

NOT FOR SEATTLE No Change in Headquarters of Nisqually Diocese.

WILL REMAIN AT VANCOUVER

Bishop O'Dea Says Purchase of Real Estate by Catholics in Washington Does Not Signify a Completed Removal.

From time to time the Seattle newspapers have announced positively that Right Reverend Bishop O'Dea of Nisqually, was making arrangements for the immediate removal of his headquarters from Vancouver to the Washington metropolis. To these assertions Bishop O'Dea has in each instance authorized a prompt and emphatic denial that such a plan was under consideration. In the Seattle Times of Saturday the bishop again positively denied the reported removal. In discussing the Seattle announcement Chancellor Verwilghem said:

ASK MERCY FOR DALTON HIS ATTORNEYS GIVE REASONS FOR MAKING APPEAL.

They Urge That He Assisted in Detection of Murderer, and Was Promised Leniency.

PORTLAND, Jan. 19.—(To the Editor.)—In the public discussions of the punishment of Wade and Dalton, it has been assumed that nothing was to be urged in favor of executive clemency, beyond a plea for mercy based upon the irreconcilable and extreme severity of the death penalty. Other considerations much more weighty are to be urged. Some facts which are not well known to the public, and others, which, apparently, are overlooked, are most essential to a fair judgment upon these men.

CAREER OF DR. H. K. HINES HIS PIONEER SERVICES TO THE METHODIST CHURCH.

Friends Regret Passing Away of Man Who Devoted His Life to Church Work.

While not unexpected, the news of the death of Rev. H. K. Hines, D. D., which occurred yesterday morning at 2:45 o'clock at his home at Portsmouth, on the coast of Pennsylvania, was received with the deepest regret. His death will come as a personal loss to thousands in the Pacific Northwest. Yesterday only preliminary arrangements could be made for the funeral. However, it is expected the services will be held in the Taylor-Street Methodist Church, of which he was the first pastor, about 50 years ago. The Portland Methodist Episcopal Association will have immediate charge of the funeral, but all ministers of the city will be invited to participate. Rev. A. J. Hines, now of Tacoma, with whom Dr. Hines was closely associated in the pioneer work of the Methodist church in Eastern Oregon and Eastern Washington, will preach the funeral discourse. J. K. Gill will select the active and honorary pallbearers from among the prominent citizens of Portland. It is expected that the interment will be in the Lee cemetery at Salem.

SCAFFOLD FOR WADE AND DALTON NEARS COMPLETION.

The Scaffold for the Execution of Wade and Dalton is Practically Completed.

The scaffold for the execution of Wade and Dalton is practically completed. Some of the mechanism is yet to be arranged, and a few other minor things to be done. It is located just underneath the balcony at the head of the stairway leading to the chamber occupied by Judge George. The board fence, 16 feet high, surrounding the inclosure, is all up, and the gate through which entrance to the inside can be obtained is kept locked, around the corner. The two traps are fixed so that both can be sprung at once. There will be three ropes leading from the traps, one of which will spring both traps when pulled. There will be a man stationed by each of the ropes, and the three men will pull together at a given signal. By this means it will not be known who springs the trap.

WORK EAST OF MOUNTAINS. Dr. Hines Was Presiding Elder Over an Extensive District.

Dr. Hines was purely self-made. His education was acquired in the wilderness. He enjoyed the advantages of only a few months of schooling in the common schools, and yet his attainments were wide and thorough, not only along the lines of preaching, but in every direction. Dr. Hines was always a pioneer. He was a pioneer before he was transferred to Oregon Conference in 1852, and he had entered on a pioneer work, being the first pastor of Taylor-Street Church. There is hardly a charge in the Willamette Valley and in most of Washington that he has not served either as pastor or presiding elder. He has written and published many important works on the planting of the Methodist church in Eastern Oregon and Eastern Washington and Idaho. He was made presiding elder in that district in the '70s with headquarters at Walla Walla. At that time the only method of transportation was by stage coach, wagon and horseback. Dr. Hines traveled mainly by stage and buggy. There were no trails and wagon roads in that part of the state that he did not traverse by his own conveyance. The Thomas and Ruggles wagon road came direct from Walla Walla into the Grand Ronde Valley. Also the old immigrant road, afterwards superseded by the Mosheim road, were the roads he usually drove over in a buggy with wife and daughter. These trips were made in the storms of winter, as well as in the summer, in this way. But Dr. Hines has frequently said that his greatest triumph of his life was when he was driving through the Blue Mountains, sleeping under the starry heavens and spreading bouquets of the mighty pine trees. Two years ago he drove, with Mrs. Hines, from Pendleton through to Boise City, and thence to Lewiston and back to Pendleton. All the way he would point out innumerable spots which he had named by night. He had a great deal of knowledge of the mountains, and when on the rounds of his district, which now comprise the mighty inland empire. He drank in the beauties of the mountain valleys of Eastern Oregon with a delight that cannot be expressed, and weaved them into his sermons and public addresses. While traveling with his wife and daughter, he was in Idaho in a blinding snow storm he became lost. He tried to find the road, but could not. He discovered that he had been driving in a circle for some time. Fortunately managed to reach the nearest house.

A GOOD judge must have both experience and learning. A housekeeper should be a good judge for she too must have experience and learning or she may think that the soaps made to look like Ivory Soap are just as good. With experience she will know that they lack the remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ivory Soap—99 44/100 per cent. pure.

THERE is no cereal equaling H-O as an article of diet, but if you want a change try "Breakfast Crisps," the concentrated nutriment of wheat, malted. No cooking. Ready to use.

SUMNER POST HAS A RALLY

Veterans Hear Admiral Schley's Letter of Thanks for Resolutions.

Sumner Post, No. 12, G. A. R., Department of Oregon, held a rousing meeting at the hall on Union avenue Saturday night. Visiting comrades were present from Lincoln-Garfield post. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. On this occasion the reply of Rear-Admiral Winfield Scott Schley to the resolutions passed and sent to him by Sumner post, was read. It was received with much enthusiasm. If Admiral Schley could have been present he certainly would have felt that he has a warm place among the members of Sumner post. Rev. Henry A. Barden, of Lincoln-Garfield, presided at the meeting. The resolutions honoring the admiral were read and the resolutions standing by Admiral Schley.

THE BEST KIDNEY REMEDY

Is S. B. Catarth Cure, which positively cures pain in the back, loins or groins, swelling of the limbs, frequent desire to urinate, many nervous diseases, ailments in the urine resembling brick dust and gravel in the bladder, all of which leads to Bright's disease. For sale by all druggists. Each bottle 25 cents. Address Smith Bros., Fresno, Cal.

THE CLERICAL PRESS IN MEXICO.

The bitter attacks of the clerical press of Mexico on the United States show no signs of abatement. The Mexican Herald says: "When American Catholics prelate visit this country they receive a cool, even a glacial, reception, and feel even to the marrow of their bones the anti-Yankee prejudice which the clerical papers are so industrious in promoting. The clerical journals here are continually unhappy about the American people. Sometimes they remark on the 'Yankee barbarians,' and it seems to relieve their feelings as they live for a few days. But the bad mood returns and gloom and wrath prevail again. What is the matter? Is it envy, medieval spirit, or just plain liver complaint? Why write so vehemently against a great and free people, who let one another's religion alone and go about their business like men?"

CONTRACTOR DONALDSON DEAD.

He Was a Pioneer of 1852 and Took Part in the Cayuse Indian War. Andrew J. Donaldson, a well-known street contractor, a pioneer of 1852 and an Indian war veteran, died Saturday evening at St. Vincent's Hospital after an illness of four weeks. For the past few days he was in an unconscious condition. Mr. Donaldson was born in Kentucky October 22, 1830, and came to Oregon with his parents crossing the plains in 1852. The family first settled in Clackamas County, on a donation land claim. In 1857 the subject of this sketch moved to Portland. He was a volunteer in the Cayuse War the year before. With the exception of a short time spent at Astoria, he had made his home in Portland ever since. For the past few years he had engaged in free contracting, chopping and building basements for houses. His home was at 47 Welder street. Very few of his friends knew of his illness.

BLUE MOUNTAIN UNIVERSITY.

Dr. Hines Tried to Plant a Great School East of the Mountains. In that district every door was open to Dr. Hines, as they had been in the West before he was sent up there to blaze the way for the present three conferences which have developed out of the single district over which he was presiding elder. At La Grande the church school was started in the old "O. K. Store," in the old town. The building has long since been displaced by a handsome church edifice. Here he and Rev. W. Adams labored zealously for several years. Rev. A. J. Joslyn was his co-laborer in that district. The two were close friends and valued ministers of the Methodist church. Dr. Hines was professor of the Blue Mountain University, with Hon. Daniel Chapman and other prominent citizens. His dream was to establish a university in Eastern Oregon similar to the Willamette University. Ground was secured and a building of brick was erected. For a while the institution prospered, but success was not to crown the effort. This was no fault of Dr. Hines. He labored, sacrificed and prayed, but the burden was too great. When the corner-stone of the building was laid, July 1, 1872, Dr. Hines delivered the oration. He said, among other things on that occasion: "This is a mighty empire. I am looking forward to the time when the mountains will yield up their treasures of gold, and these lovely valleys will become the homes of teeming thousands. Railroads will penetrate the canyons of the Blue Mountains and the fertile valleys of Eastern Oregon. You and I may not live to see that time, but it will come with the certainty of fate. The time will become the richest portion of the state. The mines of the mountains will be developed, and the valleys will become splendid fields of grain."

TRAVEL IN COMFORT.

The new steamer Hassalo leaves Astoria dock for Astoria and Lower Columbia points daily, except Sunday, at 3 P. M.; Saturday, 10 P. M. Tickets and berth reservations at O. R. & N. ticket office, third and Washington.

HIS VALUABLE MANUSCRIPTS.

Dr. Hines Has Preserved His Papers and Addresses Covering 50 Years. Dr. Hines was very methodical in his work. He preserved most of his public addresses and many of his sermons delivered in the Northwest for the past 50 years. It was his intention to have his memoirs in book form. The work was well advanced. Much of the manuscript had been prepared. It was his intention to open an office in the Pulling building in Portland, and then go ahead with his work and complete it for publication. It was to be an account of his life and experiences. Today he was the time when he expected that he would have been settled in his office and at work on the closing effort of his life. He was looking forward to the time when he should be permitted to see the completion of this book with an absorbing pleasure, but this is not to be. Another hand must tell the story of his life. But this will be no detriment to his manuscripts as said to be in good shape and it will not require much work to complete what he intended to do. Dr. Hines has many valuable manuscripts that will be of great help to the future historian of the state. They are doubly valuable for the fine condition in which Dr. Hines left them. For he never touched anything in a haphazard manner. He was careful and methodical. Nothing was left half done. His life has been full of endeavor. He never had a moment when he was not ready to him for advice who came away enlightened. His personal work is finished, but his work will live after him. Dr. Hines leaves one brother, J. W. Hines, in San Jose, Cal., also his second wife, and son James Hines. His first wife died in 1859, and he was married to Mrs. C. M. Judkins nine years ago. She is a pioneer woman, and the mother of T. C. Judkins, formerly Oregonian correspondent at Washington, now an attorney of San Francisco. Mrs. Lulu K. Cranston, his only daughter, died at Evangelical Services.

Evangelical services will be held at Mizpah Presbyterian Church, East Thirtieth and Powell streets, every night this week except Saturday. Rev. Jerome McLade, the pastor, will be assisted in the meetings by Rev. M. D. McClelland, of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, and E. M. Sharp, of the Mount Tabor Pres-

FUNERAL OF J. B. CONDON.

THE DALLIES, Jan. 19.—The funeral of the late J. B. Condon, which took place from the family residence here this afternoon, was very largely attended by friends of the family, members of the bar and long patron services at the home were conducted by Rev. D. V. Pollock, the Wesley lodge of Masons conducting the services at the grave. The pallbearers were J. B. Crossen, George A. Liebe, G. M. F. Keen, A. E. Keen, John Marden and H. Glenn. The city flags were at half-mast.

THE AMERICAN CIGAR.

Good is the name. Buy the best.

Pearls' "Beauty is but skin-deep" was probably meant to disparage beauty. Instead it tells how easy that beauty is to attain. "There is no beauty like the beauty of health" was also meant to disparage. Instead it encourages beauty. Pearls' Soap is the means of health to the skin, and so to both these sorts of beauty. Sold all over the world. ALL WRIGHT FOR MORE THAN HALF A CENTURY. WRIGHT'S INDIAN PILLS. VEGETABLE. Care Henders, Camouflage, Pills and Cream, and 11 Pills. Each Complete. All Druggists. Price 25 cents per box. WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILL, (S. N. 7) Yel.