DEFEAT STARES THEM IN FACE

All the Eloquence of the Boss' In spired Orators Cannot Gloss Over Obvious Facts-Those Decoy "Independents."

Numerous acute cases of panic deoped among Senator Simon's friends, office-holders, yesterday. Deprived of the hope of success by befogging the issue at the primaries, they were scamper-ing hither and thither like ants whose nest has been destroyed, seeking fresh shelter. Although most of the pension-ers of the machine had heard rumors of the pulling down of the "fake" independtickets, few of them were prepared believe that the County Central mittee had consented to such a hazardous measure, and the announcement that this was really the case provoked widspread consternation. Senator Simon

The office-holders and their dependents came early, but not early enough to avoid the rush, which was composed of the heelers who are now beginning to get to the point where "there must be something doing." All day long the elevators in the Chamber of Commerce building were kept busy with pas-sengers for the sixth floor, and all day long a steady stream of uneasy people poured into the room in which Mr. Simon was quartered, to urge that some active measures be taken to save the gang from defeat that now stares it in the face. Hon. W. M. Davis continued to go out to see the boys, but he looked disconsolate and discouraged. Police detectives were kept y all day yesterday, registering the derioin boarding-house element, but even they were not wearing the air of rosy confidence which has distinguished them hitherto. They found a short suppose of both of present that bind them, and free themselves of supply of both.

It has developed that the county central ittee had little or nothing to do with the pulling down of the manifold "independent" primary tickets, further than consenting to the action of County Clerk Swetland. Some of the Simon men or after they are closed. who were on these spurious tickets, and who fear that they will be left out in the cold, have reproached the central committeemen with sidetracking them, and have been told that the fault lay with Mr. Swetland. The fact is that the weight of public opinion bore down so hard on the committeemen that they did not dare carry out their pet scheme, and so remained passive when it was urged that nothing be done to cloud the issue. It meant the deliberate destruction of a of the laws with reference to gambling in carefully built system, but it was apparent that the voters were in earnest this time, and even the county central committee is not reckless enough to antag.

Arrangements having been made for a full vote of the hobos and North End dive frequenters, it is urged that business men offset it by allowing their employes City: every opportunity to go to the polls to-morrow. They will be open from 8 o'clock in the morning to 6 at night, and the noon hour, which is all the time many clerks and workingmen have, will not give them time to go to their several poiling-places. There is no firm nor employer in Portland who cannot spare the time re-quired at the beginning or close of the day to cast a primary ballot, and if all of them bear this in mind and not cold let of them bear this in mind and not only let their employes off, but urge upon them the importance of voting, a full vote will be brought out. It is especially desired that the people who are ordinarily neg-lectful of this duty and who are prone to allow other duties to interfere with it, re-member that the hobo never forgets or neglects to vote, and that every honest citizen's ballot cancels that of some irre-sponsible loafer or criminal.

And the Well-Known Citizen Signs His Name.

PORTLAND, Or., March 12-(To the Editor.)-Your remarks in this morning's Oregonian on the election or choosing a States Senator are timely and proper. Oregon is in pressing need of able men in the Senate. Shall we re-elect Joseph Simon? If so, why? What has he done for the benefit of Oregon or of the United States? Answer, who can. No one knows better than Mr. Simon that the United States Senate is not be that the United States Senate is not his aphere. No one than himself sees so clearly the great disparity between himself and other Senators, in ability, in-fluence, dignity and the character neces-sary for the position. Mr. Simon has ability, but it is not Senatorial ability. His ability is in marshaling the boys, rallying, handling and controlling the baser elements of political life. He is remarkably secretive and expert at work-ing in the dark. He has his captains, lleutenants and men, as secretive and dark as himself, and who work for him like slaves. He is a cunning, artful schemer of great force, and handly guides and controls those who know less than himself, and whose conscientious considerations are no higher than him are not him himself. scruples are no higher than his own, with wonderful success. His work is all done on the sly. He can neither work nor fight in the open. I think he must have been born in the dark.

What have been the results of his work? He has given us ring or Simon politics, ring county and city officials, who have little regard for their official duties. Their main business seems to be to col-lect the salaries, set up jobs, intrigue and plan for their re-election, boost their bosa, and obey Joseph Simon. When his election was accomplished, no one knew how it was done. Not one man in 50 in Oregon will say that Jo Simon was his choice for Schator. It may be asked, Why did not the people rise in their might and defeat him? Because he had gotten control of the good old Republican party and governed the pri-maries. The people honored and loved their party, had no desire to rebel against or desert it, and under the old primary system could not change or get it out of his control without open desertion. It is to be hoped that under the new primary law the people can exercise their rights and get their choice. But Mr. Senator Simon is here—having deserted his seat in the Senate, when he is most needed there. Now he plunges into the depths, and his old underground tricks, without doffing his Senatorial robes or dignity, and is trying with his might to make us helieve that he is Greenon's to make us believe that he is Oregon's favorite candidate for the United States Senate. Shades of Webster and Clay! Now I write this from no personal antipathy to Mr. Simon, but I am a citizen of Oregon; all I have is here. I am proud of my State, and am desirou of seeing her represented in the United States Senate by one of whom I can also be proud. Where is the Oregonian who can stand up and lock you in the eye and say, "I am proud of my Senator, Jo Simon"? I have held my breath, and nose, too, all this time, grinning and bearing it, but do not consider it my duty to do so longer without a protest. When unfit people force themselves into the most important positions, and try to fill those of which we are most proud, and which are most dear to us, and where our best interests are, we have a right to condemn with tongues of fire and pens of steel. I have gnashed my teeth and suffered under this cruel misrepresentation in the United States Senate so long, and I would have con-tinued to do so until the end of his term, had he not again put in an appearance and began to lay his wires to thrust himself upon us again. This is too much enough to make the worm itself rebel. We have had enough of Joseph Simon ringism. We are tired of high taxes.

OREGON CITY, March 13 -(To the Editor.)—In The Oregonian of March 13 you comment severely upon the administration unquestionable authority that gambling was carried on during Mr. Caufield's term As an example of the methods employed of office, although Mr. Caufield, as Mayor with regular officers, the following story will serve:

After the heeler had thrown a couple of 220 gold pieces on the bar and bought several rounds of drinks for all hands, they were loaded in three shipments on the First-street car, taken thence to Washington, thence to Fifth and to the Courthouse, where they were duly registered by the heeler. That sort of thing has been going on in the North End for weeks, and such people may be depended upon to come out and vote the Simon ticket at the primaries tomorrow.

Mattle A. North, C. I. Scoffins, H. E. Miller, Richard M. Scott, John T. Anderson, Louis Trummer, John Carey, W. A. Miller, trustee, be restrained from further dealing with or pellecting any of the assets of the Union Savings

The latter con-cern, it is alleged, was organized by the officers and directors of the former company, for the express purpose of trans-ferring to it the property and assets of the Union Savings & Loan Association and absorbing all of the assets thereof, for the individual benefit of the officers and directors of both corporations.

It is charged that the Union Savings & Loan Association conveyed by deeds to the Co-operative Investment Company on January 24, 1961, lots in Tremont, Columbia Heights, Central Albina Addition and Highland Park, for the consideration of $110, which are worth at least $2000; also that the officers of the Union Savings &

Loan Association have sold and trans-ferred nearly all of the assets of the association to the Co-operative Investment Company, and to preferred stockholders, at grossiy inadequate prices. The further charge is made that, after the officers had so fraudulently obtained a majority of the stock, they called a pre-tended meeting of the stockholders for September 30, 1901, and the only persons present were L. We are having a hard fight, as the Chinese and others have their agents and attorneys here doing everythings in their power to prevent a favorable report. I hope and believe we may succeed in securing the parage of one or the other of the bills referred to in the resolutions—that is, Senate bill 2960 or House bill 2630—and they are idehtical—before the adjournment of Congress.

Secretary Cortelyou's letter follows: My Dear Sir-I beg to acknowledge the re-ceipt of a copy of resolutions adopted at a recent mass meeting of the citizens of Port-land, Or., and to state that it will be brought to the attention of the President. All of the Oregon members of the delegation, both Senate and House, assisted in the formation of said bills, and I think I can say for every one, as I can for myself, that we shall cordially, earnestly and sincerely support them and assist in securing their final passage.

The House bill is still before the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, but it is hoped that a favorable report will be made soon. The bill had my hearty support in the delegation of the Pacific Coast members, and will have my best efforts in the House when it shall have been reported there for consideration.

Cameron was 69 years old, and he belonged to Glasgow, Scotland. He was employed as a sailor on the Rockhurst, the latter coming into this port from Mollendo, February 28. Since his arrival here, as the evidence at vesterday's Compare in the evidence at yesterday's Coroner's in-quest showed, Cameron has been more or less under the influence of liquor, Wednesday morning at 5 o'clock he went on shore for what he called a good time, and late that night he was met in a White-chapel saloon by one of his shipmates, Richard Dumont. About midnight the two sallors left the saloon together and two sailors left the saloon together and walked towards their ship. Cameron was under the influence of liquor, and he walked behind Dumont. The later reached the ship first, and, on turning around to look for Cameron, saw him walking toward the wharf, about 20 feet away from the gangway. "Look out," yelled Dumont, but Cameron did not seem to pay any attention to the warning, and he staggered over the wharf. The startled he staggered over the wharf. The startled man heard a crash as he struck the log lying in the water, and then all was still. He instantly called for assistance, and lowered himself by means of a rope and searched for the man, but without success. All that was left of him was his hat, and that floated near the spot where he had disappeared. Later in the morning the Coroner was notified, and then Hugh Brady found Cameron's body. There was a brulse over his forehead where he had struck the log, and from the appearance of the body he was in-ternally injured. The verdict of the Coroner's jury was that Cameron was acci-
