HOPGROWERS' MEETING.

Man to Accompany Association Pool to London to Be Elected. SALEM, Nov. 28 .- W. H. Egun, president of the Oregon Hopgrowers' Associa-tion, has called a meeting of all the growers interested in the association pool December 3. The meeting will be held at the office of the association in this city. The principal business will be the election of a grower to accompany M. H. Divert to London and look after the interests of the growers in selling the pool. The election of such representative will be participated in only by growers who are in the pool and each grower will have one vote for every bale of hops he has placed in the pool. It is expected the pool will contain about 1500. expected the pool will contain about 2500

At this same meeting a committee of five growers, interested in the pool, will be named to take charge of the pool and manage the same until the conand manage the same until the contract with Mr. Durst is entirely fulfilled. There will be several candidates for representative. Francis Feller, a prominent grower of Butteville, the ex-treasurer of the association, is being urged by his friends to make the trip. He has about 200 bales in the pool. H. D. Mount, of Silverton, and James Winstanley, secretary of the association, are also mentioned. From the fact that all also mentioned. From the fact that all of the legitimate living and traveling expenses of the grower are to be paid by Mr. Durst, the inducements to make the trip are unusually inviting.

THE ONTARIO GAS STRIKE.

Citizens Believe It Is a Bonanus, and Propose to Find Out at Once. BAKER CITY, Nov. 28.—The only ef-fort thus far to find out whether there is oil underlying any portion of Eastern Oregon is now being made at Ontario. Some time ago the owners of an artesian well outfit made a proposition to the citizens of Ontario to bore a well to a depth of at least 1900 feet, which was accepted. The funds for prosecuting the work were raised by public subscription. David Wilson, the owner of the townsite, was one of the most liberal subscribers to the fund, and he was ai-townsite, was one of the most liberal subscribers to the fund, and he was allowed to locate the well. He selected a spot in the street not far from the Ontario Hotel. Mr. W. E. Lees, who kept a careful account of the different strata through which the drill passed, gives out the following information:

First, 11 feet of sand, then 12 feet of gravel, next five feet of hardpan, then 1012 feet of biue shale. The shale had streaks of hard flinty rock, or seemingly condensed shale, as it resembles the shale in every way, except that it is hard. These hard streaks occurred at various These hard streaks occurred at various depths, and ranged in thickness from a few inches to one and two feet. shale, about 200 feet from the surface, the drill struck a cavity in the rock and dropped about 14 inches. From this point the rock seemed to be solid, but as a rule exceedingly soft, the drill going down 100 feet in a day, with an occa-

down 100 feet in a day, with an occasional, hard spot that would require 10 minutes to an hour to cut through.

In the drilling, a jet of water was forced down inside of the drillpipe, to force the drill cuttings to the surface and keep the hole clear. When the cavity mentioned was struck the water and debris stopped coming to the surface.
This proved to be a great detriment, as the drillers were unable to determine the drillers were unable to determine what kind of ground they were going through. To remedy this defect the hole was reamed out from the surface down to the point where the cavity was encountered and several feet below, so that a steel casing pipe could be put down.
The drilling had to be suspended because the casing had not arrived. Just as soon as it comes, the work will be resumed.
It was just before teh drilling ceased that gas was encountered, at a depth of 1040 feet. It is not a very strong flow, but it is powerful enough to force its way up through over 800 feet of water and dirt, which fell into the hole when the top part was reamed out, and furnish gas enough to keep an ordinary gas burngas enough to keep an ordinary gas buttle-er burning night and day. The pressure is gradually increasing. The gas smells just like coal gas and experts say the shale formation is a strong indication of coal, and it is predicted that coal will be encountered before the drill sinks much

The citizens of Ontario have made arrangements to sink the well 2000 feet, if necessary, and they confidently expect to find something of interest before they go much deeper. If they do not find oil, coal or gas they will have dem-onstrated that neither of those sub-stances are to be found in that particu-

IRON AND STEEL.

Volume of Business Is Greatest in History of the Country.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.-Discussing the present condition of iron and steel, the Iron Age says that nothing has occurred to indicate any danger of an early sub-sidence of the great activity which charaterizes the iron and steel trades. Not only are more iron and steel now being than at any previous time in the history of this or any other country, but members of the trade are beginning to prophesy a still larger business the coming year. The full capacity of the biast fur-naces and steel works completed and in process of erection seems to be especially needed to meet the requirements of the country for the greater part of the first six months of 1982. This is as far as orlinary human foresight can carry prognostications as to business. It is seldom that indications for an ap-proaching year point so strongly to heavy trade as at the present time. Many branches of business report an unusual number of inquiries now coming up relative to material for projected improve-ments. It might be assumed, in view of the occurrences of the past two years that the expansion in the American iron trade had reached its culmination, but so far no evidence can be seen pointing o such a conclusion. An active condition of business continues iron and stocks. The furnece companies are handling their business conservatively, and while they have made some slight advances, are disposed to discourage anything which might lead to speculation. More business has been done in foreign billets for importation.

While manufacturing establishments are trying to break records in endeavoring to meet the demands of the trade, they are harassed by the exasperating occurrences which interfere with satisfactors operations. The coke situation has not improved as it should have done by this time and blast furnaces are atili being crippled by inability to secure fuel, a rather critical condition so far is being reported from Chicago, where four fur-naces are idle on this account, just when their production is greatly needed

The steel situation is attracting a great deal of interest. Rolling mills on one side and the dealers on the other appear to be arranging their forces for contests, and both parties are endeavoring to cothe trade in their several interests. The situation is shrouded in mystery, but it is expected that developments will shortly be made, as the result of meetings which are taking place.

Mexican Governor Surrenders a Man Wanted for Murder at Yuma.

PHOENIX, Arts., Nov. 28.-Over month ago Governor Murphy issued a requisition on Governor Rafael Ysabel, of Sonora, for the extradition of Guillern's Lisalda, wanted for the murder of a woman at Yuma. The requisition was made under the treaty with Mexico, which provides that the Governors of Northern Mexican states with Northern Mexican states might surrender fugitives without reference to the Federal Government. Ysabel, not desiring to act, referred the matter to the Federal Government. Eheriff Livingstone, of Yuma, who went after Lisalda, applied to the American Consul at Nogales, who in turn carried the matter to the State De partment. Ysabel was then instructed to surrender Lisalda.

INDIANA POLITICS LIVELY. Clash Between the Two Senators Possible.

ecial to the New York Evening Post.

WASHINGTON,-A merry political war browing in Indiana. One Fairbanks and one Reverldge, Senators both, and both honorable and ambitious gentlemen, are likely to present the spectacle of the two cats from Kilkenny, and the fun will be more for the watchers than for the actors. A new State Committee is about to be chosen. In days of yore it was the went of Senator Fairbanks, on such eccasions, to call his trusty benchmen to his back office and make up the list of the committee as it should be. When the last chairman was chosen to succeed Herniey it was done that way. But now-well, now there is an enterprising young man who is determined to let the Hoosler State know that he is on the map. In the abort time Beveridge was in Washington after his return from his trip around the world, he spent at least seven hours at the White House in private conference with its distinguished tenant. When Fairbanks came along he cooled his heels in the ante-room and got a handshake. This was enough for Indiana, and the Beveridge stock went up at least 500 per cent. Old friends of the long, slim statesman who was so recently Indiana's candidate for Presidential honors, speak of him deris-ively as "Gum-shoe Charley," thus making an unseemly jest of his well-known conservatism. His caution is stigma-tized as timidity; his reluctance to talk is set down to lack of anything to say his affability is uncharitably denominated "smoothness." Thus do the unfeciling denigens of a graceless state traduce one'o ts most gifted sons.

People will have their own opinions as to the true reasons for the growing cool-ness between Fairbanks and Beveridge, Some will say it is their antipathetic temperaments, others will attribute it to po-litical jealousy. One story has it that Beveridge is already grooming himself for the Vice-Presidential nomination in 1904 on the Roosevelt ticket, and is preparing to deliver the delegates required to make his title clear. Meanwhile Fair-All Good banks appears not to have abandoned his hopes of running for President in that an obvious clash of interests. The organizers of the Pairbanks boom assume that ere long the present administration will go to pieces through the tendency of its chief figure to become more strenuous than discreet. They would like to see him stir up enemies for himself and do things which the public will discreet.

things which the public will disapprove Then, they figure, it will be the turn of the wise, conservative, cautious sento Senator from Indiana to come to the rescue of the country. On the ruins of Roosevelt they hope to build up the fortunes of Fairbanks.

An interesting report has reached Wash-ington that Mr. New, the Republican Na-tional committeeman from Indiana, is or the verge of an open break with Fair-banks. The trouble is partly due to pat-ronage and partly to other things. But there is no doubt that something hitches. New did not help blow the Fairbanks bub-ble as beautiful.

Chicago Tribune.

Senator Mitcheil, of Oregon, saye he is opposed to revising the tariff at this time, while admitting that there doubtless ara some instances in which the duties should be lowered or entirely taken off, he says that in his judgment "nothing Congress could do would tend so strongly to discourage business affairs and to interfere with the good business conditions now pre-vailing throughout the country' as to take up the tariff and try to mend it. This is precisely what business men think and what the Tribune has said. The defects of the tariff are less harmful than an attempt to remove them would be. If this subject were once taken up for the exclusive purpose of improving the iron and steel schedule, industries interested in other schedules would insist that something be done for them. The jeather marufacturers would like to see hides put on the free list. The woolen manufacturers would like to see the duties on wool lowthis proposition is still a tentative one.

If Cangress, governed by the spirit of cvil, should take up the tariff question there would be lobbying for higher duties here and lower duties there, and manufacturers and importers would have to stand and mark time till they knew what the outcome of the turmoil and the strife was to be. To attempt to revise the tariff is to put the brake on the wheels of the charlot of pros-
