THE MORNING OREGONIAN, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1901.

when the treaty was laid before the Senate Senator Teller expressed confidence that the resolution would be adopted, and while he had no purpose to attempt to prevent that result, he was convinced by Jones of Arkansas to recommit the nomination to the committee on judiciary, in the meantime publishing the testimony bearing on the case. Speeches in favor of this proposition were made by Jones and Turner and in that there are few Senators who are really satisfied with the treaty. With Great Britain in her present mood he believed, that the only evidence presented against confirmation had been filed by members of the Anti-Trust League, and was very he said, it would have been possible to secure a treaty which would give entire satisfaction, and he criticised the State vague and indefinite. The Senators favor-Department for failing to do so. He took the position that it would have been suffiing the motion said that if this were true, there could be no objection on the part of clent to abrogate the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and said that England knew well friends of the Attorney-General to placing all the facts within reach of the pub-lic, and the more time the committee enough that with that result accomplished she could very well trust the United States to maintain the neutrality of the canal, as the country could be prepared to should give to the subject the more thor-oughly the public would be convinced of the fairness of its position, when ultimatedo so for many years.

Other Speakers of the Day.

Among the other speakers of the day were Senators Clay, Fairbanks, McCum-ber, McLaurin of Mississippi, Culberson, Mallory, Mason, Tillman, Bacon and Bate. Senator Clay was one of the Southern Senators who spoke in advocacy of the treaty. He contended that the treaty should be ratified because it secured the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. Senator Mason made a strong plea for treaty, expressing his gratification that American diplomacy had succeeded in securing such a triumph as was this treaty over the original Hay-Pauncefote treaty. Senator Bacon's speech was made in con-nection with a motion to amend the treaty. In presenting this amendment he said he was in favor of a canal, and would vote for the treaty with the Davis amendment. He opposed the treaty be-cause he did not believe it would give the United States full control of the canal. He said Great Britain rejected the amended Hay-Pauncefote treaty, but sent us another treaty about identical with the former treaty as amended, except as regards the Davis amendment. He cred that fact the most important feature of the whole controversy. There was an exceptionally full Senate when the time arrived for a vote, but the certainty of ratification had become so apparent that there was comparatively little interest in the proceedings, The votes on the amendments succeeded each ther quickly.

Dayls Amendment Defeated.

Senator Culberson offered an amendment to insert the Davis fortification paragraph of the last session. This was defeated, to 62, as follows:

A resolution offered by Nelson of Min-nesota, requesting the President to send to the Senate a copy of the report of Ambassador Choate relative to certain charges imposed by "London dock com-panies upon American flour and other American products shipped to that port,' was adopted.

Vest called up his resolution instructing the judiciary committee to inquire into and report to the Senate, by bill or otherwise, as to the proper action by Con-gress upon the subject of anarchy and anarchists. He said he did not desire at this time to enter upon a discussion of the subject. Indeed he did not feel quali-fied to discuss it until he had heard from the judiciary committee. The resolution commended these questions: "Has Congress Constitutional power to legislate for the punishment of anarchists who assassinate or attempt to as-sassinate the President of the United States, and if not, whether it is expedi-ent to amend the Federal Constitution to enable Congress so to legislate?

"Whether it is necessary to empower Congress to prevent the teachings of anarchists that all governments should be destroyed, and the chief rulers of such governments assassinated? Whether it is necessary that Congress shall have power to punish persons longing to anarchistic associations?

"What amendments, if any, are neces-sary to the naturalization laws to prevent anarchists from becoming citizens of the United States, and whether such an-archists should, after trial and conviction, be imprisoned or deported from the United States? 'Whether it is necessary to confer upon Congress the power to establish a penal colony where persons convicted of an-archy shall be confined during life?"

Without discussion or comment the res-olution was adopted. Clapp called up his resolution providing that further discussion of the pending Hay-Pauncefote treaty should be had in open session. In addressing the Senate briefly, he said that while the resolution was not introduced as a joke, the coun-try regarded the executive sessions of the speech was keenly discussed in the polit-ical clubs last night, and until his concluding remarks were received it was not regarded as of a startling character. "Pain in the head and back " is a form of suffering with which so many women are familiar. Often this pain is associated with nervousness, sleeplessness and loss of appetite. The cause of such suffering is generally to be traced to derangement of the womanly function, or a diseased condition of the delicate womanly organs.

In such cases the action of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is marvelous in the prompt relief of pain and permanent cure of disease. It regulates the peri-odic function, dries disagreeable drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It cures when all other means have been tried in vain. #### Each Side in the House Is to Have Four and One-Half Hours.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16-Plans were being made on both sides of the House of Representatives today for the two days debate on the Philippine tariff bill, which wIII begin tomorrow. Each side will have four and one-half hours. This great-ly restricts the limits of debate, particularly the opposition, which had intended to make this bill the text for an elaborate arraignment of the policy of the party in power. Chairman Payne will open the debate in a speech of about three-quarters of an hour, and Dalgell (Rep. Pa.) will slose the debate just before the vote is taken on Wednesday, Richardson (Dem Tenn.) will open for the Democrats, and there is a long list of Democratic members who will speak in opposition.

LEAVES FOR ENGLAND THURSDAY.

Marconi's Assistants at Cornwall

Will Say Little or Nothing. LONDON, Dec. 13 - A cable dispatch has been received here from St. John's, N. F., ouncing that Signor Marconi will sail England December 19. At the headquarters here of the inventor of wireless telegraphy. It was said today by the offi-ers in charge that the experiments at St. John's, so far as they know, are all over. They do not expect to hear any further details until Signor Marconi arrives in London.

It was said that storms on both sides of the Atlantic had seriously interfered with the work, which the officials say would have been much more satisfactory under normal weather conditions, the Poldhu, Cornwall, station having been seriously damaged by high winds. The officials at Poldhu refuse to confirm or deny the truth of the reports from St. John's that messages had been received there from Cornwall by wireless telegraphy They profess complete ignorance of the success or failure of the experiment.

Papin Believes Marcont Succeeded. NEW YORK, Dec. 16 .- M. I. Pupin, pro-

essor of electrical mechanics at Columbia University, in an interview, says he fully believes Marconi succeeded in signalling between the coasts of Newfoundland and Cornwall, England, by his sys-tem of wireless telegraphy. Continuing, the professor said:

"The signals were very faint as I read in the report, but that has little to do with it. The distance, which is about 1500 miles between these two points, was overcome, and further development of the sending instruments is all that is required. Professor Pupin said that members of the Bociety of Electrical Engineers had discussed the subject two years ago, and many were at that time of the opimion that the day was not far distant when wireless messages would be sent 1900 miles or more. Again continuing, he said: "One point which is of great value and interest to the scientific world is that Marconi has proved conclusively that the curvature of the earth is no obstacle to the system of wireless telegraphy. Some were inclined to think, and there were many heated discussions upon it, that the curvature limited the system. All

Marconi's efforts of late have been directed toward perfecting and making his sending apparatus more powerful and giving great height to the sending end. "It remains to be proved, however, that heavy banks of fog, low hanging clouds and heavy showers along and in the path of the transmitted electric wave will not entirely obstruct its progress. The presumption generally is that they will, as experiments thus far have proved. Atpany, Marconi hopes to inaugurate the New Year by sending a special message party, and a brief speech by H. H. Asparty, and a bief speech by H. H. As-quith, M. P., Liberal Imperialist, who followed Lord Rosebery, and interpreted the ex-Premier's appeal as a revocation of his former declaration that he would withdraw from public affairs, is regarded as confirming this impression. profound disappointment, and pours a column of ridicule upon the speech, es-pecially resenting the idea that the government would have anything to do with Mr. Kruger in the way of negotiating an end to hostilities, and declaring there is no place in serious politics for Lord Rose-

The pro-Boer Daily News comes to exactly the same conclusion and says: "Rosebery is interesting as a dramatic study, but as a practical politician he is behind the age." The more moderate sec-tion of the press expresses in varying notes its admiration. The speech was so long that it was difficult to cover every point, but Lord Rosebery's outspoken de-fense of the army against the charges of brutality, which, he said, had he time to develop the theme, he could more justifiably place upon the shoulders of the enemy; his frank declaration that no peace overtures should come from the British side; that no special peace com-missioner should be sent to South Africa, and that no attempt should be made to remove Mr. Chamberiain or Milner, al-though he disagreed with their meth-ods, make the ex-Premier's speech very acceptable to the bulk of his countrymen. The only point likely to be disapproved is his suggestion that some informal such as might occur, as eting. laughingly suggested, in a tavern, might lead to peace negotiations with the Krugerites. The Daily Mail and the Daily Telegraph consider that Lord Rosebery fully rose to a great occasion. The Telegraph said the speech was inspired by patriotism and statesmanship

The Daily Chronicle says the important thing is that Lord Rosebery has raised his standard, and is pledged before the country, in conditions of exceptional em-phasis, to place himself at the head of the movement of new Liberalism.

The Times, in an editorial on Lord Rosebery's speech, says it is worthy of his high reputation as a patriot and states-man, and that it is an utterance which rises with rare completeness to the level of a great occasion, but that it will not produce any magical effect in the domain of British politics. The Times says:

"If the Krugerites are disposed to treat on the basis of complete surrender of their independence and can give reasonable grounds, showing their orders would be binding upon the fighting Boers, we don't elieve there would be any disposition to negotiate for a suspension of hostilities.
