WITH A GREAT CRASH

Limited Trains Met on Santa Fe Road in Arizona.

SEVEN TRAINMEN WERE KILLED

Fourteen Other Employes and Three Passengers Were Injured—It Is Said Orders Were Disregarded —Explosion Followed.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 20.—A fatal wreck occurred on the Santa Fe Railroad one mile west of Franconia, Ariz., a switching station 20 miles east of Needles, Cal., at 5:15 o'clock this morning. Seven trainmen were killed and three passengers and 14 trainmen injured.

Limited trains, east and west-bound, Nos. 4 and 3, respectively, crashed together while running at full speed. Train No. 4 was drawn by two engines, while the west-bound train had but one locomotive. The three engines were crushed and blown to pieces by an explosion which followed the collision. Both trains were made up of vestibule cars of the heaviest and most improved pattern, and while they stood the terrific shock well and protected the passengers to a great extent, several of the cars took fire at once and burned up. The dining cars, one on each train, one Pullman and two composite cars, were destroyed.

Following is a list of the casualties:

The Dead.

Passengers Injured.

P. J. STEENSON, right shoulder, left ankle and left wrist strained and bruised, Pasadena, Cal.

W. L. FRANLIN, slightly bruised, San Francisco.

MRS. H. H. GIBBEN, slightly injured, Oakland, Cal.

Cause of the Collision.

The collision is said to have been due to a disregarding of orders on the part of the crew of the west-bound limited, though full particulars on this point are as yet lacking. From all accounts, however, it is gathered that the east-bound train had orders to take the siding at Fraconia, and await the passing of the west-bound flyer, which was running two hours late, and trying to make up time. The east-bound train failed to reach the siding and, as the west-bound train did not wait for it, the trains came together without warning, and with an awful crash. The boiler of the west-bound train is said to have exploded immediately after the crash, scalding to death those of the engine crews who had not been killed outright. The bodies of Case and Armitage, firemen on train No. 4, and Sam Brown, a waiter on train No. 6, are missing, and it it believed they were cremated in the conflagration that followed the collision.

Scene of Awful Confusion.

A scene of awful confusion followed the crash. The massive engines piled up in an indescribable mass of broken and twisted steel, while the scalding steam hung in a dense, suffocating cloud over the debris, amidst which the agonizing cries of the injured and dying enginemen could be heard. The heavy Pullmans and composite cars jammed the dining and baggage cars upon the heated pile of debris, carrying death to the dining car crews and setting the cars afire.

From the meager details of the scenes, gathered from the passengers, it is learned that the sleeping cars, with one or two expections, suffered slightly; as a result, the passengers were afforded comparative immunity from injury. So far as learned, only three passengers suffered injuries of a severe character, the terrible results of the wreck being confined almost entirely to the train crews and the employes of the dining car service.

Relief Train to the Scene.

As soon as news of the wreck reached Needles, which is the division headquarters of the West end, a relief train was made up, and, attended by a number of physicians from that point, was hurried to the scene. As quickly as possible, the injured were placed aboard, and started west for Los Angeles.

At Santa Fe headquarters in Los Angeles, it was stated that the blame had not been definitely fixed, but from all appearances it rests with the crew of the west-bound train. Had it stopped at Franconia, and allowed the east-bound train to reach there, as the orders are said to have read, there would have been no wreck. For some reason yet to be learned, however, it came on at full speed. The west-bound limited carried a full passenger list from Eastern cities, but it appears none were injured.

No Clew in Triple Murder.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 20.—The mystery of the triple murder at Downey remains to be cleared up. At the Sheriff's office there is absolutely no clew known that would lead to the arrest of the perpetrator of the crime. Sheriff Hammel has returned from the scene of the tragedy. "We have not the slightest clew, not the least fact, that would point to the identity of the men who killed those people," said the Sheriff.

MAY BE BODY OF LONG-LOST MAN.

It Now Seems J. R. Bucknum, of Harrisburg, Met With Foul Play.

HARRISBURG, Or., Nov. 20.—Great excitement was created here today when word was brought in that the body of J. R. Bucknum, who mysteriously disappeared on November 18, 1898, while hunting deer, in the Cascade Mountains, on Shotgun Creek, about 20 miles east of here, had been found. The news was brought here by a party of hunters, Messrs. Howard, Hanchett and Gumm, of Junction City. They stated that while hunting on Shotgun Creek they met a man named Martin, who told them he had found a grave and had dug into it and found a skeleton and portions of a red sweater. Bucknum wore a red sweater at the time he disappeared. The men said that Martin lived near Crawfordville.

All the information at hand was telephoned today to Alonzo Leach, of Crawfordville, who found Martin living on Brush Creek, about five miles from Crawfordville. To Leach he admitted finding a grave, but denied any knowledge of its contents, although he asked Leach if the missing man had a broken limb. He said the reason he did not investigate into the contents of the grave was because it was against the law to do so, except in the presence of an officer. He further said he would go in a day or two with Mr. Leach and show him the grave. Further questioning availed nothing, as Martin, according to Leach's statement, tried to evade further details. It is believed he has the reward which was offered in view, but it has been withdrawn. If this should prove to be the body of Bucknum, the circumstances of it being buried would indicate foul play. A party from this city will accompany Martin when he starts to guide Leach to the grave.

Mr. Bucknum was a prominent citizen of Harrisburg and one of the owners of the Harrisburg sawmill.

HE IS A LUCKY MINER.

Baker City Man Fired Last Shot for Luck—It Brought Him Wealth.

BAKER CITY, Nov. 20.—A new strike is reported out near the Philips ranch, in the vicinity of the Baisley-Elkhorn, which from all accounts is a very rich proposition. A prospector by the name of Lambert has been working for some time on a ledge that looked very well on the surface, but when he began to sink on it the vein matter did not hold out. The surface showing was so good that he could not bring himself to believe he had made a mistake, and that it was merely a blind ledge. He kept on working until a fe wdays ago, when, having exhausted all his means, he made up his mind to abandon the work, for a time at least. Having one charge of powder left, he thought he would fire it and quit. A hole was drilled and the charge fired, with a result that was surprising as well as exceedingly gratifying, as it uncovered a four-foot vein of copper-stained gold-bearing rock, that is said to be very rich. Joe Buckley, who has been out to the claim, says it has every appearance of being a well-defined true fissure vein.

Greater Interest in Oil.

The Malheur oil district is attracting more attention locally now than it has for some time, and some of the leading business men of Baker City are beginning to take an interest in the matter. Most of the people who have located oil lands are from outside places, Portland, Spokane, Seattle and other places, east and west.

It has been rumored for several days that a representative of the Standard Oil Company was in Baker City inquiring into the prospects for finding oil in paying quantities in the Malheur district. If such a man is in Baker City, he has kept very quiet, which would not be surprising in view of the fact that if his presence was known the price of oil lands would go up with a bound.

Coal Strike Near Huntington.

Word comes from Huntington of a coal strike near that place. Specimens of the coal brought to Baker City burn quite freely, although it has a strong resemblance to lignite. A force of men is at work developing the vein, and it is said by experts that the indications are strongly in favor of its developing into a fair quality of coal.

Trying to Get Gold Cached Away.

The new owners of the Phoenix mine are having some trouble over a lot of rich ore said to have been cached by the lessees. Manager Crawford is on the lookout for the ore, which is said to be very valuable, in the hope that he can find it before it is removed from the vicinity of the mine. One of the men who worked in the mine is reported to have shown a specimen recently that was valued at $400.

FOUGHT AN INSANE WOMAN

MOTHER-IN-LAW ATTACKED BY A YOUNG WIFE.

Latter Became Insane in a Night and Attempted to Chloroform Her—Lamp Overturned.

WHATCOM, Wash., Nov. 20.—Mrs. Moses Puerea, a young wife 18 years of age, who resides with her mother-in-law here, in the absence of her husband became violently insane during the early hours of this morning, and, going into the room where her mother-in-law lay asleep, tried to chloroform her. Mrs. Puerca's mother-in-law was awakened, and grappled with the insane woman. In the scuffle a lighted lamp was overturned and the house at once took fire. An alarm of fire was turned in by the neighbors. To gain an entrance it was necessary to break in a window, as all of the doors were found to be locked. The demented woman was secured and taken to the County Jail, where she is improving. Her mother-in-law is badly burned and her face is considerably lacerated as a result of her struggle with the insane woman in the burning building.

To Fight for British in Transvaal.

Rev. I. N. Barr, for two years rector of the Episcopal churches of this city and Fairhaven, announces that he will leave within 30 days for South Africa to join the British forces in the field. THE YUKON INSURRECTION.

It Is Said the Scheme Originated in Seattle—Capital Back of It.

TORONTO, Ontario, Nov. 20.—Special dispatches from Vancouver published here say:

"The Yukon insurrection story is not altogether without foundation. Some hair-brained Americans drew up plans for forcibly overthrowing the police and government in the Yukon, somewhat similar to the historical Jameson raid in the Transvaal. Major Woods, N. W. M. P., discovered the scheme and took prompt steps to suppress it, American officials at Skagway co-operating. The discovery of the scheme is supposed to have nipped it in the bud.

"The Yukon police force consists of about 250 men who are provided with Lee-Enfields. When the scheme was first discovered Maxim and Colt guns were mounted at White Horse, which was the first place to be attacked. Major Snyder, in charge of the police there, also received police reinforcements and patrols were kept on duty night and day. It is said the scheme originated in Seattle and $250,000 was available to aid the venture.

"The information has been obtained from ex-police officials of the Yukon force and members of the gambling fraternity, who have come to the Coast cities for the Winter, and is guardedly confirmed by the officials who have just come down from the north."

Lays It to "Soapy" Smith Gang.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 20.—C. D. Newton, a member of the Atlin Board of Trade, who arrived recently from the North, speaking of the alleged conspiracy to overthrow the Yukon Government, said he had heard of it before he had left the North, but had paid little attention to it. The "Soapy" Smith gang, he states, is still to be found at Skagway in considerable numbers, although they have few sympathizers, and they are by no means the dominant element there. It was to them that Mr. Newton attributes any conspiracy now threatened, while the same element were at the bottom of the flag incidents. Should they ever attempt to rise in rebellion, he believes that the good American residents would be among the first to suppress them.

BIDED HIS TIME.

Republican Candidate Secures Attorney-Generalship of Kentucky.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 20.—The Court of Appeals today reversed the judgment of Franklin Circuit Court, which sustained the decision of the State Contest Board in giving the office of Attorney-General to Judge Robert J. Breckinridge, and holds that Clifton J. Pratt, of Hopkins County, the Republican nominee, is the legal officer. The decision of the court is final, and directs that Breckinridge retire immediately from office. Breckinridge was on the Democratic ticket headed by William Goebel for Governor two years ago, and Pratt was on the Republican ticket headed by W. S. Taylor for Governor that year. Justice Suffy delivered the opinion of the court, Judges Burnard, Dureele and O'Rear, Republicans, concurring. Judges Hobson, Paynter and White, Democrats, dissent from this decision. Judge Breckinridge said recently that if removed he would become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor two years hence.

This case is the last of the contests growing out of the election of 1899. All of the Republican candidates for state offices, with the exception of Judge Pratt, appealed immediately from the decision of the State Contest Board, and a Democratic Court of Appeals sustained the seating of the Democratic claimants. Pratt waited until the political complexion of the higher court changed, and then filed an appeal.

Experiments With Vaccination.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Experiments on white rats designed to gather information bearing upon the recent fatalities from lockjaw at Camden, are in progress at Cooper's Hospital, says a special to the World from Camden, N. J. Drs. Alexander, Scanlan and Ross are endeavoring to learn if the vaccine virus is the medium of communicating tetanus germs. In explaining their work they said:

"On the evening of the 11th we visited 15 drug stores and purchased specimens of lymph from each. Twenty-one white rats were obtained because of their marke[d] susceptibility to the virus tetanus. O[n] the morning of the 15th the rats were in[-]oculated. The animals were each isolate[d] in separate cages especially prepared fo[r] the purpose in order to prevent contamina[-]tion. The box was labeled with the nam[e] of the druggist who sold the specime[n,] the producer, and the time at which th[e] inoculation was performed. After eac[h] inoculation, instruments and the hands [of] the experimenters were again thorough[ly] sterilized and all apparatus made an[ti-]septic. The animals are fed at regul[ar] intervals, visited every three or fo[ur] hours and watched for symptoms. Re[c]ords will be made and the results will [be] given to the Board of Health."

Much dissatisfaction is being called fo[rth] by the new Berlin police regulation which [or]ders street doors to be closed from 10 P. [M.] to 5 A. M. from May 1 to August 31, a[nd] from 10 P. M. to 6 A. M. from September to April 30, and makes tenants (i. e., fl[at] owners, since Berliners live in flats), as w[ell] as houseowners responsible under pain [of] fine for the carrying out of the ordinance.

OFFICIALS OF THE HEPPNER FOOTBALL TEAM.

HEPPNER, Or., Nov. 20.—The Heppner football team was reorganized about a week ago, with most of the old players in the positions they had last year. The eleven is composed of large, powerful men, and is believed to be fully as strong, if not stronger, than the team which made such a fine record last year. It is now practicing industriously for a game to be played at Heppner on Thanksgiving day with the Pendleton eleven. It is also expected that a meeting will be arranged with the Portland football team.

C. A. Eastland is coaching the team. Mr. Eastland played tackle on the University of Oregon eleven in 1894-5-6; coached the Astoria team in 1897, and played tackle with the Portland Y. M. C. A. team in 1898. Arthur Clarke, captain of the Heppner eleven, is serving his third year in this capacity. Prior to coming to Heppner he played as right halfback on The Dalles team. Percy Garrigues, the manager, hopes to arrange games with all the leading teams of Eastern Oregon and Washington. It is believed that after a few weeks' further practice the Heppner team will be in a condition to cope successfully with any eleven in the Inland Empire.

I also had hea[d]ache and backache most of the ti[me] and such bearing down pains I cou[ld] hardly walk across the room at tim[es.] I doctored nearly all the time f[or] about two years and seemed to gr[ow] worse all the time until last Septemb[er] I was obliged to take my bed, and t[he] doctors thought an operation was t[he] only thing that would help me, b[ut] this I refused to have done.

"Then a friend advised me to try t[he] Pinkham medicine, which I did, a[nd] after using the first bottle I began [to] improve. I took in all five bottles [of] Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifie[r,] four boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's D[ry] Form Compound, three boxes of Liv[er] Pills and used three packages of San[a]tive Wash, and I am as well now as [I] ever was. The Bad Boy's Bowel Blessing

Nature punishes every excess, not only of the bad boy, but of ourselves a[s] well. Over-eating, over-drinking, under-sleeping result in bowel troubles liabl[e] to become serious.

Every good, healthy, hearty boy is sometimes a bad boy—bad to himself; an[d] will do things in the green apple, mince pie or other over-eating line that wi[ll] twist his bowels. Men are only boys grown tall. In such a case what is neede[d] is not a violent physic that will rack the tender bowel tissues, but Cascaret[s] Candy Cathartic, gentle but sure to act at once and put things right. The[y] are the most perfect medicine in the world for all forms of indigestion, dyspepsi[a] and constipation.

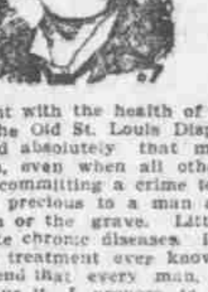
IT IS A CRIME



"It is a crime to experiment with the health of the people," says Dr. J. Henri Kessler, manager of the Old St. Louis Dispensary at Portland. "If I did not know positively and absolutely that my new home treatment will cure all diseases of men, even when all other methods of treatment fail, I would consider I was committing a crime to make such a statement to the public. Nothing is so precious to a man as his health—nothing so horrible as an Insane Asylum or the grave. Little ills, if not promptly cured, often result in obstinate chronic diseases. I know that my new discovery is the most marvelous treatment ever known, and I intend to give its benefit to the world. I intend that every man, woman and child who comes for treatment shall have it. I propose to tell the sick, absolutely free of charge, if they may be restored to perfect health. I would rather be a benefactor to the sick man than to have the wealth of Croesus."

The above are remarkable words, but those who know Dr. Kessler, and have tried his treatment, can vouch for their absolute truthfulness.

He restores the wasted power of sexual manhood.

He also cures to stay cured VARICOCELE, STRICTURE, SYPHILITIC BLOOD POISON, NERVO-SEXUAL DEBILITY and all associate diseases and weaknesses of man. To these maladies alone he has earnestly devoted 25 of the best years of his life. He makes no charge for private consultation, and gives each patient a legal contract in writing to hold for his promise. Is it not worth your while to investigate a cure that has made life anew to multitudes of men? If you cannot call at his office, write him your symptoms fully. His home treatment by correspondence is always successful. Address, always enclosing 10 2-cent stamps.
