DOESN'T PAY TO PUT IT OFF.—There was much commotion at Second and Davis streets at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, caused by Deputy Sheriff Seizing goods in the store of Kuttner & Co. to compel the payment of taxes on personal property. An expressman was called, but before the goods were placed in his wagon by the officers Kuttner & Co. refused to pay the amount due. The statute provides that taxes on personal property are due whenever they are placed in the hands of the Sheriff for collection, and are delinquent whenever the Sheriff demands the tax, without further notice. In the event of refusal of a person to pay, the Sheriff can levy on goods and chattels and sell them for advertising for 10 days. The Sheriff is winding up the collection of taxes due on personal property and is endeavoring to get the amount due on property of delinquents. It is proposed to keep at it until all collections have been made. The warrant issued on the delinquent list expires in a few days, and it is necessary to wind things up and make a final return. Most of the personal tax has been collected, but the Sheriff wants what is left of it. Some persons seem to think by putting it off they will escape payment altogether, but this cannot be permitted.

PENSION BOARD MEETS.—The Board of Examiners for Pensions held its regular meeting yesterday morning in the office of Dr. William Boyd, Marquam building. The average number of applications from ex-soldiers is about six per week, 10 per cent of whom are veterans of the Spanish War. A large proportion are already on the pension roll, but advancing age and increased disability render an increase of pension desirable. The Board of Examiners consists of Dr. Boyd, Plummer and Thornton, and a full attendance is always at the meetings, the physicians making it a point to drop all other business to give the old soldiers a chance. Most of the applicants are very worthy, according to one of the board spoken to yesterday, although some of the injuries resulting from military service are more serious than others. "If a man has lost a leg," this gentleman said, "the injury is apparent to the most casual observer, but if he is a sufferer from rheumatism as a result of exposure in the battle-field, it requires a diagnosis to determine it, and the latter may be fully as proper a subject for a pension as the former."

GOOD PROGRESS ON GOVERNMENT BARGES.—Good progress toward completion is being made on the two scow barges building for the Government at Captain Langitt's yard, under contract with the United States Engineers. The two modeled barges contracted for at the same place by Captain Langitt are now being "laid out" on the floor of a warehouse near the yard. The work on the barges will soon be commenced. They are to be of 60 tons each. One of the scow barges is to have a storehouse built on it, and will be used as a floating warehouse from the weather and to prevent it from disappearing without leave. The other scow barge will have a house on it, and will be used as a floating workshop for surveying parties employed on the Columbia. One of the modeled barges will be used as a coal barge for the Government dredge, and the other will be used for general purposes.

LETTER-CARRIER IN A NEW LINE.—A. J. Mason, formerly a letter-carrier in this city, but now a Hood River orchardist, with 22 acres set to apple trees, has sent to his old associates in the Columbia a specimen of the product of his orchard, a box of magnificent Spitzenbergs. In point of appearance, flavor and freedom from "rot," knut or woodpecker holes, they are all that could be desired. Oregon has a world-wide reputation for big red apples, and these will sustain that reputation wherever they are sent. The apples are just coming into bearing, so he did not have a very large crop this season, but he sold his Spitzenbergs—about 50 boxes—to a Klamath Falls dealer for $1.50 per box. The carriers were much pleased with their present, and hope Mr. Mason will do well in his new line of business. He has probably a much better time than packing mail about Portland.

WIDE STEEL RAILS WANTED.—The Portland City & Oregon Railway Company is leveling up and repairing its track on Madison street, an improvement much needed. This track has been in such bad condition that every time a car passed over it there was a regular Fourth of July display of fireworks from the car wheels. The repairs are only temporary, and intended to last, as the company says, until such time as it can get wide steel rails to lay a new track. Everybody seems to be anxious to get wide steel rails these days, when it appears to be impossible to get any, and the temporary repairs being made by railway companies to last till such rails can be procured may have to last as long as they might be considered permanent improvements.

ARRESTED FOR GAMBLING.—Police Sergeant Church and Policemen Jamison and Gansett swooped down on a gambling saloon, at the northwest corner of Second and Burnside streets, last night, and arrested seven men, charged with gambling. Martin Costello, J. J. Fry, M. H. French, L. S. Wanner, Gus Sweeney, J. P. Gay and A. T. Cohn. The police say that a poker game was in progress. The seven men were taken to the police station, and were all released on their furnishing $5 bail for their appearance at the Municipal Court, except Costello, who had to furnish $50 bail.

CIRCLE CITY HOSPITAL.—The ladies of the Trinity Auxiliary will give a social tea in the parish-house, Fifth and Oak streets, for the benefit of the Circle City Hospital, today, from 2:30 until 5 P. M. An address will be given by Rev. E. T. Benson on the trinitarian convention, after which refreshments will be served. A most cordial welcome is extended to all. Admission 10 cents.

DOG-POISONER ABROAD.—A wire-haired fox terrier, prizewinner at the last dog show, belonging to Mrs. R. Lea Barnes, was poisoned on Portland Heights with strychnine. A. M. Kelley, who was also poisoned. The police have the matter in hand. As is usual in these cases, some one is suspected.

STEAMER TAMORA.—Dulles Route, running on schedule on Dulles Bayley Gatzert, from foot Alder street. Leaves Portland Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 A. M. Leaves The Dalles Sunday, Wednesday and Friday, 7 A. M. Stops at all way landings for both passengers and freight.

LOAN COLLECTIONS.—miniatures and bronzes in Art Association rooms, Library building, will be open from November 16 to November 23, inclusive. Open hours 1:30 to 4:30 P. M. and 8 to 10 P. M. Admission 10 cents. There will be no days of free admission during exhibit.

BAILEY GATZERT.—Astoria Route, daily from Portland, foot Alder street, 7 A. M., except Sunday; daily from Astoria, 7 P. M., except Sunday.

RECEPTION TO DR. CRESEY.—The members of the First Unitarian Church and their new pastor, Dr. George Cressey, were given an opportunity to shake hands with one another and make acquaintance last night in the church parlors. This proved to be a thoroughly agreeable proceeding, and the committee on refreshments and bright comments that characterized the evening. The rooms had been made cozy with Autumn leaves, chrysanthemums and potted palms, the airy white blossoms of the Japanese Clematis occupying a conspicuous place in the center of the room. The guests were received by Mrs. T. L. Ellis, Mrs. Charles E. Bittor, Mrs. W. A. Buchanan, Mrs. A. A. Cohn, Mrs. W. V. Johnson. After opportunity had been given to all to exchange greetings with Dr. and Mrs. Cressey, ice-cream and cake were served, the committee on refreshments comprising Mrs. Henry Ellis, Mrs. W. O. Sloan, Mrs. A. L. Pease, Mrs. E. W. Crichton and Mrs. Norris R. Cox. The same committee had charge of the decorations. This informal reception promises to usher in a most happy pastorate for the new pastor, and the committee will strive to exert a helpful and elevating influence on the people entrusted to his care.

FIVE NEW BLOCKS OF STREET RAILWAY.—The Portland City & Oregon Railway Company has commenced the construction of its new road on Burnside street from Fifth to Front. It is putting down seven-inch steel rails, and will have a first-class road. The cars of this company running to and from Vancouver cross the Burnside-street bridge and run up First street to connect with the cars of the Washington street line. The car traffic on First street is going to be very large before long. The Portland City & Oregon Railway Company is increasing the number of its cars. The City & Suburban Railway Company, which has a track right on the street, has already put on one car to see if it can find room to edge in between the cars of the Oregon City Company, and it looks as if Superintendent Fuller, of the Portland Railway Company, in building up Burnside street to the company's line on Fifth was providing a way for the cars of the Vancouver line to get to Washington street in case of congestion of travel on First street.

OPERATION FOR PARALYSIS.—Sidney Raxworthy, of one Neustadter Bros., traveling man, is at present in St. Vincent's Hospital and in rather a critical condition. A few days ago, while at Northport, Wash., he suffered a stroke of paralysis from his waist down. He was brought in to Spokane, where he was met by a man sent by Neustadter Bros., and was brought to this city and taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, where an operation for his relief was performed Tuesday. It is known that paralysis is caused by a clot of blood forming in the brain, and a surgeon at St. Vincent's brain. In this case the clot was on the spine, and several blood vessels in its vicinity were ruptured. The operation was successful, and the patient is now very hopeful of his recovery.

GREAT AMOUNT OF SEWER CONSTRUCTION.—There is likely to be a great amount of sewer construction done in this city this winter. Preliminary proceedings were commenced which will result in 20 sewers being under way within the next two months. As soon as winter begins in earnest, probably many more sewers will be called for. A number of the 20 sewers mentioned are branches of the great Beech-street district sewer, but a majority of them are scattered about the city. It may occur to some that it is strange that so much sewer work should be done during the most unfavorable season of the year, but it is a fact well understood by the city authorities that the winter demand for sewers is always either in the hottest part of summer, when cesspools become a nuisance, or in the winter, when the rains cause the cesspools to overflow and become nuisances.

BOSTON MAN CHARGED WITH GLASS-BREAKING.—With a face as in Dana Gibson, and swinging a Rough Rider hat in his right hand, William Snow, of Boston, Mass., appeared in the Municipal Court yesterday to answer a charge of breaking glass in the door of a Second-street saloon. In excellent English, Snow denied that he willfully broke the glass, and insisted that a crowd of young men attacked him. "It may be, though, that the pane of glass was broken in the fight," said Snow, thoughtfully. "The trouble with those people in the saloon was that they thought I had money, and when they found out I was broke they went for me. I could not beat off a dozen men, could I?" A lawyer present remarked that Snow came from the same town that produced John L. Sullivan, and Snow grinned. The case was continued in order to receive the evidence of a bystander.

TO REPAIR HAYDEN SLOUGH DIKE.—The dike constructed by the Government some years ago across Hayden Island Slough, a little below the city, has been badly damaged by winter floods, which have caused the brush and stone to settle. A contract for the repair of these damages has been let by Captain Langitt, of the United States Engineers, to E. T. Johnson, of this city, for $10,000. The object of the dike is to close Hayden Island Slough and turn the water which used to flow through it down the main Columbia, in order to prevent the channel below Vancouver from shoaling. The slough had become so large as to carry quite a large share of the water of the Columbia, and the Government had been expending large sums of money along these lines, but rather the celebrating of an event of vast importance, not only to the Pacific Coast, but to the whole Nation as well. My idea is that the buildings should not be costly structures for architectural display, but rather to show the strength and grandeur of the timber resources of the country, then discovered. I also think that a departure from the plans usually followed in the construction of the buildings to be used should be made. I would suggest that the main building for the exposition to be held in 1906 should be denominated as the National building, and should cover at least 40 acres of ground. This should be so constructed that the Government should occupy the center of the building, and then a space should be assigned to each state and territory, about that occupied by the General Government, and each state and territory invited to occupy that space with an exhibit of the products of their state, including everything

MONEY FOR A ROADWAY.—The elevated roadway on Hawthorne avenue, between East Water and East Third streets, is in a very bad condition, and the city engineers will report to the Council at its next meeting that an appropriation of about $100 will be needed to place this roadway in good repair. It carries a tremendous traffic of heavily loaded teams from Inman, Poulsen's mills, which rapidly wear out the plankings. There are several other elevated roadways much in need of repairs.

FUNERAL OF MR. KING.—The funeral of the late Amos N. King was held from the family residence, Twentieth and Washington streets, yesterday afternoon. A large number of friends of the deceased attended the services, which were conducted by Rev. E. P. Hill. The ceremony was brief, consisting of Scripture reading, a few remarks by the minister, and a prayer. The private services at the interment in Riverview cemetery were attended by the members of the family.

NO EVIDENCE AGAINST GARDNER.—W. C. Gardner, a Morrison-street jeweler, who was arrested for the larceny of a watch chain, was discharged yesterday by Acting Municipal Judge McDevitt, on the ground that the evidence presented by the prosecution had not been sufficient. No watch figured in the case.

BAD BUSINESS FOR A POET

FRANK EAGLE, WHO COURTS THE MUSE, IN COURT.

Charged With Having Waylaid R. L. Carse on Morrison Street Bridge.

Frank Eagle, by occupation a poet, was before Acting Municipal Judge McDevitt yesterday, charged with assault with intent to rob, on the complaint of R. L. Carse, a clerk employed by the Honeyman Hardware Company. Eagle is a young man of about 25 years, has dark hair, is smoothly shaven, is about five feet eight inches in height, and he wore a light gray coat with black silk lined collar.

"Last Sunday night, about 7:30 o'clock, I was crossing Morrison-street bridge, and just as I was about 150 feet from the eastern end I was attacked by two men," testified Carse. "One man, whom I recognize as Eagle, grabbed me around the neck, and his companion took hold of my overcoat, which was buttoned. We fought, and I tore myself loose and got away. There were no words spoken, but there was light enough to see Eagle's face. I remember that one of the men called me a name. There was an electric light burning near the place where I was attacked."

"Are you willing to swear that Eagle is one of the two men who attacked you?" asked Lawyer B. M. Smith, who was the prisoner's counsel.

"Yes, sir," replied Eagle.

"How do you recognize him?"

"By his face, height and light coat."

"Would you not call his coat a dark coat?"

"I would not."

Police Sergeant Church and Lawyer Smith had a series of wrangles over the color of Eagle's coat, because Church insisted that it is a light coat. "You must be color blind, sergeant," suggested the lawyer.

"I used to be color blind, but I have got over it," replied Eagle.

"I think it is a dark coat," argued the lawyer, scanning the prisoner's coat critically.

"I don't think so," insisted Church. The latter went on to testify that Eagle was picked up near the police station from a description furnished by Carse, who identified the prisoner when he first saw him at the police station.

Eagle testified: "I never saw Carse until I saw him at the police station. I never assisted him nor tried to rob him, and I was not on that bridge Sunday night. I do not know where the bridges are in this town. I had been drinking a bit, but I knew what I was doing. Sunday night about 8 o'clock I was in a saloon at Second and Burnside streets, or in another saloon on Third street."

"Where did you come from last?" asked Deputy District Attorney Spencer.

"From Seattle, where I wrote poetry of my own composition."

"Have you any specimens of your poetry, now?"

"No, sir. But I write poetry," replied Eagle, proudly.

Lawyer Smith said he would show that Eagle was in Whitechapel saloons Sunday night about 8 o'clock, and would prove this by a bartender named Wagner. The case was continued.

PLAN FOR THE BIG FAIR.

E. W. Allen Suggests That Government Provide Room for States.

DAKLAND, CAL., Nov. 12.—(To the Editor.)—I have seen in The Oregonian the letters of Mr. J. Frank Watson and Mr. H. Wittenburg, protesting against the holding of the Lewis and Clark Exposition in 1906. I think that the opinions of the gentlemen are correct, for it is remembered that never in the world's history has two such phenomenal cities been built for a short six months' use. It is true that the White Palaces at Chicago and the wonderful aggregation of South American palaces now at Buffalo, Millions have been expended in buildings and landscape gardening for architectural beauty and effect, at these expositions, but which were not necessary for the purpose for which the buildings were to be used, and has not in the case of the Pan-American Exposition proven to have been a good financial investment. Although from an artistic standpoint it has been a great educator in showing the possibilities that the future may unfold to us in the construction of buildings in our cities that shall have a harmony throughout in the style of architecture used and in the harmonious blending of colors in the painting of them.

But, if I at all comprehend the purpose for the holding of the Lewis and Clark Centennial, it is not for the expending of large sums of money along these lines, but rather the celebrating of an event of vast importance, not only to the Pacific Coast, but to the whole Nation as well. My idea is that the buildings should not be costly structures for architectural display, but rather to show the strength and grandeur of the timber resources of the country, then discovered. I also think that a departure from the plans usually followed in the construction of the buildings to be used should be made. I would suggest that the main building for the exposition to be held in 1906 should be denominated as the National building, and should cover at least 40 acres of ground. OLD PIANOS WANTED

We Will Pay Cash for Anti-Quated Instruments—The Older the Better.

Under the auspices of Messrs. Chickering & Sons, the oldest-established American piano manufacturers, there will shortly be held in Boston an exhibition of old-time pianos, with a view to showing the tremendous advance that has been made in piano-building. We wish to obtain good specimens of every style and type of piano, especially those representing the first periods of piano-building, and are in position to offer unusual prices for such instruments.

Messrs. Chickering & Sons, of Boston, will also be very grateful for any offer to lend them instruments of different nature, or musical matter of unusual or historic interest, and for any suggestion that will enable them to carry out the exhibition in the most complete, interesting and attractive manner.

Expert Says the Oil Is There.

BAKER CITY, Nov. 13.—Alexander McCall, the oil expert, whose experience has been in Pennsylvania, Ohio and California fields, returned today from the newly discovered oil fields in Malheur County, where Spokane, Baker City and Portland investors have located large bodies of land, and reports that there is undoubtedly a large body of oil in a paraffin base, which is the highest grade of lubricating and illuminating oil. He also says there is every evidence of natural gas, and he believes that the oil cannot fail to find the oil. The boring apparatus for the Portland crowd will be on the ground in a short time, and others will follow as soon as the necessary proceedings and stock arrangements can be made.
