The National Convention of the Travelers' Protective Association concluded its labors yesterday, and adjourned, after electing Howard W. Peak, of Texas, president for the ensuing year, and deciding upon Indianapolis for the next meeting place.

The full list of newly elected officers is as follows:

President—Howard W. Peak, of Texas.

First vice-president—Robert W. Simons, of California.

Second vice-president—E. W. Donhem, of Ohio.

Third vice-president—Robert Lee Wylly, of Georgia.

Fourth vice president—Louis Ochs, of Louisiana.

Fifth vice-president—D. R. Havener, of Minnesota.

National directors—J. W. McDonald, of Missouri; Ben G. Thompson, of Indiana; C. Frank Wixson, of Illinois.

Chairman committee on railways—J. D. Stacy, Jr., of Illinois.

Chairman press committee—R. F. Hodgin, of Nebraska.

Chairman hotel committee — Nelson Gray, of Kentucky.

Chairman legislative committee — Don S. Harwood, of Virginia.

Chairman employment committee — George W. Smith, of Missouri.

National chaplain—Rev. Virgil Tevis, of Indiana.

The convention assembled at 9 A. M. with all the delegates in their places and the best of spirit prevailing. Everybody was in a good humor, and merry jests were in order from certain of the witty delegates. Denham, of Ohio, nominated Howard W. Peak for President, in a graceful and well delivered speech, which produced prolonged applause. Seconding speeches were made by Starr, of Indiana, Cleveland, of New York, and Ochs, of Louisiana. The election followed by acclamation, the secretary casting the unanimous vote of the convention for the popular Texan. A. H. Devers, of Portland, proposed three cheers for the successful candidate, as, amid a din of applause, he was escorted to the platform.

The new president thanked the convention for so honoring him, and there were more cheers and hurrahs as he left the platform.

Indianapolis the Next Meeting Place.

The roll of states was then called for the selection of the next meeting place, Indianapolis being the unanimous choice. The Commercial Club, of Salt Lake City, extended an invitation to the delegates to meet at their city next year, but owing to the central locality of the Hoosier state Indianapolis was chosen, and the Salt Lake invitation declined with thanks.

Arid Land Irrigation Favored.

Under the head of new business the convention passed the following resolutions concerning the great body of arid lands in the West:

Whereas, We who have witnessed in our trip to Portland, Or., in attendance upon this convention, the wonderful quickening productive power of irrigation as applied to hitherto waste and unprofitable lands, notably as shown to us by the enterprising citizens of Denver, and now being fully convinced that by a proper encouragement of every effort to enlarge the powers for the husbanding and successful distribution of water supply for irrigation purposes, and desiring to benefit mankind, enlarge the Nation's wealth and to provide millions more of happy homes in our beloved land, and more particularly to second the noble efforts now being directed with the same ends in view by the enterprising citizens of the great States of Kansas and Colorado; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Travelers' Protective Association of America, in convention assembled at Portland, Or., this 6th day of June, 1902, That we urge upon our respective Congressmen from every state represented by this body a hearty co-operation in all proper efforts being now or hereafter designed to redeem and enrich our waste and unprofitable lands by irrigation, to the end that by doing so they will not alone be doing a philanthropic work in behalf of all mankind, but will, in the language of the Scriptures, be "casting bread upon the waters" to return the wealth of the Nation a thousand fold.

An amendment, authorizing the secretary to print copies of the resolution and distribute them among the members of Congress was passed, after which a number of minor reports and resolutions were considered.

A special committee on state constitution and by-laws submitted a model for each state to follow in building up the association.

$123,482 Paid in Benefits.

The report of the secretary showed that $123,482 had been paid in benefits to members since the last annual convention. After passing on a number of minor matters the convention tendered a vote of thanks to the retiring president, Sam Jones, and adjourned.

Immediately after the adjournment a delicious lunch was served in the convention hall by the wives of the local T. P. A. members. Delicacies of all kinds were heaped upon the tables, which were covered with baskets of fruits and flowers, the roses being especially beautiful. As the delegates left the hall, they were presented with handsome souvenir books, descriptive of Oregon and containing pictures of prominent T. P. A. members of this state. Texas souvenirs were also distributed and bouquets of flowers were given each guest.

Car Ride to Oregon City.

Immediately after luncheon, the lady visitors, accompanied by a number of Portland ladies, took special Portland City & Oregon cars for a trolley ride to Oregon City, where they were shown the early dwelling places of Oregon pioneers and the historic cataract which turns the wheels of busy factories. Upon their return, the cars were halted at the Brooklyn school, where 200 pupils marched through a flower drill and showered the ladies with garlands and bouquets of flowers. The incident was one of the most pleasing of the whole convention week, and the recipients of the ovation were delighted beyond description.

Last evening the delegates held an informal reception at the Hotel Portland where many friends called to extend congratulations and to bid those who were leaving farewell. About 50 of the delegates left for California last night, two-thirds of them going on the Columbia. Those who remained will visit the Pacific Ocean today, and will depart for San Francisco this evening.

Delegates Appreciate Welcome.

Among the resolutions passed yesterday were those thanking the citizens of Portland, the local T. P. A. members, the railroad and steamship companies, and the press for the courteous treatment accorded the delegates and the hearty spirit of co-operation which tended to make the convention a complete success.

When seen last evening, Sam Jones, retiring president of the National T. P. A., said: "I have been to many conventions, but the one just closed puts them all in the shade. You people here in Oregon are endowed with a spirit of friendliness that makes the Kentucky hospitality look insignificant, and that's saying a good deal. The delegates have been treated royally, and I assure you we fully appreciate the efforts put forth by the local T. P. A. men and the public-spirited citizens of Portland who helped to make the convention the great success which it proved to be. The convention itself was most satisfactory and our order is in flourishing condition."

Bridegroom Isch Posted.

Mr. E. G. Isch is the only bridegroom among the delegates, and he has been the subject of a great deal of good-natured jesting. Yesterday a number of posters telling of his marriage and honeymoon were pinned about the convention halls and around the hotel lobbies. The posters, which are quite unique, read as follows:

JUST MARRIED.
PICK THEM OUT.
Everyone Congratulate Them.
(Here are their photographs.)
Mr. E. G. Isch, Mrs. E. G. Isch.
GOING TO PORTLAND
With the
T. P. A. EXCURSION.
THEY ARE GOOD PEOPLE.
Show Them a Good Time.
Make Him Buy. He Is Rich.

President Peck Praises Portland.

Howard W. Peck, the newly elected president of the T. P. A., is a typical Texan, and a man who is known to knights of the grip all over the United States. When seen by an Oregonian reporter last evening he said: "The convention of this year has been a grand success. In fact, I do not know of any other convention of our order that equaled it in enthusiasm and general results. The people of your city have given us a royal welcome, and I am really sorry to leave your state, which, in my opinion, has a grand future. The delegates will leave with pleasant recollections of Portland and the Northwest."

ASTORIA READY FOR VISITORS.

Great Preparations for Entertainment of T. P. A.

ASTORIA, June 6.—Extensive preparations are being made for the entertainment of the members of the National Travelers' Protective Association, who will reach here on a special train at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. On the arrival of the train the visitors will be taken to Sanborn's salmon cannery, which will be in operation for their inspection. They will then be taken to the hall, where a dinner, consisting of salmon, crabs, clams and oysters, prepared in a variety of ways, will be served. Each visitor will be presented with a souvenir can of salmon, the can being of a special design, manufactured for the occasion by the American Can Company. At the conclusion of the dinner the visitors will again board their train and proceed to Seaside, where the afternoon will be spent.

Utah Sheepman Murdered.

SUNNYSIDE, Utah, June 5.—Tom Dilly, a cattleman, shot and killed Steve Chipman, a prominent sheepman, and shot Chipman's Mexican herder through the left hip, eight miles north of Sunnyside, today. The herder, bleeding profusely, managed to ride his horse to town and notify the authorities. It is reported that the men quarreled over range rights. Chipman was unarmed, although he had his rifle in a holster on his horse several rods from where the encounter occurred. The Mexican was shot while trying to wrest the revolver from Dilly. Dilly rode through town en route to Big Springs Ranch, and admitted the killing. A party from this city went to the scene of the shooting after Chipman's body, which was found lying where it had fallen.

CAMPAIGN OF '02 IS OVER

DEMOCRATIC HEADQUARTERS NOW CLOSED—CHAIRMAN GONE.

Governor-Elect Chamberlain Pays a Visit to the Republican Camp—Mayoralty Bets Paid.

The ease with which the American people get over the excitement of a political campaign was shown yesterday when the outcome of the recent election was one of the least mentioned subjects. All day Thursday everybody was in feverish excitement over the apparent closeness of the race for the Governorship, but on Friday, when the plurality for Chamberlain seemed certain, no one talked on the subject except a few politicians and men who had money at stake. Even the successful candidates failed to call at Republican headquarters, and the Citizens rendezvous remained deserted. Chairman White of the Democratic state central committee packed up his belongings and whirled away to Baker City to settle quietly down to his law business as though he had not spent two months organizing the Democratic campaign and electing a Democratic Governor. Chairman Matthews, of the Republican committee, put in the day leisurely closing up his correspondence and attending to the few remaining details of committee business.

Emboldened by the indorsement he had received from the people, and encouraged by peaceful appearance of things in the Benson block, George E. Chamberlain invaded the Republican state headquarters from whence the fierce volleys of campaign shot and shell have been fired at him these many weeks. He met no hostile demonstration. No stump speakers were hurling thunderbolts of eloquent argument against his aspirations. All was peace. At the threshold of the Republican stronghold the Democratic leader was met by Charlie Burckhardt and Harrison Allen. In the absence of the state chairman the two secretaries did the honors of the occasion, and showed the next Governor through the offices, where he might examine the weapons of political warfare and judge of the dangers he had encountered.

Mr. Chamberlain was all smiles as usual. He didn't threaten to call out the militia to subdue the forces of the G. O. P. He expressed his satisfaction at having the battle over, especially since it ended so fortunately for him. He spoke a few words of regret that so many of his fellows had fallen in the encounter, but had no hard feelings against his opponents on that score. With a kindly exchange of compliments he shook hands with his friends, the recent enemy, and returned to his own office to meet the many citizens who were calling upon him.

"Mayor—Bets paid today."

This was the notice posted at Schiller's cigar store yesterday morning, and all the stakeholders were turning over money put up on the mayoralty contest. No gubernatorial bets are being paid, and it is probable that none will be paid for several days yet. Should the returns continue to indicate a close vote, it is probable that only the official count will determine who are the winners.

There was some talk on the street yesterday of a contest over the gubernatorial election, but it did not come from official sources. Mr. Furnish has conceded Mr. Chamberlain's election in a newspaper interview, and the Republican leaders figure him out ahead. All will await with interest, though not with anxiety, the result of the official count. No one expects that any errors will be found of sufficient magnitude to show the defeat of Mr. Chamberlain.

The fusionists are talking of contesting the election of W. A. Storey to the shrievalty. They do not claim to have discovered any frauds or irregularities, but say that since the election is close they are hunting around to see what they can find that will help them out.

A party of politicians, composed of Charley Burckhardt, C. H. Carey, Cader Powell, L. A. McNary, V. B. Dolliver, W. Tyler Smith, of Sheridan, and W. D. McNary, of Salem, will leave this morning for Meadow Lake, in Yamhill County, on a three days' fishing trip.

OFFICIAL CANVASS MONDAY.

Counting of Returns for the County Will Then Begin.

County Clerk Swetland says that the official canvass of the election returns will be commenced Monday morning. The count will probably be finished in two days. The ballot boxes, containing the ballots, the tally sheets and poll books are locked safely in the vault.

Already there is considerable buzzing around the Courthouse concerning who the deputies will be in the various offices. Assessor McDonell, it is reported, will retain L. H. Maxwell as chief deputy, and also other deputies in his office, and will remember his friends when an additional force is required.

County Treasurer-elect John M. Lewis will probably not appoint any deputy, because if he does he will have to pay the salary of the assistant. The statute does not provide for payment of a deputy in this office. Mr. Lewis was formerly assistant under County Treasurer Hoyt. He thoroughly understands the work attached to the place and can doubtless do it himself without help.

L. A. McNary, the newly-elected City Attorney, will probably appoint J. P. Kavanaugh as one of his deputies, and the other place in his office is said to lie between J. J. Fitzgerald and Robert Galloway.

F. Otto Burckhardt is mentioned for the position of chief deputy Sheriff under William A. Storey, and M. Reinstein as chief clerk in the tax collection department. Charles A. Frazier will probably be retained as a deputy Sheriff, and also Penumbra Kelly and Fred Matthews.

James S. McCord is spoken of for the position of chief deputy in the Recorder's office under County Clerk-elect Frank Fields. He is the present incumbent under Recorder Beach.

Arthur Bancroft is mentioned for the position of chief deputy in the office of the County Clerk proper, and Herbert C. Smith for the position of chief clerk of the State Circuit Court. The present incumbent is Lansing Stout, who has held the place for a long time, and is very efficient.

Arthur Bancroft now holds a deputyship in the County Clerk's office. He is a son of F. A. Bancroft. Mr. Smith was County Clerk for two terms, and prior to that time was a deputy in the office. He also served a term as County Commissioner. He is familiar with affairs at the Courthouse.

Dr. Josephi Not a Candidate.

PORTLAND, June 6.—(To the Editor.)—In The Oregonian today the statement is made that "Fifteen doctors are already said to be out after the position of County Physician," and further along the inference is given that I, among others, am a candidate for the place. Such an assumption is wholly unwarranted. My name has not been mentioned, with my consent, in connection with the position, nor am I an applicant for that or any other public office. Had your reporter taken the trouble to consult me before placing my name on his list he would have spared me the embarrassment of being falsely posted as an office-seeker and confined his report more within the bounds of truth.

TRIED TO DODGE THE LAW

Wooden Sidewalk Proposed for Sixth-Street Property.

The tearing up of a long section of the old, dilapidated wooden sidewalk at Sixth and Alder streets, in front of the Marquam rooming building, was the cause yesterday of favorable comment from all who saw the decayed planks removed. They naturally supposed a cement walk was to be laid there at last. When, however, it was seen that lumber was being delivered for a wooden sidewalk, the comments of the public became unfavorable and uncomplimentary, verging to denunciatory. The men employed on the job were asked if it was possible that a plank walk was to be laid in violation of the law. They replied smilingly that they were "making repairs."

An ordinance was passed by the Common Council some 18 months ago providing that within a certain district—practically the fire limits—no more new wooden sidewalks shall be laid; but it provided that wooden sidewalks may be repaired to the extent of one-third the original cost. It was evident to all that an attempt was being made to violate this ordinance by undertaking to renew one-third of the old, rotten walk in front of the Marquam rooming-house, under the guise of a repair, with the design of ultimately renewing the remainder in sections.

This barefaced attempt to violate a city ordinance caused much indignation, and finally word of the matter reached the ears of City Engineer Chase. Sidewalk Inspector Lillis soon arrived on the scene and arrested W. M. Probst and E. M. Pray, the men at work on the "repair," and put a stop to further proceedings. The ordinance which they were violating was gotten up by Councilman Mulkey, who will attend to the prosecution of the men. It is quite likely that a contest will ensue, and the matter be carried into the courts, and the ordinance thoroughly tested.

The property in question, as well as the entire block, is owned by Eastern capitalists, who "took it in" at much less than the real value, and it is managed by the Title Guarantee & Trust Company. General disgust is expressed at the littleness of the owners of the property, which is now paying good interest on their investment, in attempting to violate a city ordinance by putting down a cheap sidewalk when, under the circumstances, they could well afford to put down a good one.

The excuse offered was that the owners of the property intend to erect a brick building there some day, and they did not want to put down a cement walk which they would have to take up when they build.

The general opinion of the people who had seen what was going on was that a stone walk would be likely to be worn out before any new building was erected, and that the owners of the present building would do well to give it a coat of paint and make it decent. Perhaps some of the remarks made may have been unjust, but, in view of the deliberate attempt made to violate a city ordinance, they were excusable. The city will endeavor to have a cement walk laid in front of the entire building.

HEAD OF COLLEGE HERE

REV. M. A. QUINLAN TO TAKE CHARGE OF COLUMBIA.

He Will Follow Notre Dame's Course of Study and Policy of Encouraging Athletics.

The Rev. M. A. Quinlan, C. S. C., new president of the Columbia College, located at University Park, a branch of the celebrated college at Notre Dame, Ind., arrived yesterday, and since coming he has been engaged in examination of the grounds of the institution and laying plans preparatory to taking over the management of the college at the close of the present collegiate year, which will end June 17. Father Quinlan was seen in the university building yesterday and he expressed himself highly pleased with the location. In speaking of the future of the university he said:

"Our plans have not been fully matured as yet, and I shall not take charge until after the present school year. Excellent work has been done here so far, commencing, as the school did, so late. We have some 70 acres of land, which lies on the banks of the Willamette River. I was not prepared for so splendid a view of the city and surroundings, and am well pleased. From the examination I have made of the grounds I should judge that much work will have to be done in the way of grading to put them in proper condition.

"The institution here will be modeled after the Notre Dame College as closely as possible, and as closely as the conditions in the West will permit. At Notre Dame we pay much attention to athletics and have indoor space for baseball, tracks, gymnasium, etc. Here the first building will be one for the gymnasium, and will be about 200x50 feet, which will provide an indoor field. The conditions here seem very favorable for general athletics. There is the river for regattas. Our experience in athletics enables us to avoid going to excess. Regarding the plan of study, that is not settled, but we shall follow largely that of Notre Dame. I am doing preparatory work on the coming issue of our first catalogue, which will be issued in due course of time. At Notre Dame we have 800 students, and they are required to board on the grounds. We must entertain the students at the institution. This is one of the essentials. However, here students may live at their homes in the city. We shall make this college as high grade as possible along all lines. However, I should not like to promise too much, but would rather the institution should exceed than fall short of expectations.

In answer to the questions as to what other buildings would be erected this year, Father Quinlan said:

"We shall erect the gymnasium hall this year. This building will accommodate 200 students and will be sufficient for the present. There will be other buildings as they are needed. After the gymnasium will come the dormitory. There has been some talk about that, but nothing definite has been determined. I will say that the requirements will make for thoroughness and high-class work in all lines and departments. The grounds will be graded, laid off and beautified. A general plan for the locations of the buildings will likely be adopted, so that when we build our improvements will be permanent and will not have to be changed or torn down. I have only been here a short time and have not made a thorough examination of the grounds. The campus may be at the north end, but that will depend on what conclusions are reached after further examination."

Fifth Branch of Notre Dame.

The institution will be the fifth branch of the Notre Dame College of Indiana, and will be modeled and governed on the plans of that institution. It was chiefly at the request of Archbishop Christie that the school was taken in charge by the Order of the Holy Cross. The institution will bear its old name, Columbia University. May 27 the Very Rev. J. A. Zahm, provincial of the Order of the Holy Cross, gave out the following appointments: Rev. M. A. Quinlan, president; Rev. William Marr, vice-president and prefect of discipline, and Rev. John Thillman, director of studies. The appointments of the remainder of the faculty have not yet been made. Father Quinlan said yesterday that some graduates from Notre Dame may be selected, but the faculty had not yet been constituted.

All have been intimately connected with Notre Dame, and they have the reputation of being hard and earnest workers. Father Quinlan is thoroughly in earnest and a man of ability and force of character. He was graduated from Notre Dame University in 1892. The three years following were spent by him in the Catholic University of America at Washington, D. C., where he made a special study of history and economics. After his ordination he remained at Notre Dame, where he occupied the chair of rhetoric. Through his ability as an educator and close application to the work set before him he soon proved his capacity for higher work. He is a warm advocate of athletics—clean college athletics. In his interview yesterday he expressed his desires along these lines, and said that he should do all in his power to promote athletics along proper channels and within proper bounds. At Notre Dame he was secretary of the board of control and his connection made for clean athletics. A writer in the Notre Dame Scholastic says of him:

"Among both faculty and students Father Quinlan has made a host of friends. His kindness and care for those under him won the hearts of all the younger boys, and his frank geniality and warm heart made him the comrade of all the elder men. It is with the deepest regret that we witness his departure."

Father Marr and Father Thillman are both graduates of Notre Dame. The former is an accomplished orator. The latter is a linguist and educator of high order.

YOUNG ALBINA TOUGHS.

Cowardly Assault on a 11-Year-Old Boy—His Teeth Battered Out.

A rough gang of youngsters who congregate on Union avenue, near Russell street, Upper Albina, will have to be suppressed, either by their parents or by the police. An indignant father—a prominent citizen—complains bitterly of the brutal treatment his 11-year-old son received at the hands of this crowd Wednesday evening. This boy, who is a stranger in the neighborhood, was passing along Union avenue and not giving the other boys any attention, when a crowd started after him. He escaped in a building near Russell street. While waiting for an opportunity to get away unmolested, another boy, a little older than himself, came in, apparently in a friendly manner, and asked him what was the matter. The little fellow said he wanted to get away from the crowd outside. He had scarcely spoken these words when the cowardly young scamp suddenly struck him on the mouth and knocked out two front teeth.

The attack was wholly unprovoked and brutal in the extreme. With the blood dripping from his mouth the little fellow, fearing more injury from his assailant, concluded to face the crowd outside, and started to run. An attempt was made to stop him, but he managed to escape. The father said he ascertained who it was that struck his son, and was about to send him to the police station, but let the boy off on the promise of his father to punish him and pay for having the two teeth replaced.

The little son of a mail carrier was attacked a short time ago and one tooth was knocked out. The gang makes a specialty of beating boys who do not belong to the neighborhood, and the knocking out of a few teeth of the victims seems to be the principal pastime. By the time the parents of these youngsters pay a few $20 dental bills for replacing them they will know that something is happening.

Memorial to Gosnold.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Three hundred years ago Bartholomew Gosnold planted one of the first English settlements in America, says a New Bedford, Mass., special to the Tribune. On Thursday a company of historical patrons landed on the little island at the tip of the Elizabeth group, and with simple ceremonies laid the corner-stone of what will be before the end of the Summer a memorial shaft in honor of Gosnold and his men. The party which laid the corner-stone comprised Charles S. Randall, George Fox Tucker and Walton Ricketson, of the local committee on the shaft; Edwin D. Meade, Dr. Francis E. Abbott and George E. Wolkins, president of the Old South Historical Society.

Margaret Taylor at Home Again.

CINCINNATI, O., June 6.—Margaret Taylor, who was kidnaped from this city over four years ago, arrived here today, accompanied by her parents and her brother, Edward, aged 3 years, whom she never had seen until they met in New York this week. When the party reached their homes the neighbors gave them an ovation. Interest here now centers in the extradition of the aunt, Clara Taylor, from Italy, and the application at Columbus for the pardon of the grandmother and Miss Frances Taylor, another aunt.

Sorrows of James.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Sitting on Wooded Island in Jackson Park, with a copy of the "Sorrows of Satan" at his side, Arthur Dee James, 20 years old, has committed suicide by cutting his throat and gashing his left wrist with a razor. His motive for the act is a mystery. James was employed as a city salesman for a local flour company, whose officials say that his accounts are straight and that he was to have received today a raise in wages of $5 a week. It is said he was engaged to a young woman in the South.

At the outbreak of the Spanish-American War James enlisted in the Fifty-first Regiment of Iowa, and later served in the Philippines. He came to Chicago from his home in Denison, Ia., about a year ago.

Colored Brethren Angry.

DENVER, June 6.—At a meeting of representatives of all colored churches of this city, a resolution was adopted to the effect that unless the order restricting the colored delegates to the International Sunday school convention to be held in this city to a certain section of the church is removed, they will refuse to have anything to do with the convention and will notify all the colored delegates who are to attend of what they characterize as an "unjust discrimination."

The feeling against the executive committee, who, it is charged, were influenced in issuing the order by a few white delegates from the South, as expressed at the meeting, was very strong.

Ophthalmia Contagious.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Prevalence of ophthalmia in the public schools to such an extent as to move the Board of Health in declaring the disease contagious has been discussed by the New York Academy of Medicine. One of the speakers said he had not only observed many cases growing out of the use of public baths, but that many of them were serious. He argued in favor of the Board of Health taking drastic action whenever inspection brought to light a case of ophthalmia or tracheoma, and declared that the inspectors should not satisfy themselves with merely removing the child, but should visit the family and locate the seat of original infection.

Not Bossie Francis.

WARRENSBURG, Mo., June 6.—The negro under arrest at Hugo, I. T., is not Bossie Francis, the murderer of Mary Henderson. A brother of the murdered woman saw the prisoner at Hugo today and said he was not Francis.
