COL. PEYTON WINS

Noted Washington Divorce Case Decided.

AGAINST MRS. PEYTON NO. I

Young Man Comes West, Change His Name and Secures Divorce-Years Later, When Wealthy, His First Wife Appears.

The Supreme Court of Washington decides the noted Peyton divorce case in favor of Colonel Isaac M. Peyton, and against Mrs. Peyton No. 1. This is a case in which a young married man came West, changed his name, and secured a divorce in Washington by a most remarkable proceeding. He then married again, and amassed a fortune. Peyton No. 1 appears on the scene, and institutes suit for a community interest in Colonel Peyton's property and to have the decree of divorce set aside. The Superior Court of Spokane County first decided against her, and now the Supreme Court upholds it.

OLYMPIA, Wash., April 11.-The Su-preme Court today decided the Peyton divorce case—the most noted in the annals courts of Washington-in favor of Colonel Isaac N. Peyton The Superior Court of Spokane County is thus upheld. The decision of the higher court, in effect, denies the right of Helen M. Peyton to a community of interest in the large fortune of Colonel Peyton; sustains a decree of divorce legally separating the two obtained by Colonel Peyton in Klick-itat, in 1885, by one of the most remark-able proceedings in the history of Northwest courts, and sustains the validity of west courts, and spatains the validity of the marriage of Isaac N. Peyton and Mrs. Victor A. Houghton, contracted at Spo-kane, September 4, 1885, shortly after a divorce was granted from the appellant

The decision of the Supreme Court is written by Judge Hadley, and contains 7000 words. The court refers to the case as appearing "as if culled from a story of notion." A brief recital of the facts shows that the appellant and respondent were married in Illinois, in 1869. In 1878 they were residing in Colorado, when it was decided that Mrs. Peyton should go to Colorado while he should look for a new location. After two or three letters passed between them, Mrs. Peyton lost all trace of her husband until 1886. Meantime, Peyton settled at Spokane, adopted the name of G. H. Morgan, and engaged in business. In 1885, under the name of Morgan, he instituted an action for di-vorce in Klickitat County, under the name of Isaac N. Peyton. Senator Tur-ner was then presiding United States Judge, and was acquainted with "Mor-gan," but did not know him as Peyton. who at no time appeared before Judge Turner while the action was pending. On motion of Peyton's attorney, the testimony was taken by a referee in the person of Carroll B. Graves, who was also unacquainted with "Morgan." But very few persons knew Peyton and Morgan Mrs. Peyton's part, in October, 1885, and ister, the first Mrs. Peyton appeared at Spokane, and learned of the affair. She brought suit to have the divorce set aside on the ground that it was obtained by afterward Archbishop Casanova was given fraud. Upon the return to Spokane of the respondent, he was arrested for bigamy. The apparent slight is alleged to have greatly angered President Cabrara. terward dismissed upon stipulation that Peyton was to pay his first wife $300. A subsequent suit by her for a community. of interest in the property was also dis-missed, the respondent paying another $2000. A criminal action pending was then dismissed, the second Mrs. Peyton being advised that her marriage was legal. Thirteen years later, the present action was brought. Meantime, Peyton had become very wealthy, being worth about $500,000. Mrs. Peyton, No. 1, in her com-plaint, asked that the decree entered in Klickitat County be declared wold, and that she be granted a separate main-tenance. She averred she did not authorize her attorneys to enter into a stipulation by which former suits were dis-missed, and did not know of their existence until six months before the present action was commenced, and that respond-ent had promised to come and live with her as her husband. The lower court found the adjudication of Judge Turner upon the stipulations was final and binding, and that the plaintiff is barred for relief upon the ground of laches and by the statute of limitations. The action was dismissed by the Superior Court of Spokane County, and the Supreme Court affirms the judgment,

Not only has the Winter been a good one for sheep, but the demands of trade are better, and prices for raw material are stiffen-Sheepmen are much encouraged. Dr. R. Castiday, one of the largest sheep-growers in Eastern Oregon, stated yesterday that the lambing season now on is one of the best in years, and the increase of the flocks is expected to be about 90 per cent. The Winter, he said, was cape cially favorable to sheepowners, and in his bands, aggregating 5000 sheep, he only fed as a matter of precaution and insurance 200 tons of hay, with the result that the sheep have come out in fine condition. Wool clipping will be begun about May 29, and some buyers are already in the field. Owners are looking for good prices, particularly in view of the splendid condition of general business, Mr. Castiday was emphatic in his statement that the ranges of Eastern Oregon are now stocked as heavily with sheep and cattle as they will possibly stand. If further crowded the ranges here will soon become like those of Wyoming-out of it.
