Rain Interferes With Baseball.

The Portland-Tacoma baseball game scheduled for yesterday was postponed until Monday on account of rain. A good-sized crowd gathered at the ball grounds, but the rain put a damper on the baseball enthusiasm, and Umpire Cunningham announced that there would be no game. George Engle, who got a "baseball finger" in Wednesday's game, is ready for the fray once more, and will occupy the box today. Muller is still suffering from his ankle sprain, but will be in the game by tomorrow.

Play Ball Today.

The Telephone nine and the Honeyman Hardware Company's nine will cross bats at 9 o'clock this morning at the Bishop Scott Academy. The last-mentioned club will either avenge their defeat last year at the hands of the Telephones or have the iron driven still deeper into their minds.

TACOMA SORE AT MULLANE.

Umpire Has Not Given Them Fair Treatment, They Say.

The Tacoma baseball players have an ax to grind with Umpire Mullane, and the friction has become so severe that rumors of all kinds have been floating around the different baseball headquarters. Among the reports circulated on streets last evening was a woeful tale about Tacoma's contemplated withdrawal from the league unless Mullane be removed. It was said that the Tigers had become fierce and given the league officials to understand that Mullane must be given his walking ticket. When seen last evening, Manager Jay Andrews, of the Tacoma team, said: "I do not think Tacoma has any intention of withdrawing from the league; for the prospects for good baseball are bright, and some fine sport is assured. However, we do claim that this man Mullane doesn't know his business and isn't qualified for the position of umpire. He has repeatedly given Tacoma the worst of it, and our boys do not feel kindly toward him, I assure you. The other umpires are all right, and President Lucas is doing the square thing by everybody, although he certainly made a mistake in selecting Mullane."

When seen last evening, Mr. Lucas expressed regret at Tacoma's ill-feeling toward Mullane, and said that he hoped no rupture would occur in the league.

Engle Will Stay.

A rumor was circulated about the streets last evening that Pitcher George Engle, of the Portland baseball team, had decided to "jump" to Sacramento. Inquiry showed the report to be utterly without foundation.

CORONATION TOURNAMENT.

The Programme Finally Agreed Upon at London.

LONDON, May 29.—The programme for the coronation tournament, in which boxers and wrestlers from different parts of the world, chiefly America, will compete, was finally agreed upon today. The contests will be held at the National Sporting Club, afternoon and evening, beginning with the afternoon of June 21, when there will be boxing competitions between representatives of Yale, Oxford, Cambridge and the English public schools. In the evening "Spike" Sullivan (American) and Jabez White will compete for the 134-pound championship of the world, and "Denver Ed" Martin and "Bob" Armstrong (Americans) will box for the colored heavy-weight championship of the world. June 23, "Joe" Walcott and "Tommy" West (Americans) will meet for the welter-weight championship of the world. June 24, Frank Erne (American) and Pat Daly (the English lightweight champion) will decide the lightweight championship of the world. The final event, June 25, will be a bout between Tom Sharkey and Gus Ruhlin (Americans), both of whom are now training here, the winner to meet the winner of the Jeffries-Fitzsimmons fight for the heavy-weight championship of the world.

Boy Billiardist at M. A. A. C.

Willie Hopve, the famous boy billiardist, of New York, who is now making a tour of the Coast, will play an exhibition game at the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club tomorrow night. His opponent will be Wilkie Duniway, who will play 150 to Willie's 200. Willie, who is 13 years old and has been a billiardist only four years, has had phenomenal success on the green table. In Chicago he defeated the great Schaefer, running out in two innings, while the celebrated player scored only 11 points. Willie's reputation preceded him to San Francisco, and there William A. Spinks, the Pacific Coast champion, declined to meet him in a match game. Willie has a record of 175 on an 18-inch balkline and 575 on the rail. He will give only one exhibition in Portland, and that will take place tomorrow night. Monday morning he will leave for Tacoma, and will visit other Northwest cities before returning home.

Test Cricket Matches.

LONDON, May 29.—The first of five test cricket matches between Australia and England commenced today at Birmingham. The home eleven batted first, and at the close of the play the score was 351 runs for nine wickets down. Tyldesley, a professional player, made the top score, 138 runs.

AN ANSWER FROM MR. LORD

Says Farmers Reach Hasty Conclusions About Birds Destroying Fruit.

PORTLAND, May 26.—(To the Editor.)—Mr. F. M. Sebring, of Dillard, Oregon, in your paper of May 21, sets forth what seems to him a conclusive word about the damage that the purple finches do to fruit blossoms. But Mr. Sebring's statement is so far from scientific (and by scientific I mean, so far from experimental proof) that if any serious immediate result might be looked for from his position there would be reason for alarm. What this farmer and all farmers need is a mistrust of their own observations. Farmers have brought upon themselves dire misfortune by just such an assurance that their own individual and unscientific observations were final.

Let me illustrate for him and for all of those who every now and then write to The Oregonian some careless statement about birds. The farmers of Pennsylvania had seen hawks catch chickens and supposed that owls did the same. They concluded that all hawks and owls were dangerous to the poultry yard, and secured the passage of a law in the state offering a bounty upon the dead bodies of these two species of birds. Before long the agricultural department at Washington began to receive letters from the farmers of Pennsylvania, stating that field mice were destroying the crops in the field to such an extent that in many cases they were not worth taking into the granaries. The ornithologist of the department saw at once what the matter was, and informed the farmers that in destroying the hawks and owls they had destroyed their best friends; for all but two species of these birds live mainly upon mice and grasshoppers, and not upon birds. The Agricultural Department knows this because they have examined the crops of at least 200 birds of each variety. It is supposed that the farmers of Pennsylvania lost $4,000,000 worth of grain to pay for their interference with the divine law of balances in Nature.

No doubt somebody has been making a mistake in affirming that the purple finch is only after insects in blossoms. There can be no doubt that these birds eat fruit blossoms for the sake of the blossoms, regardless of insects. There are, however, two errors in Mr. Sebring's statement. The first one is that because they eat blossoms they do great damage to the fruit crop. Now, so far as experiments have gone, and I know of one or two which have been fairly tried, the result of this bird's attack upon the blossoms is not, on the whole, seriously detrimental, but in one-half of the experiments, decidedly beneficial. That is to say that the trees attacked by the purple finch bore not less, but more weight of fruit than those untouched by them. The other half of the experiments is to be determined this year. Here is one of them. One of the faculty of the Agricultural College at Corvallis noticed that a flock of purple finches attacked one particular tree on his grounds and that they came every day for a week. He let them have their way. He says you could have gathered a wheelbarrow load of blossoms from under the tree. When I examined the tree with him, some two weeks ago, it was still doubtful whether there were not enough cherries on the tree after this full week's attack on the part of the finches. In what orchard would the purple finches ordinarily limit their attack to one tree for a week? And if they should limit their attentions to one tree and not do enough harm to make it obvious, as in this case, or if they should do some trees positive damage, is the account to be reckoned against them for this comparatively bad result? The observations of men who see showers of blossoms falling to the ground because of the purple finches' attack, is very inconclusive, as this illustration will show.

The second error is in assuming that because the purple finch is a finch and therefore a seed eater he eats no or comparatively few insects, and that the seed he eats is in the majority of farm crops. As a matter of fact, all finches eat quantities of insects, when they can get them, in addition to seed. Some parts of the year they eat comparatively little seed, and mostly insects. I think it will be found that Mr. Sebring's complaint that purple finches have eaten up oats and other crops is very unusual. The Agricultural Department in Washington will assure Mr. Sebring that weed seeds are the principal diet of all finches. And before any farmer should destroy this bird there would have to be a general consensus of opinion from careful observation confirming this fact. Till through the Agricultural College careful experimentation has shown that the purple finch is positively a serious detriment to fruit or other crops, the farmers may assume that they cannot afford to spare one bird of any kind while their fruit and crops are so infested with noxious insects that the getting of a crop at all is a serious question. It is because of the ignorance not alone of the farmers, but of all men, that the country is being overrun with insect life. Bird life is the natural check to the multiplication of insect life, and when men realize this they will no longer wonder why it is so hard to secure an equivalent for the labor which the farmer puts forth.

A good many fruit blossoms and a good many cherries are small pay for all the good the birds do. And it is positive injustice and a cruel wrong that the birds are denied their share of the crops, which without them could not be raised at all.

And when it is proved, if it should be, that purple finches or any other bird, is positively detrimental to any particular crop in a given place, the large interest in bird life will demand that creatures so necessary and so beautiful to the wider world shall not be destroyed.

But for the present the word is patient investigation. WILLIAM R. LORD.

OUTCLASSED BY BRITT

LAVIGNE DEFEATED AFTER EIGHT FAST ROUNDS.

San Franciscan Now Aspires to Meet Terry McGovern or Young Corbett—Fight by Rounds.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29.—Jimmy Britt, the promising young San Franciscan whose brief record since he graduated from the amateur class here has been replete with victories, defeated George Lavigne, the Saginaw Kid, at Woodward's Pavilion here tonight, after eight rounds of hard fighting. Lavigne's left arm failed him, but he had been plainly outclassed and whipped by his opponent. Britt now aspires to a match with either Terry McGovern or Young Corbett.

At 10 o'clock Britt entered the ring with his seconds amid great cheers and was closely followed by Lavigne, who was greeted with equal enthusiasm. Billy Jordan, the veteran announcer, changed the corners of the men, after which he presented each fighter. Ed Smith was announced as the referee. Ed Thompson, lightweight champion of Australia, entered the ring and challenged the winner, as did George McFadden and Rufe Turner, of Stockton. Britt was seconded by Spider Kelly, Tim McGrath and Charley Reno, while Lavigne was attended by his brother Billy, Mark Shaughnessy and "Canadian Frank."

Round 1—The men sparred cautiously in the center of the ring, Britt finally landing with his left and Lavigne returning in kind. There was an unimportant exchange of rights and lefts when Lavigne shot in a vicious blow to Britt's head and followed it with a stiff right to the neck. Britt was back at him with a righthander and a rally ensued with honors about even. Lavigne forced the fighting and Britt confined himself to blocking until he received a strong right jolt to his jaw, when he cut through with a short-arm punch that cut Lavigne's face. Lavigne, however, continued the aggressor. The round ended in a hot exchange which brought out cheers for Britt.

Round 2—Both men were wary and tried for an opening, but Lavigne was the first to get in a telling blow, a swift right-hand punch which narrowly missed Britt's chin, whereupon Britt went in with both hands and it was give and take with heavy punishment on both sides until the referee pulled them apart. Britt landed three vicious blows on Lavigne's jaw, but was instantly stopped by the Kid, who retaliated with right and left. Both men threw caution away at this point and went in for a knockout. Lavigne had his left on Britt's head and followed with a stinging right at the end of the round.

Round 3—Britt led his left and was blocked. Then they clinched. Britt led again and found the Kid's forehead with his right, following this with his left and repeating the operation to the evident amazement of Lavigne. A hot exchange of short-arm blows followed, with honors about even. Both men adopted slugging tactics, Lavigne missing a terrible right and Britt following with a stinging left-hand to the jaw. Lavigne tried for the body and fell short and missed with his right again and again, each time giving Britt an opportunity to score with his left. The round closed with Britt hammering Lavigne to no evident purpose.

Round 4—The men fiddled in the center of the ring, Britt finally landing his left to the face. An even exchange of rights and lefts followed, when Britt registered a telling swing on Lavigne's right ear. Britt now became the aggressor. A series of fierce swings backed Lavigne across the ring and Britt sent in his right repeatedly. The men clinched and settled back to cautious sparring. Britt led once more and caught Lavigne with his left elbow. Lavigne came in with a strong righthander, which was stopped. Britt, however, scored a heavy body blow just as the round closed, reaching Lavigne's ribs with his left.

Round 5—Britt led with his right and left. Lavigne scored on an ineffectual punch to the head, and then got a series of blows in a sudden mixup and clinch. Lavigne increased his speed and when Britt led again, stopped his man and tried hard for a knockout. Lavigne blocked and danced away. They were after it again in an instant and each scored a number of strong swings, Lavigne missing for the most part and Britt scoring on the ribs and face. Lavigne slipped and tottered, only to receive a hard left to the jaw when he regained his position.

Round 6—Britt led for the body with his right and received a shoulder blow for his pains. He came again for the stomach and found his mark, while Lavigne groaned. Lavigne led heavily with his left, knocking Britt against the ropes. Britt was back again with a strong swing to the ribs. They clinched. Britt led and missed, then led again and there was a hot exchange of short-arm blows. Britt found Lavigne's left eye with his right. Wild right and left swings followed, both men again going in for a knockout. Lavigne took serious blows on the head and then became the aggressor. The round closed with both men fighting hard.

Round 7—Britt led with his left, falling short, and closed in for a clinch. He again led and was stopped, but an instant later caught Lavigne on the jaw with a strong blow. Lavigne fought back wildly, missing terrific swings and taking body punishment. Once again Britt found the Kid's jaw and both tried for uppercuts. Britt feinted with his left and went in with both hands and rained blows on Lavigne's jaw. Lavigne fell to the floor and came up dazed. Britt went in cautiously and slipped, but he was up again in an instant. This was decidedly Britt's round.

Round 8—Britt led and in an exchange went around Lavigne's head with his right. The men clinched. Britt came in with his right and left and Lavigne tried to stop him, but received another stinging blow in the face. Britt followed again with another swing to the jaw. Lavigne fought wildly. Britt did all the leading, Lavigne missing swing after swing and finally taking a serious punch in the stomach. Britt led with his right and hit Lavigne in the jaw. Lavigne fell backward. Lavigne came up weak and was beaten to the floor with blow after blow in the face. Once more Lavigne went down and this time Billy Lavigne, his brother and manager, jumped in the ring and led his brother to his corner.

It was given out that Lavigne's left arm was broken. He had fought the last three rounds practically with his right alone, his left arm being heavily bandaged. He was taken to his dressing room and doctors summoned. The physicians stated that the fighter's left forearm had been sprained and possibly fractured. Lavigne stated that he disabled himself four months ago and should not have gone into the fight with his arm in that condition.

In the preliminaries Gus Saulsbury knocked out William Condon in seven rounds and Cyclone Kelly knocked out Ben Lewis, colored, in the same length of time.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—Word has been sent out from "Kid" Lavigne's quarters that his arm was broken in three places during his fight with Jimmy Britt. There are said to be two fractures of the smaller bone and one of the larger bone.

New Challenger for America's Cup.

LONDON, May 29.—William Fife and George L. Wilson have collaborated plans for a new challenger for the America's cup, which will be built by the Dennys at Dumbarton. Captain Robert Wringe, who was with Captain Hogarth, on board the Shamrock I, in her series for the cup, will be in supreme command of the new yacht. All the plans are now completed and arrangements have been made for closing the building contract.

The satisfaction which Mr. Fife expressed with the Thornycrofts' work on the Shamrock I made that firm a strong competitor of the contract, but Mr. Watson's influence resulted in the selection of the Dennys.

The Flag Upon a Wrecked Vessel.

New York American and Journal.

The Pacific Mail steamship Newport, which has arrived in San Francisco from Panama, brings an interesting story concerning the steamer Cheribon, which went on Remebois reef, near Acajutla, on the morning of April 12. When the steamer struck the reef Captain Pitt and the crew, fearing that she would sink, launched the boats and rowed to the shore. No one was left on board the vessel. Captain Pitt made his way to Acajutla and notified the underwriters of the loss of the vessel.

While he was in Acajutla an American citizen named Moysant boarded the vessel. Finding that the cargo of 28,000 sacks of coffee which the vessel carried could be saved, he laid claim to the Cheribon, hauled down the Chilean flag under which she was sailing and hoisted the Stars and Stripes in its place. Moysant based his claims to ownership of the vessel on the maritime law, which places an abandoned vessel in the hands of the parties who first take possession after the vessel is left to her fate. Captain Pitt disputed the claim, stating that he had left the vessel thinking his life and the lives of the crew were in danger. The Chilean Consul at Acajutla was appealed to and Moysant was forced to haul down the American flag. He in turn appealed to the United States Consul, but failed to find justification for his act.

Officers of the Newport state that the captain of the Cherioon was making his first voyage on the Pacific Coast and was unfamiliar with the waters.

A Cathedral at Manila.

Boston Herald.

Just before leaving Boston Saturday on his way to Manila to assume the Protestant Episcopal bishopric of the Philippines, the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Brent confirmed the rumor current in Episcopalian circles for some time that he had received a gift of a sum of money adequate to establish a cathedral, school and bishop's house in Manila.

A gift of $100,000 has been handed to him for the erection of buildings on land already owned by the Episcopal board of missions, and apart from this there has been raised a considerable endowment fund for the support of the episcopate, the Church Club of New York alone contributing $16,000.

Specialists For MEN

Not Weakness, Symptoms!

BY FAR THE GREATER NUMBER of patients seeking relief for so-called weakness are strong, robust men in every other respect. Loss of vitality, Prematureness, etc., are not weaknesses, but the symptoms of inflammatory processes in the Prostate Gland (so-called neck of bladder), caused by contracted disorders and too often repeated and too long continued excitement. Under our local plan of treatment, directed toward reducing the enlarged and swollen Prostate, immediate results, as indicated by increased circulation and renewed strength are observed. Our colored chart of the organs which we send free on application, is interesting to any one wishing to study the anatomy of the male. Consultations free and no charge whatever for treatment of any case in which cure is not effected.
