THE OREGONIAN'S HANDBOOK.

The Oregonian's Handbook tells all about Portland, the entire Columbia River watershed and the 1905 World's Fair, commemorative of the Lewis and Clark expedition to Oregon. The book contains over 150 handsome illustrations, and it is printed on enameled book paper. It will be mailed to any address in the United States or Canada for 7 cents a copy.

BRICKLAYERS TEMPORABILY IDLE -- Of late bricklayers have been scarce and contractors who were rushed have been en-deavoring to borrow such "artists" from one another. Yesterday several contractors were offering to loan any number of bricklayers to several other contractors, and a large number of these craftsmen were idle. This strange condition of affairs excited the curiosity of employers and workmen alike, and they all had a hearty laugh when it was ascertained that four buildings under construction had all all arrived at the "one-story-high" stage Tuesday evening and the men were laid off for two or three days while the floor beams and joists for the next story were being put in. The contractors were Thomas Walker, who is adding two stories to Mrs. Cremmens' building, for Woodard, Clarke & Co.; George Langford, who is putting up a building for D. Reeman, on Third street, near Burnside; the Lewis building, on Fifth and Davis streets, and the Portland Iron Works building. Such a thing as four buildings all reaching the one-story-high stage at the same time is not likely to occur again in a coon's age.

THOMAS" TURKET FOR CITY MUSEUM .-L. L. Hawkins has for some time beer planning for a new feature to be added to the free museum in the City Hall, in the shape of a complete series of domestic fowis, mounted, comprising the finest samples obtainable of every breed and variety. Yesterday he installed the first of the series, the largest and finest of them all, in the shape of a magnificent "Thomas" turkey of the bronze variety. It is a whopper and is likely to long main-tain its position at the head of the class. as the plumage is very beautiful and when alive the bird weighed 50 pounds and was either three feet six inches or six feet three inches tail, it is impossible to say which, as there was no measuring tape handy. Strangers visiting the mu-seum will be able to form an opinion of the kind of turkeys raised in Oregon, and what Oregonians have for their Thanksgiving dinners. Raisers of all the fine varieties of domestic fowls will do well to select and skin the pride of each variety in their flocks, to be mounted and placed on exhibition with this turkey king in the free museum. CHARGED WITH STEALING HIS OWN CLOTHES.—A curious charge of larceny faced Charles Barliez in the Municipal Court yesterday, when he was accused of larceny of clothing valued at about $15, on the complaint of Eastman & Tilley of been employed one month ago, before Eastman & Tilley took possession. Bar-liez said that he had worked as 'bus run-ner for the Merchant Hotel, when it was managed by Bruch & Eales, but that he had stopped working when the new pro-prietors took possession. He kept on living at the hotel, however; for one month, and owed a board bill for that period, when he took out his personal effects from the hotel. Eastman & Tilley asserted they had a claim on the goods and swore out a warrant for his arrest. The case was continued until tomorrow.

FAVORITE HORSE, "CHAPPIE," DIES.—
"Chappie," a favorite trotting horse at the Portland Riding Academy, is no more. He died last Monday, from colic. Those who have had riding lessons on "Chapple" will feel sorry, for he was one of the quietest and most willing little horses who ever trotted in this city, and he was very much in demand at paper chases and sim-flar occasions. His fault was that he was too willing to run, and he gave one the impression that he would go ahead until he dropped, if his rider had allowed such a thing. He was about II years old, and died in such pain that the grooms were glad when death relieved him from suf-

Mc-Elroy, who had been arrested by Policeman Hogeboom, charged with stealing two hams from Nash. Deputy Game Warden Prettyman was in the courtroom on another matter of business, when he suddenly remembered that he had a charge against Nash for having game in his possession out of senson, and he quietly swere out a warrant against Nash accusing him of having in his possession, March 7, Spring ducks during the senson prohibited by law. "I haven't been before you this Winter, and I've got a good excuse this time-I've been on an election jag. That sort of jag the gang gets once every three years. You know." "That's no ex-cuse," replied the Judge. "You will have to mend your ways or this court will deal more harshly with you than in the past. You are fined $2." "That's all right. I won't come back until after the June election," chuckled Casey.

STOLEN PROPERTY RECOVERED,-A large part of the property stolen by Frank Bush, who admitted having robbed three or four saloons and seven residences, was recovered yesterday from the pawrahops where Bush had traded. The cruection was an interesting one-gold and silver watches, rings and other articles of jewelry. Bush was taken before Municipal Judge Cameron yesterday afternoon, and he was formally charged with burglary. "I desire to waive examination," he said, in a mild sort of tone. "Very well. I will hold you in the sum of $2500 bail for the grand jury," replied the Judge. Bush was taken to the County Jail.

This play, from the pen of Lottie Blair Parker, aided by the deft elaboration of Joseph R. Grismer, has gone far toward elevating the tone of the stage. First produced under the direction of William A. Brady, it remained for an entire season at the Manhattan Theater, New York, and then again at the Academy of Music for 427 representations. #### YOUNG BOY IN JAIL.

Leslie Dante, Grocer's Messenger Boy, Wandered Away With $55.

A grocer's messenger boy, Leslie Dante, it years old, residing at East Sixth and Oak streets, had quite a series of adventures Tuesday before he was landed at the city jail by Policeman Mallett. Dante was employed by Blake Bros., Union avenue, and he was asked Tuesday to deposit $55 in a near-by bank, but when he did not return about the usual time his employers began to be uneasy. Fearing that the boy had met with an acciing that the boy had met with an acci-dent, some of his friends communicated with the police and furnished them with a good description of him, also a descrip-tion of the bicycle he rode, the property of his employers.

Policeman Mallett noticed a boy, wh afterward turned out to be Lesile Dante, acting suspiciously at the Terminal Deacting suspiciously at the Terminal De-pot Tuesday night, and he placed him under arrest. The boy insisted that he had placed his employers' bicycle in a bi-cycle rack at the depot, but in the mean-time the wheel had disappeared. He was then taken to the police station and about $44 was found in his possession. Yesterday morning Special Officer Haw-ley, of the Boys' and Girls' Ald Society, took charge of the case, and asked the

He said he had since lost the ticket. Hawley took the boy along Third street to see if he could point out the asserted he had bought a coat, but the boy failed to find the

Among the ashes were a number of torn bits of pasteboard, the remains of the missing railroad ticket. Now the police are wondering if they can induce the railroad company to refund the price of the ticket. The boy's father, who works on the East Side, was very much surprised when told of the young hope-ful's misdeeds. The police say that the parties who have the missing bicycle will save trouble and possibly arrest by re-turning the bicycle.

DO NOT DEFY GRAVITATION How Riders in Cycle Whirl Mnintain Their Balance.

Although the cycle whirl which has so astonished and surprised the crowds that have gone to Baker's Theater all the week to see it apparently defies the laws of gravitation, it in reality does so no more than the bicycle ridden on level ground, the motion of which is the only thing which enables the rider to maintain an upright position. It is the motion of the two wheels that fly around the inside of the tilted track that accounts for the so perfectly maintained at the speed they ride that as long as nothing happens to upset it there is no possibility that they will fall. #### QUARTERLY INSPECTION. Third Regiment, O. N. G., Appears in Fine Trim.

Fully 100 people turned out last evening to witness the quarterly inspection of the Third Regiment, O. N. G., at the Armory. Long before the bugies an-nounced the approach of the soldiers, all the best scats were taken, and by the time the drum-major backed into the drill hall at the head of his men, the seats were awarming with the friends and relatives of the soldiers, as well as their fair admirers, who were out in great

The parade was reviewed by Lieuten-ant-Colonel Jubitz, and the six companies of the regiment all appeared in fine trim, as in fatigue uniforms and campaign hats they came forth one by one and went through their stunts on the floor of the drill hall. Colonel Everett received the review, accompanied by Colonel W. H. Jordan, U. S. A. (retired), who expressed himself as highly pleased with the ap-pearance of the militiamen. After the inspection the boys received their friends in their company quarters, and it was well toward midnight before the sound of revelry died in the halls of the Armory.
