HOUSE TOOK UP THE SUBJECT OF PERMANENT CENSUS BUREAU.

Debate Over the Civil Service Featare of the Measure-Substitute Will Be Brought In.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.-The House spent the day considering the Hopkins bill to create a permatent Census Bureau. While the general sentiment was in favo of a permanent bureau, there was strong opposition to the bill as drawn, on the and that it was not well matured ground that it was not well matured. There was also an overwhelming demand for a provision to place the present employes of the Census Bureau under the protection of the civil service law, and the bill was finally recommitted with instructions to report back a bill containing a plan for a detailed examination of a perplan for a detailed organization of a per-manent Census Bureau, to include also a provision to place the present employes under the civil service.

At the opening of the session of the House Barney (Rep. Wis.), from the committee on appropriations, reported the pension bill and gave notice that he would call it up Monday, after the disposal of District of Columbia hundress.

District of Columbia business. On motion of Hopkins (Rep. Ill.), the House then went into committee of the whole and took up the consideration of the census bill. Hopkins spoke at some length in support of the bill, and was besleged by members who wanted to know the status of the present large force of the status of the present large force of clerks in the event of the passage of the bill. He said that if the bill passed it was hoped the other departments could absorb the present temporary clerks. They could then be placed under the protection of the civil service and transferred to other departments. If the bill were promptly passed, the temporary clerks, by Executive order, could be made eligible for transfer.

Several members, among them Mann (Rep. Ill.) and Corlies (Rep. Mich.), sug-gested that the bill be amended to proide that the cierks be eligible for trans-

Grosvenor (Rep. O.) asked if it would not be wise to authorize the President to extend the civil service law over the surplus clerks. Honking replied that the subject had been canvassed by the House and Senate committees, and it had been thought such action would not be expedient.

Burkett (Rep. Neb.) opposed the bill, contending that it was improper and inopportune and asserting that the course of the debate today demonstrated that the proposed legislation had not been well matured. He declared that the only persons who had agitated the subject of a permanent Census Bureau had been the superintendents of past censuses and others directly interested. He pointed out that a salary of $5000 was voted to the Director of the Census on the ground of the temporary character of the employ-ment and the great responsibility. This bill proposed to continue this salary. He ted out that the experts whose serv

Crumpacker (Rep. Ind.) favored the pas-sage of the bill, which, he argued, would be the first step toward putting the census upon a scientific and logical basis. Mad-dox (Dem. Ga.) opposed in toto the plan of a permanent Census Bureau. Henen-way (Rep. Ind.) also opposed the bill, Sims (Dem. Tenn.) said he would propose an amendment to place the employees of the office under the civil service law, Bingham (Rep. Pa.) supported the bill, After some further discussion by Gli-lett (Rep. Mass.), Fleming (Dem. Ga.), Sülzer (Dem. N. Y.) and Williams (Dem. Ill.), Hopkins closed the general debate an earnest plea in favor of the pas-

The bill was then opened to amend ment, and Hemenway (Rep. Ind.) offered an amendment to provide that persons now employed in the Census Bureau, not including junitors, shall be eligible to apexamination or certification by the Civil Service Commission, upon the recommen-dation of the head of such department. Mann (Rep. III.) opposed the amendment because it placed no time limit on the eligibility of employes. Hemenway's eligibility of employes. Hemenway amendment was adopted without division

Burkett (Rep. Neb.) then moved that the bill be reported to the House with the recommendation that it be recommitted with instructions to report back as a sub-stitute a bill providing for the detailed organization of a permanent Census Buseau, and with a provision therein to place the present employes of the bureau within the classified service. Hopkins attempted to secure the ayes and noes on the mo recommit, but only 38 members d his demand, not a sufficient number. The motion to recommit was car

PACIFIC CABLE. Hearing by the House Committee on Commerce.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.-The Hous committee on commerce today took up the subject of a Pacific cable. The main question is whether the cable shall be con-structed by the Government or by private parties. The hearing today was devoted to an explanation by George G. Ward, vice-president of the Commercial Pacific Cable Company, of the plant of that organization. He stated that con-tracts had been made for the manufacture and laying of a cable to Honolulu by November 1 next, and the company intended to extend the cable to Manila within two years from next November. The manu said, at the rate of 240 miles per month, and this rate would be increased to 640 miles per month. He gave the cost of the project as between $10,000,000 and $12,000,-000. The cross-questioning by Chairman Hepburn and Messrs. Corliss and Mann tended to develop the question whether or not the company, by having an ex-clusive field, would maintain high rates, Mr. Ward gave the expected rate to Ma-nila at $1, and Honolulu 25 cents to 50 cents a word. The hearing will continue

Report on Ship Subsidy Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 .- The subcom mittee of the Senate committee on commerce, having in charge the ship subsidy bill, spent about three hours today in go-ing over the report on that bill which has been prepared by Senator Frye. The repor tie a very voluminous document, a printed before action is taken on it. It is expected that it will be accepted at a meeting of the subcommittee, which will be held early next week, and Senator Frye hopes to secure the favorable action of the full committee when it meets next Thursday. The report includes a careful analysis of the bill, and explains in great detail the effect of its various provisions.

District of Columbia Juries.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 .- All business in the two criminal courts in the District of Columbia, and before the grand jury, and all trials by jury in the police court have been suspended pending a decision of the Court of Appeals as to the legal status of the juries now serving in the local courts. The issue is raised by a joint resolution of Congress which falled to become a law until day before yesterday, which pro-vides that all grand and petit Juries in the police court organized or drawn when the new code of laws goes into effect (which occurred January I), shall serve out their respective terms, and vacancies therein shall be filled under existing laws. The question is as to whether the lution is retroactive.

Admiral Schley's Case.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.-When the fouse committee on naval affairs met today for organization, Representative Rixey proposed that the various measures relating to Admiral Schley be considered by the committee as a whole, instead of awaiting the consideration of a subcommittee. The sentiment of the committee was against the proposition, and it was determined to allow these measures to take the usual course. There are 30 reserved. take the usual course. MORE ABUSE OF ENGLAND

VIOLENT TALK BY A MEMBER OF THE GERMAN REICHSTAG.

Assailed the British Army as a "Mob of Thieves and Robbers"-Wickedness of Chamberlain.

BERLIN, Jan. 10 .- During the debate of the estimates in the Reichstag today Herr Bassermann declared that the National Liberal party would oppose any sugges-tion of a loan of 25,000,000 marks to cover the deficit. Financial reform was neces sary and the National Liberals were not averse to direct imperial taxation.

Herr Sonnenberg, radical anti-Semite, made a long and violent speech, indulg-ing in the most bitter invective against Mr. Chamberlain and the British arms ever heard in the Reichstag. He char-acterized Mr. Chamberlain as the most wicked man on God's earth. This expression called forth a stern rebuke fro the president of the House. But He Sonnenberg, unabashed, assailed the British army, classing it as a "mob of thieves and robbers, unfit to be com-pared with the glorious Germans." The speaker's remarks called forth further censure from the president.

The Chancellor, Count you Bulow, making a general reply, took occasion to pour off on the recently troubled British waters. He spoke sharply against the abuse of Mr. Chamberlain, the British Colonial Secretary, indulged in by several mem-bers since the opening of the debate, as well as against the aspersions cast on the nonor of the British Army, to which the Chancellor paid a warm tribute. Chancellor said he regretted the incident which had too long inflamed public opin-ion in both countries. He hoped that in future the endeavor to live on good and friendly relations with England would in no way be disturbed. The Chancellor concluded with an expression of approval of the recent speech made by Prince von Woiff-Metternich, the German Ambassador to Great Britain, at Hamburg, advocating more cordial relations with Great

The Chancellor, making a general reply the preceding speakers, said:
"I believe I shall be in sympathy with a very great majority of the House when I express the hope that the custom of abusing foreign ministers in the tribune of this august house will not become nat-uralized among us. That would accord neeither with the usages of the German people nor the interests of our policy (cheers). I must at the same time expres my deep regret at the way in which the last speaker referred to the army of a nation with which we live in peace and friendship. As we ourselves are sensi-tive concerning those of our own army, so we should not abuse foreign armies in which there are brave men enough who know they have to die." (Bravos). Count von Bulow strongly deprecated the speech of Herr Bassermann, that the official press ought to have given the lead to public opinion in dealing with Mr Chamberlain's speech,

"Our press and public opinion," said

the Chancellor, "would stand in very low repute if in questions of national honor they stood in need of word of command from above. I protest against the idea that repudiation of an aspersion on the army should have any effect in changing our policy. If this repudiation is to be an excuse for forcing upon us a different attitude in regard to the war in South Africa or a pretext for bringing about unfriendly relations between our people and a people toward whom we have never stood in hostility, and to whom we are bound by weighty interests, I wish to leave it beyond doubt that I will have nothing to do with anything of the kind. We cannot let the direction of our foreign policy be prescribed for us by speeches, resolutions or popular meetings. That policy can only be determined by the real and permanent interests of the country, and that interest requires us, while fully safeguarding our independence, dignity and honor, to cultivate friendly relations with Great Britain." Africa or a pretext for bringing about lations with Great Britain.'

The Chancellor expressed his approval of the recent speech made by Prince von dor, advocating more cordial relations with Great Britain, and concluded with expressing regret that the maintainance of friendly relations with Great Britain had not been rendered easier by the Chamberlain incident, and hoping that in the future they would be spared such episodes, which did nothing toward the reservation of peace in the world.

What we have a right to expect from the Minister of a friendly state is a definite repudiation of the calumnies uttered in his hearing. With regard, not to the British soldiers, dead, but to the who are living, we must state frankly and emphatically that the limit of British pa-tience will be overstepped if Count von Bulow imagines he can court British friendship and at the same time use the King's uniform in which our kinsmen are fighting honorably in South Africa in order to wipe his feet upon it.'

LONDON, Jan. 10. LONDON, Jan. 10. - The approach of the reassembling of Parliament and the necessity of meeting a difficult financial situation is bringing out much discusion as to the means of recasting the system of taxation. The Daily Telegraph, in its issue of today, suggests the possibility of small tax on all imports.

The Times, commenting on letters contributed to its pages by the statistician, Sir Robert Giffen, who advocates the replacing of the heavy income tax by a system of increased indirect taxation, and who estimates the coming deficit at £10,-000,000, expresses approval of Sir Robert's ideas and thinks that increased taxes upon tea and sugar might be imposed with the restoration of the shilling duty on corn, and this latter might even be doubled The Times also suggests a tax of one penny a gallon on petroleum, and of one shilling per load on timber.
