How Cold-Blooded Prople Stand Weather.—Yesterday morning, while most people were wearing warm wraps and overcoats, and complaining of the rold, a man was seen busily at work in his shirt-sleeves shingling the roof of a new house on Fifth street, near Sherman several persons, while walting for a car on the next corner, noticed the man, who paid no attention to the cold, but cheer fully whistled as he hammered away, "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." One of the observers noticed that he car-ried slong some haif-dozen courses of shingles, keeping the lower ones in advance of those above, of course, and he said when he was a boy men who shingled houses carried along only one row of shingles at a time. Another said the new style was doubtless a modern improvement, and then they fell to discussing cold-weather clothing. One said he never wore an overcoat, Summer nor Winter, and he thought it was good for him. None of the others seemed to think it would be good for him-at least no one said anything of the kind. Another said he knew a man who never wore any underclothes in cold weather, and he never had a cold or rheumatism, or anything of the kind. Another said wearing clothes was all a habit; if people would not wear clothes they would soon be able to do without them, as the body would be as tough as the face. The last of the group said he knew several who ought to be able to go without clothes now, as they were cheek all over, but they were clothes to partially conceal this fact. PORTLAND & GOOD TOWN NOW .- Criminal business was disposed of yesterday at the Municipal Court five minutes after the session was opened; there were only three cases to consider. Downstairs at the police station business was stagnant, and not a single arrest was made until last night. The sleep of the office cat was not even disturbed. Speaking of the new reign of peace in matters of crime, a police offi-clal said: "How do I account for the luli in police business? By three things, First, there is the rock plie. Hobos are avoid-ing coming to Portland because they don't wish to split rocks, and the vagrants around town are not holding up street corners any more; after a hint about the rock pile they go to work. Second, the ar-rest, conviction and fate of Wade and Dalton, the highwaymen who murdered Morrow. Third, the arrest, conviction and heavy punishment of the Slavin-road rob-These arrests have acted as a damper to men of the criminal class whose natural bent is to rob and steal. TEARS DO HIM LITTLE GOOD.-Joseph Grillez, a Spaniard, was brought before Municipal Judge Cameron yesterday for sentence, charged with stealing a fur col-lar valued at $15.50 from a Fifth-street store. His counsel asked that a lenient sentence be imposed, as he had doubts as to his client's mental condition. "The he was doing when he took the fur col-lar," insisted the Judge; "however, since he has expressed his sorrow for what he has done, and promises to lead a better life for the future, the sentence will be six months' imprisonment in the County Jali." The tears coursed down the pris-oner's cheeks as he was led away.

SMELT DIRT CHEAP.-Columbia River smelt are now so plentiful that they are bought by hawkers, who take them around town and dispose of them to all comers at three pounds for 10 cents. Two rold-looking chaps stood at either end of the steel bridge all day yesterday and lustily cried their wares to all passers-by, but it was too chilly to listen to fish stories, to say nothing of believing them, so most of the pedestrians passed by on the other side and went home fishless. on the smelts will cost more money, and then people will be sorry they didn't lay in a supply and put them in coid storage on the back porch while they were cheap.

CHILD NOT AHANDONED.-A notice re cently inserted in The Oregonian, asking the whereabouts of Mrs. Minnie Erick-sen, whose child died recently at the baby home, may have been misleading. Mrs. Bricksen had not abandoned her child, as may have been thought, but, owing to a messenger not going to the number and street designated on a note sent her, it was supposed she had changed her restdence. I am not responsible for said no tice, but will testify that Mrs. Ericksen was an affectionate, devoted mother, not only able, but willing, to pay for the care of her child. L. W. SITTON,

BOUND OVER ON PERJURY CHARGE.-I. *Labowitch was before Municipal Judge Cameron yesterday, charged with perjur, on the oath of Morris Labowitch, and was held in ball to await the action of the grand jury. The allegations named in the complaint are that in the recent suit brought by Morris Labowitch against his sons for support I. THERE'S MANY A SLIP NOWADAYS.-The | To DISCUSS FOURTH STREET.-A call is old adage in regard to there being "many a slip" has been recalled many times since the cold snap set in. One instance occurred on South Second street last evening. Two young women were hastening down the street, each carrying a pair of skates. Two young men, one in advance of the other, were hastening after them, with the evident purpose of overtaking them. The young women seemed conscious of the approach of the young men, but they did not know each other, or either have any idea that the other was anxious to join the young women. Finally the man in the rear increased his speed, intending to pass the other, but as he

A good at-tendance is desired, so as to have the matter of the improvement of this stree definitely decided on." It is understood that the improvement to be considered at this meeting will extend from Jefferson was leaving the path to get by, his left foot slipped on an icy spot, he fell backward, and in a desperate effort to recover his equilibrium, his right foot shot violently into the air, incidentally delivering a rather severe kick on the rear of the other wooden blocks. CONSUL FALKENBURG IS GIVEN AN ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION.

Elaborate Preparations Are Carried Out for His Entertainment-Genernl Reunion of Order Results.

Head Consul F. A. Falkenburg, of the Woodmen of the World, and Mrs. Falkenburg, of Denver, Colo., arrived in Portland yesterday from Olympia, and are guests of the local lodges of the order. Elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of Mr. and Mrs. Falkenburg, and it is expected that 1890 visiting members of the order will come to the city from near-by towns for the reception tonight at Arion Hall. Last night the visitors attended the performance at the Marquam Theater of "The Senator's Wife," given under the direction of Percy H, Levin, with local amateurs in the cast. It was excellently presented and the players were liberally applicable. plauded. It was a happy coincidence that Head Consul Falkenburg's first night in Portland was the 45th anniversary of his birth, and he was the recipient of con-gratulations during the evening. Head Banker C. V. Cooper, of Portland, met the Head Consul at Scattle, and made the trip with him to this city. At the impromptu reception held at the theater after the performance, he presented the local members of the order to Mr. Falken-

The reception committee in charge of today's events is composed of A. L. Bar-bur, W. Reidt, Herman Schade, Harry Day and A. L. Keenan. At 3 o'clock this afternoon, the Women of Woodcraft will afternoon, the women of woodcraft will tender a reception to the Head Consul and Mrs. Falkenburg, at the Abington building. The feature of the day's enter-tainment, however, will take place at 8 o'clock tonight, when the local lodges will unite in a monster union reception to the distinguished visitors at Arion Hall. In connection with this, there will be an in-teresting musical programme and other features. Not only will the members of features. Portland lodges, both of Woodmen of the World and of Women of Woodcraft be present, but, from advices received, there will be a large crowd from out of town, members of lodges in sections the Head Consul will not be able to visit, because of the demands upon his time. Addresses will be made by Head Consul Falkenburg. Addresser Head Banker Cooper, General Organizer George K. Rogers, A. L. Barbur, chairman of the general reception committee. Among the prominent men and women in Woodcraft expected in the city today are: Mrs. C. C. Van Orsdall, of Pendleton grand guardian. Women of Woodcraft; A. D. Stillman, head manager, Woodmen of the World; A. A. Muchmore, editor of Forest Echoes, the official organ of the order, and Professor W. C. Hawley, dean of the Willamette University, Salem. Sunday night all camps and circles will assemble at the Taylor-Street Methodis: Episcopal Church, accompanied by the head consul, grand guardian and other officials of the two orders. A special song service will be rendered and a fraternal sermon preached by the pastor. Rev. H. J. Taibott. Monday a grand parade will be the feature of the entertainment, in which there will be floats emblematic of the order, and hundreds of uniformer members will be in line. The procession will start at Fourteenth and Washington streets and proceed thence east on Wantington to Third, south on Third to Mor rison, on Morrison to Sixth, on Sixth to Burnside, countermarch on Sixth to Mor-rison, and thence to the Exposition building, where a programme of music and ad-dresses will be given.

HAIL OF SNOW BALLS.

The snowball brigade was out in full force yesterday, especially around Sixth and Alder streets, and the disturbance did not cease until several of the boys throwing snowballs were arrested,

It all happened this way: The young-sters, some 60 or 70 of them, had come to await the publication of the Ever egram, and it occurred to them that the There was a hurried consultation of th leaders, and it was decided to prevent all vehicle traffic, even if stringent measures had to be resorted to

"Here comes one! Hey, there!" shouted an urchin, pointing his finger down Sixth street, where a fashionable cutter, driver by a gentleman wearing a "plug" hat was approaching. Before the gentleman knew what had taken place, hundreds of snowballs were flying past his ears, while ome of the better-directed ones landing against his nose and the silk hat, "Pelt him! Give it to him!" shouted the crowd, as the gentleman ran the gauntlet and passed up the street. The next victim was a boy in a butcher cart, and then a cab-driver, an expressman and an automobile-driver, each had his turn. The war was waged for half an hour, and traffic soon became suspended. Snowballs fairly filled the air. An aged individual, with populistic whiskers, got down on his knees and prayed for a means of escape, snowbal's thumping against his bald head all the while. The old fellow made good his escape, and the war was continued, this time against a youthful wagon-driver, who leaped to the street and tried to exterminate the whole newsboy fraternity. The young man's ef-forts were all in vain, for he received the worst drubbing of the day, and went on his way with a face that looked as if it had been adorned with much drug-store

At last a man who looked like a Rus sian, with swarthy beard and dark face, passed along the line of fire, and a cry went up: "Soak th' furriner. One, two, t'ree." One snowball hit the stranger in the neck, and he turned around and shook his fist at the boys. That was enough. He was simply deluged with snow, and he was beaten to his knees. Nobody could make out what he was say ing, and he was allowed to go.

Then a policeman arrived, and the snowballers' ardor was lessened, but the fever soon broke out again with increased vigor, and a message was sent to the police station for reinforcements. Six policemen arrived, and four boys were caught in the act and arrested. Snow bailing stopped after that.

Complaints were also made that boys and girls were snowballing citizens on the East Side, around Union avenue, but no one was caught in the act.

The boys arrested on Alder street were locked up in jall for two hours, and were released after making a humble apology. The police state that all persons caught throwing snowballs will be arrested and

NORDICA THURSDAY WEEK.

She Comes to Portland Fresh From European Triumphs.

Nordica, who appears in concert at the Marquam Grand Thursday, February 13, is said to be in superb health and voice after her long Summer's rest in the Black Forest, Germany. She is fresh from her tri-umphs in Munich where, in September, at the New Prince Regent Theater, she sang Isolde in "Tristan and Isolde" and Elsa in "Lohengrin." Her success was so complete and sensational that she was immediately re-engaged for all the Wag-ner roles at the same theater for Sep-tember, 1992. On her arrival in New York Madame Nordica found a cable message informing her that all her conditions had been accepted, and an engagement closed engaging her for the Covent Garden sea-son next year, beginning in May.
