

TO HONOR THE DEAD

G. A. R. Veterans Prepare for Memorial Day.

OLD GUARD ATTEND SERVICES

Tributes Paid in Churches to the Deeds of the Nation's Heroes—Programme is Adopted for the Day's Exercises.

Stirring days of '61 were recalled yesterday by the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, who attended two church services, and made arrangements for the celebration of Memorial day, May 30.

To celebrate Memorial day, the members of George Wright and Lincoln-Garfield posts of the Grand Army of the Republic will meet Friday morning at 9 o'clock, at a place to be afterward designated, to receive flowers to decorate comrades' graves in cemeteries on the sides of the river.

At the same hour, members of Sumner and Ben Butler posts will meet at their hall on the East Side, where they will receive flowers to decorate graves in East Side cemeteries.

At 1:30 o'clock, the members of George Wright and Lincoln-Garfield posts will assemble at the Grand Army Hall, First and Taylor streets, and at the same hour the members of Harrington, Hampton and Gilbert camps of Spanish-American War veterans will meet at the A. O. U. W. Hall, and march to First and Taylor streets, where the old and young veterans will join forces.

The members of Sumner and Ben Butler camps will assemble at 1:30 o'clock on East Third and Burnside streets.

The East Side procession will form at 2 o'clock at First and Taylor streets, where the Third Regiment, Oregon National Guard, will act as escort, and the route will be: North to Morrison street, west to Sixth, north to Washington, east to Third, north to Burnside, and east to East Third street, where the members of Sumner and Ben Butler posts will join.

The procession will then march east to Grand avenue, south to East Stark, and east to Lone Fir cemetery, where the members of the Woman's Relief Corps and Woman's Auxiliary will be in waiting.

This will be the order of services at Lone Fir: Dirge—Third Regiment band. Ritual, G. A. R. Officers.

Octette—"Let the Dead and the Beautiful Rest." Veteran's Double Male Quartet. Ritual, Woman's Relief Corps.

"Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg," M. L. Pratt. Song—"We Were Comrades Together in the Days of the War," Miss Metta C. Brown.

Address—"Dedication of the Monument Site," Rev. Dr. H. J. Talbot. Octette—"Old Days of the War," Veterans' Double Male Quartet.

Dedictory ceremonies of monument site. Salute to the dead, by the firing party. Benediction, Rev. H. A. Barden.

Taps, Buglers of Y. M. C. A. drum corps. There will be a Grand Army service Friday night at the First Congregational church, and the particulars will be announced later.

FIRST UNITARIAN SERVICES.

Rev. George C. Cressey Addresses G. A. R. Veterans.

The services at the First Unitarian Church were well attended, about 70 members of the Grand Army being present. A fine musical programme was rendered by the choir.

Being a violin solo by Mrs. Sherman Brown. The platform was tastefully decorated with choice flowers.

Rev. Dr. George C. Cressey delivered an admirable address from the text, Matthew, x:34: "I came not to bring peace on earth, but a sword," and spoke in part as follows: Throughout the centuries the Christian church has been drawn in behalf of that peace which we believe shall one day dawn upon earth, the peace of universal liberty, justice and righteousness, the reflection of the inward peace of the soul.

"So the consummation of the second period of our national history, the period in which we sought and attained complete political equality, came our great Civil War. Though so far removed today in time are the problems and results of that struggle that we can view them without passion or prejudice, yet it is doubtful if even yet we appreciate their real magnitude. We would not exult in our military prowess as a Nation. Nevertheless, since war proved a dire necessity, the skill of our commanders, the bravery, fidelity, patriotism and intelligence of our soldiers form an illustrious chapter in our history. The campaign of Grant around Vicksburg, in which, violating the conventional maxims of war, he forced rules to bend to circumstances, rather than circumstances to rules, the defense of Fort Mifflin, and many historic episodes of the Civil War demonstrate that the soldiers of a peace-loving Republic, when aroused to armed conflict are invincible and irresistible.

"The civil and political aspects of the contest, however, are of still greater magnitude. It is not my purpose to discuss any political questions of the present; yet, whatever the merits of the Philippine problem, the assertion sometimes made that the insurrection in the Archipelago is of the same political nature as the great rebellion of the states adds no strength to the argument for annexation and tends to belittle the sacred cause for which you fought. Though it is necessary to hold the islands as a part of our territory, it yet remains to be shown that the inhabitants never sought or assented to annexation. On the other hand, some of the Confederate States had united in the formation of the Nation, some, like Texas, had requested admission to the Union, and all had given allegiance to the Constitution. It was a conflict to vindicate the right of a nation when once formed by voluntary association, to remain forever indivisible and indissoluble. In an even larger aspect, from the point of view of human servitude, it was a part of a great world movement, of a great world emancipation.

Here Dr. Cressey spoke of the soldier in human history, finding three distinct types—the mercenary soldier, or the soldier of fortune, the national soldier, and the soldier of freedom. The two former types were illustrated by various references to ancient and modern military achievements. He then turned to the speaker, and in a stirring and glowing address, "are the distinctive qualities of the last and highest type, the soldier of freedom? First, to bravery, patience, patriotism found in the other classes, he adds a union of intelligence and fidelity. No better or more pathetic example of this characteristic can be found than in the silent protest of our intelligent soldiers before Fredericksburg. When ordered to renew the hopeless assault, well knowing its fatal results, yet with no thought of disobedience, they were seen to fasten, each to his coat, a slip of paper, giving name and home.

"The second quality is love of peace—the soldier of freedom prefers peace even to the glory of war. The most famous battle-field of the war was Gettysburg. There is the great burial place of the fallen heroes, there Lincoln spoke his immortal words, there was the turning point of the conflict, and soon after the return to peace on the spot where the fight was most desperate, a broken drum was found, which the bees had filled with honey from the flowers. How beautifully symbolical of the return of the warriors from the fields of carnage to the industry and fellowship of peace. The Army of the Potomac, whose strong marched through the great avenue of our capital city, only to be mustered out and to return eagerly and gladly to the pursuits of peace. It is the only event of its kind in all history—and the commander of that mighty host, in almost his dying moments, uttered the memorable words, "Let there be peace."

"But the third and greatest quality of the soldier of freedom is his almost contempt not merely for his own time, but for all time, not only for his people, but for humanity." Dr. Cressey here gave the few examples of this type of combatant found in ancient and modern history, of which the soldiers of our Civil War are the most illustrious example.

The close of the address was in part as follows: "Members of the Grand Army of the Republic—and you, my friends, we joyfully welcome you to our service. We of the younger generation know nothing in personal experience of the trial and travail of the days of '61. But we have read of your deeds, your sufferings, your sacrifices, your triumphs. We appreciate your achievements, not only in the tendency to make us freer, freer, but also in the dismal fancy of what might have been, had you faltered and failed. Not one republic, but two, perhaps many others, on the ridge between the original nation of the East, a slave empire in the South, mutual jealousy and perhaps conflict, gunboats on the bosoms of our rivers, fortresses on the heights of our hills. We shall not forget what you did for us. As kind hands inspired by thankful hearts deck the graves of your comrades with the fragrance and beauty of flowers, so in the loving tribute of our memory, in the words of our great poet: Honor and good repute, Which follows faithful service as its fruit, Be unto you such living as shall last."

"And the host of the mighty dead, those who fell in battle or who have since finished the greater struggle of life, may their repose be sanctified by the gratitude of Nation's life, from the grave commander himself, whose tomb watches the Hudson's waters, as they hasten to mingle with the sea, to which the stranger and traveler shall send their footsteps through coming time, to the unknown grave on some Southern slope, whose monument is the arching pathway of the stars, whose epitaph, inscribed on the Nation's heart—He died that his country might live."

ADDRESS OF REV. J. P. GHORMLEY. He Speaks to Veterans on "Meaning and Cost of American Liberty."

A patriotic service was held last night at the Christian Church, Astor and Third Hall, and nearly all the seats were occupied. Three American flags and fragrant flowers graced the platform. The singing by a chorus choir of about 30 voices, under the direction of Professor W. F. Werschkul, was admirable, and the congregational singing of the hymns was hearty. Members of the George Wright and Lincoln-Garfield Posts and Women's Relief Corps attended.

"The Meaning and Cost of American Liberty" was the subject of Rev. J. P. Ghormley's address. "I do not know if we all fit the description of the people by the word 'liberty,'" he began. "We have different definitions of the word in different sections, and in other countries people have different notions of the word. Liberty has a different meaning than in Revolutionary days. The Nation was born then, and the fathers talked of liberty as men who were free from the control of a monarch, or ruler. Slavery was left in our lawsbooks then until the Nation was strong enough to break the yoke. It was not a popular thing in the early days to argue that a colored man should be free. 'In these latter days,' who is a business man, saves money and makes more as the days go by, and he forms a corporation, and he is the one who is the master of time they form what we call a trust or combine. How far can they go in this matter? I do not say that the law can and should prevent their coming together, but I do say that the law can and should prevent them from monopolizing the resources and the brains to build up this Republic. But out of this I do not see the necessity of a federal court to override the rights of the common people, advancing and lowering the prices of commodities as they please. No organization has the right to deprive me of my life and property, and I do not see the necessity of a federal court to establish a general court of arbitration. We cannot trust the courts with the capital or the rights of labor. We must not set the shop of state adrift on a sea of chance."

In discussing the question what has been the price of our liberty, Mr. Ghormley sketched the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812. He then talked of the stirring days prior to 1861, when the battle of Fort Sumter was fired, and the South "was a boy at the time, living in a frontier town," he went on, "and I remember the eventful day when I saw painted in red letters on our log cabin the name Abraham Lincoln. I do not know if I wondered who the man was. I had a vague idea then, as a boy will, that probably he was a foreign king. Some people would not have been surprised if the contest came, who would march with the flag. Then Sumter was fired on. It was not a question then of slavery. It was to save the Union. Many men who left our town returned and others who were in the army to us had an empty sleeve or they were sick and dying. It cost the South something, too. They were men with the courage of Jackson, the eloquence of Clay, and they thought they were in the right. They were worthy of your steel boys. Has it been worth the cost?"

Here a veteran in the front seat remarked that the speaker was doing well to go to the States. "Now I'm going to ask you to sing, 'My Country, 'Tis of Thee.' See that we all live up to it." The National anthem was then sung with vigor. Rev. Dr. Cline asked all the veterans present to stand, and a chorus of patriotic songs was rendered by a chorus of trained voices from the Sunnyside Congregational Church.

Patriotic services were held last evening in the Sunnyside Congregational Church. At 7:30 members of Sumner Post, G. A. R., and Sumner Relief Corps, assembled at their respective halls, and with their banners marched to the Morrison-street church, and proceeded to the Sunnyside, where they were met by the church with its banner. The posts and Relief Corps were given seats in the body of the auditorium. The church was handsomely decorated with flags. Rev. H. B. Elworthy delivered an appropriate sermon, which was enjoyed by the veterans present.

MONUMENT ASSOCIATION MEETING. Details of the Dedication of Site on Memorial Day Arranged.

The Soldiers' Monument Association held a meeting yesterday afternoon at 64

Grand avenue, and completed arrangements for the dedication of the site of the monument in Lone Fir cemetery, on Memorial day. M. L. Pratt, president, reported but little business, and explained what had been done. Rev. H. J. Talbot will deliver the dedicatory address, and Rev. Robert McLean will dedicate the four sides of the site. Provisions have been made for placing a flag in the center of the site, and there will be representatives of the four wars present. All the details are in the hands of the various committees.

President Pratt called attention to the difficulty of obtaining subscriptions to the monument at this time. However, it was decided to present the matter to the Pioneer Association and the Indian War Veterans, both of whom hold encampments in the month of June. It was considered that the pioneers and Indian War Veterans would be interested in the erection of the proposed monument, and would be willing to grant the movement all the aid possible. T. A. Wood agreed to present the subject to the Indian War Veterans. The next meeting of the association will be held June 8.

SERVICES AT FOREST GROVE. FOREST GROVE, Or., May 25.—A union memorial service was held in the Christian Church here today, and a sermon appropriate to such an occasion was preached by its pastor, Rev. Arthur Kane.

BURGLARS MAKE A HAUL. Housebreakers Rob Residences of W. J. Cuddy and T. H. Starbuck.

Mean burglars had a high old time of it early yesterday morning in houses occupied by W. J. Cuddy and T. H. Starbuck, in the neighborhood of East Ely street north, near Everett. Mr. Cuddy lost about $300. Several of the household articles were stolen, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

house first, and they smashed in his front door and attempted to open his safe, but gave up the affair as a bad job. Mr. Cuddy did not discover the robbery until he finished his work, about 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was surprised to see the glass panel in the front door broken. The inner doors were also broken, and the burglars evidently went to work at Mr. Starbuck's

CAN'T DESERT HIS POST

REASONS WHY MR. TONGUE CANNOT COME HOME.

Most Important Matters Affecting Oregon Are Pending in Congress and Need Close Watching.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Representative Tongue has received several letters from friends regretting that he is not going to Oregon to lend his aid to the Republican cause in the campaign. One such letter he has replied as follows: I regret exceedingly that it will not be possible for me to take part in the Oregon campaign. Believing as I do that the administration of the Federal Government, ready at all times to vote upon the bill. The Democrats in opposition are prolonging the debate and the end of it cannot yet be seen. It will ultimately be passed by the Senate, and it is important that it should be passed by the House. If we are to hold the Philippine Islands, we must make arrangements for the government of the islands and for the carrying on of business operations. This bill in some form ought to be passed before the adjournment of Congress.

The Nicaragua Canal. A bill to construct the Nicaragua Canal has twice passed the House by an overwhelming majority. It is the next order of unfinished business in the Senate at the completion of the Philippine government bill. Our Democratic friends in the Senate seem determined by a continuous and prolonged debate on the Philippine bill to push the consideration of the Nicaragua Canal bill over the time for the adjournment of both Houses. They hope in this way, by thus defeating the consideration of the bill, to charge its failure upon the Republican party. In accordance with the principles and policies of the Republican party will, in the future, as it has in the past, inure to the honor and prosperity of the country. I have not hesitated on all proper occasions to advocate the bill, and I should be glad to do so now if consistent with public duty. There are, however, several important questions now pending before Congress in which Oregon is particularly interested, and towards the success of which I may be able to contribute in some way by remaining at my post of duty.

Another matter of National importance, and which will interest some sections of the State of Oregon, is the National Irrigation bill, which has been reported by the committee of which I am chairman. While other states and territories are much more interested in this, and will use every effort possible to secure its passage, the absence of the chairman of the committee that has reported the bill would not escape attention, not only throughout Oregon, but throughout the United States. It would be taken, I fear, not only in indifference, but hostility. There is one feature of the bill in which Oregon is particularly interested, and which I have labeled hard to secure. Without it, should the bill pass, Oregon would receive no share of the benefits. With this provision, should the bill pass, Oregon will be benefited. It is important, therefore, to the state, as well as to the people of the entire West, that I should be here when the bill comes before the House. In all probability this will be done within the next two weeks.

There are other matters also of some importance, but I trust that those I have already given and their importance to the State of Oregon will show that it would not be possible or prudent for me to leave Washington at this time to take part in the pending political campaign. You understand, of course, that while holding my present position my duty is to represent the entire people of both political parties in the House of Representatives. I have been elected and am receiving a salary for that purpose. It would not meet the approval of the people of the state nor of my own conscience to neglect these duties in order to make an effort to secure my own reelection or the re-election of the Republican ticket in Oregon.

Much as I regret not being able to be with you and take part in discussing the questions of great importance, I trust your own judgment will appreciate and approve the reasons I have given. Truly and sincerely yours,

THOMAS H. TONGUE.

Judge Meldrum Injured. OREGON CITY, Or., May 25.—Ex-County Judge John W. Meldrum was severely injured in a runaway accident last night. He was confined to his bed in his home for some time. Between 7 and 8 o'clock he was driving into town from the Miller claim, on the west side of the river, where he had been engaged in surveying. Crossing the suspension bridge open the baby's bank and stole $3, and also broke open another child's bank and stole a small quantity of money. They also walked off with the children's sovereign spoons, their gold rings, and all of Mr. Cuddy's silver coins, which he has been collecting for 30 years. But they did not meddle with the copper cents belonging to the collection—generous souls. But the crowning infamy of the robbery was committed in turning on the electric lights in the basement. It was about 9 o'clock yesterday morning when the people in the house thought of examining the basement, and the sure enough the place was flooded with electric light. It is not known how long the lights had been kept burning. The police are at work on the case.

PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT. A bill providing for the establishment of a government in the Philippine Islands is pending in the Senate. Since the 16th of last month, the Republicans have been certainly shall not diminish in the least my efforts to secure a favorable report and the ultimate passage of this bill. Every day the passage of this bill is delayed it is condoning a national crime. It is perpetuating the injustice of many years' standing against a band of the bravest and most self-sacrificing people that ever defended the National flag. It is a failure to recognize the services of men and women whose courage and heroism annexed the great Northwest to the United States, and whose services were of untold benefit to their country. The interest of the President has been called in it, and it seems to be having some effect. My absence would certainly not help it, and probably would prove fatal.

GREATEST OF ALL TONICS. Hoveford's Acid Phosphate. Nourishes, strengthens and imparts new life and vigor. Cures indigestion, too.

PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT. A bill providing for the establishment of a government in the Philippine Islands is pending in the Senate. Since the 16th of last month, the Republicans have been

certainly shall not diminish in the least my efforts to secure a favorable report and the ultimate passage of this bill. Every day the passage of this bill is delayed it is condoning a national crime. It is perpetuating the injustice of many years' standing against a band of the bravest and most self-sacrificing people that ever defended the National flag. It is a failure to recognize the services of men and women whose courage and heroism annexed the great Northwest to the United States, and whose services were of untold benefit to their country. The interest of the President has been called in it, and it seems to be having some effect. My absence would certainly not help it, and probably would prove fatal.

GREATEST OF ALL TONICS. Hoveford's Acid Phosphate. Nourishes, strengthens and imparts new life and vigor. Cures indigestion, too.

PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT. A bill providing for the establishment of a government in the Philippine Islands is pending in the Senate. Since the 16th of last month, the Republicans have been

certainly shall not diminish in the least my efforts to secure a favorable report and the ultimate passage of this bill. Every day the passage of this bill is delayed it is condoning a national crime. It is perpetuating the injustice of many years' standing against a band of the bravest and most self-sacrificing people that ever defended the National flag. It is a failure to recognize the services of men and women whose courage and heroism annexed the great Northwest to the United States, and whose services were of untold benefit to their country. The interest of the President has been called in it, and it seems to be having some effect. My absence would certainly not help it, and probably would prove fatal.

GREATEST OF ALL TONICS. Hoveford's Acid Phosphate. Nourishes, strengthens and imparts new life and vigor. Cures indigestion, too.

PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT. A bill providing for the establishment of a government in the Philippine Islands is pending in the Senate. Since the 16th of last month, the Republicans have been

certainly shall not diminish in the least my efforts to secure a favorable report and the ultimate passage of this bill. Every day the passage of this bill is delayed it is condoning a national crime. It is perpetuating the injustice of many years' standing against a band of the bravest and most self-sacrificing people that ever defended the National flag. It is a failure to recognize the services of men and women whose courage and heroism annexed the great Northwest to the United States, and whose services were of untold benefit to their country. The interest of the President has been called in it, and it seems to be having some effect. My absence would certainly not help it, and probably would prove fatal.

GREATEST OF ALL TONICS. Hoveford's Acid Phosphate. Nourishes, strengthens and imparts new life and vigor. Cures indigestion, too.

PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT. A bill providing for the establishment of a government in the Philippine Islands is pending in the Senate. Since the 16th of last month, the Republicans have been

certainly shall not diminish in the least my efforts to secure a favorable report and the ultimate passage of this bill. Every day the passage of this bill is delayed it is condoning a national crime. It is perpetuating the injustice of many years' standing against a band of the bravest and most self-sacrificing people that ever defended the National flag. It is a failure to recognize the services of men and women whose courage and heroism annexed the great Northwest to the United States, and whose services were of untold benefit to their country. The interest of the President has been called in it, and it seems to be having some effect. My absence would certainly not help it, and probably would prove fatal.

GREATEST OF ALL TONICS. Hoveford's Acid Phosphate. Nourishes, strengthens and imparts new life and vigor. Cures indigestion, too.

PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT. A bill providing for the establishment of a government in the Philippine Islands is pending in the Senate. Since the 16th of last month, the Republicans have been

certainly shall not diminish in the least my efforts to secure a favorable report and the ultimate passage of this bill. Every day the passage of this bill is delayed it is condoning a national crime. It is perpetuating the injustice of many years' standing against a band of the bravest and most self-sacrificing people that ever defended the National flag. It is a failure to recognize the services of men and women whose courage and heroism annexed the great Northwest to the United States, and whose services were of untold benefit to their country. The interest of the President has been called in it, and it seems to be having some effect. My absence would certainly not help it, and probably would prove fatal.

GREATEST OF ALL TONICS. Hoveford's Acid Phosphate. Nourishes, strengthens and imparts new life and vigor. Cures indigestion, too.

PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT. A bill providing for the establishment of a government in the Philippine Islands is pending in the Senate. Since the 16th of last month, the Republicans have been

certainly shall not diminish in the least my efforts to secure a favorable report and the ultimate passage of this bill. Every day the passage of this bill is delayed it is condoning a national crime. It is perpetuating the injustice of many years' standing against a band of the bravest and most self-sacrificing people that ever defended the National flag. It is a failure to recognize the services of men and women whose courage and heroism annexed the great Northwest to the United States, and whose services were of untold benefit to their country. The interest of the President has been called in it, and it seems to be having some effect. My absence would certainly not help it, and probably would prove fatal.

GREATEST OF ALL TONICS. Hoveford's Acid Phosphate. Nourishes, strengthens and imparts new life and vigor. Cures indigestion, too.