WILLIAM C. ROGERS, Governor of Washington, was killed in a motor accident last night.

He was on his way to the Capitol, where he was to address the Senate on the tariff bill.

He was returning from a trip to the Northwest, where he had been in a motor accident.

His death was a great loss to the State of Washington, and to the country as a whole.

The funeral of Governor Rogers will take place on Monday morning.

PEOPLE'S CONGRESS.

A meeting of the People's Congress in Washington was held last night.

The delegates were addressed by Governor Rogers, who said:

"The time has come when the people of this country must stand up and be counted. We must not be afraid to speak out and to demand what is right. We must not be afraid to stand up for what we believe in."

In response to this, the delegates rose and said:

"The time has come when the people of this country must stand up and be counted. We must not be afraid to speak out and to demand what is right. We must not be afraid to stand up for what we believe in."
