WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The weather in the North Pacific States continues cold, and in the Willamette Valley and Sound country there has been a light fall of snow, averaging between two and three inches. There has also been a light fall of snow in the coast counties of Washington and Oregon, and it is quite likely that it was much heavier in the mountains. There is no disturbance in pressure to account for this snow, and it is probably due to local conditions in moisture and temperature.

The indications are for slowly moderating temperatures in this district Monday, with possibly light falls of snow in Washington and Northern Oregon, and light rain or snow in Southern Oregon.

WEATHER FORECASTS.

Forecasts made at Portland at 8 P. M. for 28 hours ending midnight, January 27:

Portland and vicinity—Partly cloudy and occasionally threatening, with possibly light snow. North to east winds.

Western Oregon—Threatening, with possibly light rain or snow. Northeasterly winds.

Washington — Threatening, with probably light snow east and light snow or rain west. Northeasterly winds.

Idaho—Fair; variable winds.

EDWARD A. BEALS, Forecast Official.
