Old-Fashioned German Linens

Bleached in the good old way, by the sun and the rain as they lay on the grass. There have been many imitators of the finish and imitators of labels and manner of folding the linens; but no other linens are so good. In none other is the life and beauty of the fiber so well preserved. None other has the strength to wear as have these honest old-fashioned German linens that are so soft and heavy. We have them bleached or in a cream finish—both show the clear luster of the flax. At lowest prices during our THANKSGIVING LINEN SALE. Also, Mexican and Taoro Drawn-Work Linens, at reduced prices.

DIED FROM MORPHINE

D. K. HOWE WAS GIVEN DRUG TO RELIEVE STOMACH TROUBLE.

Took the Fatal Dose in a Third-Street Lodging-House—The Proprietress Arrested.

Daniel K. Howe, of Sellwood, who was connected with the firm of Howe, Davis & Kilham, bookbinders, on Second street, near Washington, died at 11:30 o'clock last night in the Laporte lodging-house, at the northwest corner of Third and Yamhill streets, from an overdose of morphine. Mrs. Minnie Harrington, supposed to be an assumed name, at first told the police that she gave Howe morphine to relieve his stomach trouble, and then she denied the statement. She and W. Ellison were arrested by Police Sergeants Church and were detained overnight as witnesses to attend the coroner's inquest. The police state that Howe was a married man, and that his wife and son live at Sellwood. Lately he suffered from business troubles. Mrs. Harrington says that Howe, who was known to her for about eight years, came to the Laporte lodging-house Monday night, under the influence of liquor, and complained of being sick. He asked in a hoarse voice for about 10 o'clock, and would not go to his own home. Yesterday he hung around the house and drank at intervals, and became very sick and pale in the stomach during the course of the afternoon. Ultimately he went to room 21, occupied by W. Ellison, and the party had dinner together. Shortly after 7 o'clock Howe became violently ill with colic, and it was then that he was given a hypodermic injection of morphine. His condition soon became so alarming that Dr. Louis Buck was summoned, and he worked on his patient for over two hours, but his efforts were unavailing and Howe died at 11 o'clock. Then the coroner's inquest was held, and his directions, the body was taken to Holman's undertaking parlors. The inquest will take place this afternoon. Howe was about 40 years old. Mrs. Harrington was in a hysterical state when seen early this morning, and she stated that she had done everything she could to relieve Howe when he was sick. She said if anyone had given Howe any morphine, she said: "I decline to talk about that. I gave him some whiskey."

CIGAR MACHINES RUNNING

Nickels Go Across the Counter—Not Down the Slot.

Nine machines called "cigar machines" by the trade were operated yesterday in cigar stores throughout the city. The attention of the police was called to the matter, but no arrests took place. It is probable that action to force matters to an issue will be taken today. "These machines are operated against a state law. The people operating them will be arrested," was all that Chief of Police McLaughlin would give out last night. Cigar-dealers who say they have asked legal advice on the proposition state that they cannot be arrested under any existing city ordinance for operating these cigar machines. They argue that these devices are not the ordinary nickel-in-the-slot machines, in the strict letter of the law, but they admit that under the provisions of the state law against nickel-in-the-slot machines, they may get into trouble with the authorities. They assert, however, that a conviction against them is not probable in the Circuit Court. Oregonian men visited a number of cigar stores where these machines were in operation last night, but found they were not being extensively patronized. The machines are the familiar nickel-in-the-slot devices, with the slot soldered up. A card in front states that they are cigar machines and that the patrons are allowed one play for 5 cents, for one cigar. If the cards are against the operator when he once pushes down the lever he gets one 5-cent cigar, but if after pushing

NEW BRIDGE OVER SLOUGH

Contractors Push Work on Roadway to Columbia River.

The contractors are pushing construction on the new portion of the long bridge across Columbia Slough to the Columbia River. It begins at the south end of the old bridge and takes a straight course northward to the place where there has always been a sharp turn to the east, and it parallels the old structure for about three-quarters of a mile. Travel is not interfered with as the work goes forward, as the old bridge can be used, although it is not regarded as altogether safe. In the new portion four piles are being driven for each bent, and the bridge will be strong enough to support a railway track. Piles for two-thirds of the distance have been driven and plank laid. The entire contract will probably be finished this month, when the old section will be abandoned. The improvement is opportune and important, as the travel between Clark County and Portland is very large and on the increase. It costs a great deal of money to keep up this long bridge, but it pays on account of the volume of traffic that it brings to Portland.

RAID IN CHINATOWN.

Three Chinamen Arrested, Charged With Gambling.

Police Sergeant Church made a raid last night on Second street and arrested three Chinamen who were gambling with dice for money. The moment Church and Policeman Wilkinson entered the room all the Chinamen present grabbed dice and money, until the tables were cleared. Kee Long, Ling Toy and Lee Lin, the alleged principals, were arrested charged with gambling. When locked up they had only about $2.50 in their possession.

Over Their Scare.

The Milwaukee people have recovered somewhat from their scare over the report that the Portland City & Oregon Railway Company proposed to move their shops elsewhere, and have gone to work improving the place. They have organized a "push club," called the Milwaukee Improvement Association, which is doing a good work. Money is being raised with which to build sidewalks and restore old ones. The club will also facilitate any improvement that the railway company may desire to make in the way of enlarging their plant, for which more land may be needed. It may be that the old town will pick up from now on, as the result of the agitation that has been started.

FIRE DRILL IN SUNNYSIDE.

Four Hundred Pupils March From the Building in Short Time.

A successful fire drill was held in the Sunnyside schoolhouse yesterday morning, when nearly 400 pupils marched from that building without confusion and with remarkable precision in three and one-half minutes from the sounding of the gong. Only Principal Curtis and the janitor knew that there was to be a fire drill until the signal was given. The children went to the cloak rooms and took their wraps, assumed their places, and with the precision of trained soldiers marched out of the rooms into the halls and thence out of the building. They did not know but there was a fire, but there was no excitement or unnecessary haste in any of the rooms.

To Start Monument Subscriptions.

The committee appointed by the Soldiers Monument Association to prepare subscription papers and fix time in which payments to the fund are to be made will meet this afternoon to complete all the work assigned. Members of the soliciting committee will be supplied with blanks, after which they will begin their canvass. It is estimated that it will be one year from next Memorial day before the monument proposed can be completed and unveiled. As much money as possible will be secured, and a monument will

CAUTION TO CIGAR TRADE AND THE SMOKING PUBLIC.

The reputed brand of high-grade clear Havana cigars manufactured by BATT, GUNST & ESBERG, of New York, under the brand LA VERDAD, is being infringed upon by some unscrupulous manufacturers and a spurious brand, LA VERDAD, is being sold upon the public under the same name. The trade is hereby cautioned that we are the absolute owners of the LA VERDAD brand, and we will promptly and vigorously prosecute any infringement upon the brand. The smoking public will kindly look for the name of BATT, GUNST & ESBERG, being visible on inside of each box of LA VERDAD cigars manufactured by us. BATT, GUNST & ESBERG, New York.

East Side Notes.

Citizens of St. Johns are taking steps toward organization of a sub-board of trade.

Small houses for shelter are being built at the ends of the spans near the drive of Morrison and East Burnside bridges for the benefit of the public. Work is progressing on the shed on Morrison bridge. This improvement may be charged to the credit of the "Push Club."

Ernest R. Schoteld, residing at 21 East Tenth street, while whaling across Burnside bridge yesterday morning was struck by an electric wire on the throat and right cheek, and was considerably burned. The wire was hanging down, he says, and caught him under the chin, but it quickly slipped off. He experienced no shock, but felt the burn. He thinks that because he was on a bicycle with rubber
