They sat on one of the grass plots facing Third street, and it could be pininly seen that she was fair to look upon, and young. Their dream of bliss, after it had continued for over an hour, was rudely dispelled by Officer Hawley, of the Boys' and Girls' Ald Society, who, seeing what was going on, walked over to the young fellow and, grabbing him by the shoulder, dragged him rudely to his feet, and, after informing him that he was shocking public de-cency, told him to be gone or he would place him under arrest. The young man went in a hurry, and so did she,

WHERE THE MONET WAS. - A reporter about to enter the First National Bank, yesterday forenoon, to get the check for his princely week's salary changed into 250 pleces, met President H. W. Corbett entering the bank. The reporter remarked to Mr. Corbett that, noticing that the bank was engaged in building a rather extensive and costly extension, he had thought it wise to secure his money at once. Mr. Corbett said he would explain the condition of the bank's finances by the condition of the bank's finances by an anecdote. "In the early days of San Francisco," he said, "a banker-I think his name was Wright-who had been doing a flourishing business, built a very handsome and costly bank building of granite. His customers, becoming alarmed, made a run on the bank. They were met by the banker, who took the matter of the raid made on him very coolly, and said, 'Gentlemen, all your money is in the building,' "

PREPARING FOR A BLOWOUT. - Colone Harrington, of Pillar Rock, is in the city purchasing Spring lambs, California green peas, and an assortment of case goods, oleomargarine, and all the necessaries for a banquet. Messrs, Everding & Farrell, his partners, built a fine 15-ton gasoline launch at Warrenton for the fishery, which has been named the Harrington, in honor of the Colonel, and he intends the whole force shall have a blowout to cele-brate the event. He furnished a magnum of champagne to break on the prow of the boat when it was haunched, but some of the carpenters emptied the wine out and drank it, and filled the bottle with Columbia river water, which they thought was good enough for a heat. The Harrington is furnished with gasoline en-gines, as they give out less heat than engines using wood or coal, and heat is not desirable on a boat which carries fresh fish.

PUNISHED A POLICEMAN.—A muscularlooking Swede, V. Andersen, from Wyomling, was before Municipal Judge Cameron yesterday, charged with raising a disturbance in Whitechapel last Thursday night, ance in Whitechapel last Thursday night, while intoxicated, and striking Policeman Hill. "I don't remember much about what I did," admitted Andersen, mournfully. "The man refused to move on when I told him to, and he struck me in the face. Then we chased and arrested him," testified Policeman Hill. "I think he had been drinking, but knew perfectly well what he was doing." "A more serious charge than drunkenness should have been placed against this prisoner; he struck a iceman, and this Court is not going to allow peace officers to be assaulted in the execution of their duty," commented the Judge. "Anderson has no excuse when he says he was under the influence of liquor. He is fined $20."

EXTORTIONATE HACKDRIVER FINED.-Charles May, the backdriver, had a fur-ther hearing yesterday before Municipal at the rooms of the Oregon Historical So-ciety last week. Of these 74 were from 14 states outside of Oregon. In the remain-der 28 cities an diowns in Oregon outside Judge Cameron, on a charge of charging J. Nergaard excessive fare in driving him to Reed street, near Guild's lake. May pleaded that he did not understand what Nergaard said when he gave directions as to the street he wished to be taken, and drove to the East Side, by mistake, as he thought his customer meant East Eighth street. Only $5 had been charged, May insisted. Nergaard, however, insisted that $10 had been demanded and given. May was fined $15, and warned that it similar complaints were lodged against him, he would in all probability lose his license as hackdriver.

LIVELY SALVATION MENTINES.—Rousing meetings were held yesterday by the Salvation Army, in connection with the visit of Colonel French, of San Francisco. At the evening parade, two open-air meetings were held on the streets, one in charge of women, and the other in charge of the men. Fifty soldiers attended. Afterward, a union meeting was held in the hall of Corps No. 1, on Davis street, near Third, and every chair was occupied with attentive listeners, It was reported that various towns and cittee of Gregon and Washington have raised 25460 within the past few dayg as a special offering, to carry on Salvation Army work in this country. Colones French was the principal speaker at the meeting, and he gave an interesting and forcible sermon on "Losing Jesus," taking as his text Luke list-52. He spake on the need of a personal Savior, and the perils facing men and women in large cities. The Colonei leaves this morning for Salem, La Grande and other cities before he goes home to San Francisco. At the evening proposed to the police station for the past feet and other cities before he goes home to San Francisco. Tomorrow night, stere-opticon views of the Fill Islands will be exhibited in Corps No. 1's hall, and all interested are invited. There will be no charge for admission.

the City Council next Saturday afternoon promises a lively scene. The Travelers' Protective Association has ordered a num-ber of expensive banners, which they declare they will display during their meet-ing held here in June. But the champions of the civic improvement movement say that no permission should be granted them for so doing. This is the question the street committee must decide.

As the city-ordinance now reads, no banners can be displayed across the the first seen here this Spring. One man had a bunch as large as he could hold in both hands, containing hundreds of the delicate flowers, and he said he could have gathered four times as many. He is to be commended for his moderation, as it streets without special permission from the City Council. At the last meeting of the Civic Improvement Association a request was sent to the Council to grant no such permits, and the request of the Red Men to use banners during their coming excursion in May was not granted. Two Stories of the Pleasant Manner of the People of New Orleans.

New Orleans Times-Democrat.
Sald a visitor to the city: "I have witnessed two things during the past few weeks in New Orleans which one could not find in any other place in the world. One is not inclined to put so much faith in this talk about the sordid spirit of the age—commercialism and all that sort of the age—commercialism and all that sort of thing-after seeing the things which have come under my observation.

"I was standing on the street corner is a very prominent up-town section of the city. On the opposite corner from where I stood a rather elderly lady was standing with her daughter, evidently waiting for a car. I did not pay much attention to them until a street-car was almost in halling distance. I started across the street to catch the car. Just as I did so the elderly lady reeled a little and fell in a elderly lady reeled a little and fell in a faint in her daughter's arms. I rushed to the young lady's assistance. The street-car stopped on the crossing. The motorman and conductor took in the situation at a giance. They left their car standing still and went to the assistance of the lady on the corner. Bhe was in an unconscious condition, and it was necessary to carry her into her home, which happened to be on the nearest corner. The pened to be on the nearest corner. The motorman and the conductor helped to get the lady into the house and then re-seen such a thing in some of the other large cities of the country.

"In another case certain members of the Fire Department played the heroic engagement. Fire was believed to be fighting its way through the second floor of a dwelling-house. There was a sick lady on the second offor. The fremen could not exactly find where the smoke was coming from, but finally traced it to the sickroom, and it became necessary to tear up the floor. I was in the house to tear up the floor. I was in the house at the time, and I never saw men work with more care than these men did. They did not even frighten the lady, whose con-dition was anything but favorable at the time. It was the same impulse which I had seen displayed in the streets a few days before. Verily, there are yet many men in the world, and these little acts make one feel that there is yet my of good in life."

Gillette's great war drama, "Secret Servtice." was put on by the Frawley company at the Marquam last night, and proved to be the lest production of their engagement up to date. Mr. Frawley, as Captain Thorne, the imperturbable Yankee scoret service agent; May Buckley, as Caroline Mitford, a dainty mite of femitiinity, Mary Van Buren, as Edith, and Ben Howard, as Wilfred Varney, each scored an individual hit. The part of Benton Arrelsford, of the Confederate Seeret Service, proved a trifle too heavy for

Frank Matthieu, who shines brightest in society and other light parts.

The play was well put on, and made a decided hit from the start. The intensity of the situations was well brought out by Mr. Frawley, and the fact that he played well a part which Gillette wrote for himself is all the compliment that need be given. Miss Buckley was delightful in her many clever scenes, and her versatility could not have been better displayed than by the contrast with her play-ing of Lizbette in "In Mizzoura."

At the close of the third act, Mr. Frawexpressed his satisfaction at such a re-ception on the stage that gave his company birth, and surprised his audience by announcing that this would be his last appearance in Portland with a stock company. "The impossibility of securing plays that will enable me to keep up to the standard I have hitherto achieved," said he, "has determined me to abandon stock, and when I come again to Portland it will be with one play."

This morning at 10 o'clock the sale of seats will open for Williams and Walker, who present their new musical comedy, "Sons of Ham," at the Marquam Grand Theater next Thursday, Friday, Satur-day matinee and night. The company numbers in all some 40 people of unusual ability in their respective lines. Both press and public of both continents have conceded the Williams and Walker company to be the largest and most complete organization of its kind in existence. The company comprises the following, among whom are some well-known names: Will-iams and Walker, Fred Douglass, George Catlin, Lloyd G. Gibbs, Miss Edna Alex-ander, Miss Ada Overton-Walker, Miss Lottie Thompson, Dick Connors, Anna Cook, and a trained chorus colored girls,

The question of stone bicycle racks will also come up at the same meeting.

A new ordinance has been introduced allowing stone bicycle racks, weighing not less than 75 pounds and holding four wheels, to be placed on the sidewalks. Trump, the legless hand balancer, and the peerless Valima will be seen nightly. But the finale of the evening's entertainment is the appearance of Miss Grace Bartell, Little Egypt, the sensational dancer, who created such a furore here a few weeks ago, and who appears in an entirely new specialty, which is quite en-tertaining and draws crowded houses.
