so recalling the example of the illustrious sage, teachers and student alike will hold that the chief end of all learning, the main object of all education is right conduct, and that the highest manifestation of right conduct is justice.

"Side by side with the work of education shall that of religion proceed. Unmistakable indications seems to leave no room to doubt that if the church—Protestant or Catholic—would retain its position as a controlling factor in shaping the actions of men, it must place itself in the forefront of that longing for economic justice which is now so powerfully agitating the masses. They mistake the temper of the times, they fail to rate at its proper value the intellectual development brought about by universal education, who fancy that the minds of the multitude can long continue to be entertained, or the yearning of their hearts be satisfied with theological disquisitions about controverted dogmas, or the pageants of ceremonial worship. The people will no longer believe that the paramount function of religion is to prepare men for the life to come. They will insist that its office is to help them to right living in the life this side the grave. The downtrodden and the oppressed will refuse to assent to the doctrine that to bear wrongs without a murmur is meritorious in the sight of God, or that the sufferings of this life constitute the surest title to everlasting joy in heaven. The 20th century will cast aside these doctrines as the false teachings of a past age—an age when the church derived its support from the favors of a triumphant militancy, taught the divine right of Kings to reign, and, on condition of becoming a partaker in their rule, helped Princes to keep their peoples in subjection by inculcating the doctrine of submission to authority. Once more, as as in the days of the apostles and the martyrs, the true nature of Christ's mission upon earth shall stand revealed. Once more, his teachings disentangled from the encumbering casuistry of schoolmen and the subtleties of theologians, will be understood in their true and sublime simplicity. Once more his gospel will be known to be the gospel of humanity, his kingdom the brotherhood of man, and his rule the power of eternal love and eternal justice.

"And so, through the enlightenment of the intellect, and the purification of the heart, will justice be established among the nations of the earth. And so peace shall be proclaimed between the contending hosts of capital and labor, on that day when, not only upon the frieze of the Courthouse, in the Valley of Santa Clara, but over the entrance of every school, college and university, and above the portal of every chapel, church and cathedral shall be inscribed the legend, 'Justitiae Dedicata,' and when even thus, by a common and universal impulse of mind and of heart, of reason and of sentiment, they shall all in the cause of humanity be equally devoted, dedicated and consecrated to justice."

LAWYERS AT BANQUET.

Dinner Was Served After Fashion of English Inns of Court.

Last night about 60 members of the Bar Association and about 15 guests partook of an informal dinner at the Hotel Portland. The south parlors of the hotel were handsomely decorated with evergreens and beads of various colored electric lights. The dinner was after the plan of such affairs in the English Inns of Court, and was prepared in Manager Bowers' best style. Under the jovial influence of the repast the spirit of those present expanded and mellowed into unreserved sociability.

At the right hand of President J. B. Cleland sat D. M. Delmas, and at the left Dr. W. T. Williamson. Other guests of the association were: J. T. Morgan, J. McI. Wood, W. D. Wheelright, Dr. A. E. Rockey, Dr. S. E. Josephi, Dr. H. B. Miller, J. T. Lighter, H. B. Smith, W. B. Ayer, J. K. Kolloch and C. J. Reed.

Members of the association present were: Judge J. B. Cleland, Cecil H. Bauer, Judge C. B. Bellinger, W. L. Brewster, N. H. Bloomfield, J. F. Boothe, E. C. Bronaugh, A. M. Crawford, J. A. Carson, F. D. Chamberlain, C. H. Carey, George E. Chamberlain, R. R. Duniway, C. V. Dolph, A. C. Emmons, W. D. Fenton, A. F. Flegel, R. L. Glisan, T. G. Greene, T. J. Geisler, Judge M. C. George, G. W. Hazen, F. V. Holman, J. H. Hill, Oscar Hayter, S. B. Huston, O. J. Kroemer, J. F. Logan, C. E. Lockwood, S. B. Linthicum, W. Y. Masters, M. G. Munly, F. P. Mays, H. H. Northup, H. G. Platt, J. Thorburn Ross, A. F. Sears, Jr., M. W. Smith, S. C. Spencer, J. R. Stoddard, E. R. Skipworth, W. E. Thomas, A. P. Tifft, E. B. Tongue, T. W. Vreeland, George H. Williams, J. T. Whalley, O. F. Paxton, L. R. Webster, J. H. Woodward, T. G. Hailey, S. H. Gruber, William Smith, C. J. Bright, J. P. Kennedy, C. J. Schnabel, J. W. Schnabel, H. B. Smith, George F. Holman, A. L. Miller.

Judge George Williams made a very interesting after-dinner speech on the subject of early court experiences. E. R. Skipworth followed with amusing anecdotes of the same nature. Short addresses were also delivered by R. L. Glisan, S. B. Huston, Judge C. B. Bellinger and T. A. Hailey. D. M. Delmas made brief remarks, in which he represented his heartfelt appreciation of the kindness of the association toward him. Mr. Delmas was elected an honorary member of the association by acclamation. He is the first person to enjoy the distinction. Dr. A. E. Rockey spoke on "Expert Testimony." The dinner lasted until 11:30 o'clock.

FOR BREACH OF CONTRACT.

E. J. McKittrick Sues Thomas Hall and Bluford D. Sigler.

E. J. McKittrick has begun proceedings in the State Circuit Court against Thomas Hall and Bluford D. Sigler to enforce the performance of an agreement for the trade of stores and business property, or to recover $9095. He states in his complaint that on November 12, 1901, he contracted to transfer to Hall a house and lot at Front and Hood streets, incumbered with a $700 mortgage, a store in East Portland, and to pay Hall $500 cash. Hall, on the other hand was to execute a bill of sale to a feed and grain store at Front and Madison streets. It is charged that Hall failed to keep the agreement, and instead sold the store to Sigler. McKittrick asks the court to decree that Sigler holds the store in trust for him; otherwise McKittrick wants a judgment covering the value of the goods in the store which he places at $2295, and machinery at $800.

PERSONAL MENTION.

State Representative C. A. Butt, of Newberg, is in the city.

C. W. Miller, secretary of the Board of Trade, is at Florence, Lane County, on business.

L. B. Reeder, Speaker of the Oregon House of Representatives, is registered at the Perkins from Pendleton.

George Beal, superintendent of the Pillar Rock cannery, left for New York last night on his way to England, where he will spend the Winter.

Benjamin Jaggar, who underwent a dangerous surgical operation at Good Samaritan Hospital Tuesday, stood the ordeal well, considering his advanced age, and is apparently on the high road to recovery.

Mrs. J. C. Card has returned from a two years European tour, and is visiting with her niece, Mrs. R. B. Lamson, Willamette Heights. She will make her residence this Winter at the Hobart-Curtis.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Northwestern people registered at New York hotels today as follows:

From Portland—S. M. Rothschild, at the Victoria; T. B. Wilcox and wife, at the Holland.

From Seattle—A. B. Graham, at the Astor; J. Campbell and wife, at the Herald Square; J. D. Meenach and wife, at the Marlborough.

WORK ON EAST SIDE

Lewis and Clark Promoters District Their Section.

WILL MAKE ACTIVE CANVASS

Movement Is Supported by an Earnest and Enthusiastic Body of Men —Committees Are Chosen to Further the Enterprise.

A meeting of citizens of the district between Hawthorne avenue and Tillamook street was held last night at 64 Grand avenue, called by A. T. Lewis, chairman of the Lewis and Clark committee of the East Side Improvement Association, to district that part of Portland and name the canvassing committees. It was an earnest and enthusiastic body of men. A. T. Lewis called the meeting to order and presided. He stated the object of the meeting with a vigorous appeal for the co-operation of all citizens interested in the future of Portland.

Whitney L. Boise also addressed the gathering, explaining what is being done and what is expected on the East Side. He declared that every citizen should take an interest in the proposed centennial celebration, and show that Portland had the enterprise to carry it forward to a great success. The city, he said, could not recede now, but it must go ahead with the exposition. There could not with any honor be any backward movement. It had gone forth to the world that Portland would hold this centennial celebration, and it must do so, or be disgraced; but he was sure that the patriotic citizens would see to it that it would be carried forward with honor to the city and state.

The meeting then proceeded to divide off the territory into districts and assign chairmen and committeemen. The following are the districts and committees:

District No. 1, between Hawthorne avenue and East Salmon street—A. T. Lewis, chairman; J. S. Foss, W. J. Warren, C. C. Murphy, A. G. Rushlight.

District No. 2, between East Salmon and Belmont—F. W. Torgler, chairman; C. A. Brown, R. L. Cate, L. A. Maxwell, G. W. Holcomb, Valentine Browne, Mr. Rash.

District No. 3, between Belmont and East Washington—C. W. Pallett, chairman; S. B. Cobb, J. F. Compton, C. A. Bell, O. M. Scott, Joseph Paquet.

District No. 4, between East Washington and East Pine—O. Young, chairman; W. S. Davis, A. Kindorf, W. T. B. Nichson, W. M. Gatens, J. J. Kadderly, S. L. Brown, P. G. Magness.

District No. 5, between East Pine and East Burnside—E. M. Sargent, chairman; J. E. Hunt, C. N. Rankin, A. Kadderly, D. J. Beakey, J. M. Lewis, T. H. Gardner.

District No. 6, between East Burnside and East Everett—O. W. Taylor, chairman; R. Clinton, R. Schmeer, Thomas Kindred, W. G. Kearns, Joseph Buchtel, Webb Campbell, J. F. Cordray, G. W. Stapleton, A. W. Ake, Charles Wilson, J. R. Harrington, Captain Thomas O'Brien, E. Ferguson, D. Parrott, P. Zimmerman, H. H. Newhall, J. C. Windle, D. L. Houston.

District No. 7, between East Everett and Holladay avenue—I. Buchman, chairman; Dr. John Welch, T. N. MacHolland, A. M. Cox, Fred Jennings.

District No. 8, between Holladay avenue and Weidler—E. B. McFarland, chairman; J. C. Mann, Henry Jennings, T. O. Nicolai, L. Nicolai, E. E. Coovert.

District No. 9, between Weidler to Tillamook—Captain E. W. Spencer, chairman; F. R. Cook; W. R. Insley, J. R. Stewart, George Shaver, Dan McAllen.

Sunnyside, District No. 10, from Hawthorne avenue to the Base Line road, between East Thirtieth and East Thirty-eighth streets—Joseph E. Worth, chairman; H. B. Adams, Mr. Raymond, T. J. Hammer, S. C. Pier, Sr., W. W. Minar, Dr. Thomas Darling, Dr. Joseph A. Pettit.

Mount Tabor district, east of Thirty-eighth, exclusive of Montavilla—D. A. Grout, chairman; W. A. Laidlaw, A. P. Tift, E. S. Brubaker, S. F. Fields, M. A. Peery, F. S. Aiken.

On motion the chairman was authorized to appoint a new chairman of any of the above committees in case any of those named cannot serve. It is hoped, however, that every one whose name is mentioned in the list will make it convenient, even at a sacrifice, to perform the duties required, and thus make the burden light all around. Any considerable number failing to respond will throw the work on a few. It was decided to adjourn to meet again at the office of Justice Vreeland, East Morrison street, next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Each chairman was authorized to increase his committee by the addition of any whom he may desire to aid in his district.

COMMITTEE ON GROCERS ORGANIZE

City Districted and Canvassers Designated for Each District.

The committee appointed to canvass the grocers of the city for subscriptions to the stock of the Lewis and Clark Exposition held a meeting at the office of the Chamber of Commerce, 246 Washington street, last evening, and organized for work. F. E. Beach is chairman, and E. V. Russ was chosen secretary. The city was divided into nine districts for the purposes of this canvass, the districts and the canvassers designated for each being as follows:

West Side—First district (all north of the center line of Glisan street), E. J. Richards and T. J. Nealond; second district (all between the center of Glisan and the center of Alder), F. Sealy, M. J. Malley and C. W. Nottingham; third district (all between the center of Alder and the center of Mill), D. C. Burns and F. Dresser; fourth district (all south of the center of Mill street), D. M. Watson and A. J. Farmer.

East Side—First district (south of the Southern Pacific, including Sellwood, Milwaukie, Woodstock and Powell's Valley), O. Williamson and J. Managhan; second district (north of the Southern Pacific to the center of East Stark, including Mount Tabor and Sunnyside), D. Kellaher, E. V. Russ and James Yates; third district (north of center of East Stark to center of San Rafael), A. A. Kadderly and J. C. Mann; fourth district (north of center of San Rafael to the center of Shaver), L. Renner and F. W. Funk; fifth district (north of Shaver to the junction of the Willamette and Columbia Rivers), A. R. Zellar and W. S. Cuttler.

This committee will meet with the other solicitors for final instructions tomorrow evening in the Chamber of Commerce building.

BOOMING THE 1905 FAIR.

Mr. Merrill Back From a Trip of Exploitation to Neighboring Cities.

Councilman Fred T. Merrill, with his secretary, R. Lee Ijams, returned last evening from a two weeks' visit in Spokane, Seattle and Tacoma. Mr. Merrill had much to say about his trip, in the following vein:

"I have just returned from a trip to Puget Sound and Spokane, where I have been preparing for trade for the season of 1902, and incidentally advertising the 1905 fair. Of course, I have never failed to speak of the many good points of my own city, but I am here to say to you that Portland is not in it with Seattle or Spokane when it comes to improvements and several other matters, and the people of Portland will have to wake up or they will get lost in the shuffle and the other cities in the Northwest will receive more benefit from our 1905 exposition than we will receive at home.

"I was quite surprised at the miles of new asphalt and other street paving that have been laid in Spokane in the past six months, and Seattle is fairly outdoing herself in improving her streets in every direction, and her beautiful fireboat would do credit to a much larger city.

"There is another noticeable fact in these cities—that when the Mayor, Council and the city government decide to make improvements in any certain direction they go ahead and do it, and do not allow every old calamity howler and mossback to file a remonstrance. Then, again, the Mayor and the City Council run the affairs of the city, and do not allow themselves to be dictated to; and they have come realize that they cannot stamp out gambling and other vices that necessarily exist in every growing city. So they are doing the next best thing—regulating them, and at the same putting from $60,000 to $100,000 per year in the city treasury, thereby cutting down some of the interest on their bonded indebtedness and making the burdens of the taxpayer lighter.

"If Mayor Rowe would take my advice he would compel some of the politicians and the municipal government to show their hand at this time. There is not a more moral man in the City of Portland than Mayor Rowe, and he does not believe in gambling or other similar vices, but he is aware that they will still exist, and if not with open doors it will be behind barred doors and in smoky back rooms. When men want to gamble, they will find a way of doing it. So why not regulate it and let the poor shopkeepers, taxpayers and business men generally receive a benefit from it, and let Portland grow to 150,000 people before the 1905 fair, instead of drying it up and making it a mossback town, when it should be a flourishing metropolitan city?

"While attending a social in Spokane a few evenings ago I was called upon to make a few remarks, which I attempted to do, taking Portland and the 1905 celebration as my subject. I stated that Portland had on her war paint to make this 1905 fair the grandest exposition ever given west of the Missouri River; that the hustlers were already at work and that the remainder of the population would fall in line when they were called upon. Just then a man in the back of the room, in a bass voice, remarked, 'Yes, and while you and a few men are doing the hustling, the balance of Portland will be mildewing,' and I find that is about the opinion the majority of the live citizens of the other cities entertain towards our beautiful City of Portland.

"And, by the way, speaking of a beautiful city, it is a strange coincidence that while ordinances are being introduced into our City Council to cut down the beautiful shade trees of our city, the Spokane Council is passing ordinances to purchase thousands of trees to beautify the city, and has already received two monster carloads of them. I will be satisfied to see some of the trees and stumps in the business center of Portland cut down, but will never be satisfied to have the beautiful shade trees of Portland removed, for they are one of the many attractions of our city and will always remain a source of wonderment to the thousands and thousands of visitors coming to Portland in the next few years, after traveling through the many barren cities and states on their way to the Coast.

"I have assured them that the people of Portland are standing splendidly together in their determination to make it an exposition that will attract attention the world over, and that it will go through with a whoop and a hurrah.

"I shall remain in Portland probably for the balance of this week, and will then start with my wife for Chicago, New York and other Eastern points, and during our journey will leave no stone unturned to boom our coming 1905 centennial."

While gone Mr. Merrill was interviewed at length by the Tacoma Ledger on the prospects of the fair.

TO AID LEWIS AND CLARK CANVASS

Brooklyn Sub-Board of Trade Will Take Action Tonight.

There will be an important meeting of the Brooklyn Sub-Board of Trade this evening at Webfoot hose company's house, at the corner of East Eighteenth and Powell streets. Business men, property-owners and residents are specially invited and requested to attend this meeting. It is desirable to arrange to aid in the canvass for subscriptions to the 1905 Lewis and Clark Fair. It is not yet known what part the sub-board will be called on to take, but in order to be ready to give whatever assistance may be required this meeting will be held specially for this purpose.

EASTERN MULTNOMAH.

Postoffice Named "Cleone" May Be Changed to "Fairview."

There is so much confusion over the names "Fairview" and "Cleone," by which latter name the postoffice of the first station beyond Portland, on the O. R. & N., is known, that Postmaster Hofer is trying to get the name changed. He is saving up the envelopes of all misdirected letters for an exhibit to Congressman Moody and hopes ultimately to have the name "Cleone" lopped off and "Fairview" substituted. Recently he received five letters in one day, directed to himself that had gone to a small place in Southern Oregon called "Fairview." He is growing very tired of trying to inform people that his postoffice is "Cleone," although the railroad company persists in calling it by the other name. An effort is being made to have the Postoffice Department to change "Cleone" to "Fairview," and then change the name of the other "Fairview" to something else.

New Store Building.

A. H. Bell's new store at Rockwood is about completed and is receiving a new stock of goods, preparatory to being occupied in about a week more. It is considered to be one of the finest store buildings in the country. Mr. Bell has sold his old building to L. Lovelace, who will move it away and use it for outbuildings.

Moving of a Mill.

Grow's sawmill, which for several years past has been cutting railroad ties south of Orient, is being moved to a new location further east. An excellent body of timber, containing about 200 acres, near Cottrell, will be cut into ties. Of the 14 tiemills in this section, only seven are engaged in sawing ties, the others being engaged in cutting lumber for local use. Hauling has been resumed to Troutdale, the O. R. & N. Co. having cleaned the yard there sufficiently to make room. The yard at Fairview now holds over 100,000 ties awaiting shipment.

Farm Improvements.

W. W. Cotton has recently been making some needed improvements on his model farm near this place. His creamery has been newly painted and renovated and his residence will soon be treated likewise. Mr. Cotton has the only creamery here at present, and is using all the milk he can buy, besides that of 50 cows of his own. He put up another silo last Summer for his stock, making three in all, and bought large quantities of green-corn fodder to fill them. He has a model farm that is worth inspecting.

Mail Contract to Be Let.

The Postoffice Department has advertised for bids for carrying mail daily between Terry and Hurlburt, a distance of nine miles, for four years. The new contract will begin July 1 next, on the termination of the present contract, which has been held by G. H. Rickert since the route was established, in June, 1898. The route serves the postoffice of Gage, beyond the Sandy, and also the people along the road, who make arrangements with the carrier.

New Sunday School.

Rev. C. A. Nutley has organized a Sunday school in the Baptist Church here. Officers are as follows: Superintendent, Mrs. J. L. Chalker; secretary, Miss Elva Cox; treasurer, Lulu Sweet; teachers, Mrs. J. L. Chalker, Mrs. Orewiler, Mrs. Cox, Miss Bessie Cox and Mrs. C. A. Nutley. A membership of 40 has been enrolled. The first session will be held next Sunday

Brief Notes.

Several carloads of potatoes are being shipped from Fairview again this week. They now bring $1 10 per 100 pounds, and that price is inducing many growers to sell.

The teachers of the Rockwood and the Lynch schools are preparing a prize drill for Friday evening next. The winner will use the proceeds to buy a flag for the schoolhouse.

J. W. Shattuck has moved his dwelling-house from his farm, two miles west of Gresham, to a site recently purchased near the new schoolhouse. Next year he will build a large addition, making it one of the finest residences in Gresham.

Supervisor Mackay has a crew of men and teams at work putting a new coat of sand on the Base Line bicycle paths. A heavy rain will put the paths in excellent condition

The Fairview cheese factories are now paying 26 cents a pound for butter fat, and complain of a scarcity, even at that figure. They could handle the milk from 20,000 cows.

A special meeting of the legal voters of Fairview School District was held Saturday last, at which authority was given the directors to refund the indebtedness of the district. Another meeting will be held soon for the purpose of taking subscriptions for the amount needed.

Miss Jennie Munk

Chaplain Woman's Auxiliary, S. A. V. A.

Miss Jennie E. Munk, who was elected chaplain-general of the Woman's National Auxiliary, Spanish-American Veterans' Association, at Trenton, N. J., Tuesday evening, lives at 423 Union avenue, Upper Albina. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Munk, residents of that part of Portland for a number of years. The honor seems to have fallen on worthy shoulders. Miss Munk has been a member of Harrington Auxiliary Camp, No. 4, of this city, since its organization, nearly two years ago, and has been its secretary, with the rank of sergeant. In this auxiliary camp she has been quite active and efficient as a member and officer, and has written a number of excellent articles on the organization. Miss Munk is a printer. She has many friends, who are pleased that she has been honored.

"MODERN ELOQUENCE"

A LIBRARY OF FAMOUS AFTER-DINNER SPEECHES, CLASSIC AND POPULAR LECTURES, THE BEST OCCASIONAL ADDRESSES, ANECDOTES, REMINISCENCE AND REPARTEE. TEN VOLUMES.

J. P. Dolliver.

"Modern Eloquence"

Enters the literature of the Twentieth Century the most unique and attractive set of books published for a quarter century. It is a new view of the times, public men and questions through the utterances of the representative men of brain and achievement, of the last 50 years; a Library containing the brilliant deliverances, often the occasions of international interest, of the foremost men of modern times—their public Addresses, Lectures, After-Dinner Speeches, and bon mots, presented in artistic and durable form.

HON. THOMAS B. REED.

Personality of the Great Statesman and Writer—His Life Work.

The name of no American statesman has greater weight with the American public than that of Thos B. Reed. The temperament of Mr. Reed is a peculiar one. He is a man of great intellect, and in the force and power of his utterance he is the peer of any public man who ever claimed the suffrages of the American people.

Mr. Reed is not only a great orator, but as a writer of the first order he has made for himself a place in the galaxy of the leading literary men of America. Mr. Reed has been no less prominent in private life than he was at the time that he was the controlling force in National appropriations as affecting the expenditures of the United States Government through the initiative of the House of Representatives. He is a big man anywhere, and any utterance made on his authority, whether from the platform or by the pen, is worthy of the best recognition of the thinking masses throughout the country.

Hon. Thos. B. Reed

What may be truly said to be the life work of Mr. Reed is found in the publication of "Modern Eloquence" under his special direction. This work is now being distributed throughout the Pacific Northwestern field by The Oregonian itself. As the compilation of the most valuable matter, this may truly be said to be one of the greatest literary productions of the age. "Modern Eloquence" is published in 10 volumes and it is sold at a price that places the set within the reach of the reading public. No book ever offered by The Oregonian has received the recognition from the people that "Modern Eloquence" has claimed. Testimonials regarding the merits and the attractiveness of this set have been received by The Oregonian from all parts of the United States.

General Index in the Tenth Volume.

The editors have given to the subject of an Index the close attention which this important feature demands; and they have prepared an Analytical Index with a special view to three things—simplicity, accuracy and comprehensiveness. It has been found that a number of indices relating to various parts of the same speech were confusing rather than helpful. For this reason attention has been concentrated upon one general index which embodies in alphabetical order every name and subject contained in the entire work, together with many leading topics that might be chosen for study. In this way it becomes at once an Index and a Concordance. Each general title, as "Art," "Science," or "Literature" will be found to include references to every after-dinner speech, address, lecture, or anecdote bearing on that particular topic. The value of this arrangement to students and prospective speakers must be obvious. They are enabled at a glance to obtain a cyclopedic grasp of the whole subject. Cross-references are minute and exhaustive, if further study on a given line is desired.

There are three styles of binding. All three, though sumptuous, are by special insistence of Mr. Reed moderately priced; and the convenient terms of payment will not strain the most modest purse-strings.

To properly present the library, portfolios containing Table and Contents, fine photogravures, chromatic plates and other interesting material, have been prepared. One of these, with full particulars regarding binding, prices and terms, will be sent upon receipt of annexed inquiry coupon, containing name and address.

THE OREGONIAN

Great attention has been paid to the selection and reproduction of the ILLUSTRATIONS. They are executed in photogravure full-page size. There are nearly a hundred of them, each being a direct "positive" reproduction from the original source, without the usual intermediate steps of one to three "negatives," in each of which some details are lost.

Mail This Inquiry Coupon.

THE OREGONIAN, PORTLAND. Gentlemen: Referring to your advertisement of Hon. Thos. B. Reed's library of Modern Eloquence, I will be pleased to receive (without charge) portfolio of sample pages, photogravures and chromatic plates; also full particulars regarding bindings, prices, etc.

STRICTURES ON SCHLEY.

Correspondent Says He Is a Well-Meaning Failure.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 14.—(To the Editor.)—You will doubtless recognize the following:

His "Mistakes" Glorious.

Doubtless, Schley made mistakes in May and June of 1898. We all make mistakes, which we rue in bitterness and tears. The careers are few that can stand unblemished in the fierce light of searching and hostile inquiry, but such mistakes as those he made seem to have been these divagations of discernment which experienced judges as well as the universal sentiment of humanity forgive and forget if proved, to have been incidental only to the impulsive promptings of a sound heart, steadfast and true. Such, for loyalty and fidelity, bravery and tenderness, was the hero of Santiago's nature, such were his mistakes. They are crowns of glory, services and sacrifices, achievements and errors all, compared with the envy and jealousy that have hounded him to this closing act in his long life of heroism and honor. In Mr. Raynor's panegyric the country will join; and not only this country, but the hearts of brave men and devoted women, wherever his story is told. The mistake he did not make was that of being cowardly and ungenerous, and for that, more grievous in judicious eyes than anything charged against him, his critics must answer in the court of mankind.—Portland Oregonian.

So we are to understand that, if a man be but physically brave and have engaging personal qualities, he is to rank high among our country's heroes, no matter what bungling and incompetence may be justly laid to his charge. It is easy to picture to oneself your roll of fame: Horatio Gates, General Wilkinson, George B. McClellan, B. F. Butler, N. P. Banks, Rosecrans, Don Carlos Buell and all the rest of the well-meaning failures.

Schley was more lucky than they because a competent man came to the rescue and retrieved his blunders before it was too late. If General Grant or Admiral Farragut had ever had the misfortune to send in a hastily-written dispatch in a moment when a thousand urgent matters were pressing upon their attention, and failed to give due credit to every subordinate concerned in an affair, they would, according to your logic, have been "cowardly and ungenerous" and entitled to no credit for their great services.

It would be interesting to know just how you arrive at your conclusion that Schley's vacillation, disobedience and general incompetence, displayed up to the time of Sampson's arrival off Santiago, were incidental only to the "generous promptings of a sound heart." This attempt to manufacture a hero out of an incompetent, because he happened to be on hand to share in the successful outcome of another's brilliant planning, is getting to be a little tiresome.

The Wild Swan.

Longman's Magazine.

Every morning at sunrise the swan lifts himself laboriously from the water and flies straight into the very eye of the sun. I suppose he is a sun worshiper, and that is his way of paying his morning devotion to his god. For a mile or two he flies straight for the great golden orb as it rises out of the sea; then he grows discouraged—for all his devotion he seems to come no nearer heaven; so he makes a wide circle, embracing the air with splendid measured strokes that carry him at a marvelous speed through space; then he describes a smaller circle, and when he has finished his second round you may see that he has fixed his eyes once more upon the little pond which is his home; for his long neck—how absurdly long it seems when stretched straight out as now—inclines slightly downward as though he would, if he could stop himself, settle at once. But apparently that settling business is not so easily accomplished for he must circle twice or thrice round the pond before, with a long downward swoop, he comes with a great splash into his domain. As he shoots down all those who have been taking advantage of his absence by poaching in his preserves leave hurriedly; a white duck scrambles awkwardly ashore and quacks away into the long trenches that drain the damp field; several gulls and kittiwakes rise from the water with almost undignified haste. They fly hither and thither for a little while, then settle once more upon the pond, but as far as possible from the uncanny, big creature that flies so noisily.

FOOD STOPPED IT.

Good Food Worth More Than a Gold Mine.

To find a food that will put an absolute stop to "running down" is better than finding a gold mine. Many people when they begin to run down go from one food to another and find it impossible to find a food that will stop the progress of disease. Grape-Nuts Food is the most nourishing known and will set one right if that is possible.

The experience of a Louisiana lady will be interesting. Mrs. J. H. Graham, Wallace, La., writes: "I received a severe nervous shock some years ago, and from overwork gradually broke down. My food did not agree with me, and I lost flesh rapidly. I changed from one kind of food to another, but was unable to stop the loss of flesh and strength.

"I do not exaggerate when I say that I finally became, in reality, a living skeleton. My nights were sleepless, and I was compelled to take opiates in various forms. After trying all sorts of different foods without success, I finally got down to toasted bread with a little butter and after a while this began to sour and I could not digest it. Then I took to toasted crackers and lived on them for several weeks, but kept getting weaker.

"One day I was brought knowledge of Grape-Nuts Food, and it seemed to me from the description that it was just the sort of food I could digest. I began by eating a small portion just as it comes from the package, dry, gradually increasing the amount each day, sometimes warming and adding a little butter.

"My improvement began at once, for it afforded me the nourishment that I had been starving for. No more harassing pains and indigestion. For a month I ate nothing but Grape-Nuts and a little cream and sugar, then I got so well I could take on other kinds of food. I continued to gain flesh rapidly. Now I am in better health than I have been in years. I still stick to Grape-Nuts, because I like the food and I know of its powerful nourishing properties. 'My physician says that my whole trouble was the lack of power to digest food, and that no other food that he knows of would have brought me out of the trouble except Grape Nuts.'"

Contracted Blood Disease

Cured by the Injection Treatment.

After 10 years' use of this method we have had no reason to change; on the contrary, our belief increases daily from reports of patients treated who have married and suffered no relapse. It offers the following advantages, viz.: Saves time for the physician and patient, as well as labor, office visits being rendered infrequent. Besides, little change is necessary in diet or habits of life, the disease is readily concealed and permanent cure is effected in a short time, the stomach is not drugged and the precise dosage is obtainable. The expense also is greatly reduced.
