THE OREGONIAN'S HANDBOOK.

The Oregonian's Handbook tells all about Portland, the entire Columbia River watershed and the 1905 World's Fair, commemorative of the Lewis and Clark expedition to Oregon. The book contains over 150 handsome illustrations, and it is printed on enameled book paper. It will be mailed to any address in the United States or Canada for 7 cents a copy.

OREGON RAISES EVERYTHING — EVEN CABBAGES.—While vast amounts of fruit and vegetables are still imported to supply the markets of this city, farmers and gardeners are coming nearer and nearer to raising everything of the kind that can be raised in this state to supply the home demand, and yearly raise for export to other states vast quantities of apples, cherries and other fruits, as well as potatoes and onions, which bring in a large amount of money. Even the cabbage, which is rather a coarse vegetable, but one which is in great demand for supplying logging camps, salmon canneries and other concerns usually located in places remote from farms and gardens, used to be imported in large quantities. Now wagonloads of these vegetables are daily seen on Front street, and are sold at half a cent per pound, and no more are being imported. It is, however, probable that late in the Spring, when the home supply has become exhausted and the new crop is not yet ready for market, California cabbage will again be imported to supply the never-ceasing demand for this coarse vegetable, which can be made to supply the place of nearly all other vegetables to loggers and other hard-working men, at a reasonable cost.

CLAN MACLEAY INSTALLS OFFICERS.—Officers for 1902 were installed as follows, at the last meeting of Clan Macleay, No. 122, Order of Scottish Clans, by the royal deputy for Oregon, Alexander Gavin: Chief, George M. Fraser; tanist, John A. Paterson; chaplain, Edward Shearer; secretary, Alexander G. Brown; financial secretary, James R. Stuart; treasurer, David G. Duncan; senior henchman, James Carswell; junior henchman, Tom B. Spence; seneschal, John Bowie; warder, John Shearer; sentinel, A. W. Hutcheon; piper, James S. Moon; standard-bearer, K. K. Baxter; physician, Dr. A. D. Mackenzie; trustees, Alexander Muirhead, W. G. McPherson and Hector J. McInnis. The past year has been one of the most prosperous in the history of the clan, and the prospects are good for a still more successful year in 1902. Statistics show that the Order of Scottish Clans is by far the strongest Scottish organization on this continent, being founded in St. Louis, Mo., in 1878. The half-yearly report of the royal secretary, Peter Kerr, of Boston, shows most satisfactory results of the past year's work.

JOSEPH W. SCHNABEL SERIOUSLY ILL.—Joseph W. Schnabel, brother of Charles J. Schnabel, the well-known attorney, who is very dangerously ill, was yesterday placed in the sanitarium connected with St. Vincent's Hospital. He has been in delicate health for several years, his constitution having been undermined by the insidious approaches of consumption. Some three weeks ago he suffered a severe attack of hemorrhage of the lungs, which greatly exhausted him. Other complications set in, especially neuralgia of the heart, which several times has nearly proved fatal, and it was at last decided to place him in a sanitarium, where the best of attendance and medical treatment are always at hand. His condition is very serious, and the prospects for any marked improvement in his condition are not cheering.

SEVENTH WARD MAY STAY. — The residents of the Seventh Ward are vigorous in their fight against the redistricting of the city as proposed by the Charter Commission and which will annex them to the Sixth Ward. A petition against the proposed boundaries is being circulated among the Commissioners. It proposes that the committee of codification and revision change that part of its report which gives six Councilmen to the West Side, four to the East Side and five at large, to seven for the West Side, five for the East Side and three at large. The Seventh Ward delegation has, a member said yesterday, received 12 signatures of the 17 necessary to secure the passage of its petition by the Charter Commission.

PIOUS CITIZEN SHOCKED. — A citizen of pious proclivities, passing down Washington street, near Third, yesterday, was severely shocked. He noticed four colored men standing in a hallway, and heard one of them say something which led him to suppose that they were discussing religion. Pleased to think that the good leaven was working, even among the descendants of Ham, he paused on the curb, as if looking for a car, to listen. What he heard was: "Oh, ——! the Bible is hundreds of thousands of years behind these times." The pious citizen did not wait to hear any more, and while wondering how the man had arrived at such a conclusion he consoled himself with the thought that Ham and his descendants were accursed.

REV. MR. MCLEAN'S ANNIVERSARY.—Yesterday was the fourth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. Robert McLean, of the Third Presbyterian Church. In the morning he spoke on the subject, "Looking Forward." The church is in a prosperous condition. Work has been started on a new $7000 church, on the corner of East Thirteenth and East Pine streets. The old building has already been moved to this corner, and will become part of the new structure. Work will be crowded forward. First meeting will be held in the new church within the next six months.

MORE MONEY FOR FAIR FUND. — It has been ascertained that the members of Multnomah Typographical Union have subscribed $560 to the Lewis and Clark Exposition fund. They subscribed individually—the majority not desiring to bind the minority for an assessment, as the "defense fund" could not be drawn upon for a proposition of this kind. This, with the several sums already subscribed by organized labor, shows that they are enthusiastic in a movement calculated to be of great benefit to Portland and the Northwest.

TWO WOMEN HOLD UP PASSENGERS.—There has been considerable discussion of late of the question as to whether woman is superior to man, or vice versa, but no definite conclusion has been arrived at. A crusty old bachelor says he knows nothing about women, and don't want to, but as woman was made out of one of the floating ribs of man, if she is superior to him, it would prove that a part, and a crooked part at that, is greater than the whole. In the matter of fixing her mind on any one thing and becoming oblivious to everything else on earth, woman is certainly superior to man, as was shown on a Washington-street car a day or two ago. The car connected with another at Twenty-third street, and one woman wanted to get off, while another was coming aboard from the Twenty-third-street car. They met in the vestibule and saluted each other joyfully. "Why, I haven't seen you for an age!" said one, and "It has been the longest time since we met," said the other. Then and there they took to inquiring about the health and welfare of each other's families, even to the fourth and fifth generations. The passengers who were in a hurry to proceed soon got tired of all this, and lost interest in Mary Ann's new baby, Sallie's attack of the measles and the kind of medicine found best for Tommy's attack of helminthiasis, and began to make all sorts of demonstrations of impatience and disgust. The conductor endeavored to attract the attention of the woman who desired to get off his car but had forgotten all about it, and it began to look as if something desperate would have to be done, when suddenly the woman who wanted to get off saw passing a man she wanted to speak to, and the blockade was broken up in a hurry.

STILL CLING TO WOODEN SIDEWALKS.—While concrete sidewalks are being laid in many places in the business part of the city, they bear no comparison to the extent of wooden sidewalks which are being put down all over town. A considerable number of "plank-weavers" are kept busy at this kind of work all the time, and those who want old sidewalks replaced with new ones do not have to wait long to find some one anxious to take the job. As is the case with people in all other kinds of business, there are good and bad—that is, honest and dishonest sidewalk-builders. It is generally understood that when a man takes a contract to lay a new sidewalk, he is to remove the debris of the old one and leave the street in good condition. Some people neglect to stipulate for this, and in such cases some contractors demand their money as soon as the new walk is laid, and if they are paid they go off, leaving the old plank and rubbish in the street, and then the property-owner gets a notice from the Street Department to clean the street in front of his place. The proper way to avoid being swindled in this manner is to require all contractors building sidewalks to furnish a certificate of acceptance of the same from the City Engineer before paying for the work. This notice is for the benefit of the 1001 people who need new sidewalks at once.

REV. MR. FERGUSON AT Y. M. C. A.—Rev. Huber Ferguson, of the United Presbyterian Church, addressed a men's mass meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, his subject being "Life's Problem Simplified." Music was furnished by the male quartet of the First Baptist Church. A large number of men attended the meeting, at the conclusion of which Secretary H. W. Stone organized an evangelistic Bible class.

FUNERAL OF MRS. GEORGE T. MYERS.—The funeral of Mrs. George T. Myers will take place today at 1:30 P. M., at the Taylor-Street M. E. Church. Dr. H. J. Talbott will preach the sermon. The body will be cremated immediately after the funeral service.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

Neill Company in "Barbara Frietchie" at the Marquam.

Tonight at the Marquam Grand Theater James Neill and his excellent company will open an engagement of three nights, with a special matinee Wednesday, presenting Clyde Fitch's war drama, "Barbara Frietchie." The first act shows a street scene in Frederick. It is a beautiful twilight evening, and on the steps of the Frietchie house sit four young ladies, chatting over their love affairs. The act ends by Barbara Frietchie becoming engaged to marry Captain Trumbull, a Union officer.

The fourth act returns to the street in Frederick, showing the return of the triumphant Southern soldiers, with Stonewall Jackson "riding ahead." It is in this scene that Jackson gives his famous command to his men, "Who touches a hair of yon gray head, dies like a dog!" for Barbara has snatched the American flag from the dead body of her Northern lover and is waving it before the eyes of the soldiers of the South.

Frankie Richter.

The Milwaukee Sentinel says the following of Frankie Richter, the blind boy pianist, who appears at the Marquam Grand next Thursday evening:

"The phenomenal piano playing by Master Richter surprised even those who had placed their expectations unusually high. His renditions of difficult selections from Schubert, Wagner, Chopin, Liszt and Beethoven was with such skill as marked him an artist in the highest degree of the term. His mastery over the piano is complete, and Nature reveals herself in his lightest touch. Those who have heard him can with all truth say: 'I have heard a musical genius.'"

"Quo Vadis?"

A happy selection has been made for a special attraction at the Marquam Grand Theater next Friday, Saturday matinee and night, in F. C. Whitney and Edwin Knowles' presentment of "Quo Vadis?" In point of magnificence as to scenery, costumes, properties, etc., it has certainly not often been equaled.

The lighting effects are novel and elaborate, and include a panoramic view of the burning of Rome. George Schaeffer, who is accounted one of the best stage directors in the country, is in charge of the production, and has trained the actors and auxiliary people to a point of the highest perfection. When the full strength of the company is on the stage there will be 50 people assembled.

RICH STRIKE IN DEWEY MINE.

Another Great Find in the Thunder Mountain Property.

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 19.—There is a report here to the effect that in the Dewey property, at Thunder Mountain, two feet of ore assaying $5000 a ton has been opened. It is not the same chute showing on the surface, in which there is so much wonderfully rich ore, but in another part of the mine. An effort to verify the report has resulted in securing information that Superintendent Babbitt, of the Dewey mine, in his last report mentions having come upon some ore in which free gold can be seen at a distance of 20 feet. He also reports on assay of $5000, but does not mention the size of the streak. Men have come out who left later than the letter, and it is thought the report comes from some of them. Information has been received here that Ben and Dan Caswell, two of the brothers who discovered the camp, and who sold the property to Colonel Dewey, have refused $100,000 in cash for the Sunnyside group, which is one mile east of the Dewey group. The men are now in Pittsburg, and it was Pittsburg people who made the offer.

A raid on New York policy shops discloses the fact that their receipts are $3,640,000 a year, of which their patrons get back $800,000.

CRY FOR MORE SCHOOLS

MANY DEMANDS TO BE PRESSED AT TAXPAYERS' MEETING.

At Gathering Tonight Delegations Will Present Claims — Aggregate for Buildings Reaches $70,000.

The demand for new school buildings will be one of the principal matters for the school taxpayers to consider at their meeting in the assembly hall of the High School tonight. The teachers' salaries and the amount of the tax will come up in various forms, but the great item to the taxpayers in general will be the new structures asked for.

The demand for new buildings on the West Side is small when compared with that of the East Side. South Portland wants an addition of four rooms, costing, in round figures, $4600. North Portland is crowded for space, but it has made no request. The Chapman School has served as an outlet for the Couch, which has not too much room, but may itself be filled within the year. The East Side asks for additions and buildings at Woodlawn, Sunnyside, Sellwood and Brooklyn, costing about $70,000, or about $30,000 more than the Board of Education recommends for schoolhouses. The schools at Woodlawn and Sunnyside are at present overcrowded, and residents of the other suburbs report the same state of affairs.

The Woodlawn, Piedmont and Cloverdale people will ask the taxpayers to vote a tax for the erection of 10 rooms of a 16-room schoolhouse to take the place of the present building at Woodlawn. The cost of the 10 rooms will not be less than $25,000. As the Central Schoolhouse, with 18 rooms, cost more than $40,000, it is reasoned that it would not be possible to put up 10 rooms of a 16-room building at Woodlawn on modern plans at much less than $30,000. The people of this section will come to the meeting this evening in force. The following address has been issued by the Board of Trade of Woodlawn, which shows how the people feel about it:

"This meeting levies the annual tax, to be used for building purposes for the coming year. Unless a tax to build schoolhouses is voted, school buildings cannot be built. Residents of Woodlawn, Piedmont and Cloverdale must bear in mind that Sellwood and South Portland want new school buildings, and they will be at the meeting in large numbers to emphasize their demands. Residents of Woodlawn must be at the meeting. The Board of Education has no authority to build buildings, unless money by taxation is voted at this meeting. Fortunately, the Board of Education favors a new building in Woodlawn. The responsibility of having a new building rests entirely with the Woodlawn, Piedmont and Cloverdale people. If they attend this meeting and do their duty, the building is assured.

"We should have a plan for a 16-room building, 10 rooms to be completed the first year. A large building will add to the value of residence property; it will induce people to build in this locality. For educational and hygienic causes, it is absolutely necessary.

"The Thompson, a 16-room building, was built three years ago. It is now the third largest grammar school in the city. It is taxed to its entire capacity. This is an illustration of what a good building will do for suburban property."

Sellwood will ask for a new building, costing at least $10,000. This suburb has a small schoolhouse, and outside rooms have to be rented. The structure is old and poorly planned. The people want a new schoolhouse, and eight rooms of a 12-room schoolhouse built this year. This will cost from $15,000 to $20,000. A large delegation will attend the meeting to present these demands.

Brooklyn will ask that an addition of two or four rooms be made to the present eight-room building on Milwaukie street. The schoolhouse is overcrowded, and no outside rooms are to be had. The cost of two rooms would probably be about $5000 and four rooms $8000.

Sunnyside Schoolhouse is overcrowded. Two outside rooms are rented, and a four-room addition is wanted. This would probably cost from $5000 to $8000.

FINE WINTER TROUT CATCH.

The sport of trout fishing can be enjoyed in Winter as well as Summer in Oregon. Dr. Charles E. Stolte and L. W. Moody, both inveterate fishermen, go out to enjoy their favorite sport nearly every Sunday all Winter long. On the Sunday after Christmas they caught, in a tributary of the Columbia, near Oak Point, while fishing the first two miles up from the river, 35 beautiful fish from 12 to 15 inches in length before stopping for their noon lunch. The accompanying illustration will give an idea of the beauty of the fish. A week or two after Mr. Moody and E. W. Blackstone caught over 50 trout of the same kind in a stream in the same locality. The trout are known as Fall trout, and come in from the sea in large numbers when the Winter rains begin.

NO SHORT-WEIGHT BUTTER.

Commissioner Bailey Finds None in Southern Oregon.

Food and Dairy Commissioner Bailey has returned from Southern Oregon, where he inspected the dairies and creameries, and incidentally investigated the sale of short-weight butter. In speaking of his trip yesterday, Mr. Bailey said that in his visits to the stores he found no butter below the legal weight.

"Since the agitation against short-weight butter began," he said, "Southern Oregon has enjoyed the full roll, and California, which largely supplies the market at this season of the year, has been shut out, as its rolls do not meet the scale. The short-weight movement has greatly pleased the merchants, for it relieves them of the necessity of taking farm butter in trade. The farm butter comes in all weights, and heretofore the merchants have had to accept it or lose the farmer's trade. Now he may reject it and lay the responsibility for the rejection upon the State Food and Dairy Commissioner.

"Medford and Roseburg I found to be without creameries. The creamery nearest to Medford is in Ashland, and the nearest to Roseburg in Eugene. Creameries in these two towns could be established and operated at a profit. The necessary plant would not cost more than $2000, and in place of the farm butter now sold at 15 and 20 cents a pound, creamery butter offered at from 25 to 27 cents could be substituted.

"After visiting the dairies and creameries, I stopped at the homes of some of the orchardists of Jackson County, and inquired about the fruit prospects, and received some information which should be given to the people of Portland. One of the largest orchardists in the county showed me an account, according to which a variety of apples grown in Jackson County and in the Watsonville district, California, were sold in London, England, on the same day. The Oregon apples brought 13 shillings and sixpence, and the California fruit 7 shillings—a higher mark than Oregon's superiority over her southern neighbors has ever before reached.

"New orchards are being set out, and in my opinion trees will be planted on about 2000 acres this Spring. Land is selling at from $60 to $150 per acre. Ten years ago the same land could be purchased at $25 or $30, and 10 years hence it will be worth from $500 to $750, and at that price will pay a good profit on the investment. The boom in prices was caused by the purchases of experienced Eastern fruitgrowers, who had heard of the section's resources.

"One great need of Southern Oregon is an apple cider and vinegar factory. Enough apples to supply the whole state with cider and vinegar go to waste every year. One firm of orchardists, on 160 acres of trees, planted 10 years ago, cleared $20,000 net this year, and yet acres of apples went to waste."

BURNETT'S BODY FOUND

PORTLAND BOY HAD BEEN MISSING SINCE CHRISTMAS.

Started for Knappa to Hunt, and No Trace of Him Until Remains Washed Ashore at Svenson.

The body of Guy Burnett, sometimes known as Guy McGilvray, of Portland, was found yesterday on the tide land above Svenson, by W. F. McGregor, a well-known lumberman, of the Lower Columbia. Burnett had been missing from Portland since Christmas day, when he left on a duck-hunting expedition in the vicinity of the islands two miles below Knappa. A few days later his boat was found tied to a tree near Knappa, but no trace could be found of Burnett or his gun. He had previously said that if overtaken by a storm he would strap the weapon to the boat, and the fact that it was not there raised hope in the hearts of his family and friends that perhaps he had wandered off, and would turn up at some other point.

About the time Burnett arrived at Knappa a terrific storm raged on the Lower Columbia, and it is probable that the boat capsized and was found later by some fishermen, who tied it to the tree, but did not report the fact to the authorities. Burnett was 25 years of age, and was the son of Mrs. Nancy McGilvray, who lives in the Union block, at Stark and First streets. The mother was not at home last night when the reporter called, but others in the house verified the belief that the identity of the dead body and the missing man were the same. Burnett lived for five years at Knappa, and was thoroughly familiar with the river in that neighborhood.

Before starting on the trip Guy made arrangements for his brother, Ward, to join him after the holidays, but when the latter reached Knappa he found only the boat. No trace could be found of his brother, and he was given up by his mother and brother as lost. Dynamite was ineffectually used in an effort to raise the body, but the search had to be abandoned. Mr. McGregor, who found the body, reported it to Coroner Pohl, of Astoria, and the remains will be taken to that place this morning, and will be sent from there to Portland for burial. No marks were discernible that would indicate that Burnett came to his death by the accidental discharge of his gun or foul play.

IN MEMORY OF DEPARTED

Services Held in Honor of Dead of A. O. U. W. Order.

The St. John's Presbyterian Church, Seventeenth and Marshall streets, was crowded last evening. Upchurch Lodge, No. 126, A. O. U. W., and its ladies' auxiliary, Fraternity Lodge, No. 89, Degree of Honor, conducted memorial services there in honor of the dead of the order.

Four members of Upchurch Lodge passed away during 1901. Those who are "gone but not forgotten" were: W. A. Crewson, died April 13, 1901; E. Reknate, August 15; T. Brown, August 16, and S. L. Fish, December 7. Of these four, the last three met death by accident.

W. H. Turner opened the exercises by an organ voluntary, which was followed by an anthem sung by the St. John's Presbyterian Church choir.

The officers of Upchurch Lodge conducted the opening services, which included their "Invocation Ode." Fred L. Olsen, recorder of the order, read the necrology of the past year, amid the tolling of the bell from the pulpit. Rev. E. W. St. Pierre, of St. John's Church, delivered a touching memorial address. After the choir had sung "Gathering Home," A. King Wilson, master workman of Upchurch Lodge, pronounced the eulogy—"Our Deceased Members"—which was followed by the congregation singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Grand Recorder of the Degree of Honor, Mrs. Ollie F. Stephens, gave a short address. The exercises were closed by the singing of the lodge's "Closing Ode."

WHEATINE

A "Doubting" Thomas.

Astoria, Or., Jan. 17.
Walter Reed, Esq.—Dear Sir: Aren't you stretching the truth and piling on the agony a bit, to boost your shop, when you advertise in The Oregonian that nine out of 10 headaches indicate bad eyes? Three of my people back in England suffer infernally from headaches, and not one of the lot, not even my mother, aged 62, uses or has had a call to use glasses. Yours in doubt,
THOMAS HIGGINBOTHAM.

No, friend Higginbotham, we are not "stretching" or "piling" even "a bit." An old lady of 62 unquestionably needs age glasses, unless near-sighted, and your younger relatives are probably suffering from eye-strain without knowing it. Specialists agree that 90 per cent of all headaches are due to defective vision. The Portland Optical Institute has cured thousands of these cases.

WAS BALD SIX YEARS.

Three Months of the New Scientific Treatment Restored His Hair.

Baldness is caused by dandruff, which is caused by a germ. Kill the germ and there is almost certainty that hair will grow again, if the follicle has not been totally destroyed. Nels Peterson, of Lime Spur, Mont., says: "I had been bald six years, and had tried all kinds of 'cures,' but without any benefit whatever, until I tried Herpicide. November 16, 1899, I began using Herpicide, and in three months a fine growth of hair covered my head completely." Ask your druggist for Herpicide. Everybody can have luxuriant, glossy hair, if Herpicide is used thoroughly. Take no substitute.
