

LOCAL AND FOREIGN NEWS

A good trade, with no features of special interest, was about all that could be said of the market situation yesterday. Produce receipts were liberal, but there were no changes in prices. Oregon strawberries came along in quantities sufficient to force prices down to 12 1/2c, and the best of the California berries were selling at 8c and 6c per pound. The season for Oregon berries is so much later than usual that the California berries are being way to disappear before the Oregon are here in sufficient quantities to supply the demand.

The tone throughout the session was very strong, and the country continued to be active. The market was closed at 77 1/2c, a gain of 1/2c over the previous day's closing. Bank Clearings. PORTLAND MARKETS. Grains, Flour, Etc.

There was little business in wheat yesterday. Dealers found it easier to buy the cereal at 6c than it has been for several days, and but few of them cared to quote that much for it. The freight market is quiet, but there are no recent transactions which would be of importance. The Lord Shafterbury finished loading yesterday, making but three ships for the month, a remarkably small business when the size of the crop is considered. The demand for oats, which had been very brisk on account of some large orders from South Africa, has suddenly ceased, the stocks already bought apparently being sufficient for the present. Stocks have been pretty well cleaned up, and if a demand should spring up from another quarter, higher prices would follow.
