all it can, but our main purpose is to help an institution that is sure to be of great benefit to the town. We are actuated by patriotic and sentimental motives mostly in this matter. We wish the exposition and the entire celebration to be a glorious success, and we wish to do what we can to make it such. I believe Mr. Corbett expressed the proper sentiment when he made his magnificent subscription, and our desire is to follow in the line he has marked out. Besides giving this money, we expect to do everything within our power in the way of work and advice to make the Lewis and Clark Celebration a credit to this country. I am thoroughly convinced it has started properly and will be conducted to a satisfactory end."

Louis G. Clarke, of Woodard, Clarke & Co., said: "Our initial subscription of $1000 is made with the firm conviction that this exposition will be a success in the truest sense of the word. The enthusiasm already shown by the leading citizens of Portland proves this conclusively, and the question as to whether or not we shall have a fair has passed out of the realm of doubt. Nor does the use of the word success imply a dividend-paying investment; for, while we believe every dollar of the stock will be returned, yet no such thought or question should sway us or any contributor. The benefits accruing from this fair will remain for all time to come. The entire Northwest, as well as Portland, will be the beneficiaries. Individuals, sections and all interests will be directly helped by it. Portland itself, by means of this fair, will be lifted at once to the plane of the most progressive Eastern cities. The fair will bring thousands of substantial Eastern citizens to the city, who, but for this attraction, would hardly take the time or spend the money involved in a trip to the Coast, as there is still a widespread feeling in the East that a trip across the continent carries with it a good deal of exertion and discomfort. Our fair will be the means of dispelling this, and will bring us in closer touch with people whom it is well we should know.

"Both members of the firm, aside from such funds which they may contribute, are ready to give their personal endeavors in time and labor without stint to make the 1905 Exposition all that Portland's citizens hope it to be."

John Vince, of John Vince & Son, said: "From my experience of the manner in which our recent carnival was handled, and the noble response which the citizens gave to the management, I am convinced that the celebration for 1905, such as is at present outlined, would meet with enormous success and fully justify the expense and trouble to which we as citizens would necessarily be put. It would give us five years of unequaled prosperity, our population would increase, our trade double, real estate would boom, and every interest would be benefited. The example of our leading citizen with his $30,000 donation should be valued by every lover of our city, and each should give in proportion. It gives me great pleasure to put my name down as a humble business man of the city for $500."

The committee of five appointed Tuesday to select the general executive committee of 35 held a meeting at the First National Bank yesterday forenoon, and made its selection of names. It was deemed best not to give publicity to the report of the committee until the meeting to be held today at 3 o'clock to receive the report of the nominating committee. It is desired that today's meeting be fully attended, as it is expected that the duties and powers of the executive committee will be dismussed and an understanding arrived at as to just what it should do. The meeting will be at the office of the Chamber of Commerce, 246 Washington street.

TIME FOR COUNTY TO ACT

ASKED TO TAKE UP HAWTHORNE AVENUE IMPROVEMENT.

Mr. Watson's Little Bill for Drilling Wells at Poor Farm Not Yet Acted Upon.

F. W. Baltes, Walter F. Burrell and E. R. Kimble, comprising a special committee of the East Portland Improvement Association, appeared before the County Commissioners yesterday and asked the board to take up the matter of the improvement of the Hawthorne avenue road.

The road was widened from 35 to 70 feet, beginning at East Twentieth street, and extending to Mount Tabor street, about two years ago, and it was understood at that time that it was to be improved with gravel, but this has not been done.

Mr. Baltes acted as spokesman for the party. He stated that, after the road was widened, some work was begun, and it was delayed for some reason. The street railway company was putting in gravel between the tracks all the way out, and was using a motor which would be taken off as soon as the work was completed. Mr. Baltes said it was a good time for the county to take hold and do something.

Judge Cake said this matter was before the old Board of Commissioners, and he did not know what the agreement made with the old board was. A petition was filed at the time. He stated that he and Commissioners Mack and Showers would look the matter up.

Russell E. Sewall a little later appeared before the Commissioners and called attention to a fence in the middle of the Hawthorne avenue road at F. M. Arnold's place at East Thirty-fourth street. He explained that, when he was District Attorney, Mr. Arnold appealed from the appraisement of assessment and damages, and the case was tried out in the State Circuit Court. With the exception of Arnold and others, the road was widened by common consent. A compromise was finally agreed upon, but Arnold's fence was still there, and ought to be moved back. It had been there for two years since the case was tried; and, if allowed to remain, Arnold might get some kind of title again. Mr. Arnold was in California, but that would not prevent the fence from being moved. The members of the board stated that they would attend to the case.

It is stated that the general committee has a project on foot for a driveway, beginning at Belmont and Water streets, along Belmont street to East Twelfth street, thence to East Taylor, to East Twentieth, to Hawthorne avenue, to East Twenty-fifth, to East Harrison and to Mount Tabor. Then along West avenue to connect with other roads and streets.

MR. WATSON AND THE WELLS.

He Did the Work and Now He Wants His Pay.

The bill of D. M. Watson, amounting to $1176, for sinking and equipping wells at the Poor Farm, was to have been considered at the meeting of the County Commissioners yesterday, but was continued for one week. Judge Cake remarked that Commissioner Mack, who has been sick, was there under protest. There many minor matters to attend to, and it would not be advisable to keep Mr. Mack too long at the meeting. Mr. Watson was present, and also his attorneys, S. C. Spencer and Charles J. Schnabel, and they agreed under the circumstances to the continuance.

The wells have been completed and in operation for a long time, and the reason for the nonpayment of the claim, as stated by the Commissioners, is that Watson bored one well near the cemetery, and the other near a creek, into which more or less sewage accumulates. Because of the location of these wells, the water from them might be unfit for drinking purposes, and before settling the bill the water should be analyzed by a chemist. This course was decided upon, but when it was ascertained that the cost would be $100 to $150, the Commissioners hesitated, and the analysis was not ordered made.

The contract with Watson was entered into November 23, 1900, by County Commissioners Steele, Mack and Showers. It provides for the digging of a well or wells to supply water for the several buildings on the Poor Farm, the supply to amount to 12,000 gallons each 24 hours. All veins of water are connected with the main well, so that one pump will serve to pump all the water used. Watson agreed to do the work to the satisfaction of the board, and to furnish a supply of 12,000 gallons of water per day for one year. He asserts that he has done so and is entitled to the money. The question is whether the burden of proof is upon Watson to show that he has fulfilled his contract, or upon the county to establish that he has not. He says the water is good. It is reported that there is some politics back of the dispute. Watson is a Democrat, and was a member of the last Legislature. He obtained the contract from three Republicans and it is unreasonable to suppose they would allow any political feeling to interfere with the payment of his bill, even if Watson voted for the bill cutting off the salaries of Commissioners Showers and Mack, and ousting Commissioner Steele when he was in the Legislature.

Water Mains for St. Johns.

J. C. Scott, the owner of a water system at St. Johns, yesterday petitioned the County Board for the privilege of laying water mains through any and all streets in St. Johns, James Johns' First Addition, St. Johns' Addition, James Johns' Second Addition, Smith's Addition, Point View Addition and A. L. Miner's Addition. Mr. Scott was asked if there was any opposition among the people living in that section against his project, and he answered that he had never heard of any. Judge Cake next inquired if he desired an exclusive franchise, and Mr. Scott replied that he did not. The court seemed disposed to grant the right of way, and told him to prepare a contract and submit it for future consideration.

Conway to Go Below.

H. J. Conway, indicted by a United States grand jury in San Francisco for having fraudulent bank currency in his possession, will be taken before Judge Bellinger today on a warrant of removal. He was arrested in Portland several weeks ago, with one Burke, who was afterwards sentenced to a term at McNeil's Island, Wash., for circulating the same currency, which was the output of a defunct bank in New Jersey. Conway, who is known in San Francisco as Harry Connors, has been admitted to bail in the sum of $500, which he has not been able to furnish.

Court Notes.

Charles Bush has begun suit in the State Circuit Court against Louise Bush. They were married at Port Townsend in August, 1883, and he avers that she deserted him in Albany in 1891.

Judge Bellinger yesterday appointed R. B. Sinnott to act as defendant's attorney in the case of United States vs. Fred Rice, accused of selling liquor to Indians. R. W. Galloway was appointed defendant's counsel in the case of Dan Smith on the same charge.

W. H. Warrens, guardian of Frank Phillippi, a minor, was authorized by Judge Cake yesterday to pay Mary Kraemer, the mother of the boy, $25 per month for his support. The estate of the minor is valued at $10,000. A petition filed by Mrs. Kraemer for the removal of Warrens as guardian and for her own appointment is pending in the County Court.

Emma McFadden and Samuel Stein have petitioned the County Court to appoint S. Rudeen as guardian of Fred Rekate, a minor. Emma McFadden was once the wife of Frederick Rekate, the boy's father, but obtained a divorce in 1894 and married McFadden. Stein is the boy's grandfather and has been keeping him. The father died while on the way from Alaska. He owned a mining claim in Nome which his child inherits.

Holes in the Roadways.

Complaints are made concerning the condition of East Morrison street, Belmont street and Hawthorne avenue, between East Water street and Grand avenue. These are all elevated roadways, and were constructed at a large cost to property-owners. It is stated that when a hole has been worn through a plank, instead of a new plank being put in, the practice has been to patch the hole up and it is soon as bad as ever. Several horses are said to have become stuck in holes recently.

Disgusting Western Bungling.

New York Evening Post.

The shipping-subsidy lobby at Washington is again filled with horror at the arrival of Western Congressmen who actually want the subsidized vessels to carry freight. This is really a disgusting form of opposition to the plans of the subsidy schemers. Opponents who object to a subsidy on principle, they can meet in the open, but this insidious attack upon their pet measure by men who say they favor subsidies, but desire to see them bestowed on "freight-carriers," is hard to bear quietly. Those Representatives from Wisconsin and Washington, with the Boston exporters, who yesterday called upon the President to say that they were against subsidized "ocean greyhounds," but would like mighty well to see a bill passed that would help the farmer get his freight to foreign markets—what are they but so many snakes in the grass? Why lug in freight? That is one of the last things the subsidy-beggars think of. Legislation to secure "freight-carriers" is not in the least what they want. Subsidy-carriers are what they are aiming at, and they have a fine assortment of vessels ready to moor alongside the Treasury, and to be laden with subsidy until the hatches lift.
