The business as the season draws to a close, has been materially helped by a good demand for wheat and flour from South Africa. Oregon and Washington experters have been enabled to pay more for wheat to be shipped or ground for that market than they could get out of it for United Kingdom business, and, from present indications, this busitime will son sight on into next season. The flour trade in this direction, as well as with Australia, has in a measure, made a stand-off for the sharp decline in the volume of business rith the Orient.

The wheat market has been very quiet all the week on account of the holiday in England, and even the ending of that holiday yesterday to help matters much, as both cargoes and futures were reported ensier. The Eastern markets have been influenced to a considerable exten uy by fine weather conditions. The Cin cinnati Price Current, in reviewing its crop corlence for the week ending last Saturday,

During the past week, as during the preending week, weather conditions were very favorable for the growth of vegetation, and, Tayorable for the growin of vegenition, and, taken as a whole, the agritoultural condition of the country is in good shape. The growing Winter wheat crop is maintaining a fairiy good promise. In some places an improvement is noted for the week. In the Northwest exce-sively wet weather has unfavorably relarded meeting operations, but the situation is now how be unservices and the whole ercon will soon seeding operations, but the situation is now slowing improving, and the whole crop will soon be in the ground. Late roal reports from for-eign countries indicate that the world's wheat crop situation is above the average. The oats crop has improved moderately in prospects during the week, although a few days of cool weather in the Ohio Valley re-tarded its growth. Corn-planting has extended to the northern section of the corn belt. In a few places excessive moisture retarded plant-ing; cool weather checked growth, and cut-worms are doing some damage, necessitating some ressecting, but on the whole the prospects are good, with a large acreage planted.
