the ciub, the photographs being of unusual beauty and worth, each one a feat in bird photography. Life-size prints of these were taken East a few weeks ago and shown to Frank Chapman and other well-known ernithologists, who admired them beyond measure. Mr. Bohlman and other members of the John Burroughs Club have been remarkably successful in their attempts to photograph native birds. Through the generosity of L. L. Hawkins, 100 Audubon buttons are being distributed among the members of the John Burroughs Society and the Audubon Association. These buttons are very dainty and attractive in coloring and design, showing a wren perched on a flower-stalk in an open meadow.

NEW CAR BARN.-The Portland Railway Company is about to commence the erec-tion of a car barn at the head of Wash-ington street, just west of Ford street, on a much larger scale and in more modern style than its present barn, to cost some $20,000 to $25,000. As it will have capacity for many more cars than the present barn, should the entrances be on Washington street, the tracks running into the entrances would be a detriment to the travel on the street. After a consultation be-tween Manager Fuller, of the Portland Railway Company and City Engineer Chane, it has been decided that it will be best for all concerned to have the en-trances to the new barn on Ford street so that it will be necessary to have only one track leading from the tracks on Washington street, and from this as many tracks as are needed can be run into the various entrances. An ordinance author-laing the company to lay a track up Ford street about 150 feet was introduc the Council yesterday, and was referred to the committee on streets. As it will be the means of freeing Washington street from a number of switches and tracks, it will doubtless be passed.

LIMITING LIQUON LICENSES.—There ap-bear to be some objections on the part of the public to the indefinite increase of the number of liquor saloons in the city. The Council yesterday, in accordance with The Council yesterday, in accordance with the prayer of a numerously signed remonstrance, refused to grant a license for a saloon at Powell and East Twenty-first streets. After the adjournment of the Council the liquor licenses committee held, a meeting, at which seven applications for licenses were considered. Of these five were recommended for granting, as follows: Folk & Dunn, 28 Couch stret; William Theelman, 84 Third street; John Roemetsch, 284 Alder street; Paul Jaschina, 8t. Helens Rond, and E. O. Norrene, 25 Fourteenth street. The application of J. R. McMullan for license for a tion of J. R. McMullan for license for a saloon in Sellwood at 627 East Nineteenth street, was refused, and a license for a saloon at Twenty-fourth and Thurman streets, which had been denied a short time ago and was again applied for by one B. F. Thomas, was again refused. Both these refusals were in response to remonstrance of residents in the neigh-

RECORD-BREAKING CARP.-Mention wa made a few days ago of a carp brought to Portland which weighed 18 pounds. George Kaboth, of Astoria, writes that a carp which weighed 34 pounds was caught a few days ago near Rainler, and is now "on ice" in the cold-storage establishment of Mr. Loudonberger, in Astoria, where it is kept as a curiosity. The carp is the property of Deputy Fish Warden H. Bultman, and Mr. Kaboth, in order to estab-lish the accuracy of his statement, had Mr. Bultman certify to it. As carp live to a good old age—100 years or so—and it is not one-fifth of that time since they were introduced here, much larger fish than Mr. Rultman's will doubtless be caught in years to come, but his fish "takes the cake" for size up to date, so far as known

Corring Starwood Into Lath.—The lath machines connected with the various sawmills in the dty have of late been unable to produce enough lath to supply the demand, owing to the large number of houses in course of construction, and it has been necessary to bring in lath from the outside. In order that the market may be fully supplied the Bandeld-Vessey Fuel Company, who deal in stabwood, have installed a lath-sawing machine in each of the three little "mills" they have for cutting slabwood into stove lengths. They have been delivering 20 cords of slabwood per day to customera, but will hereafter cut about half this amount of wood into laths, which will have a tendency to make laths more plentiful and slabwood more scarce. CUTTING SLARWOOD INTO LATH.-The dabwood more scarce. MISTARE ONE CITIZEN MADE.-A citi zen who wished some changes and im-provements made to the plumbing of his house set men at work on the job Wednorday. He knew a general strike was impending, but had no idea that, having once commenced work on the job, they once commenced work on the job, they would stop, strike or no strike, until it was completed. On Wednesday they disconnected and tore out sinks, baths and closets, and yesterday they never showed up, and their employer is wondering whether it will be better to rent another house or to get along without modern conveniences until the strike is over. He has done some hard thinking, but has arrived at no conclusion. rived at no conclusion.

WHY NOT BETTER PAVEMENT.—Front sireet, from Madison, where the atone block pavement ends, south to Columbia, is in very bad condition. There is a vast amount of heavy traffic from the milis above the narrow-gauge depot and from the country over this street. Between Jefferson and Columbia the surface of the street is worn out and the wheels of street is worn out, and the wheels of heavily loaded wagons frequently mire down as if on a clay road in the country. Just why the property-owners along the street do not have it improved is a wonder; but they probably think they cannot stand the cost of stone block pavement, and it does not look as if anything else would stand long there.

"RIGHTS" TRAMPLED UPON BY COWS.— Complaint is made by residents in the outskirts of the city in the northeastern portion, that dairymen from outside the city limits are driving their cattle into the city in large bands and herding them on vacant property, thus depriving citizens of the opportunity to pasture their milch cows on said property. A movement is on foot among the citizens who, as they consider, are thus deprived of their rights, to have all cartie thus driven into the city to have all cattle thus driven into the city impounded, and only the milch cows of residents allowed to pasture on vacant property inside the city limits.

BRICK PAVEMENT SINKS.-The brick payement on Oak street, between Third pavement on Oak street, between Third and Fourth, where a trench was dug some time ago for a telephone conduit, is undergoing repair. The earth filled into the trench over the conduit from not being sufficiently tamped or for some other reason, settled, leaving a hollow place in the pavement. The brick along this hollow place has been removed and the concrete foundation will be raised to the proper height and the pavement relaid in shape. Cutting Down Shade Taers.—On the CUTTING DOWN SHADE TREES.—On the south side of Mill street, between Fourth and Fifth, a whole row of fine large maple shade trees have been cut down within the past few days. As they obstructed the passage of light into the Italian Church alongside of which they stood, they were probably removed for this reason. When shade trees become so large as to be in the way they soon disappear, no matter how handsome they may be.

Arthur W. Pinero's beautiful play. "Sweet Lavender," was very enjoyably given by the Frawley Company at the Marquam last night. Ben Howard as Clement Hale and Harrington Reynolds as Dick Phenyl distinguished themselves by some exceedingly clever acting. Phosa McAllister was in her element as a stern English dowager, Blanche Douglas as Min-nie Glifflian contributed a dainty bit of comedy, and Minnette Barrett made a sweet and winsome Lavender. The play was appreciated by the best house of the week. It will be repeated tonight and Friday. Between the acts the orchestra made a hit with a bright arrangement of comic opera favorites by Frank M. Griffin, the musical director of the thea-

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

An American Play. The title of the polite comedy, "Too Rich to Marry," which comes to Cor-Rich to Marry," dray's next week, is derived from the fact that the hero of the story is in love with a young Dunkard girl. The sect of Dunkards are averse to great wealth, and as the young man is to inherit a great fortune, he does not find favor in the eyes of the Dunkard mother. He is bright and handsome, and in every way a desir-able match for the girl, except—a strange exception in these days—that he is too rich. This objection on the part of the Dunkard mother develops a series of complications, exquisitely amusing, in the comedy, which shows how a young man of brains can marry the giri he loves in spite of the fact that he is a million

OREGON'S SUMMER BIRDS Next Saturday's Outing of John Burroughs Society at Arbor Lodge.

At this week's meeting of the John Burroughs Club, in the City Hali, several matters of club business were attended to, after which the members exchanged news regarding bird arrivals for the Summer and other field observations. The yellow warbier, which Mr. Lord calls "a bit of animated sunshine," was reported as having arrived in Oregon about 10 days ago; the tanager also has come for its Summer visit, and attention was called to the large number of humming birds to be found among the horse-chestnut trees, be found among the horse-chestnut trees, now in full bloom at Mr. Pfunder's place, on Washington street and Eleventh. At least 40 or 50 of these tiny creatures of wing may be seen there almost any enjoying a morning meal of nectar from the flowers, or busily engaged in hunting the mischlevous aphis upon the tender follage, a more than generous pay-ment for their dinner. The first brood of the blackbirds, rusty song? sparrow, meadow lark and robins, were also reported as having been found. The starlings, too, are nesting. One member of the club said that young dogs were still being trained on the skylarks and other birds in Ladd's Field, East Portland, notwithstanding that the Game Warden had been been field of this fact saveral time. This standing that the Game warden had been hotified of this fact several times. This was felt to be a great pity, and it is urgently hoped that every one seeing such a proceeding should bring the full force of his influence to prevent this ruthless slaughter of the skylarks.

A highly interesting discussion took

A highly interesting discussion took place regarding the grosbeak, whether it was found in Oregon before 1872, the year in which a large number were brought here from Australia by the captain of the Edward James, a ship that piled be-tween Portland and China and other ports of the Far East. Steps are being taken by club members to decide this point def-by club members to decide this point definitely.

While on the subject of grosbeaks, Mrs. J. A. Strowbridge told a story of these birds and the linnets, which illustrates their extraordinary gentieness of disposition. These birds had become quite domesticated in the neighborhood of her home, at 365 Fifth street, and would settle themselves quite comfortably on the window-sill, near which she was sitting, and even remain there apparently free from all fear, beside a big family cat, which was in the habit of taking a morning nap on the same window-sill. Away from the presence of Mrs. Strowbridge, whom they evidently knew to be their friend and protector, the birds would not remain near the cat for an instant, but always took to the trees and high bushes, remain near the cat for an instant, but always took to the trees and high bushes, out of reach of her dangerous claws. An attempt will be made to take a picture of the cat and the birds while thus amicably grouped on the window-sill.

A very valuable and beautiful book of about 46 photographs of native Oregon birds was presented to Rey. W. R. Lord by the John Burroughs Club, as a parting gift when he left for the East a few days
