AMUSEMENTS TONIGHT.

THE BAKER THEATER (corner Third and Yamhill streets)—Ralph Stuart and Company in Bronson Howard's great play, "The Banker's Daughter." 8:20.

CORDRAY'S THEATER — Edward Owenges Towne's fantastic musical comedy, "Too Rich to Marry."

TRAIL TO MACLEAY PARK FINISHED.—The trail for the accommodation of persons wishing to visit Macleay Park, which L. L. Hawkins has had under construction for some time, is now completed. Persons who wish to visit the park and inspect the trail should take the Willamette Heights car and get off at the bridge leading to the heights, where they will find the trail, which runs up the canyon through the park, and turns up across the Cornell road. At this point the trail ascends a little bluff a few yards, the only ascent in its whole length, the whole three miles being practically level. From the little bluff along a route which affords some beautiful views the trail leads to a wagon road on the north side of King's Heights. This road is to be followed around the base of the hill on an easy grade until the Barnes Canyon road is reached, at the rock crusher. Thence following a graded road on the south side of the canyon, the excursionist comes out in the City Park, near the bear pit. After crossing the Cornell road, on the way home, ferns, Oregon grape, etc., are plentiful along the trail, especially in Fern Canyon, and visitors can procure all they want. They are not allowed to gather ferns or shrubbery in Macleay Park, as it is desired to preserve this tract in a state of nature, with all its charms of wildness unimpaired. The route here given, starting from Willamette Heights bridge and going up through the park, enables visitors to have before them all the way back the city and the views of magnificent scenery obtainable from many points on the trail, which, in traveling in the contrary direction, they would have behind them all the time.

PLANS FOR BIG A. O. U. W. PARADE.—Extensive preparations are being made for a grand parade of members of the A. O. U. W. during the session of the Supreme Lodge here. Ralph W. Feiney has been appointed grand marshal of the parade, which will take place on the evening of June 14. All the lodges in this city and many from country towns will take part, and it is expected that there will be not less than 5000 members of the order in line on this occasion. All the bands in the city have been engaged, Mr. Feeney says, and he intends to employ a number of outside bands. The city lodge which turns out the best float emblematic of the order will receive a cash prize of $50, and the country lodge producing the best float will receive the same. Mr. Feeney is a very energetic man, and he is bending all his energies toward getting up a parade which will astonish the natives.

IMPROVEMENTS AT WOODMERE.—The march of progress and improvement has now reached the Mount Scott region. At Woodmere, the tract formerly known as Chicago Addition, about a mile west of Lents, George W. Brown has six handsome cottages of six rooms each in course of construction, no two of the same style. Four of them are practically completed and the whole will be finished in a short time, when Mr. Brown will begin the construction of several more. The buildings stand on lots of 50x100 feet, and are all of two stories. Mr. Brown has expended $10,000 in grading streets, laying water pipes, setting out shade trees and installing pumping machinery for supplying Woodmere with water. The owners of other tracts in that section are preparing to erect a number of buildings this season.

ROSES BLOOM EARLY.—Rose-growers in this city have quite an advantage in the way of early blooming over those in some other localities. In some gardens here roses have been in bloom for three weeks or more, and there are hundreds of roses of many different varieties in these gardens now, while W. S. Stbson, who has one of the finest collections of roses in this region, on the slope above the White House road, a few miles south of the city, plucked his first and only rose of the season only three days ago. The elevation and the eastern exposure probably account for this, but the delay will be made up by the longer time his roses will be in bloom.

BUTTER PUT IN COLD STORAGE.—Large quantities of butter have gone into cold storage this Spring. There has been only a small outside demand, and were it not for storage, prices might not be so well maintained. It is impossible to estimate with close accuracy the amount put away, but it is known to be very large, and much larger than last year. The stored-up quantities will have an influence toward holding down prices in their upward trend next Winter, so that people who otherwise would get cheaper butter this Spring will win back their money later.

WORK ON WHITE HOUSE ROAD.—The work of widening and improving the White House road is well under way and progressing rapidly. Messrs. Smyth & Howard have some 50 men and 15 teams employed on the job and are at present cutting down the bank about half a mile beyond the cemetery and making a fill on the east side of the road. There are some telephone poles on the west side of the road which the County Court has instructed the company owning them to have removed as soon as possible.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT IS DIFFERENT.—Thomas McCusker, of the Civic Improvement Association, wishes note made of the fact that his organization is not the Civic Federation, with which many people confound it. It was the Civic Federation that recently issued a pamphlet touching the qualifications of the various candidates for office. The Civic Improvement Association is not in politics at all, at least not until after election, when it will expect every public officer to do his duty.

WHERE SALMON BITE.—Salmon have been "biting" at the falls of the Willamette of late, and some fine sport has been enjoyed there. Sidney Smyth caught a 26-pounder a day or two ago. It is one of the largest ever captured there with rod and line. The rise in the river has put the salmon in hope of being able to get past the falls, but very few of them will succeed in doing this.

BERRY-PICKERS WANTED.—Three hundred strawberry-pickers wanted at Hood River at once; pay cent and a half per pound. Good pickers make $2 50 to $4 per day. Apply White Collar Line, foot Alder street. Steamer leaves daily at 7 A. M. Both phones, Main 351. *

IF YOU ARE GOING EAST, now is your opportunity to take advantage of the extremely low rates, good 60 days. Call at the office of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway and ask about it. 124 Third street, corner Alder. *

SPUDS FOR CITY DREDGE.—Joseph Paquet is engaged in "getting out" the spuds for the old city dredge at his boatyard on the East Side. The fir sticks for these were furnished by the Inman-Poulsen Company, and are 84 feet long and 31 inches in diameter at the small end and 41 inches at the larger end. This small difference in the diameter of the ends of sticks so long is considered rather remarkable. It was the intention to square them in Inman & Poulsen's mill, but as they are to be round and 29 inches in diameter it was not deemed desirable to go to the trouble of getting them into the mill to cut off the small amount of timber there is to spare, which will be sapwood principally. It was quite a job to get them out of the water and in position for being hewn to the size required. Mr. Paquet says they are beautiful sticks, as straight as a line, and their equal could hardly be found out of Oregon. The spuds for the new dredge will be several inches more in diameter than these, and something longer.

REFRESHMENTS AT HUNT CLUB MEET.—The concessions at the Portland Hunt Club field meet have been given to the Portland Fruit and Flower Mission, and the young women of the society have determined to apply the proceeds to founding a children's playroom at one of the hospitals or homes that they visit. Refreshments will be served at booths, and 15 young men have been impressed into service to sell peanuts, popcorn, candy and lemonade through the grandstand. The girls will wear costumes of white, decked with the red of the Portland Hunt Club, and the young men will also be resplendent in white outing suits. Since the proceeds will go to a very worthy charity, the young women hope for a very liberal and frequent patronage from all their friends and others who attend the meet.

FOR NEW SCHOOL DISTRICTS.—A petition has been filed with County School Superintendent Robinson asking for the organization of a school district between the Columbia River and Columbia Slough, west of the Vancouver bridge. This section has 22 children of school age, and has heretofore been without a public school, but the residents have maintained two private schools for the benefit of the children. The proposed district, if organized, will be a long but narrow one and it will probably be necessary to have a school at each end. A petition has also been filed with Superintendent Robinson asking that District 38, at Holbrook, and District 84, joint, southwest of Holbrook, be divided and a portion of each be taken to form a new district. The petition is signed by 46 persons.

BUTTONS FOR MAZAMAS.—Having returned in safety from his preliminary reconnoissance of the route to Mount Adams, L. L. Hawkins is now engaged in arranging for badges for the Mazamas and their guests, to be worn during their proposed outing. He has about decided to have a button the size of a half-dollar bearing a picture of the mountain they are to climb, with the word "Mazamas" and the date of the ascension beneath, for the members of the association; and much the same kind of a button without the inscription for their guests. The idea is to be able to distinguish the sheep from the goats, as it will be the duty of the Mazamas to devote themselves to promoting the comfort and enjoyment of their guests during the excursion.

AT WORK ON NORTHERN PACIFIC TICKET OFFICE.—The workmen employed in the finishing up of the ornamentation of the Northern Pacific ticket office returned when the strike ended (?), and Agent Charlton is himself again. The walls have been covered with grass-green burlap, and it now only remains to get the artistic radiators in place, wash the tiled floor with acid, hang the pictures on the walls and a horseshoe over each door to complete the renovation. The cement sidewalk in front is being completed as rapidly as possible, and in a few days the street will be cleaned up, and then the universe can parade around the corner and gaze their fill on the gorgeous interior and the immaculate and unapproachable office.

FLOWERS FOR DEAD COMRADES.—The camps and auxiliaries of the Spanish-American War Veterans desirous of decorating the graves of their dead comrades are soliciting flowers for this purpose for Memorial day. Any patriotic person wishing to assist them with a donation of flowers will please leave them today at either of the following designated places: McKinney's confectionery, Grand avenue and East Morrison; Ball's drug store, East Seventh and Stephens; McKinnon's grocery, 173 Third street; grocery store, 155 North Seventeenth; 611 First; 325 Taylor; Watts & Matthieu drug store, Williams avenue and Russell street.

DIDN'T KNOW THE DONOR.—Under the influence of China gin, Thomas Minor staggered into the Municipal Court yesterday, charged with stealing blankets from a Taylor-street store. "I'm not guilty. Wouldn't do such a thing," explained Minor. "A fellow gave me those blankets. Who is he? I don't know all the fellows in town. He gave them to me on the railroad. When? I don't know the time—I'm not a watch." "This case is postponed until tomorrow, when I hope you'll be sober," commented Municipal Judge Cameron.

FIRED THREE SHOTS.—A shooting episode in a saloon was inquired into yesterday by Municipal Judge Cameron, when James Murray was charged with firing three shots from his revolver at W. A. Milan, in a saloon near Front and Columbia streets. Milan wished to use one of the chairs Murray occupied, and in the altercation that followed, one of the bullets grazed two of Milan's knuckles. Lawyer A. W. Wolf asked that the case be continued until Saturday, which was done.

EARLY SWEET PEAS.—Otto Dekum, 702 Everett, claims the distinction of having the first Oregon sweet peas in bloom. Mr. Dekum's peas have been in bloom for the past two weeks. The plants are already over six feet high and the flowers bloom on stems from nine inches to a foot in length. Mr. Dekum raises his own seeds and planted these last Fall, taking great care of the plants during the Winter, and he is one of the few who saved their peas from the frost.

UNSIGHTLY SHACK REMOVED.—The debris of the old shack which was so long a nuisance on Taylor street opposite A. O. U. W. Hall, has all been cleared away and a temporary fence built in front, to the great relief of all residents in that neighborhood. The owner of the property, who has been absent from the city, will return in two or three weeks, when arrangements will be consummated for the erection of a new building on the property.

AT THE last regular meeting of the Retail Clerks' Union, No. 294, it was unanimously adopted to request all retail stores to close their places of business all day on Decoration day. Already the larger stores have declared their intention to do so. J. E. Webber, Sec. *

WHERE ARE THE SILVERS?—A young woman called at the police station last night, from Elk Creek, Glenn County, Cal., asking the aid of the police to assist her in finding her uncle, Theodore P. Silvers, who is about 60 years old, is a laboring man, and is supposed to live in this city. The young woman, who would not give her name for publication, stated that she is Mr. Silvers' niece, and that she supposes her cousin, Charles Silvers, a drug clerk, and formerly employed by a builder, also lives here, but that she had been unable to locate either of her relatives. She asked that any one possessing information regarding her missing relatives will communicate with the officials at the police station this afternoon.

MR. LONG TO SPEAK.—J. M. Long will address the Flower Festival at McMinnville this evening, in behalf of the Lewis and Clark Fair. J. C. Cooper, of the festival committee, has written to the Lewis and Clark board: "Should Mr. Long choose to solicit subscriptions to the capital stock during the day, we will give him what aid we can." The Buffalo Pitts Company has written to H. W. Corbett that it has referred the question of a subscription to fair stock to the home office and hopes for a favorable reply.

BETS ON ELECTION.—Wagers on election results remain about the same as for several days past and seem to be confined to the offices of Governor, Mayor, Sheriff and County Clerk, only occasional mention being made of minor offices. An offer of two to one was posted in one place yesterday on City Attorney, in favor of the Republican nominee. Money offered on Furnish remains untaken.

INTEREST IN CIVIC IMPROVEMENT.—The Lewis and Clark Civic Improvement Association is increasing in membership every day. Its officers feel highly gratified by the success of the movement which they have started and the influence which the organization has attained in civic affairs in the short time it has been working.

WANN PITIES CHILDREN.

So Far as Observed, However, None of Them Seem to Be Suffering.

PORTLAND, May 28.—(To the Editor.)—In answer to the open letter of Superintendent E. F. Moores, of Salem, Or., published in your columns recently, I desire to state that I have been very much amused during this my first experience in practical politics by the frantic efforts of some of my opponent's friends to call the attention of the public away from the issue I have raised in my campaign.

In my Salem address I stated the truth, as I have stated it all over this state, that the state course of study for Oregon schools requires nine subjects be taught to the children of the first primary grades. I did not state that nine books were studied, but that nine subjects are required, and I meant that this multiplicity of subjects is the principal cause of the poor results obtained from our schools. When I said "so much is given our children to learn that nothing, not even the essential branches, can be learned."

If Superintendent Moores, or any one else, will glance over the state course of study given to the schools of Oregon by my opponent, he will see that I told the truth in regard to the number of subjects required, and the hundreds who heard me at Salem will testify that I did not say nine books, but that nine subjects are required.

In regard to the number of books used I quote the exact language of my Salem address, which will answer Superintendent Moores' second question, in which he assumes that I said a pupil is required to study 140 books in the eight grades. After exhibiting the list of books adopted by the Text-Book Commission, I stated that 45 different books are required in the eight grades, while nearly 100 more are recommended for supplementary work in these grades. Now if the state desires, he can force the teachers to give a great deal of this supplementary work by including points in his examination questions that are not covered by the required course, thus increasing the work that is far too heavy to allow anything to be thoroughly learned. A glance at the school laws of Oregon, page 82, section 140, will show that Superintendent Moores has confused the list of books for the libraries to be furnished by the State Board of Education with the list for supplementary work recommended by the Text-Book Commission. Now, I will state further that the state course of study now in force requires many supplementary books to be bought by the pupil and they have been bought, as their parents can testify. The statement I made at Salem is not misleading, but Superintendent Moores' vision of it is certainly misleading to the thousands who read The Oregonian, but did not hear me.

In answer to the last question, I say that too many subjects are required by Mr. Ackerman's course of study in each of the eight grades; for instance, in the first grade nine different subjects and three drills are required to be given. In the second grade the same number, including a text-book on written arithmetic, which contains matter that is entirely beyond the comprehension of children of their tender age.

In the other grades the number of different subjects required to be taught, including two or three drills, range from 10 to 14. This unreasonable burden, which requires our young children to carry home a load of books, and do a great deal of studying outside of school hours, should, in my opinion, be reduced in primary grades to about four essential subjects, with one or two drills, and the amount of number work should be greatly reduced from what it is now, until the children have maturity of mind enough to comprehend such work.

After a child is trained to read intelligently, write legibly, spell correctly, and count accurately, and has formed the habit of using his mind, he will be able to do a reasonable amount of work in all these subjects in the upper grades, not taking more than six subjects at a time, without injury to his health, which must be the first consideration in any satisfactory course of study. I have not, and do not now object to the number of subjects to be taught during the eight years, but I do most emphatically object to the amount of work required of the young children, and especially to their being obliged to take instruction in so many different subjects at the same time, making it impossible for them to have a thorough knowledge of the essential branches which they will need in every-day life.

I submit this question to the voters of Oregon, asking them to make an investigation of the conditions as they exist, weigh the books their children are carrying home from school, and vote for the best interests of the children of the state.

W. A. WANN,
Democratic Nominee for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

AGAINST BALLIET.

Former Employe Says Statements in Circular Were Misleading.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 28.—The feature of the Balliet case in the Federal Court today was the cross-examination of S. H. Rowland, of Marengo, Ia., who testified for the Government Monday. The feature was the admission of Rowland that a certain circular issued by him, and purporting to be a true statement of the disposition of certain funds of the White Swan Mining Company, was misleading. This circular was introduced by the defense as an exhibit. It is dated June, 1901, and contains a statement made by Mr. Rowland to the effect that $2900 was deposited by him for the White Swan Mining Company in a San Francisco bank, a portion of the amount drawn out by Rowland against Balliet's wishes. Rowland testified on cross-examination that on June 6, 1901, he drew out of a bank in San Francisco the sum of $5000, which belonged to Letson Balliet. This amount, he admitted, overdrew the account $1000, and that amount he returned to the bank. The remainder he put in a safety deposit vault, where it remained until June 11, the day after the circular mentioned was published, and then he deposited $2900 to the credit of the stockholders of the White Swan Company in a San Francisco bank. When questioned as to the statements in the circular, Mr. Rowland admitted that they were misleading, but declined to say they were false. Aside from this, the cross-examination tended to bring out the fact that Rowland, as well as others in the White Swan Company besides Balliet, might have diverted funds of the company. The fact was also brought out that there were difficulties existing between Balliet and Rowland, which may have led the latter to turn against his former employer.

DOG SHOW FRIDAY.

And There Will Be a Society Event Connected With It.

The society editor will probably overlook the arrival in this city of Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, but society itself will not be so careless. True, Mr. Snyder does not pretend to be a gentleman, nor can Mrs. S. boast the proud title of lady. Notwithstanding this handicap, the couple are very popular in Portland. They are charming entertainers, graceful dancers, elegant dressers, popular everywhere and never gossip about their "nabors."

Neither was ever known to speak harshly, and their nature is at all times manifest. They have both traveled extensively, but never bore one by long-drawn-out descriptions of the many sights they have seen. The children love them, and they love the children. In fact, every fond mother wishes her little ones to spend an afternoon or evening with Mr. and Mrs. Snyder. She knows they will enjoy themselves immensely, because this pair are only two of the beautiful little animals among the 300 comprising Gentry Bros.' famous trained animal exhibition, which will make this city a visit for two days at Multnomah Field, starting Friday, May 30.

THRIVING FRATERNAL ORDER.

The Order of Washington, of Portland, is showing wonderful progress this year. Last week one of the organizers secured new life applications to the society, for which certificates were issued, amounting to $52,500 00 in insurance. This was the work of but one man, and the order has more than one dozen out increasing the membership continuously. The Washington Advocate, the official organ of the order, is just from the press for May and shows that the society has paid out in benefits to its members more than $109,000 since organization. The order has headquarters in the Marquam building and is purely a home institution, being officered by a number of Portland's well-known business men.

TALKS OUT.

Doctor Talks About Food.

It is often the case that doctors themselves drift into bad habits of food and drink, although they know better, but doctors are human you know like the rest of us, but when they get into trouble they generally know better how to get out of it, and the "food route" is a common one among them.

Dr. H. Barber, of Laurel, Ind., concluded that coffee and badly selected food was the cause of his stomach trouble and his loss of weight from 184 pounds to 153 pounds with nerves impaired and general nervous break-down.

He did not give coffee up at once, but began the use of Grape-Nuts, and says: "Within a month I could see a wonderful change had taken place, due to the use of the new food. I decided to give up coffee and use Postum in its place. So regularly for a time I have been on a breakfast made up of Grape-Nuts, a little graham bread, and Postum Food Coffee. My weight has increased to 174 pounds, my stomach trouble has entirely gone, and my mind is clear and vigorous as ever. Wishing you every success I beg to assure you of my warm appreciation of Grape-Nuts and Postum."
