Maxwell, of Burlington, Ia. Lone Fir Cemetery was the place of interment.

Death of Charles S. Waite.

Charles S. Waite, secretary of the Union Savings & Loan Association, died yesterday morning at his home, 625 Johnson street, of acute pneumonia, after an illness of four days. He had, however, been indisposed for some time past.

Mr. Waite was born in Chicago 55 years ago, and came to Portland with his family in 1886. He was a member of the Masonic order and of the Portland Lodge of Elks and the Order of Eagles. He left a widow, two daughters, Mrs. L. D. McCardle and Mrs. Carl H. Jackson, and a son, George C. Waite. Mrs. Waite has just recovered from an attack of pneumonia, and the death of her husband is a severe shock to her. The mother of the deceased died here six months ago unexpectedly, while on a visit from Chicago.

The funeral will take place Saturday at 2 P. M., under the auspices of the Portland Lodge of Elks, from Dunning's undertaking parlors, East Sixth and East Alder streets.

Curio fish now found is the result of a mixture of the escaped carp with the native crawfish. It looks like a crawfish that has been overfed on carp, or vice versa. Walla Walla Valley is noted for wonderful products.

A French engineer named M. Souza, of Vitry-sur-Seine, is reported to have made successful experiments with a motor-car plow.

Pendleton Shows It Wants a Fair.

PENDELTON, Or., Nov. 23.—During the first half-day of canvassing, $250 was subscribed towards a $10,000 fund which it is proposed to raise for the establishment of a county fair here. W. N. Berkeley, Jr., conceived the idea, consulted with several persons privately, prepared a subscription list, and started out. He asked for $100 amounts only, and before noon yesterday had 25 of them on the paper. In connection with the fair, races will be held.

"EVER SEE A PINTO RAT?"

Asked Albert Ricardo—He Then Tells of Walla Walla's Product.

"Ever see a pinto rat?" asked Albert Ricardo yesterday.

The little bunch of gentlemen who were holding down chairs in the front office of a leading hotel all agreed that they had never seen such a freak.

"We have them in Walla Walla," continued Mr. Ricardo. "We have quite a sprinkling of them. In fact, they are getting quite common. I never heard of them anywhere else. You have all seen the pinto horses and calico cayuses of the upper country Indians. The pinto rats are marked exactly like those pinto cayuses."

"A few years ago there was not a rat in Walla Walla, and I believe there were none in the other interior towns. It was remembered that a rat had arrived at Walla Walla in an empty wheat car, and had been chased and calico cayuses of the upper country Indians. The pinto rats are marked exactly like those pinto cayuses."

"But some of the fine, large, fat rats that range around the Portland wharves finally worked their passage into Walla Walla on an empty wheat car and located their camp under Dave Small's livery stable. Only a block away was Charles Besserer's building. Charlie always was great for pets, and among those he had was some white rats. Of course he was kind to them, and let them run loose, and some of them failed to come back. They went and mixed with the rats under the stable, and in the Jerry McCreath Castle, and now many pinto rats are seen around there."

"Another curio that is seen in Mill Creek and the Tum-lum is a fish that no one can classify."

"When the Government fish-car was in Walla Walla some years ago Charlie Besserer received from it a lard-bucket full of small carp. He built a pond for them on his Horace Greeley farm, and when they became strong yearlings, they knocked down the fence and escaped. Some of them cracked their horns off while scurrying along the gravel roads, and some were drowned in the culverts."

"Charlie offered a reward of two bits a head for them, and small boys corralled a few dozen, but the bulk of the band escaped, and it is thought that the

CHURCHES GIVE THANKS

CONGREGATIONS UNITE IN APPROPRIATE EXERCISES.

Business Suspended Throughout the City—Sunday Schools Reader Evening Programmes.

Thanksgiving services were largely attended at many churches yesterday, business having been entirely suspended for the purpose of devoting the time to appropriate exercises. Union services were held at the First Presbyterian Church by several Presbyterian congregations. The sermon was preached by Rev. E. M. Sharp. Rev. W. E. Gilbert offered prayer, and read the President's proclamation. Union services were also held at the First Baptist Church, the congregations of the First Christian, Grace M. E. and Immanuel Baptist being present. Rev. Alexander Blackburn conducted the services and was assisted by Revs. S. C. Lapham and J. F. Gormley. The music was under the direction of W. M. Wither. A Thanksgiving testimony service was held in the evening.

At the Unitarian Church the Universalist congregation participated in the services. Rev. George C. Cressney and Rev. H. Hoyt united in conducting a very interesting meeting.

At Temple Beth Israel services were held in the morning. The sermon was preached by Dr. Stephen S. Wise. Episcopal services were held at Trinity Church and at St. Mark's, and at All Saints' Chapel. Good-sized congregations attended each of these houses of worship. This was the first service conducted in the last named church, the building having only recently been finished.

Union services were held in Calvary Baptist Church. The invocation was delivered by Rev. S. O. Johnson. An offering for the poor was taken up.

At the Hassalo Congregational Church Rev. J. H. Gibson preached the Thanksgiving sermon. The congregation of Westminster Presbyterian and Grand Avenue Presbyterian Churches were present at the services.

Albina worshippers held union services in the Second United Evangelical Church. The Central M. E., Rodney-Avenue Baptist, Forbes Presbyterian, Third Baptist and Mississippi-Avenue Congregational Churches assisted in the services. Rev. A. G. Taggart preached.

At St. David's Episcopal Church Rev. George B. Van Vleet preached, and special music was rendered. At the Rev. B. W. Hollingshead, of the Centenary M. E. Church, preached to a union of congregations at the Second Baptist Church, East Side. The Cumberland Presbyterian, United Brethren and Third Presbyterian Churches were represented. A collection of $137 was taken up for the benefit of the Patton Home.

At the services in the Congregation Abent Sholem, Rev. Dr. Abramson officiated. The subject of Thanksgiving was ably handled by Phil Gevurtz.

Rev. J. H. Allen preached at the Berca

Mission Church, corner of Second and Jefferson streets. His subject was "Waiting for the Lord." The evening subject was "The Heavenly Leo and Judah's Lion."

Rev. E. T. Simpson preached in the evening at the Church of the Good Shepherd. At the Sunnyside Methodist Church the Epworth League conducted morning services. Many members from the West Side were in attendance.

Rev. H. Hines conducted services at the University Park Methodist Church. The pioneer pastor handled the subject of Thanksgiving with his old-time ardor.

Services were held in the evening at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. Rev. Huber Ferguson delivered the address.

At the Columbia University Rev. James D. Murphy delivered a morning sermon on Thanksgiving, which was listened to in great attention by a large audience.

A number of Sunday school classes held appropriate exercises in the various classrooms of their churches in the evening.

FIRST QUARTZ MILL THERE

Curry County Quartz Development On Mule Mountain.

A five-stamp mill is being manufactured in Portland for the Mule Mountain Mining Company, whose works are located on the bank of Rogue River, 45 miles from its mouth in Curry County. E. B. Burns, manager of the mine, who is in the city, says a ledge of ore is now being followed which runs six to 24 feet in thickness, and at a depth of 300 feet assays 121 tons. Considerable rock has been shipped to San Francisco by schooner, but when the mill is set up this will be treated at home, at a very low cost per ton. As the first stamp mill, running night and day, will crush 15 tons, the profit of the mine ought to be considerable.

The ledge was discovered about four years ago, by Mr. Burns, who has spent several thousand dollars in development work. M. F. Bodley, of Portland, is interested in the enterprise, and the corporation is a close one, with no stock in the market.

The company has just completed the construction of an 80-ton steam—the Rogue River—in Portland, and this craft is intended to ply between the mine and Gold Beach, the county seat of Curry County. At this point concentrates will be loaded on schooners for shipment to the smelter near San Francisco. The Rogue River will be towed down to Gold Beach on the next trip of the Alliance.

The mill, Mr. Burns says, will be the first quartz crusher erected in Curry County. Considerable placer mining has been done in that county for many years, but the quartz ledges from which the gold dust is supposed to have washed have hitherto been neglected. The Mule Mountain mine is 25 miles from West Port, a station on the Southern Pacific in Douglas County. Steep hills intervene between stations and mine, and there are no good wagon roads, so material and supplies will have to be taken in from Portland by way of Gold Beach and Rogue River.

The American Cigar.

Good as the name. Buy the best. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a constitutional remedy for catarrh. It permanently cures.

Charles S. Waite, secretary of the Union Savings & Loan Association, died yesterday morning at his home, 625 Johnson street, of acute pneumonia, after an illness of four days.
