Meeting Will Be Held Under Auspices of Roosevelt Republican Club in Tent at Grand Avenue and Enst Market.

The Mayoralty campaign will be opened tonight. Judge George H. Willore the Rossevelt Republican Club in the pavillon tent at Grand avenue and East Market street. A hearty welcome is being prepared for him. Hon. Willtam M. Colvig, of Jacksonville, who left the Democratic party on the Philipestion, reports that W. J. All arrangements have been completed for the big rally at the pavilion tent of the Roosevelt Republican Club, on the corner of Grand avenue and East Market street this evening. A speakers' platform has been built at the east end of the tent, and benches have been provided. The main speaker of the evening will be Hon. George H. Williams, who always receives a hearty welcome on the East Side. It will be his first public utterance since his nomination as Mayor of Portland, and the tent will undoubtedly be crowded. Hon. William M. Colvig, of Jacksonville, will also make a speech. H. C. Smith is president of the Roosevelt Republican Club. It deserves credit for its activity in providing ing this last month of the campaign, as there is no hall in that part of Portland.

The committee from the Union Republican Club has been instructed to secure the Woodmen of the World Hall on East Sixth for the big Republican meeting for next Saturday night, when Hon, W. J. Furnish, Republican candidate for Governor, is expected to be present, and Mr. Williamson, candidate for Congress from this district, are expected to be present. This is the present arrangement, unless it should be necessary to change the plan. The committee has power to act.

W. M. COLVIG ON THE ISSUES. Jacksonville Attorney Tells of Furnish's Success in Southern Oregon.

William M. Colvig, the wellknown Jacksonville attorney, arrived in the city yesterday morning, and will remain several days, transacting legal business in the United States Dis-trict Court. Mr. Colvig was a Democrat until two years ago, when he re-nounced his party on account of its stand on the Philippine question. He is now as ardent a Republican as any man in the party, and will take the stump in be-half of the State ticket. Mr. Colvig heard the speeches of Mr. Furnish and the other State campaigners in Southern Oregon, and reports the Pendleton man as having made many friends on his Speaking of the political situation, he said: "The appearance of Furnish, Fulton and the other Republican campaign speakers was the signal for tre-mendous enthusiasm in the Rogne Bliver Valley. At Ashiand, Medford and Grant's Pass they were royally received, and I am sure that many doubtful voters, after listening to those able arguments. concluded to vote the Republican ticket.

Mr. Furnish made a first-class, business-like talk, and the people of Southern Oregon formed a high opinion of him. He possesses little oratorical ability, but he has the happy faculty of saying just what he thinks and shows his sincerity and genuineness. The people of our sec-tion want a clean-cut business-man, one who can manage the affairs of our great commonwealth, in the Governor's chair, and I know that Mr. Furnish suits them.

"Pulton is puncturing every argument advanced by George Chamberlain, and his speeches are among the most convincing that I have ever heard. He simply tears George E.'s arguments to pieces, and as he is following hot upon the path of the Democratic nominee, he the path of the Democratic nominee, he gives the people some arguments worth pondering over. In his speech at Med-ford, he simply made Chamberlain's arguments appear ridleulous.

"Mr. Ackerman is devoting some little attention to Professor Wann's speeches, in which the gentleman from Lane County advocated a return to the 'three R' system of education, a fossilized relic of Revolutionary times, Mr. Acker-man's talks are mostly along educational lines, and I have a high opinion of his ability as a speaker,

"George Chamberlain's platitudes sound good to the unsophisticated ones, but careful examination reveals their ut-ter weakness. His talk about fixing the State officers on a flat salary is not convincing, for there is a constitutional limit on all these salaries, and a tramp would not take some of the positions, because he could make more begging. The fee system, whereby the State officers receive additional compensation for their services on different public boards, has been greatly exaggerated by the Democrats and held up as a system of plunder. Do you believe that Mr. Chamberlain would accept the office of Governor on the constitutional salary of $1500? Not for a minute. Mr. Cham-berlain's attitude on the Philippine known Third-Ward worker met a friend at question is not in line with the plank of the Chamber of Commerce building, and, his party platform, and is costing him many votes. His speeches are also in-juring the prospects and dampening the ardor of the Democrats now running for the different county offices. "Mr. Chamberlain tells the people that at is their candidate, and not necessarily the candidate of a party. Such talk is not swallowed by the average voter. for all are party men to a certain degree. Personally I like Mr. Chamberlain, but I do not admire his politics. I left the Democratic party because of its unnound economic theories, and I do not want the news fiashed around the world that Ore-gon is in favor of a 'ecuttle' policy."

BUSY DAY AT Y. M. C. A. Evangelist Dean Addresses Large Audiences of Men.

Yesterday was a busy time at the Young Men's Christian Association, on account of the Dean series of meetings. Three services were held-at ? A. M., 4 P. M. and 8 P. M., respectively. The first was for the workers, and was in the nature of a consecration meeting, followed by organization for advertising the afternoon meetings, and was attended only by those connected with the work.

The afternoon meeting was somewhat of a surprise in attendance. As the beautiful afternoon provided the strongest of counter attractions, it was hardly expected that the new auditorium would be filled with men only. Mr. Dean's meetings with men only. Mr. Dean's meetings, however, had been extensively advertised, and 450 men were present to bear him. His topic, "Stern Truths for Men," was based on the Ten Commandments, five of which he treated as essential to right-courses, and said that in the others was cousness, and said that in the others was the greatest of value. The audience of men paid the closest attention, and at the close a number remained to talk with the speaker about the Christian life. The Wilder quintet of male voices sang two numbers most satisfactorily, showing especial ability in the rendition of the old hymn, "Just As I Am." No announcement had been made of an evening service, as it was desired that no conflict should be made with the regular evening sessions, but at 7 o'clock 20 of the association's workers gathered and distributed 3000 cards inviting men to such a service at 8 o'clock. This meeting had. however, been previously provided for, and was indersed by the ministers of the vari-ous churches as well. Three hundred men were present.

The evangelist's topic for this time was "Are You a Man?" He was preceded by A. S. Allen, general secretary of the Y. A. S. Allen, general secretary of the Y M. C. A. at Seattle, who read from Prov erbs and indorsed the Bible as a book for confidence and help.

Mr. Dean contended that to substantiate one's claim to manhood loyalty of duty is of the greatest importance. "We must have courage, too-the courage which will face a battle-field of certain death; and more, the moral courage that will give a man grit to do his duty when he knows it. You've got to be honest, also. Some one will say that you can't be honest and stay in business these days. Well, then, a place for holding large gatherings dur- if you're right, get out of business. A gambler is bad. He lives off his fellow-men; but what of a losfer-he lives off his wife. A great merchant prince said his biography wis contained in the four words, thinking, toiling, trying, trueting. "Saloons are not the places to become men. Some men drink for an eye-opener, when whicky shuts more eyes than it ever opens. Others drink for health that which opens. Others drink for health that which destroys many every year. One drinks to be social what destroys friendship.

"Men, to be men, we must be pure. There will be no public brothels unless there are brothels in our hearts."

Mr. Dean then made an appeal to those present to accent Jesus Christ as inclupresent to accept Jesus Christ as inclusive of their needs. A number responded. Tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday he will speak in the same place to mass meetings of men at 7:45 o'clock.

In front of and along the corridors of the Chamber of Commerce building poli-ticians invariably make their stamping ground, these days. Suppose three poli-ticians are talking about the weather and the prospects of a good wheat crop—topics invariably discussed by all the tribe—when a fourth politician saunters along, and he stens up to the group and says: "Mr. Blank, can I have a word with you?" "Certainly," says the person addressed, who knows what is coming, and he retires to a corner, and presents his right ear. The other man looks very mysterious, and he pours in his woes into that poor, devoted right ear.

Saturday afternoon, two distinguished politicians were talking as usual about the weather, in front of the Chamber of Commerce building, when a third poli-tician stepped up and said: "Can I have a word with you?" The other man nodded and retired to the nearest corner, where he presented his left ear. The man who was about to whisper trembled with rage, and he said: "What the Sam Hill do you mean? I asked to talk to you, and you didn't give me your right ear."

It was an anxious moment, and probably the political future of the State of Oregon trembled in the balance. But the politician who was to receive the whisper recognized the justice of the appeal, and he at once presented his right ear, and the day was saved. Matters in the ear line have reached such a pass that when certain politicians meet each other they sometimes make this inquriy; "Talk or whisper?" "Whisper," is the reply. whisper?" WORKS FOR JAPAN FAIR

VICE-CONSUL TAKAGI TELLS OF 1903 EXPOSITION AT OSAKA.

Portland Should Be Represented in Order to Win Japanese Exhibits for Lewis & Clark Centennial.

The attention of commercial bodies and prominent citizens of Portland has been called to the great Japanese exposition to be held at Osaka from March 1 to July 31, 1903. S. Takagi, Japanese Vice-Consul, stationed at Portland, is trying to show the mutual relations between that exposition and the Lewis and Clark Fair. The Japanese Government has instructed Mr. Takagi to secure exhibits from his consulate jurisdiction. He desires to impress upon this city the great advantage of being represented at Osaka.

"I shall use my influence to interest my government in the Lewis and Clark Falt," said Mr. Takngi, yesterday, "The two expositions have inter-relations which it is hardly necessary for me to point out, The fair at Osaka will be the first of its kind on the Oriental shore of the Pacific. The fair at Portland will be the first on the American shore of the Pacific. One of the titles of the Lewis and Clark Fair is American Pacific Exposition and Oriental Fair. JOKE PLAYED ON A BATHER Now He Is Looking for the Dealer, Who Supplied a Fine Bar of Soap.

The proprietor of a large paint and off store, who sells also tallow for greasing skid roads, and whale oil soap for spraying fruit trees, which sticks to the bark of the trees and kills San Jose scale and such-like pests, is in trouble on account of a harmless little joke. While walking down the street with a friend a day or two ago the friend remarked that he must go into a drug store and buy a bar of castile soap for his bath. The dealer said: "There is no need of your buying soap. We make tons of it, and if you will come down to the store I will give you a bar."

The friend remembered having seen a huge pile of beautifully mottled bars of soap at the store on one occasion when he had looked through the place; so went along down to Front street. The dealer told a cierk to put up a bar of that best mottled soap, and gave it to his friend, who walked off with it, and on reaching hound. It is this feature that makes the city so attractive to strangers, and espe-cially to people from this side of the line, When you consider that in Eastern Can-ada and in the Eastern States the thermometer is registering anywhere between & and 104 degrees in the shade and that in Victoria the highest for the whole of last year was only 78 degrees, and the average something like & degrees, you will realize how pleasant a visit to Victoria can be made and how much it can be en-
