SOUTH CHINA REBELLION

BEYOND THE POWER OF GOVERN-MENT TROOPS TO SUPPRESS IT.

A Great Province Practically in the Hands of Lawbreakers-Chinese Soldiers and Sailors Desert.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 22.—R. W. Lat-tle, of the North China Herald, who ar-rived by the steamer Empress of China today, says the rebellion in Kwang Si is far beyond the power of the government troops to suppress it. Marshal Su has only 4000 troops to dispatch against the rebels, and it is unlikely that the Viceroys of other provinces will ald him. The North does not help the South in China, and the provinces in the North help each other. The most that can be looked for from their rulers is to guard their own borders. A strict censorship is now being maintained in Canton, and the tendency of the officials is to belittle the rising, the only news of which can be obtained from refugees. The government forces were divided, 1000 being sent under Admiral Ching by the river route and 3000 under Marshal Su went over land. These forces, weakened by heavy desertions to the rebels, were defeated, and were awaiting reinforcements.

The Canton corespondent of the China

Mail says: "According to the Chinese the Province f Kwang Si is practically in the hands of these lawbreakers, but there does not appear to be any good reason for look-ing upon these men as actuated by po-fitical motives. It is in the east of the province where the rebels are strongest. Their headquarters is a place near the borders of the four Provinces of Kwang Tung, Kwang Si, Yunnan and Kwei Chau. The leader of the rebels is called Kwok. He has the reputation of being perceptly familiar with every part of Kwang Si. It is questionable if the troops sent by the government are at all able to do the work of restoring order and if the rebels take to guerrilla fighting, then a force of from 35,000 to 40,000 men will be needed."
It is feared by many of the natives that the rising in the South may be taken as an excuse by foreign governments to dis-patch troops there, and it is this, some say, that is inducing Chinese soldiers and sallors to desert to the rebels, believing that they would, in case of a foreign inwith the regular troops.

Intrigue in the North. A Pekin correspondent tells of Russian and French intrigue in the North. When French priest was killed, General Ma Yu Kun, with his 20 camps, was ordered to go there, but, so the story went, he was prevented from doing so by the Czar of Russia, The Shanghai Mercury says:
"The French Legation, which is the party most concerned, declares there is no trouble at either place; that no priess has been captured or killed, and that the country is quiet on the southern frontier We have also heard that Russians have been trying to bag the gold mines near Jehol, now the sole property of the Chi-

vasion, fare better with the rebels than

A Boxer chief was killed while endeavoring to stop a train by his practices near Tien Tsin. He stood before an approach-ing train going through gymnastics, and the engineer brought his train to a stop to save the man's life, who then called at-tention to the fact that by his spiritual power he was able to stop the "foreign fire wheel cart." The same thing was attempted another day, but the engine ran the man down and cut him to pieces

Morgan in the Orient. Hong Kong papers contain a report to the effect that a syndicate, headed by J. P. Morgan, has applied to the Chinese Government for permission to build a railway from Pekin to Chang Kia Kin Mr. Denby, an American, has been con missioned by Prince Ching with th building of water works for Pekin. He will sublet the contract to Wood & Co., of Philadelphia. The Shanghai Mercury's Pekin correspondent, writing April 2, says:

"Recently the people of the Prefecture of Shun Te Fu, Chi Li, refused to pay a new tax levied by the local authorities to meet certain indemnities arising from the late Boxer disturbance. The officials tried to bring them to submision by force, which, however, instead of gaining its desired effect, only drove the people still farther in their resistance against the taxation, resulting in fierce fighting between them and the troops sent to coerce them. In this struggle the soldiers killed more than 1000 people and destroyed many of their villages."

PEKIN, April 22.-In spite of the fact that in order to allay the uneasiness of urging the immediate return of the Dowager Empress to the palace, she has decided, according to tonight's Gazette, from Pekin, for one week, Rumors of some political coup, possibly the deposi-tion of the Dowager Empress, are rife They are apparently as baseless as the other recent canards.

The foreign Legations here continu their unusual precautionary measures. At the American Legation a squad of soldiers patrols the wall every night.

April 22.-The terms of the new Manchu rian agreement, executed yesterday be-tween Russia and China, are considered satisfactory by the Japanese papers, al-though several sound a warning note that Russia is not to withdraw her troops from the province for 18 months, and has in this treaty reserved her rights in Manchuria, even after ostensible evacuation The co-operation of the other powers, es-ectally the United States, is realized as having been largely instrumental in obtaining such satisfactory terms as these.

Four members of my family have been using Swamp-Root for four different kidney diseases, with the same good results." With many thanks to you, I remain, Very truly yours, ROBERT BERNER.
