THEY'RE ALL AT SEA

Their Platform.

FILIPING NUT HARD TO CRACK

But They're Against Any Policy of Scuttle (Maybe)-They Will Declare for "Equal Rights for All."

"Equal rights to all and special privileges to none is the basic principle of Democracy, and will be the all-pervading spirit of the Democratic platform," said Chairman Sam White yesterday. This was in answer to questions regarding the probable make-up of the platform. But Mr. White would not discuss any of the specific measures which the Democratic party in Oregon may favor as the best means of attaining this ideal of organized society. He said that the leading mem-bers of the party in this state have been considering the question of a platform for several weeks. They have conferred by letter, and have exchanged ideas when they have met by chance. As a result, Mr. White believes that there will be an entire unanimity of opinion when the Democrats get together to formulate the statement of principles upon which they will go before the people in June. No platform, nor even a part of a platform, has yet been agreed upon, nor even cast into definite shape, and when action is taken it will be by the delegates themselves. Very few of the out-of-town delegates themselves. gates have yet arrived, and the Multnomah County delegates are reticent lest they be accused of trying to dictate. Democrats who are not delegates are a little more free to talk, though they, too, are disposed to be modest in their predictions as to what the platform will be.

"What will your platform advocate on the Philippine question?" is answered by an application of the general principle laid down by Chairman White-equal rights to all who live beneath the starry flag, and special privileges to none. Judge Alex Sweek says that Democrats will treat the question of the possession of the Philippines as settled, whether they believe it was settled right or wrong. The Americans are in possession, and no scut-tling policy will now be advocated. The issue, if any there be regarding the Philippines, will be as to the policy of the Government in the future management and control of the Islands. Mr. Sweek believes the Democratic party will take a broad view of all National problems, will declare in favor of putting the Fllipinos upon the same footing with the inhabitants of the American territories, and will protest against the continuance of any tariffs upon goods shipped from one part to another of the American domain.

Ex-Governor Sylvester Pennoyer de-clined to express his opinion as to what should be made the paramount issue in the coming campaign, lest he should seem to obtrude upon the prerogatives of the state convention. Upon the subject of a Philippine plank, however, he said that his view can be expressed in a single sentiment: The inseparability of the Con-stitution and the flag.

Judge Thomas O'Day, who is one of the leading stump speakers of the Oregon Democracy, was asked what he would make the paramount issue in this campaign, if he were to do the making. He replied: "The smashing of political ma-chines. The Republicans have already smashed one machine, and we Democrats should get in and smash the other. To a greater or less extent the Multnomah County machine has extended to all parts of the state, and I believe the breaking down of the machine would be a popular issue. I am of the opinion that the plat-form should advocate the same policy in the Philippines as was followed in Cuba, and that, as the only means to the de-struction of trusts, we should favor the public ownership of public utilities."

Judge O'Day says that he can see but few things upon which Republicans and Democrats can differ, for the Republican state convention adopted a platform that looks very Democratic. He and many other Democrats believe that the Republicans practically declared for free trade when they adopted a plank which advo-cates a tariff where necessary for the protection of infant industries. He says: "If you ask a Republican to point out one of those industries for the protection of which a tariff is necessary, what in-dustry will be name? The Democrats also think that the Republicans stole their thunder when they adopted a plank in-dorsing the initiative and referendum and the election of Senators by popular vote. Local self-government in the Philippines, as advocated by the Republicans, is said to be about all the Democrats would ask, except that they have National representation the same as a territory and the Constitution be held to extend to them.

Charles K. Henry says that he is taking no interest in the coming Democratic platform, nor the pending proceedings of the Democratic party. He says he does not believe in fusion; that he opposed fusion with the Mitchell Republicans and fusion with the Sknon Republicans, and when his political associates go into a trade of that kind he will take no part in the Many Democrats who talk upon the probabilities of the Democratic platform are not willing to have their names used in this connection. One of these said yesterday that he does not believe the Demo-cratic party will entirely ignore the sliver question, nor that it will simply declare it settled. He believes that in order to satisfy those who still believe in free sli-ver there will be a sweeping reaffirmation of past platforms, which can be construed as an indorsement of the silver plank. The general opinion, however, is that no semblance of a return to the silver fallacy will be undertaken. The Democratic platform of two years ago declared in favor of woman suffrage. Following up the general rule of equal rights to all and special privileges to none, it may be expected that the party will again ask that women be placed upon an equality with men as far as the elective franchise is concerned.

It was remarked by several Democrats yesterday that the Republican platform resternay that the Republican platform contains only a half-hearted indorsement of the National Administration, since only the President's action in proceeding against the trusts is included in the plank upon that subject. The Democrats will assume that the alleged weakness of the platform in this respect is an admission. platform in this respect is an admission that dissatisfaction exists, and they will state their own dissatisfaction in positive

Said another Democrat yesterday: "We have got the Republicans over a barrel on the ship subsidy issue. In their state platform, adopted last week, they utterly ignored the subsidy graft, though it is now receiving the attention of Congress and of the people in every part of the Union. The Republicans would not go on record as opposed to the ship subsidy bill. Just watch the Democratic platform and see which side of the quastless we take and which side of the question we take, and in what plain language we will state our, position. Then when we get out on the campaign you will see some fun when the Republicans try to explain the meaning of that blank place in their platform."

DASHING SOLDIER GONE.

He Lenves a Hotel Bill and Takes With Him an Unpaid-for Gun.

the proprietor of the Imperial Hotel, are anxiously looking for the return to town of a dashing Naval Lieutenant, Leon Lambert, who said he was the purchasing agent for the United States transport Grant, which, he stated, had been ordered to this city. As a matter of fact, the Grant has been ordered to report at San Francisco. Lieutenant Lambert has left behind him an unpaid hotel bill, and he forgot to settle with the Honeyman Hard-ware Company for a gun which was sent to his room at the hotel.

Lambert is a tall, smooth-shaven, suave man, about 20 years old, and when he arrived at the Imperial Hotel, last Satur-day, he wrote his name in bold hand-writing, "Leon Lambert, U. S. transport Grant," on the hotel register, and then he was graciously pleased to order and eat dinner. His behavior at the hotel was irreproachable, and he paid for the wines and cigars he consumed at the bar. But that evening various bottles of wines arrived at the hotel addressed to the dushing Lieutenant, and were sent to his The few men to whom he had spoken around the place immediately be-gan to take a friendly interest in him, and to speculate how soon Lieutenant Lambert would invite them to sample his wines. But all next day, Sunday, Lambert did not appear. It was supposed by the hotel folks that he was either asleep or had gone to church. The loungers remembered about the wine, and their lips

Lieutenant's room Monday to make his bed, she was surprised to find that the bed had not been occupied the night bebed had not been occupied the night before. The wines had disappeared, also a valuable gun which had been sent to the Lieutenant, on approval, by the Honeyman Hardware Company. Then it was generally conceded that Lieutenant Lambert had left for parts unknown. Those who remembered the wines were sorry.
Early last Saturday, Lambert called on J. D. Meyer, a tobacco dealer, on Third street, introduced himself as the purchasstreet, introduced himself as the purchasing agent for the transport Grant, he stated was shortly to arrive at stated was shortly to arrive at Portland, and he calmly ordered tobaccos val-ued at about 4300 to be sent to an address he gave. Mr. Meyer gave the Lieutenant a present of a box of cigars, but delicately hinted that before the goods valued at $300 were delivered he would like to see a certified check or money for the amount. It was noticed that Lambert changed color at this, but he recovered himself, and in his suave tones said that the request was reasonable, and that he would bring the check Monday. "I shall be happy to deliver the tobacco then," repiled Mr.

Meyer, smiling.
It is also stated that Lambert called on the proprietors of a Second-street whole-sale liquor house, and ordered almost enough liquor to float a gunboat, but he was confronted with the same obstacles-bank check or money first, please. It is hinted that this second setback nearly broke Lambert's heart. At any rate, he was not seen again in these parts.

NO DAMAGE TO FRUIT. Heavy Storms Have Not Yet Injured

the Crop. The severe storms which have been ocarring during the last few days seem to have done little or no damage to the fruit crops throughout the state. An exagger-ated idea has been formed of the rainfall on account of the heavy wind and the cold by which it has been accompanied. The fail for the past two days has been 1.18 inches, which can be considered as only moderately heavy.

According to the weekly crop bulletin issued by the local Weather Bureau, which covers the conditions up until Monday night, no damage had yet been done. The weather reports yesterday morning, however, show light frosts in all exposed places, and killing frosts in Eastern Oreson and more recommendations. gon, and more were predicted for last climate and crop bulletin of the Weather Bureau for Oregon: The past week has been showery in all parts of the state, with moderately mild temperatures. The season, however, is backward, and neither grass nor grain is as far advanced as they were last year at this time. The maxi-mum, or day temperatures during the week in Western Oregon ranged between 52 and 62 de-grees, and the minimum temperatures between 24 and 52 degrees. In Eastern Oregon the maximum temperatures ranged between 50 and 70 degrees, and the minimum temperatures be-tween 30 and 00 degrees. Fall wheat and cats are doing well in all sections of the state. That sown during the Winter is somewhat backward, although otherwise promising. Spring seeding is slowly progressing, but this work has been greatly retarded on account of cold, wet weather, and but little of the Spring-sown wheat has yet germinated. The usual com-plaints are made of Full wheat turning yellow on the low lands in the Willamette Valley, but hey are not numerous, and with a few days of bright, sunshiny, drying weather the plant will show great improvement. In Morrow and Umattilla Counties considerable wheat was Win-ter-killed, and the damaged areas were reter-killed, and the damaged areas were re-seeded in March. In this section the fields now look rather spotted, but the crop is grow-ing nicely and is in as promising a condition as could be expected under the circumstances. Considerable gardening and potato planting has been done, and the farmers are beginning to prepare their land for corn. Hop vines have just started, but it is too early yet to tell how they are coming up. Grass in the mead-ows and on the ranges is now growing rapidly, but it was unusually slow in starting, and cat-tile had to be Winter-fed for a longer period than usual. The cattle in the west sections are than usual. The cattle in the west sections are just beginning to find feed enough in the pas-tures, and in the east sections most of the stock is still on the Winter ranges. Lambing is about finished, and the increase to the flocks has been up to the average. Peaches, apricota, cherries and early plums are in bloom, and fruit has de yet suffered no dam-age by frost or cold rains. The peach trees in Wasco County are reported to have been in-jured by the cold spell in mid-Winter, and reports are that only half a crop will be gath-

Desertion, and Denies Her Charges of Drunkenness.

Anna Meyer was not present in Judge Cleland's Court yesterday when the di-vorce suit filed by her against her husband, Henry Meyer, was called for trial. Robert O'Nell, attorney for Mr. Meyer, informed the court that Mrs. Meyer had gone to San Francisco, and before leav-ing left the little boy for whose cus-tody she had been fighting, with her husband. Counsel said this was the third time Mrs. Meyer had deserted her husband

A letter in the Finnish language, written by Mrs. Meyer to Gustaf Anderson in San Francisco, and also a translation of the same, was introduced in evidence. In the letter Mrs. Meyer professed much af-fection for Anderson, and informed him that she intended to leave her husband

Meyer took the witness-stand and denied his wife's charges of cruel treatment, and he called several witnesses to cor-roborate his evidence. He testified that his wife said she had been engaged to Anderson before she married him (Meyer), and that she would have Anderson in spite of all. He related one in-stance when she struck him across the knees with a stick of wood because he objected to sleeping on a lounge, and on another occasion telephoned to her at-torney that he was beating her when nothing of the kind occurred. Meyer called Charles S. Kinney and A. E. Webber to testify that he is not a gross habitual drunkery as Meyer

LATE-COMERS PAY PENALTY. Ten Per Cent Is Charged Delinquents in Tax Office.

People who paid taxes at the Sheriff's fice yesterday, of whom there were a onsiderable number, were all charged the penalty of 10 per cent provided by statute. They all looked displeased, and expressed helr disgust freely. In nearly every case an excuse was offered for not having called before the end of the last day (Monday), and an attempt was made to have the penalty omitted. But excuses were not taken, and the extra 10 per cent was exacted from all delinquents

When 50 per cent of the tax has not seen previously paid, the whole tax, under the law, is delinquent, with the penalty

A few people have been encountered who paid their taxes on real estate several weeks or so ago, but who neglected to inquire if they owed any personal property tax, and therefore did not liquidate the latter, and have allowed it to become delinquent. Sheriff Frazier took the trouble to send out printed notices to all persons who had not paid taxes lue on personal property, but in some cases the notices were not heeded.

It was amusing for a by-stander to listen to the conversations which occurred between the clerks and the tardy taxpay ers. The delinquent would generally be-gin by saying to the clerk who stepped up $200 from the person of Henry Marsh, on to wait upon him: "I say, old man, couldn't get here yesterday. I suppose i will be all right if I pay today." "Certainly," would come the cheery re-ponse; "we are here to take the money. But it will cost you 10 per cent more And the clerk would look up the amount of the tax, and figure up the extra charge, $1, $5 or $10, as the case might be.

If the caller happened to have a friend in the office, he would solicit his influence to have the penalty thrown off, only to be doomed to disappointment. A common expression was: "One day doesn't make any difference, does it?"

"Only 10 nor cent." was the energy

"Only 10 per cent," was the answer.
Yesterday a notice was posted in the Sheriff's office informing five of the clerks that there would not be sufficient work to keep them going hereafter, and that their services were dispensed with

SUES TO PROTECT PATENT. Pacific Pulley Company Brings Ac

tion Against Tatum & Bowen. The Pacific Pulley Manufacturing Company, a Washington corporation, having its principal office in Tacoma, yesterday commenced sult in the United States Court against Tatum & Bowen, of Portland, to recover damages for infringement of a patent on split pulleys, and for an injunction to restrain perpetually them from further infringing upon said patent and for such other relief as may be proper under the circumstances. It is alleged that Jacob A. Dorman was the inventor of a new and useful improvement and invention in split pulleys, and was granted a patent for 17 years, giving him the exclusive right to make and vend the same throughout the United States and that for a valuable consideration he granted his rights and interests to complainant. It is further alleged that the defendants have used and sold to be used by others split pulleys containing this invention in infringement of the patent, and is still engaged in selling the same, and have made large profits from such sales. Therefore it is asked that the defend-ants be required to pay complainant the damages they have sustained and any profits defendants may have realized from the use and sale of the pulleys, and that they be enjoined from further infringing on said patent.

SAYS WIFE DESERTED HIM. Arthur H. Randall's Grounds for

Suing for Divorce. Arthur H. Randall has filed suit in the State Circuit Court against Adelaide C. Randall for a divorce, alleging that while he was absent from her in Alaska she left her place of residence in Portland, going to the home of her mother, and has refused to return and live with him. They were married in this city by Judge Cake on November 12, 1996, the maiden name of the defendant being Hurlburt. Randall states that he provided his wife with a suitable home at Woodlawn, until he accepted a position with the Alaska

Packing Association to go to Alaska. Be-fore accepting this position he avers that he apprised his wife of his intention of taking it, and provided her a place to live of her own choosing, and made provision that she was to receive $25 monthly while he was gone. He returned on September 6, 1961, and ascertained that his wife was with her mother at Falls City, Neb. Randall alleges that he went to Falls City and met his wife, and that she refused to recognize him as her husband or to have anything further to do with him.
