

AMONG THE CLUBWOMEN

WHAT WOMEN WORKERS ARE DOING TO HELP THEIR NEIGHBORS.

Distinction Between a Club That Has "Ceased to Be" and One That Has "Failed."

"Club Endings" is the subject of a bright editorial in a recent number of "The Club Worker," the official paper of the National League of Women Workers. Among other things, it says:

"Very often the failure of the club comes from the lack of 'helpers.' When the burden of work is carried by a few, it is not surprising that they have been trained to take their place the club must die. If a club ceases to exist for this reason it may well be called a failure, but if it is due to other causes, and as others have been trained to take their place the club must die. If a club ceases to exist for this reason it may well be called a failure, but if it is due to other causes, and as others have been trained to take their place the club must die."

This makes the excellent distinction between a club which has "ceased to be" and a club which has "failed," a distinction which seldom is appreciated.

Our clubs should be "centers of usefulness" in their community, standing for the best, regardless of their own temporary success. The writer seems to have caught the spirit and intent of club work, which never was to carry on great enterprises. Its mission has been and should remain the "center of usefulness power," from which should emanate the best thought, the best ideas and the best methods for carrying them out. Veritable Marthas should be "troubled about many things," by which to make the life of the community more wholesome and pure, creating also desires for greater opportunities, and when they can relinquish even the best-beloved project into the hands of those who can carry them to greater success than the limited resources of the average club can do. For the club or department to give over some work it has started to others who can carry it to greater good to a greater number, can in no sense be called a failure. The score is on the other side, even if every trace of the club or personalities of the club has been created it is entirely lost in its final success; yet there is no phase of club work which causes so many heartburnings or requires so much self-satisfaction as being "regarded as our own temporary success." The true club spirit is that of the faithful steward who used to advantage the talents entrusted to him, content to wait till the end of the journey when the Master returned, to receive the reward, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

Causation for President.

One of the most sublimating, if not edifying, features of the biennial is the necessity for electing a new set of officers and, of course, all others pale before the presidency. There are three prominent candidates (made so, of course, by their friends): Mrs. Dennison, of New York, who was the acting president during Mrs. Lowe's absence in Europe; Mrs. Decker, of Denver, who has always been the moving spirit in the Woman's Club of that city, and Mrs. Burdette, of Los Angeles, president of the California Federation, and wife of "Bob," whom everybody knows. Massachusetts has not named a candidate yet, but she can be depended on to be on the forward deck, backing up somebody when the time comes. The East and West are both being represented in the presidency and the West is clamorous for recognition "and ought to have it." The Denver News very naturally thinks. The delegates from Colorado, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas, will go to Los Angeles together on a special train, and as they all go instructed to cast a solid vote for a Western candidate, some caucusing may be predicted.

Women Workers of Union, Or.

Although Union has one of the strongest, brightest and most helpful clubs in the state, and one that has ever been honored to uphold the cause of women in whatever good work it undertook, it did not require a Woman's Club to call forth the energy and working ability of these good women.

In the early '90s Mr. Nodine, a large property-owner of Union, decided to the school directors and their successors a tract of land to be used as a free cemetery, with the proviso that the lot was to be sold. This prohibited the raising of funds from that source, for the improvement of the grounds.

The day after the election of 1893, a few old settlers gathered to lay to rest a young wife, the first inhabitant of this dreary place. In the bleak winter the men labored to dig through the rock and hard gravel to make a grave, and when the body was finally lowered and the grave filled, rocks were piled on top to keep it from being desecrated by the coyotes, and there still remains that mute monument to early times.

Not being able to procure a lot to bury, for years little individual work was done, until the unsatisfactory conditions of place grew intolerable to wives and mothers who had to lay away their dear ones in this uncanny place, and the women arose in their might. Their first active work was to erect a straw-berry festival to raise money to put the graves in better condition. The financial success of this effort was so great that it became an annual affair. With money thus raised a man was employed at times during the summer to clear and clean the grounds. Seeing little could be done without water, two energetic women canvassed the town and raised enough money to lay pipes throughout the cemetery. A cemetery association was then formed.

As time went on, by a succession of lunches, socials, and other things, the women, from time immemorial, have found efficacious in raising money with which they were able to employ a man steadily for six months. After the first summer's work there was such a marked improvement and the man proved so faithful and efficient that he has been in the constant employ of the association ever since.

The grounds not having been surveyed during the first years of burial, there was no regularity about the graves, but after the lots were laid out the women had to have many bodies re-interred at their own expense, and now regular, well-kept walks traverse the grounds. By their efforts they have always paid the salary of the sexton, besides having built a handsome ornamental little tool-house; planted trees and shrubs, and put flowers on every grave.

It is safe to say that in all of Oregon there is no such beautiful, well-kept cemetery, where rich and poor have equal claim, the title given them by a man, but by the love and devotion of the women of Union hallowed and beautified, and truly made God's acre.

Southern Club Journal.

"The Southern Woman" is a bright, clever, eight-page paper, published twice a month by the Southern Publishing Company, of Atlanta, Ga., an incorporated association. The paper is owned and edited exclusively by the executive board of the Georgia Federation, and is the official organ of 25,000 women, with a large outside subscription list. This is the only state federation owning and operating its own paper. It is certainly fitting a want and should be generously supported, not only in the South, but among clubwomen generally, for it is ably edited, well conducted and full of bright, interesting matter to all clubwomen. It need not be said it has hung its banner on the outer wall, and "no darky need apply."

The Persistence of Children.

The club department of an Eastern paper recently intimated that children's interest in village improvement was easily aroused but difficult to hold. The Montclair, N. J., Club refutes this by way of the Cascades lock and canal, a distance of 190 miles. Between Dallas City and Celilo the river is obstructed for 13 miles. Between Celilo and the foot of Priest Rapids, a distance of 188 miles, the river is navigable under favorable conditions. The Snake is navigable from Riggins to Lewiston, a distance of 73 miles, and under favorable conditions, from Riggins to its mouth, a distance of 67 miles. With some improvement, the cost of which would be justified by the area that would be served, and its industries, the Columbia could be made freely navigable from Dallas City to the foot of Priest Rapids, a distance of 20 miles, and the Snake for the 140 miles of its course from its mouth to Lewiston. This would be a most interesting department of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

FOR GOOD OF OREGON

(Continued from Ninth Page.)

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

FOR GOOD OF OREGON

(Continued from Ninth Page.)

way of the Cascades lock and canal, a distance of 190 miles. Between Dallas City and Celilo the river is obstructed for 13 miles. Between Celilo and the foot of Priest Rapids, a distance of 188 miles, the river is navigable under favorable conditions. The Snake is navigable from Riggins to Lewiston, a distance of 73 miles, and under favorable conditions, from Riggins to its mouth, a distance of 67 miles. With some improvement, the cost of which would be justified by the area that would be served, and its industries, the Columbia could be made freely navigable from Dallas City to the foot of Priest Rapids, a distance of 20 miles, and the Snake for the 140 miles of its course from its mouth to Lewiston. This would be a most interesting department of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

One of the most interesting departments of the Woman's Club of Portland is the parliamentary law class, which is

WILL SETTLE IN OREGON

ILLINOIS STOCKMAN CONSIDERS THIS AN IDEAL STATE.

Tired of the Cold Winters and Dry Hot Summers of the Middle West.

H. R. Alverson, a stockman of Rockford, Ill., is in Portland, with a view to locating in Oregon. He has become tired of the long cold winters and dry hot summers of Northern Illinois, and has concluded to try cattle-raising where the conditions are much more favorable.

"I talked with a stockman here, and he said for our stock," he said last evening at the Perkins, "and the other six months we are engaged in feeding it out, so we have the cattle in the hands of the year round. Besides this, land is worth $300 an acre back there, and a stockman is obligated to have too much money invested for the amount of profit derived. For the last five years no rain to speak of has fallen in our locality during the summer, and these dry spells cut down our crops of hay and corn. Yet, in spite of this, some of our stockmen have made money as we have a good market in Chicago for all the beef and pork we can put into condition."

Mr. Alverson has heard how kind Nature is to Oregon stockmen, and since his arrival here he finds the reports verified through conversation with Oregon cattle and sheep raisers. His thinking conditions favor the man who lets his stock roam over the hills all the year round, while the grass remains green and nutritious, as in Western Oregon, and he finds that the stockmen east of the mountains are not obliged to invest many thousands of dollars in pasture lands, as is the case in Illinois. He realizes that a small strip of cheap valley land is all that is needed out here to raise fodder for quite a large band of stock, and that the fodder need not be called into requisition at all during the year, as snow is enough to hide the bunchgrass seldom falls, except in the higher altitudes. The feed of the pasture lands in Eastern Oregon still belongs to the government, which exacts no charges for its use, so the money that would otherwise be laid out in land can be invested in stock and be made to bring much quicker returns. Taxes, too, are made light, on account of the existence of free range.

Mr. Alverson laughed yesterday when he heard people complaining of cold weather.

"We would consider this a beautiful Spring day in Illinois," he said, "and I can understand how people can complain of such weather. When I left Rockford Sunday last, the thermometer registered below zero, the temperature having dropped 25 degrees within 15 hours. All through Iowa the plains were covered with snow, and there was every indication that winter had set in for good. It seems queer to find the hills and valleys green with grass at this time of year, and hear people complaining of the cold when there hasn't been frost enough to kill the tomato vines." He will probably decide to purchase a small farm in the Willamette Valley before returning East.

Mr. Alverson has heard how kind Nature is to Oregon stockmen, and since his arrival here he finds the reports verified through conversation with Oregon cattle and sheep raisers. His thinking conditions favor the man who lets his stock roam over the hills all the year round, while the grass remains green and nutritious, as in Western Oregon, and he finds that the stockmen east of the mountains are not obliged to invest many thousands of dollars in pasture lands, as is the case in Illinois. He realizes that a small strip of cheap valley land is all that is needed out here to raise fodder for quite a large band of stock, and that the fodder need not be called into requisition at all during the year, as snow is enough to hide the bunchgrass seldom falls, except in the higher altitudes. The feed of the pasture lands in Eastern Oregon still belongs to the government, which exacts no charges for its use, so the money that would otherwise be laid out in land can be invested in stock and be made to bring much quicker returns. Taxes, too, are made light, on account of the existence of free range.

Mr. Alverson has heard how kind Nature is to Oregon stockmen, and since his arrival here he finds the reports verified through conversation with Oregon cattle and sheep raisers. His thinking conditions favor the man who lets his stock roam over the hills all the year round, while the grass remains green and nutritious, as in Western Oregon, and he finds that the stockmen east of the mountains are not obliged to invest many thousands of dollars in pasture lands, as is the case in Illinois. He realizes that a small strip of cheap valley land is all that is needed out here to raise fodder for quite a large band of stock, and that the fodder need not be called into requisition at all during the year, as snow is enough to hide the bunchgrass seldom falls, except in the higher altitudes. The feed of the pasture lands in Eastern Oregon still belongs to the government, which exacts no charges for its use, so the money that would otherwise be laid out in land can be invested in stock and be made to bring much quicker returns. Taxes, too, are made light, on account of the existence of free range.

Mr. Alverson has heard how kind Nature is to Oregon stockmen, and since his arrival here he finds the reports verified through conversation with Oregon cattle and sheep raisers. His thinking conditions favor the man who lets his stock roam over the hills all the year round, while the grass remains green and nutritious, as in Western Oregon, and he finds that the stockmen east of the mountains are not obliged to invest many thousands of dollars in pasture lands, as is the case in Illinois. He realizes that a small strip of cheap valley land is all that is needed out here to raise fodder for quite a large band of stock, and that the fodder need not be called into requisition at all during the year, as snow is enough to hide the bunchgrass seldom falls, except in the higher altitudes. The feed of the pasture lands in Eastern Oregon still belongs to the government, which exacts no charges for its use, so the money that would otherwise be laid out in land can be invested in stock and be made to bring much quicker returns. Taxes, too, are made light, on account of the existence of free range.

Mr. Alverson has heard how kind Nature is to Oregon stockmen, and since his arrival here he finds the reports verified through conversation with Oregon cattle and sheep raisers. His thinking conditions favor the man who lets his stock roam over the hills all the year round, while the grass remains green and nutritious, as in Western Oregon, and he finds that the stockmen east of the mountains are not obliged to invest many thousands of dollars in pasture lands, as is the case in Illinois. He realizes that a small strip of cheap valley land is all that is needed out here to raise fodder for quite a large band of stock, and that the fodder need not be called into requisition at all during the year, as snow is enough to hide the bunchgrass seldom falls, except in the higher altitudes. The feed of the pasture lands in Eastern Oregon still belongs to the government, which exacts no charges for its use, so the money that would otherwise be laid out in land can be invested in stock and be made to bring much quicker returns. Taxes, too, are made light, on account of the existence of free range.

Mr. Alverson has heard how kind Nature is to Oregon stockmen, and since his arrival here he finds the reports verified through conversation with Oregon cattle and sheep raisers. His thinking conditions favor the man who lets his stock roam over the hills all the year round, while the grass remains green and nutritious, as in Western Oregon, and he finds that the stockmen east of the mountains are not obliged to invest many thousands of dollars in pasture lands, as is the case in Illinois. He realizes that a small strip of cheap valley land is all that is needed out here to raise fodder for quite a large band of stock, and that the fodder need not be called into requisition at all during the year, as snow is enough to hide the bunchgrass seldom falls, except in the higher altitudes. The feed of the pasture lands in Eastern Oregon still belongs to the government, which exacts no charges for its use, so the money that would otherwise be laid out in land can be invested in stock and be made to bring much quicker returns. Taxes, too, are made light, on account of the existence of free range.

Mr.