Just prior to the assembling of the House the committee on rules agreed upon the form of a special rule for the considera-tion of the bill by the terms of which it ment. Only a few of the Democrats had knowledge of the contemplated coup, and would be brought to a vote at 4 o'clock

"The chair hears none," said the Speaker, as he brought his gavel clal order agreed upon by that committee, and explained the effect of the rule, This measure, he said, was presented to redeem a plodge made when the war revenue taxes were imposed-that when the necessity for them ceased they would be repealed. This was a measure on which, the bill he took it, there was practical unanimity of sentiment on both sides of the House. It was a simple repeal mensure, and it was deemed wise that it should be brought to a vote without complication on the exus issues. At the conclusion of this brief statement Dalzell yielded 3) minutes to Underwood (Dem. Ala.), also of the alder committee on rules.

The Alabama member protested against the adoption of the rule, not, he said, be-cause it provided for the consideration of a bill to reduce taxation, but because it prevented individual members from exercising their own judgment or carrying out the wishes of their constituents as to what portion of the excessive taxes should be repealed. As an instance of a tax which it was not advisable to repeal, he clied the inheritance tax, a tax which, he said, was levied on a class that was not other taxation.

Inderwood said he did not think a general tariff revision should be made, be-cause such a revision, whether good or bad, would unsettle present conditions and lor Her derred to

Following is the text of the amend ment he offered;

Amendment of Underwood.

That, for the purpose of readjusting the present duties on importations into the United States, so as to raise sufficient revenues to support the Government, eco-pomically administered, and at the same time to encourage the export trace of country, the President of the United States is authorized and empowered to negotiate trade contracts with foreign nations, wherein mutual concessions are made looking to the expansion of our for-eign trade; provided, that said trade contracts, before coming into operation whall be submitted to the Congress of the United States for ratification, amendment OT rejection

Ball (Dem. Tex.) denounced the rule as but another step in the parliamentary ev-olution by which individualism in the the House was being crushed and a few me Snate its will. Rall said it was reported in the papers that the President had been converted to the view that the "iron hand" was necessary to prevent a whole-sale revision of the tariff. The reason for the presentation of the rule, he declared, was because it was necessary to gag two Republican members of the ways and means committee, a number of the Republicans on the floor, and all the Democrats of the House. He referred to the report in the newspapers that even the President had become converted to the view that the "iron hand" was necessary to prevent a wholesale revision of the tar-At this point Babcock (Rep. It was such a display of cowardice as never before had been witnessed in the (Applause.) When the bill went to the Senate it would be debated and mended, but by this rule the House could be deprived of its rightful_function. Cannon (Rep. 10.) argued earnestly in favor of the adoption of the rule. Even other revenue reductions were advisable, should not stand, he said, in the way of the repeal of taxes gathered in the Treasury from the people, there to con-stitute a prize upon exploitation. "Let us," he said, in conclusion, addressing his de of the House, "take the responsibility r the repeal of these taxes, as we took the responsibility for their imposition."

Bill for Cuban Reciprocity. WASHINGTON, Feb, 17.-Representative H. C. Smith, of Michigan, today ined a bill amending the act of July 24, 1898, by authorizing the President to negotiate a reciprocity treaty between the United States and Cuba for a period of 10 years, by which the United States shall refund to the Cuban Government, quar-terly, 40 per cent of the duties, on the condition that Cuba will grant a concession of duties on all articles imported by Cuba from the United States; and on condition that no duties shall be refunded on any article, the production of which any bounty shall have provided or have been paid. It is explained that Mr. Smith's bill is in line with the general sentiment of the Michigan delegation to protect the sugar industry of that state, as the refund proposed is to the Cuban Government and not to the sugar-planters.
